Wherfore the people turned again in all the hall. And the elders (that is the principall heades) saied vnto hym: come sit downe here among vs, and shew vs this matter, syng God hath geuen the as great honour as an elder. And Daniel saied vnto them: But these two aside one fro another, and then shal I heare them. When they wer put a sonder one frome another, he called one of them and saied vnto hym. O thou canst hered cattle, & hast vied thy wickednesse so long thine vngacious debes whiche thou hast done afore, are nowe come to lpgit.

The story of Bel and of the Dragon.

Isol. li.

For thou haste geuen false Judgements, thou haste oppressed the innocents, and letten the gyltie go free where as yet the Lorde sayeth * The innocent and righteous se thou say not Weill, then yf thou ha the sene her, tell me vnder what tree sawest thou them talkyng together he answered, vnder a Holbery tree. And Danyell sayde, very well, now thou lyest euen vpon thyne owne head. Loo, the messanger of the Lorde hath receyued the sentence of hym, to cut the in two. Then put he him asyde, & called for the other, & said vnto hym: O fide of Canaan, but not of Iuda: For yenes hath dysceitured the, and lust hath subuerted thyne herte. Thus dealte ye afore with the daughters of Isenell, and they for feare consented vnto you: but the daughter of Iuda wolde not abyde yowre wycheconesse. Nowe tell me then vnder what tree dydest thou take them speakyng together? he answered: vnder a Pomegranate tree. Then sayde Danyell vnto hym: very wel, now thou liest also euen vpon thyne owne head. The messenger of the Lorde standeth waityng with the sword, to cut the in two & to slaye you both.

Wherby that all the whole multitude gaue a grete shout, and prayed God, * whyche alwaye deliuered them & put theyr trust in hym. And they came vpon f. two elders (whome Danyell had conuyer with theyr owne mouth that they had geuen false wytnesse and) delte with them, euen like wyse as they wold haue done w theyr neyghbours: yee, they dyd: accordyng to the lawe of Moyses, & put them to deathe. Thus the innocent bloude was saued the same day.

Then Helchia and his wyfe prayed God for theyr daughter Susanna, wyth Joachym her husbände and all the kineed: that there was no dysonestye founde in her. From that day forth was Danyell had in grete reputacon in the sygde of the people. (And kyng Balthages was layde with his fathers, and Cyzus of Per sya raygned in his trade.)

¶ The ende of the story of Susanna.

The story of Bel and of the Dragon, whiche is the fourtene Chapter of Danyel after the Latyn.

Danyel dyd eat at the kynges table, and was had in reuerence aboue all his frendes. Ther was at Babilon an Image, called Bel: and there were spent vpo hym every daye, twelue calkes, fortye shepe, and fyre great pottes of wyne. hym dyd the kyng wooshypp hym selfe, & went daylye to honoure hym: but Danyel wooshypped hym owne God. And the kyng sayde vnto hym: why dost not thou wooshypp Bel? he answered and sayde: * Because I maye not wooshypp thynges þ benade with handes. * But the luyng God, which made heauen and earth, and hath power vpon all flesh. The kyng sayd vnto hym: thinkest thou not þ Bel is a luyng God? O seest thou not howe muche he eateth & dysnyeth every daye? Danyel smiled and sayde O kyng, dysceyue not thy selfe, for this is but made of claye within, and of metall wprhoute, * neyther eateth he euer any thyng.

Then the kyng was wroth, & called for his prestes, & said vnto them: If ye tel me not who is this, & eateth by these experiences, ye shall dye: but if ye can certify me þ Bel eateth them, then Danyel shal dye, for he hath spoken blasphemie agaynst Bel: And Danyel said vnto þ kyng: let it so be, accordyng as thou haste sayde: The prestes of Bel were. lxx, besyde theyr wyues and chyldren. And þ kyng went with Danyell into the temple of Bel. So Belis prestes sayde Loo, we wyll go oute, and sette thou the meate there (O kyng) & powre in the wyne, then shal the doze fall, and scale it with thyne owne sygnet: and to morowe when thou comest in, yf thou fyndest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, we wyll suffer deathe, or els Daniel that hath lyed vpon vs. The prestes thoughte them selues sure proungbe, for vnder the aulter they had made a priuie entraunce, and there went they in euer, and dyd eat vpon what there was.

So when they wer gone forth, the kyng set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruantes to bypunge alwes, and these he syfeted thorowout all the temple, that þ kyng myght se. Then went they out, and sparrd the doze, sealing it with the kynges sygnet, and so departed. In the nyght came the prestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren (as they were wonte to doo) and dyd eat and dysnye vp all. In the morning betymes at the bryake of the day, the kyng arose, and Daniel with hym. And þ kyng sayde: Daniel, are the scales whole yet? he answered: Yee (O kyng) they be whole. Nowe as soone as he had opened the doze, the kyng looked vnto the aulter, and cryed with a loude voyce Great art thou (O Bel) and with the is no dysceyte. Then laughed Daniel, and helde þ kyng that he shulde not go in: and saide. Beholde the pauement, marke well whose foote steyppes are theser. The kyng saide: I se the foote steyppes of men, women, and chyldren.

Therefore the kyng was angrey, and took the prestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren: and they shewed hym the priuie dozes, where they came in, & dyd eat vpon such thynges as wer vnder the aulter. For the whiche cause the kyng slue them, * and deliuered Bel into Daniels power which destroyed hym and his temple.

And in that same place there was a grete dragon, whiche they of Babilon wooshypped. And the kyng sayde vnto Daniel: saiest thou, þ this is but a god of metall also? lo, he lyueth, he eateth and dysnyeth: so that thou canst not save, that he is no luyng god, therefore, wooshypp hym. Danyel sayde vnto the kyng: I wyll wooshypp the Lorde my God. * he is the true luyng God: as for this, he is not þ God of life. But geue me leane (O kyng) and I shal be stroye this dragon without sword or staffe.

The kyng saide I geue the leane. Then Dani-niell took pitch, sotte and beery well, and dis-serbe theim together, and made lompes therof, this he put in the dragons mouth. and so the dragon burst in sunder: and Daniel saide: loo, there is he: whom ye woz hypped. When thei of Ba-bilon heard that, thei took grete indignacion and gathered them together against the kyng saying. The kyng is becom a Jewe, and he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slayne the dragon, and put the pierres to deathe. So thei came to the kyng, and saide: let vs haue Daniel, or elles we will destroy the and thyne house.

Now when the kyng sawe, that thei rushed in so fowre vpon him, and that neerlyste constray-ned him: he deliuered Daniel vnto them which cast him into the lyons denne, wher he was vi. dayes. In the denne there were. vii. lyons and thei had geuen them euery day two bodies and two wyne: which then wer not geuen them, to the intent that thei myght deuoure Daniel.

¶ Ther was in Ierow a prophet called Aba-cuc, which had made porage, and broken bread in a depe platter, and was goyng into the seide foz to hyng it to the repers. But the angrill of the Lord saide vnto Abacuc. go carry the meate thou hast into Babilon, vnto Daniel, which is in the lyons den. And Abacuc saide: Lord, I neuer saw Babilon: as for the denne, I know it not. ¶ Then the angrill of the Lord toke hym by the toppe, and bare hym by the beare of the head and (thoughe a myghtie wynde) set hym in Babilon vpon the denne. And Abacuc cried saying: O Daniel thou seruante of God, haue take the vickfast, that God hath sent the. And Daniel saide: O God hast thou thought vpon me: well, thou neuer sayest them that loue the me: Daniel arose, and did eate: and the angrill of the Lord set Abacuc in his owne place agayne immediatly.

¶ Upon the vii. day, the kyng went to betwepe Daniel, and when he came to the denne beholde in: and beholde, Daniel sat in the myddell of the lyons. Then cryed the kyng with a loude voyce saying: great art thou O Lord God of Daniel and he drew hym out of the lyons denne. ¶ As for those that were the cause of his destruction, he did caste theim into the denne, and thei were deuoured in a momente before his face.

¶ After this, wrote the kyng vnto all people, hynredes and tounes, that dwelt in all countries, saying: peace be multiplied with you. My commaundment is in all the dominion of my realme, that men fere and stande in awe of Daniels God: for he is the liuyng God, which endureth euer: his kyngdome abideth vncorrupt and his power is euerrastynge. It is he that can deliuer and saue: he doth wonders & mar-uelous workes in heauen and in erth for he hath saued Daniel from the power of the lyons.

to the endes of the worlde, and gettinge manie spoiles of the people: in so much that the world strode in greates awe of hym, * & therfore was he proude in hys herre. Howe when he had gathered a myghty stronge host, & subdued the landes and people wyth theyr pynnes, so that they became tributaries vnto hym: he fell syche. And whe he perceaued þe mult nedes bye, he called for hys noble estates (which had bene broughte vp wyth him of children) * and parted his kyng dome amonge the, whyle he was yet alue. So Alexander raygned. xii. yere and then dyed.

After hys death fell the kyngdome vnto hys pynnes, and they optayned it eury owne in his rowme, and caused the selues to be crowned as kynges: and so dyd theyr chyldren after the many yeres, and much wickednes increased in the worlde. Out of these came the vngacious rofe, noble Antiochus & sonne of Antiochus & kyng (* whych hadde bene a pledge at Rome) and he raygned in the C. and seuen and therty yere of the Emperre of the Grekes.

In those dayes went ther out of Israel wyched men, which moued much people wyth theyr counsell, sayenge: * Let vs go and make a coue-naunt with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for sence we departed from the we haue had much sorowe. So theys deuoyce pleased them wel and certayne of the people toke vpon them for to go vnto the kyng, which gaue them licence to do after the ordinaunce of the heathen. * Then set they vpon an ope scole (at Jerusalem) of the lawes of the heathen, and were nomore cymcised: but forsoke the holy testament, & ioynd the selues to the heathen, * and were cleane sold to domytchete. So whe Antiochus beganne to be myghty in hys kyngdome, he wente aboute to optayne the land of Egypte also, that he myght haue the domynion of two realmes. * Up this entred he into Egypte, with a strong host, with charrettes, Elephanthes, horsemen, and a greates nombze of wyppes, & beganne to warre against Ptolomey the kyng of Egypte. But Ptolomey was afrayde of hym, and fled: and manie of hys people were wounded to death. Thus Antiochus wanne many stronge cyties, & toke awaye great good out of the lande of Egypte.

And after þe Antiochus had synpten Egypt he turned agayne in the Cxlii. yere, and wente towarde Israel, & came vp to Jerusalem wyth a myghty people: & entred proudly into þe Sanctuary, & toke awaye the golden aulter, the can-del styche and al the ornamente therof, the table of the shewbread, the powmyng vessel, the chargers, the golde spones, the vayle, the crownes, & the golden apparel of the temple, & brake downe all. He toke also the syluer and golde, the precyous Jewels, & the secret treasures that he founde.
And when he had taken awaye altogether, caused a great murder of me, & so fulfilled his malicious pryde, he departed into his owne lande.

Thus there arose a great deupnes & mys-tepe in all the lande of Israel. * The pynnes & the elders of the people mourned, the yong men & the maydens were despyed, and the saye betwepe of women was chaunged: the hydegrome and the hyde toke them to mournyng: the lande & those that dwelte therein, was moued: for al the house of Jacob was brought to confusion.

After two yeres the kyng sente hys chefe treasurer into the cyties of Iuda, whych came to Jerusalem with a great myltitude of people speakinge peacrabl wordes vnto them, but al was dyscreit: for when they had geuen hym credence, he fell sodenly vpon the cytie, and smote it loze, & destroyed muche people of Israel. * And when he had spoyled the cytie, he set fyre on it, castyng downe houses & wallen on eury syde.
The women and theyr chyldren toke theyr captyue, and led awaye theyr catell. Then buylded they the cytie of Dauid with a great and thych wall, and wyth myghty towres, and made it a stronge holde for them. Besyde all this they set wyched people and vngodly men to kepe it, stored it with weapens and vytayles: gathered the goodes of Jerusalem and layed them vp there: thus became it a thynke castell.

And thus was done to lape wayte for the people that wente into the Sanctuary, and for the cruel destruccyn of Israel. Thus they shed innocent bloude on eury syde of the Sanctuary, & despyed it: In so much þe cyteyns were sayne to departe, and the cytie became an habytacion of straungers, beyng desolate of her owne sede for her owne natyues were sayne to leaue her.
Her Sanctuary was cleane wasted, her holpe dayes were turned into mournyng, her Sabbothes were had in dyspyson, and her honoure brought to naught. Lone holwe great her glozy was afoze so great was her confusion, & her tope turned into sorowe.

Antiochus also the kyng sente oute a commysyon vnto all hys kyngdome, that all the people shulde be one. Then they leste eury man hys lawe, and all the heathe agreed to the commaundement of kyng Antiochus: yee, many of the Israelites contented therunto offeryng vnto Idols, and despyng the Saboth. So the kyng Antiochus sente hys mellaungers wyth hys commysyon vnto Jerusalem, and to all the cyties of Iuda: that they shoulde folowe the lawes of the heathen, and to bad cyther burnt offeryng, meat offeryng: or peate offeryng to be made in the temple of God, & that there shoulde no Saboth nor hys feast day be kept, but commaunded that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israel shulde be despyed. He commaunded also that there shulde be set vp other aulters, teples, and Idols: to offer vp swynes fleshe, and other vncleane beastes, & men shulde leaue theyr chyldren vncymcised, to despye theyr sonnes with al maner of vncleannes & abhominacions that they myght forget the lawe, & chaunge all the holy ordynaunces of God: and that whoso-uer wolde not do accordyng to the commaun-dement of kyng Antiochus: shulde suffer death.
In lyke maner commaunded he thosowoute all hys realme, & set rulers ouer the people, for to co-pell them to do these thynges, commaundyng the cyties of Iuda to do sacrifice vnto Idols.

¶ Then

The fyfthe booke

Then went the people vnto the heathen by beapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lorde, and committed much euill in the lande: yee, and changed out the secret Israelites, which had byd the selues in corners and pryue places. The fyfthe daye of the moneth Calue, in the hundred & fyue and forty yere, let kynge Antiochus an abhominable Idole of desolacion vpon the altier of God, and they buylded altiers thowout all the cyties of Iuda on euery syde before & doores of the houses, and in the stretes, wher they went incense, and byd sacrifice. * And as for the boles of the lawe of God, they byente them in the fyre, and rente the in peces. Whatsoeuer he was that had a booke of the Testamente of the Lorde tounde by hym, yee, whosoever endeouered him selfe to kepe the lawe of the Lorde, the kynge commaundement was, that they shuld put hym to death. And thow he his auctorite they recei-ued these thynges euery moneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cyties.

The fyue and twentye daye of the Moneth, what tyme as they byd sacrifice vpon the alter (which stode in the steade of the alter of God) accoordinge to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, they put certayne women to death, whych had caused theyr chyldren to be crysumcyled: Not only that, but they hanged up & chyldren by the neckes thowout all theyr houses, and slewe the crysumcylers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Israel whych determined in the selues, that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffer death, then to be defyled wth vncleane meates: So because they wolde not breake the blesed lawe of God, they were cruellie slayne.
And this greate tyrannye increased verie soze vpon the people of Israel.

The ii. Chapter.

*The mourninge of Mithathias and his sonnes for the distruction of the holy cytye. They refuse to do sacrifice vnto Idols. The iyle of Mithathias for the lawe of God.
They are slayne and wyl not fight agayne because of the Saboth daye. Mithathias dyinge, commaundeth his sonnes to fynde by the waye of God, after the example of the fathers.*

In those dayes there byd stande vpon one Mithathias the sonne of Eobn the sonne of Simeon the preast: out of the hyerd of Joarps from Jerusalem, and dweler vpon the mounte of Modin, & had fyue sonnes, Iohn called Gobdys, Symeon called Thasy: Iudas, otherwyle called Mithathias: Eleaser, otherwyle called Abaton: & Jonathas, whose surname was Typus. These sawe the euill that was done amoge the people of Iuda and Jerusalem. And Mitha-thias sayde: Woe is me, alas that euer I was borne, to se this mysery of my people, and the petrous destruccyon of the holy cytye: and thus to fye so still, it beinge deliuered into the handes of the enemyes. * Her Sanctuary is come into the power of straungers: her Temple is, as it were a man & hath lost his good name: her precious ornamentes are carryed awaye captiue. Her old men are slayne in the stretes, and her yonge men are fallen thowome the swerde of the enemyes.

What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kyngdome? Who hath not gotte some of her spoyle? Al her glory is take awaye.
She was a free woman, and now she is become an handmayde.

Beholde our Sanctuarye, oure betwyl, and donour is wasted awaye, & defyled by the Gentyles. What helpeth it vs the to lyue? And Ma-thathias rent his clothes, he & his sonnes, & put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned very soze.

Then came the men whycher whycher were sent of kynge Antiochus, to compell suche as were fled into the cytye of Modyn, for to do sacrifice, and to burne incense vnto Idolles, and to forsake the lawe of God. So, many of the people of Israel consented and enclined vnto them but Mithathias and his sonnes remayned sted-fast. Then spake the compyllyoners of kynge Antiochus, and sayd vnto Mithathias: Thou arte a noble man, of hye reputacion and greate in this cytye, hauinge saye childre & brethren.
Come thou therfore wyse, & fulfill the kynge commaundement, lyke as all the heathen haue done, yee and the me of Iuda, & such as remayne at Jerusalem: so walte thou and thy chyldren be in the kynge's fauour and enryched wth gold, syluer, and great rewardes.

Mithathias answered, and spake wth a loude voyce. Though all natiōs obey the kynge Antiochus, & lai awaye euery mā from hepyng the lawe of theyr fathers: though they consent to his commaundementes, yet wyl I and my sonnes & brethren, not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God forbyd we shoulde, that were not good for vs: that we shoulde forsake the lawe & ordynances of God, and to agre vnto the commaundement of kynge Antiochus. Therfore we wyl do no such sacrifice, neyther breake the statutes of our lawe: to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes, ther came one of the Jewes, whycher openly in the syght of all, byd sacrifice vnto the Idolles vpon the altier in the cytye of Modyn, accoordinge to the kynge's commaundement.

Whē Mithathias sawe this, it grieved him at the herte, so that his raynes toke wythall, & his wyrt was kyndled for verie zeale of the lawe.
With that he starte vp, and kyled the Jewe besyde the altier: yee, and slewe the kynge's com-myllyoner, that compelled hym to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altier at the same tyme: suche a zeale had he vnto the lawe of God. * Lyke as whiche dyd vnto Iambry the sonne of Salomy. And Mithathias cryed wth a loude voyce thowome the cytye, sayenge: Whoso is feruente in the lawe, and wyl kepe the couenaunt, let hym folowe me. * So he and his sonnes fled in to the mountaynes, and left all that euer they had in the cytye. Manye other godlye men also departed into the wyldernes wth theyr chyldren, theyr wyues and theyr catell, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased soze vnto the.

Nowe when the kynge's seruantes, and the hoolle, whycher was at Jerusalem in the cytye of David harde that certayne men had broken the kynge's kinges commaundement, and were gone they waye to the wilderness into secret places, and there were many departed after them: they folo wed vpon them, to fyghte agaynst them on the Sabboth day & sayd wyl ye yet rebel? Set you hence & do the commaundemente of kyngc An tiochus: and ye shal lyue. They answered: we wyl not go forth, neither wyl we do the kynges commaundement, to defyle the Sabboth daye.

Then beganne they to fyghte agaynst them: ne uertheless they gaue them none other answer neither cast they one stone at the, nor made faste they: prey places, but sayde: we wyl dye al in our innocencye. heauen and earth shall testyfy wyth vs, that ye put vs to death wrongfullye.
Thus they foughte agaynst them vpon the Sab bath, and slewe both men and catel, their wyues & theyr chyldren to the number of a. viij. people.

When Mathathias and hys frendes hearde this, they mourned for them right sore & sayde one to another: It so be that we al do as our bre thren haue done, and fyghte not for our lyues & for our lawes agaynst the heathen, the shal they the sooner rote vs out of the earth: so they con cluded among the selues at the same tyme, say inge: what for euer he be that commeth to make battel with vs vpon the Sabboth day, we wyl fyghte agaynst him and not dye all: as our bre thren that were murdered so heynouslye. vpon this came the synagag of the Jewes vnto the stronge men of Israel, all such as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for per secucion, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In somuch that they gathered an host of men, & slewe the wicked doers in theyr gelousye and the vngodly men in theyr wrath. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mathathias and hys frendes went a bout: and destroyed the alters, and circuncysed the chyldren, that had not yet receaued circum cision: as many as they found within the costes of Israel, & folowed myghtely vpon the chyldre of pryde, and this acte prospered in theyr hādes In so much that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentyles and the kynges, and gaue not ouer their dominio vnto wicked doers.

After this, when the tyme came on faste, that Mathathias shuld dye he sayd vnto his sonnes Now is pryde and persecucion increased, nowe is the tyme of destruccyon and washyful dysple sure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruente in the lawe, and leoparde your lyues for the Testa ment of the fathers cal to remembraunce what actes our fathers byd in theyr tyme, so shal ye re ceauie great honour and an euerlastyng name.

* Remember Abrahā, was not he founde saythfull in temptacon, & it was reckened vnto him for righteousnes? Josephin tyme of his trouble kepte the commaundemente, and was made a lord in Egypte. * Dineches our father was so feruent for the honour of God, that he op rayned the councail of an euerlastyng prest hode. * Josua for fulfilling the woordes of God was made the captayne of Israel. * Caleb bare recorde befoze the congregacion & receaued an he rytage. * Dauid also in his mercifull kyndnes, obtayned the throne of an euerlastyng kyngdome.

* Elias beinge gelous and feruent in the lawe

And beholde: I knowe that your brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se that ye geue be your captaine & adde the battel of the people thus shal ye bynginge vnto you all those that fa hym and a grea^t multitude with him, the remnant fled, and he toke their substance. Judas also toke Appollonius o^uer his wealde, & fought with it all his lyfe longe.

Now when Heron (another prince of Siria) hearde say: that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacyon and church of the faythful he sayde: I wyll get me a name & prayse thowmeout the realme: for I wyll go fyghte with Judas and they that are with hym, as many as haue be-spiced the kinges commaundement. So he made him ready, and there went with hym a grea^t myghty host of the vngodly, to stand by hym & to be aduenged of the chyldren of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethzon, Judas wote foz agaynst the was a smal company. And wh^e his people sawe such a grea^t host befoze them they sayde to Judas: howe are we able (being so fewe) to fyghte agaynst so grea^t a multitude and so stronge, seinge we be so werpe, and haue fasted all this daye?

l. vii. iiii. a

ii. d. a. t. d. b

* But Judas sayde: It is a smal matter for many to be ouercome with fewe: per, there is no dyfference to the God of heauen, to deliuer by a grea^t multitude or by a smal company: for I wyctory of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the host, but the strength cometh from heauen. Behold, they come agaynst vs with a presumptuous and proud multitude, to destroy vs: our wyues, & our chyldren, and to robbe vs.
But we wyll fyghte for our lyues, & our lawes and the Lorde hym selfe shall destroye them be-foze our face, therfoze be not ye afraied of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes, he lepte sobaynlye vpon them. Thus was Heron smitten and his host put to flight, and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethzon vnto the playne feilde: where there were thaim egypte hundred men of them, and the resydue fled into the lande of the Philistines. Then all the heathen on euery syde were a frayed of Judas and his brethren: so that the rumour of him came vnto the hynges eares, for all the Gentyles coulde tell of the warres of Judas.

So when hyng Antiochus hearde these tydynges, he was angry in his mynde, wherfoz he sent to them, and gathered an host of his whole realme, very stronge armyes, and opened his treasury and gaue his host a yeres wages in hand commaundyng them to bereadye at all tymes.

Nevertheless, when he sawe, that there was not mony ynoughe in his treasures, and the tho-rowe the discorde & persecution, which he made in the lande, to put downe the lawes, had bene of olde tymes: his customes & tributes of the land were mynyshed: he feared he was not able for to beare the costes & charges any longer, nor to haue such gyften, to geue so lyberally as he had afoze, moze then the hynges were befoze hym.

l. mach. vii. a

Wherfoze he was heryn in his mynde, and thought to go into Persyde, for to take tributes of the lande, & so to gather much mony. So he lefte Lysias a noble man of his kengen blonde to ouerse the hynges businesse, from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte, and to kepe wel his sone Antiochus, til he came again.

Wherfoze, he gaue him halfe of his host & Elephantes, committed vnto him euery thinge of his mynde, concernyng those whiche dwell in Juda and Jerusalem, that he shuld send out an army agaynst them, to destroye and rote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem: to put out their memoypall from that place, to set straungers for to inhabite al their quarters and parte they lande amonge them: Thus the hyng toke the other parte of the host, and be-parted from Antioch (a cite of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the C. xliiij. yere, and went thowme the hye countreys.

1. mach. vii. a

* And Lysias chose vnto him Stolymp the sonne of Dorimachus, Archanoz and Gorgyas myghtie men, and the kinges frendes. These he sent with. xl. thousande sote men, and. vii. M. horse men, for to go into the lande of Juda and to destroye it, as the hyng commaunded. So they went forth with al they power, and came to Emmaus into the playne feilde. When the mar-chauntes harde the rumoure of them, they, and they seruantes, toke verpe muche spuer, and golde, for to by the chyldren of Israel to be their bondemen. There came vnto them also pet momen of warre on euery syde, out of Siria and frome the Philistines.

Nowe when Judas and his brethren sawe that trouble increased, and that the host was nye vnto they borders consyderinge the hynges wordes whiche he commaunded vnto the people: namely that they shulde utterly waste and destroye them: They sayde one to another, Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people, let vs fyghte for oure folke and for oure sanctuarie.
Then the congregacyon were sone readye gathered to fyghte, to praye and to make supplica-cyon vnto God for mercy and grace.

* As for Jerusalem, it lay voyde and was as it had bene a wyldernes. There wente no man in or out at it, and the sanctuarie was troden downe. The aleuantes kepte the castell, there was the habitation of the heathen. The myrrh of Jacob was taken away, the pyper & the harpe was gone from amonge them.

The Israelites gathered them together and came to Bethphage befoze Jerusalem, for in Beth-phage was the place where they prayed afoze tyme in Israel. So they fasted that daye, and put sacker clothes vpon them, and caste ashes vpon they heades, rent they clothes, and layd forth the bookes of the lawe (wherout the heathen sought the likenes of they ymages) & brought the wearres ornaments, the fyrtlynges & the titthes. They set ther also the abrayners which had fulfilled they dayes befoze God, and cryed with aloude voyce, toward heauen: saying.

ii. d. a. t. d. b

What shall we do wyth these? and wher shall we carpe them awaye? For the sanctuarie is troden downe and despyed, the wearres are come to heynesse and byhonour: and be-holde, the heathen are come together for to de-stroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyne agaynst vs: howe maye we stand be-foze them?

foze them, excepte thou (O God) be our helpe!

They blew oute the trompet also with a lowde voyce. Then Judas ascribede * sayes ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fifty, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded them houses, maped wyues, planted them vineyardes, and those þ were fearful be commaunded them euery manne to go home a gain, accordyng to the lawe. So the hoste remoued, & pitched vpon þ fourth tye of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Beine your selues, be strong (O my children) make you redy against to morowe in the morning, that ye maye fyght with these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and our Sanctuarie. Better is it for vs to byt in battaile, then to see our people & our Sanctuarie in such a miserable case, * the worse lesse, as thy wyll is in heauen, so be it.

The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ Judas went agaynste Gorgias whiche lyeth in Iudaea. He purposed Gorgias and his hoste to fyght. And thus immediately Judas, whiche Judas dyed byn ouer. Judas purposed the temple & immediately the aulter.

Then toke Gorgias fyue thousande men of foote, and a thousande of the beste horsmenne, and remoued by nyghte, to come nye where the Jewes hoste laye, and so to slaye them sodenlye. Howe the men that kepte the castell, were the conuersers of theim. Then arose Judas to smyte the chefe and principall of þ kynge hoste at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyghte into Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the Mountaines, and thoughte they had ben fled a waye, because of hym. But when it was daye, Judas shewed hym selfe in the felde wth thre thousande men only, which had nether heerne nor sweardes to theyr mynnes.

But on the order syde, they sawe that the heathen were myghtie and well harnessed, and theyr horsmen aboute them, and all these well experie in feate of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men that were with hym: Feare ye not the myltitude of them, be not afrayde of theyr vyolente runnyng: remember, howe our fathers wer deliuered * in the red see, when Pharao folowed vpon them with a great hoste.

¶ Euen so let vs also crye now toward heauen: and the Lord shall haue mercy vpon vs, & remember the conuauente of our fathers: yea, and destroye this hoste before your face this day. And all the heathen shal know, that it is God hym selfe, which deliuereth and sauerh Israel.

25 Then the heathen lyfte vp theyr eyes: and when they sawe that they wer comyng against them, they went out of theyr tentes into the battaile: and they that were with Judas, blew by the trompettes. * So they buckled together, & the heathen were discomfyted and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hymniste of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Asacemorb, and into þ felde of Idumea toward Azot and Iannia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thye thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoste, and sayde vnto the people: Be not greedy of spoyle, we haue yet a battaile to fyghte, for Gorgias and his hoste are here by vs in þ mountaines, but stand ye fast against your enemies and overcome the: then maye ye safely take the spoyle.

As Judas was speakyng these wordes: beholde, there appered one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias saw that they of his partye were fled, and the tentes bent vp for by the smoke they mighte vnderstand what was done: they perceyving this, were very soze afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in þ felde redy to stryke the battaile, they fled euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gat much golde and syluer, precyous stones, purple and greate riches. Thud they went home, and longe a psalme of thanksgyng, and praised God in heauen: * for he is gracious, and his merce endureth for euer. And so Israel had a great victorie in þ days.

Howe all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euerye thyng as it happened. Wherefore Lysias was soze afrayed, & greued in his mind, because Israel had not gotten such my fortune, as he would theyr quide, neither as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yere folowing, gathered Lysias thre scoze thousand chosen men of foote, and fyue thousande horsmen to fyght against them.

So they came into Jewry, and pitched their tentes at Berbozon, wher Judas came against them with .x. thousand men. And when he saw so great and myghte an hoste, he made his prayer, and saide: Blessed be thou (O claspourer of Israel) * whiche bydest destroye the vyolent power of the Spauit, in the hande of thy seruaut Dauid, * and gauest the dooste of the heathen into the hand of Ionathas (the sonne of Saul) and of his weapon beater.

But thys hoste now into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in theyr myltitude and horsmen. Make them afrayed, and dyscomforte the boldnesse of theyr strengthe þ they maye be moued thowoe theyr destruction. Cast them downe thowoe þ sword of thy lowers, then shal all they that knowe thy name, prayse the with thanksgyng.

So they broke the battaile, and there wer slayn of Lysias host, fyue thousand men. Then Lysias sepyng the dyscomfytynge of his menne, and the manynesse of the Jewes, how they wer redy, cryeth to lyue as byrlyhe men: he wente vnto Antioche, and chose oute men of warre: þ when they wer gathered together, they mighte come agayne into Jewry. Then sayde Judas & his wyzen, beholde, our enemyes are dyscomfyt: Let vs now go vp, to cleanse & to repaire the Sanctuarie.

* Upon thys, all the hoste gathered them together, and wente vp into mounte Syon. Howe when they sawe the Sanctuarie layed waste, the aulter defiled, the doores bent vp, the shrubbes growyng in the courtes, lyke as in a woode: or vpon mountaynes: yea, and that the prestes selles were broken doune: They rent theyr clothes, made great lamentacion, cast al-wes vpon theyr heades, fell doune flatte to the ground, made a great noyse with the trompettes, and cryed toward heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghte agaynst those whiche were in the castell tyll they had censed the Sanctuarie. So he chose prestes that were vnderfild, such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they censed y Sanctuarie: and bare oute the despyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so muche as the alter of burnte offerynges was vnbolowed, he tooke aduysemente, what he myght do withall so he thoughte it was best to destroye it (leste it shulde happen to do them any shame) for he had then had despyled it, and therfore they brake it doune. As for the stones, they layed them vp vpon the mountayn by the houle in a conuenient place: tyll there came a prophete, to shewe what shulde be done with them.

So they tooke whole stones accordyng to the lawe, and builded a new alter such one as was befoze, and made vp the Sanctuarie with in and without, and bolowed the houle and the courtes. They made newe ornaments, and brought the candellsticke, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. The incense laied they vpon the altar, and lyghted the lampes whiche were vpon the candellsticke, that they myght burne in the temple. They set the new bread vpon the table, and hanged vp the vayle & set vp the temple, as it was afore.

And vpon the fyue and twenty day of the mynth moneth, whiche is called the moneth of Caslee, in the hundred and eyght & fortye yere they rose vp by tymes in the morning for to do sacrifice (accordyng to the lawe) vpon the newe burnte offeryng altar that they had made: after the tyme and season of the heathen had despyled it. The same day was it set vp again wth songes, pipes, harpes, and cymbales.

And all the people fell vpon their faces, woyshyping & thanking the God of heauen which had geuen them the victorie. So they kepte y dedicacyon of the altar eyght dayes offeryng burnte sacrifices and thank offerynges wth gladnesse. They deced the temple also wth crownes and shylbes of golde, and bolowed the portes and selles, and hanged doozes vpon the. Thus there was very greute gladnesse among the people, because the blasphemie of the heathen was put away. So Judas and his brethren wth the whole congregacyon of Israel, ordeyned, that the tyme of dedicacyon of the altar shoulde be kepte in his season from yere to yere, by the space of eyght dayes, from the fyue and twenty dayes of the moneth Caslee with myght and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vp the mounte Syon with hie walles and strong towers round about: lest y Gentyles shuld come and treade it doune, as they dyd afore. There fore Judas set men of warre in it, to kepe it, and made it stronge, for to defende. Beholden: y the people might haue a refuge agaynst y edomites.

The v. Chapter.

¶ Judas thoughte the heathen that go about to destroye Israel, and to helpe of his brethren Agmon and Jonathan, shoulde be the tyme of Cyprus because they had byd hym paye the tithes.

It happened also that when the heathen rounde about heard, howe that the altar and the Sanctuarie were set vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased them verye sore, wherfore they thoughte to destroye the generacyon of Jacob that was among them: In so muche that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certain of the people. ¶ Then Judas fought agaynst the chyldren of Esau in Idumea, & agaynst those whiche were at Arabathane (for they dwelte rounde about the Israelites) where he slew and spoiled a greute myltitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vnfaithfulnesse of y chyldren of Beniamin, howe they were a snare & a stoppe vnto the people, & howe they layde waite for the in the hie way. Wherfore he shut vp them into towers, and came vnto them, destroyed them utterlye and burnte vp theyr towers, wth all that were in them.

Afterward, wente he agaynst the chyldren of Ammon, whereof he founde a myghtye power and a greute myltitude of people, with Tymothy theyr capitayne. So he strooke manie battayles wth them, whiche were destroyed befoze hym. And when he had slayne them, he hadde Sazer the cyrie, with the townes belonging therto, & so turned agayne into Jewrye. The heathen also in Galaad gathered them together agaynst the Israelites that wer in theyr quarters, to slay them: but they fled to y castell of Datheman and sente letters to Judas & his brethren, sayng: The heathen are gathered agaynst vs on euery syde, to destroye vs, & now they make them ready for to come, & laye spege to the castell, where vnto we are fled, & Tymothy is capitayne of theyr hoste: come therfore and deliuer vs out of theyr handes: for there is a greute myltitude of vs slayne alreadye. Yea, & our brethren that were at Tuby, are slayn & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues, theyr chyldren, and theyr goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, behold, there came other messengers from Galyle wth rente clothes: whiche tolde euen the same tydinges, and sayde: that they of ytolomays, of Tyrys and of Sydon were gathered agaynst them, and that all Galyle was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israel. ¶ When Judas and the people heard this, they came together (a greute congregacyon) to deuise what they myght do for theyr brethren, that wer in trouble, and beleged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Agmon his brother: chose the ome certayne men, & go deliuer thy brethren in Galyle: As for me and my brother Jonathan, we wyll go into Galaad wthym. So he leste Josephus phus the sonne of zacharye, and Maryas to be Capitaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the hoste in Jewye, and commaunded them sayng: Take the ouerlyghte of this people, and se that ye make no warre againste the heathen, vntill the tyme we come again. And vnto Symeon he gaue thre thousande men for to go into Galyle, but Judas hymself had eight thousande in Galaadryhn.

Then went Symeon into Galyle, & strooke dyuers battayles with the heathen: whome he dyscomfited, and folowed vpon them vnto the postes of Ptolomys. And there were slayne of the heathen almoste thre thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, and carped awaye the Israelites that were in Salie and Irbatis with theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, and brought them into Jewye with greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Ionathas went ouer Jordan, and traunpled. in. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse. Where the Rebutthes met them, and receyued them lounynglye, and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadryhn, and howe that many of them were beleaged in Borsala, Boro, Almys, Caspho, Mageth and Carnaim: all these are strong walled & mightie great cities: and that they were kept in other cyties of Galaad also: & to moztow they are appoynted to byng theyr hoste vnto these cyties, to take them, & to wyne the in one daye.

So Judas and his hoste turned in all the haste in the wyldernesse toward Boro, & wan the cytie. Slewe all the males with the sword, toke all theyr goodes, and set fyre vpon the cytie. And in the nyght they tooke theyr iourney fro thence, and came to the castell. And by tymes in the morning when they looked vp, behold, there was an innumerable people bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battaile began and that the hople therof wente vp, and range into haun, and that there was so great a crye in the cytie: he sayde vnto his hoste: fyght this daye for youre brethren. And so came behynde theyr enemyes in thre compaynes, and blew vp the trompettes, & cryed in their prayer to God.

But as soone as Tymothys hoste perceyued that Machabeus was there, they fled from hym, & the other slewe them downe ryght soze: so that there was kyled of them the same daye, almoste ryghte thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, layde siege vnto it, and wanne it: slewe all the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpon it: From thence wente he and tooke Casdon, Mageth, Boro, and the other cyties in Galaad.

* After thys gathered Tymothy another hoste, whiche pitched theyr tentes befoze Raphon beyonde the water. Judas also sent to espye the hoste, and they brought hym worde agayne, sayng: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto hym, and his hoste is very great. Per, they haue byrd the Arabp and to helpe them, & haue pitched their tentes beyonde the water and are redy to come and fighte agaynst the. So Judas went on to mete them.

And Tymothy sayde vnto the captaynes of his hoste: when Judas and his hoste come nyr the ryuer: if ye go ouer fyfthe, we shall not be hable to withstand hym, for why? he wyl be to stronge for vs. But if he dare not come ouer so that he pryche his tentes beyonde the water: then wyl we go ouer, for we shall be stronge ynough agaynst hym. Now as soone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appoynted certayne serps of the people, and commaunded them, sayng: see that ye leane none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer, but let euery man come to the battaile. So he wente fyfthe ouer vnto them, and his people after hym.

And all the heathen were dyscomfited before hym, and let theyr weapons fall, and ranne into the temple that was at Carnym. Whiche cytie Judas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that was in it: So was Carnaim subdued, & myghte not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadryhn, from the leaste vnto the moste, with theyr wyues and theyr chyldren (a very great hoste) for to come into the lande of Israel.

* So they came vnto Ephron, whiche was a myghty great and stronge cytie, and lay in theyr waye. For they could not go by it, neither of the ryght hande nor of the lefte, but must go thowowe it. Heretofore they that were in the cytie wolde not let them go thowowe, but walled vp the postes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes sayng: Let vs passe thowowe your lande, that we maye go into oure owne countree, there shal no bodie do you harme, we wyl but onely go thowowe on foote. But they wolde not let them in.

And Judas beleaged the cytie all that daye and all that nyght, and so wanne it, where they slewe as many as were males, and destroyed the cytie and spoyled it, and wente thowowe all the cytie ouer them & were slaine. Then went they ouer Jordan into the plain felde befoze Bethsam. And Judas helped those forwarde & came behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacion all the waye thowow, tyll they were come into the land of Juda. Thus they went vp vnto the mount Syon, where they offered wmirch and thankesgeuing: because there wer none of them slain, but came home again peaceably.

Nowe what tyme as Judas & Ionathas were in the lande of Galaad, and Symeon theyr brother in Galyle befoze Ptolamaps: Then Josephus the sonne of zachary & Maryas the captaynes, bearynge of the acten that were done & of the battayles that were stryken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and go fyght againste the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue theyr hoste a commandement and went towards Jamna. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the cite, to fight against them: Josephus also and Ahasas were chased unto the borders of Idume, & there were slayne that day of the people of Israel two. Men: so that there was a greete mysery among the people: and all because they were not obeyed unto Judas and his brethren, but thoughte they shuld quyte them selues manfully. A curte chelle they came not of f side of these men, by whome Israel was helpe. But the men that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the sight of al Israel, & all the heathen where forer they name was heard vpon, & the people came vnto them, bydding them welcome.

After this went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the chyldren of Esau in the lande that lyeth toward the south where he wanne the cite of Ebron, & the towne that lyeth by it: and as for the walles and towne rounde about it, he byent them vp.

Then remoued he to go into the lande of the Philistines, & went thowt Samaria. At the same tyme were there many yeres slain in the battail, whiche wyfull and without aduysment went out for to fight, to get them honour. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philistines land, he brake doune theyr alters, byent the Images of theyr ydolles, spoiled the cyties and came again into the lande of Juda.

The vi Chapter.

Antiochus willing to take the cite of Elmas for a prey in Idume awaye of the cyties. He sailed into Idume and byent the same Antiochus to make hyng. The beys of the towne of Azot. Eupator cometh into Idume with a greute armye. The battaile of Elmas.

When kynge Antiochus tra- uayled thowt the hye countreyes, he hearde that Elmas in Persia was a noble and plenteous cite in syluer and gold, and that there was in it a very ryche temple: where as wer clothes cote armoures and spydes of golde, whiche Alexander the sonne of Philip, kynge of Macedona (that raygned fyfte in Greke lande) had left behynde hym. Wherfore he wente aboute to take the cite and to spoyle it, but he was not hable: for the citizens were warned of it, and fought with hym. And he fled & departed with greute heynesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Wherfore, there came one whiche brought hym tidynge in Persye, & his hostes which were in the lande of Juda, were dyspene awaye, and howe that Lysias wente forth fyfte wyth a greute power, and was dyspene awaye of the Jewes: howe that they had wonne the vycroze and gotten greute goodes out of the hostes that perished, howe they had broken doune the abominacyon whiche he set vp vpon the altier at Jerusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarye with hye walles, lyke as it was afore: yee, and Bethsura his cite also.

So it chaunced, that when the kynge had heard these wordes, he was afraied and greued very soze. Wherfore he layde hym doune vpon

hys bed, and fell synke for very sozow: and all because it had not happened as he had deuyed. And there continued he long, for his greife was cur moze and moze, so that he sawe he must needs dye. Therfore he sente for his frendes, and sayde vnto them: the slepe is gone from myne eyes, for the very sozow and vexacyon of hert that I haue. For when I consyder in my mynde the greute aduersyte that I am come vnto, and the floudes of heynesse whiche I am come in, where as afore tyme I was so mery, & so greatly set by (by reason of my power.) Agayne, consydering the euill that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all pryche of gold and syluer that were in it, and sente to fette awaye the inbaproures of Jewrye wythoute anye reason why: I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold, I must dye with greute sozow in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philyp a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all his realme, and gaue hym the crowne, hys robe and hys ruyng: that he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and byng hym vp, tyll he myght raygne hym selfe. * So the kynge Antiochus dyed there, in the hundred and fortye and nyne yere. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was dead, he ordained Antiochus his sonne (* whom he had brought vp, to raygne in his fathers stead and called hym Eupator, now he theyr that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes rounde about the Sanctuary, and soughte ever tyll to doo them harme for the strengthe-nyng of the heathen.

Wherfore, Judas thoughte to destroye them and called all the people together, & they might laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the hundred and fortye yere, & beseged them, layng forth theyr ordynance and instrumentes of warre. Then certain of them were beseged, went forth vnto whome some vngodly men of Israel toynded them selues also & went vnto the kynge, sayng: how longe wyl it be, or thou punyche and aduenge our brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father scrupes to walke in hys statutes, and to obey hys commandementes: Therfore our people fell from vs, and wheresoeuer they found any of vs, they slewe them: and spoyled oure inderstaunce and they haue not onely medled w vs, but with all our countreyes: and beholde, this daye are they besegying the castell at Jerusalem, & haue made vp the strong holde in Bethsura. And if I doot not preuent them ryghte sone, they wyl do moze then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

When the kynge hearde this, he was verye angrye, and called all his frendes, the captaines of his footemen, and of all hys horsemen together. He byed men of warre also out of other realmes & out of the Isles of the see, which came vnto hym. And the nombre of hys hoste was an hundred thousande foot men, & twentye thousande horsemen, & two and thyrtye shippes wel extreyed in battaile. These came thowt

showe Iudaea vnto Bethsura, & besieged it a longe season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynst it. But the Jewes came out and biente them, and foughte wth the men. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem, and remoued the hoste towardes Bethsacaran ouer agaynst the kynges armie.

E So the kyng arose befoze the daye, and broughte the power of his hoste into the daye to Bethsacaran, where the hostes made them selfe to the battaile, blowing the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephanes for to fyghte, thei weied them the sap of red grapes & molbe eyes, and deuoyded the Elephanes among the hoste: so that by every Elefant there stode a thousande menne wel harnessed, and helmetted of stele vpon theyr brades. Yee, vnto every one of the Elephanes also were ordeined foue hundred hoysmen of the best, whiche waited on the Elefant, going wherfozeuer he went, and departed not from hym. Euerye Elefante was couered with a skonge of war of wood, where vpon were two and thirye valeaunt men with weapons to fyghte, and wythin was a man of Jude to rule the beaste.

As for the remnaunte of the hoysmen, he set vpon both the sydes in two partes wth trompettes, to prouoke the hoste, and to fyre vpon such as were slowe in the army. And when the sunne shone vpon theyr byldes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agaynst at them, & were as bright as the creskettes of fyre. The kynges hoste also was deuoyded, one parte vpon the hie mountaynes the other lowe beneth: so they wet on rasing good hede: and heyyng theyr order. And all they that dwelt in the lande, were asayed at the noyse of theyr hoste, when the multitude wente forth, and when the weapons smote together, for the hoste was both great and myghty. Judas also and his hoste entred into the battaile, and slew fyve hundred menne of the kynges armie. Nowe when Eleasar the sonne of Saura, dyd see one of the Elephanes dect with the kynges badge, and was a more goodly beaste then the other: he thoughte the kyng shoulde be vpon hym, and he ordeined hym selfe to deliuer his people, and to get hym a perpetual name. Wherfoze he ranne wth a corage vnto the Elefante in the myddest of the hoste, smytynge them downe of both sydes, and slew many aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephanes feet, and gat hym vnder hym, and slew him then fell the Elefante downe vpon hym, and there he died. Judas also and his men sawynge the power of the kyng and the myghty violence of his hoste departed from them. And the kynges armie went vpon agaynst them toward Jerusalem and pitched theyr tentes in Jewry beside mount Syon. Wherefoze, the kyng tooke truce wth them that were in Bethsura.

But when they came oute of the ctye (because they had no wyttayles within, & the land laye vntilled) the kyng tooke Bethsura, & set men to kepe it, and turned his hoste to the place of the Sanctuarie, and laide seige to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordynance handbowes, fyre dartes, rackerres to cast stones, scopyons to shote arrowes, and syners. The Jewes also made ordynance agaynst them and foughte a longe season.

But in the ctye there wer no wyttayles, for it was the seventh yere of the warres & those brethren that remained in Jewry, had eaten vpon all their store. And in the Sanctuarie wer fewe meate, for the hunger came so vpon them, & they wer scattered abrode euery man to his owne place.

So when Lysias heard of this (where 1. M. 2. 3.) Antiochus the kyng whyle he was yett lyyng had ordeined to lyyng vpon Antiochus his sonne that he myght be kyng) was come agayn oute of Persya, and Medea, wth the kynges hoste and thoughte to obtayne the kyngdome: he gat hym to the kyng in all the haste, and to the captaynes of the hoste, and sayde we decrease daylye, and ouer wyttayles are but small: Agayn the place that we laye seige vnto is very strong and it were oure parte to see for the realme. Let vs agree wth these men, and take truce wth them, and wth all theyr people, & graunt them to lye after theyr lawe, as they dyd afore. For they be greued, and do all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue despyled theyr lawe. So the kyng and the pryues were contente, and sente vnto them to make peace, and they receyued it. Nowe when the kyng & the pryues had made an othe vnto them, they came oute of the castell and the kyng wente vpon mount Syon. But whan he sawe that the place was wel defended he brake his othe that he had made, and commaunded to destroye the wall rounde about. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioch, where he founde Philippaunng dominyon of the ctye. So he fought agaynst hym, and tooke the ctye again in his handes.

The vii. Chapter.

Demetrius captured after he had killed Antiochus, and Lysias. He troubled the children of Israel throughe the counsyle of certain wyshed persons. The priues of the parties agaynst Sychanus. Judas helieth Sychanus, after he had made hym priues.

At the hundred and one and fyrty yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the ctye of Rome with a small company of men, vnto a ctye of the sea coaste and there he bare rule. And it chaunced that whyle he came to Antioch the ctye of his progenytours, his hoste tooke Antiochus and Lysias, to lyyng them vnto hym. But when it was told hym, he sayd: let me not se theyr faces: So the hoste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the thron of his kyngdome, there came vnto hym wyched and vngodly men of Israel whose captayn was Alcimus, that wold haue bene made hys prelate: These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kyng, sayynge: Judas and his brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dyen vpon oure owne lande. Wherfoze sende nowe some man (to whome thou geuest credence) that he maye go and see all the destruction, whiche he hath done vnto vs and to the the kynges land, and let hym be punished with all his frendes and fauourers.

25 Then the kyng chose Bachydes a frende of hys, whiche was a man of grete power in the realme (beyond the great water) and sayedful vnto the kyng, and sente hym to see the destruction that Judas had done. And as for that which Alcimus, he made hym hys priest, and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. So they stode vp, & came with a great hoste into the lande of Juda, sendyng messengers to Judas and hys brethren, and speakyng vnto them with peacable wordes: but vnder dysceite. * Therfore Judas and his people beleued not theyr sayyng, for they sawe that they were come with a great hoste.

149. 11.

After this came the dysceytes together vnto Alcimus and Bachydes, trustyng the beste vnto them. And for the Judeans requyred peace of them, sayyng: Alcimus & priest is come of the seide of Aaron, howe can he dysceyue vs? So they gaue them louyng wordes, and swoze vnto them, and sayde: we wyl do you no harme neyther your frendes: and they beleued them. But the very same daye toke they all, for me of them, and slewe them accordyng to the wordes that were wrytten. * They haue cast & slayd of thy sayntes, and shed theyr bloude rounde about Jerusalem, and there was no man that wold burye them. So there came a grete feare and dyede among the people, sayyng: there is neither truth nor ryghteousnesse in them, for they haue broken the appoyntemente and othe that they made. And Bachydes remoued his hoste from Jerusalem, and pitched his tente at Betzcha: where he sent forth & tooke many of them that had forsaken him. He slewe many of the people also and cast them into a great pyt. Then committed he the land vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with hym to helpe him. And Bachydes hym selfe went vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended his hygh priest hode, and all such as were of Israel reioyced vnto hym: In so much that they obtayned the lande of Juda, and dyd muche euill vnto the Israelites.

150. 11.

Nowe when Judas sawe all the myschance that Alcimus and his company had done (yea, more then the heathen them selues) vnto the Israelites. He wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Jewry, and punished those vnfaythfull renegates, so that they came nomore out into the countrey. So when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten & upper hand and that he was not able to abyde them, he went againe to the kyng and said al the worst of them that he coude. Then the kyng sent Apchanoz one of his chiefe prynces (whiche beare euill wylle to Israel) and commaunded hym, that he shoulde utterly destroye the people.

151. 11.

* So Apchanoz came to Jerusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (but vnder dysceit) sayyng: there shal be no warre betwixt me and you: I wyl come with fewe men, to see howe ye do, with frendshyppe. Upon this he came vnto

Judas, and they saluted one another praycably but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Heurthelesse, it was told Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder dysceit. Therfore, he gat hym a way from hym, & wolde se his face nomore. When Apchanoz perceyued that his counsell was betwaised, he wente oute to fyghte agaynst Judas, besyde Capharsaima: where there was slain of Apchanoz host fyue thousande men: and the resydue fled vnto the castell of Dauid.

After this came Apchanoz vnto mounte Syon: and the dyceytes wyth the elders of the people wente forth to salute hym praycably and to shewe hym the burnt sacrifice that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed them and the people to scorn, mocked them, despyed their offerynges, and spake disdainfull: yee, and swoze in his wrath, sayyng: * If Judas and his hoste be not deliuered now into my handes, as sone as euer I come agayne (I fare well) I shal burne vnto this house. With that, went he oute in a grete anger. Then the dyceytes came in, and stode before the altar of the temple, wepyng and sayyng.

* For so much as thou (O Lord) haste chosen this house, that thy name myghte be called vpon therein, and that it shoulde be an house of prayer and prayson for thy people. We aduenced of this man and hys hoste, and let them be slain to the sword, remember & blasphemers of them, & suffer the not, to contynue any longer.

When Apchanoz was gone from Jerusalem he pitched his tente at Bethojon, and there an hoste met hym out of Syria. Euen so destroye & this hoste before vs to day, that our people maye knowe howe that he hath blasphemed thy sanctuary, and punyssh hym accordyng to his malicyousnes.

When Apchanoz men of warre sawe that he was hyllid, they caste awaye theyr weapons and fled, but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole daies iourney fro Adazar vnto Gazara, blowyng with the from pyres and makyng tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of all & townes there about and blewe out theyr hoines vpon them, & turned agaynst them. Thus were they all slayne, and not one of them left.

Then they toke theyr substance for a praye and smote of Apchanoz heade and hys ryghte hande (whiche he held vp so proude) & brought it with them, and hangd it vpon a tree at Jerusalem. Therfore the people were exceedingly reioysed, and passed ouer that daye in grete gladnes. And Judas ordeined, that the same daye (name lyke the thirtieth daye of the moneth Adar)

The viij. Chapter.

Iudas heard also the fame of the Romanes, that they were mightie and valiaunt men, & agreeable to al thynges that were required of them, and make peace with al men, which come vnto them, and how they were doughtie men of strength. Besydes that, it was told hym of their battayles, and noble actes which they did in Galacia, how they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thynges they had done in Spayne: howe that with theire wisdom and sober behauiour they had wonne the mynes of siluer and golde that are there, and obtained all the land, with other places farre from them, howe they had discomfited and slaine downe the kynges that came vpon them, from the vntermost part of the earth, and howe other people gaue them tribute every yere. howe they had slayn and overcome Philip and Verles kynges of Cethim, and other mo (in battail) which had brought they: ordynauce agaynst them, howe they discomfited great Antiochus kyng of Asia: that would nedes fyght with the / Daung an, C. and. xx. elephantes, with horsmen, charrettes, and a very great host: howe they took hym selfe alse, & ordyned hym (with such as wuld raigne after him) to pay them a greate tribute. ¶ And, and to fynd them good succours & pledge besides all this, howe they had taken from him India, Media, and Libia (his best landes) and giuen them to kyng Eumenes. Agayne, howe they perceauynge that the Grekes were comynge to vere them: sent agaynst them a cappytaine of an host, whiche gaue them battayle slew many of them, led a way their wyues and children captiue, spoyled them, & took possession of they: lande. & destroyed they: strong holdes and subdued the to be their bondmen, vnto this daye. Moreover, howe that as for other kyngdomes and isles whiche sometyme withstoode them, they destroyed them, and brought them vnder they: domynyon. But helped euer their owne frendes, and those that were confederate with them, and conquered kyngdomes, bothe farre and nye, & that whosoener heard of they: renowne was afrayed of them: for whom they wold helpe to their kyngdomes, those raigned and whom it liked not them to raigne, they put him downe. And howe they were come to great preeminence: hauing no kyng among them, ne ther any man clothed in purple, to be magnified there though, but had ordeined them selues a parlamente, wher in there sat. iii. C. and. xx. senators dayly vpon the councel, to dispatch euer the busines of the people and to kepe good order. And howe that euery yere they chose a waye to haue a gouernauce of al their land to whom euery man was obedyente, and there was nether euil wil nor discencion among the. Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Jhon, the sonne of Jacob, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshipp and a bonde of loue with them that they myght take from them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes saw that the Grekes wold subdue the kyngdom of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very greate iourney) and came into the parlamente, and saied: Judas Machabeus with his brethren and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of frendship and peace with you, and ye to note vs as your louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romanes ryght well wherfore it was written vp of the wyche the Romanes made a writing in tables of brasse and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a memoiall of the same peace, & bonde of frendshipp after this maner. God saue the Romanes and the people of the Jewes booth, by sea and by land and kepe the sweorde and enemy from them for euermore. ¶ If ther come first any warre vpon the Romanes or any of their frendes throughout al their dominion, the people of the Jewes shall helpe them (as the tyme requyret) and that with all they: heartes. Al so they shall nether geue nor sende vnto they: enemies vitayles, weapons, mony, nor thynges: but fulfill they: charge at the Romanes pleasure, and take nothing from them therfore. Agayne if the people of the Jewes happen fyrt to haue warre the Romanes shal stand by the with a good wyll, accordyng as the tyme wyl suffer. Neither shall they geue vnto the Jewes enemies, vitayles, weapons, mony, nor thynges. Thus at the Romans contente to do, and shall fulfill they: charge without any disceate. Accordyng to these articles, the Romanes made the bonde with the Jewes. Howe after these articles, sayed they: if any of the parties wyl put to them, or take any thyng from them they shall do it with the consente of booth: and whatsoever they adde vnto them, or take from them, it shall stand fast. And as touchyng the euil that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wyspen vnto hym sayng: wherefore laiest thou thy heavy rocke vpon the Jewes our frendes and louers? If they make any complayne of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyght with the by sea and by lande.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ How the death of Eumenes Demetrius senteth his army agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathan is put in the stead of Iudas. The story becometh Jonathan and Machabeus. Alcimus is taken with the palsey, and dyeth. Machabeus crieth out agayne vnto the kynges, the commonnes vpon Jonathan by the counsell of Alcimus to put in personnes, and to ouersome. The tyme of Jonathan with Machabeus.

In the meane season when Demetrius heard that Alcimus and his host was slaine in the felde, he proceeded further to send Bacchides and Alcimus agayne into Iuday, and those that were in the ryght wyng of his host with hym. So they wente forth by the waye that leadeth vnto Galgala, and pitched they: tentes befoze Bethsaioth whiche is in Arbellis and wanne the cytee and slew muche people.

Now Judas had pitched his tent at Laiza, with iii. thousand chosen men. And when they sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so great, they were sore afraid, and many comited the selues out of the host. In so much that there abode no mo of the but. viii. C. men. When Judas sawe that his host failed him, & that he must needs fyght: it bzaie his hert, that he had no time to gather them together: wherefore the ma was in extreme trouble. Reuerthe les, he said vnto them: that remained with him. Up, let vs go against our enemies, peradventure we shalbe able to fyghte with them. But they woulde haue stopped him, sayng: we shall not be able, therfore let vs now save our liues & turne again to our brethren, and then wil we fyghte againste them, for we are here but fewe.

And Judas said: God forbid that we shuld fe from them. Wherefore, yf our time be come let vs die manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour. Then the host remoued out of the tentes, and stood agaynst them. The horsemen are deuided in two partes, the syngers casters and archers wente before the host and all the myghtie men were foremost in the feilde. Bachides himselfe was in the ryghte wyng of the battail, and the host drew nye in two partes, and blew the trompettes also. & the crye shoke at the nople of the hostes, & they stroke a feild from the moztowtill nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachides host was strongest of the rightside, he toke with him al the hardy men, & bzaie the right wyng of their order, and folowed vpon them vnto the mounte Zion.

Now when they beheld wer of the list wing sawe that the righte syde was dyscomfite they persecuted Judas and them that wer with him. Then was there a soze battail, for many were slain and wounded of both parties Judas also him self was killed, and the remnant fled. So Jonathan and Simd toke Judas their brother and buried him in his fathers sepulchre in the cite of Modin. And al the people of Israel made great lamentacion for him, and mourned long sayng: Alas that this worthy should be slayn which deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertaining to the battailles of Judas, the noble actes he did and of his worthynes: they ar not wrote for they were very many.

And after the death of Judas, wicked men came vpin all the coastes of Israel, & ther arose all suche as were vngodlines. In those dayes was there a great death in the land, and all the countre gaue ouer them selues and they vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wicked men, & made them lordes in the lande. These sought out and made searche for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachides: whyche abueged him selfe vpon them with greute dyspette. And there came so greute trouble in Israel, as was not lene yfime yf no pprophet was lene ther

Then came all Judas frendes together and saied vnto Jonathan: for so muche as thy brother Judas is dead, ther is none lyke hym to go forth against our enemies, against Bachides and suche as are aduersaries vnto our people. Wherefore, this day we chose the for hym, to be our pynce & captain to order our battayl. And Jonathan toke the gouernance vpon hym at the same tyme and ruled in stead of his brother Judas. When Bachides gat knowledge there of, he sought for to sle hym. But Jonathan and Simon his brother, perceiuyng that, fled into the wilderness of Betunia with all theyr companye, and pitched theyr tentes by the water poole of Asphar.

Which when Bachides vnderstod, he came ouer Iordane with all his host vpon the Sabboth day. Now had Jonathan sent his brother Jhon (a captain of the people) to pray his frendes the Nabuthites, that they woulde lend them their ordinaunce, for they had much. So Jchyl dyen of Jambay came out of Gadaba, & tooke Jhon and al that he had, and went their waye with al. Then came word vnto Jonathan and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambay made a great maryage, and brought the byrde from Gadaba with great pompe: for he was daughter to one of the noblest pynces of Canaan. Wherefore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother, and wet vpon, and hid theim selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So they lift vp their eyes, & looked, and beheld ther was much ado, and great repayce: for the bydgrome came forth, and his frendes and his brethren met them with tympanies, instrumentes of musyk, and many weapons. Then Jonathan and they that were with hym, rose out of theyr lurking places against them, and slewe many of them. As for the remnant, they fled into the mountaynes, & they toke al their substance. Thus the maryage was turned to mourning, & the nople of their melody into lamentacyon. And so when they had adueged the bloud of their brother, they turned agayne vnto Iordane.

Bachides hearing this, came vnto the very bozder of Iordane with a great power vpon the Sabboth day. And Jonathan sayd vnto his company, let vs get vpon, and fight agaynst our enemies: for it standeth not with vs to day as in tyme past: Beholde our enemies are in our waye the water of Iordane vpon the one side of vs, with banches, fennes and woodes of the other syde, so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto. Wherefore cry now vnto heauen, that ye maye be deliuered from the power of your enemies. So they stroke the battayl. And Jonathan stretched out his handes to smyte Bachides, but he fled backward. Then Jonathan & they that were with hym, leapt into Iordane & swimmied ouer Iordane vnto him & they were slain of Bachides side that daye a. C. men.

Therfore Bachides with his host turned agayne to Jerusalem, and buyle vp the castles and strong holdes that were in Jewye, Jericho, Emmaus, Berbozon, Bethell, Chamnata phara, and Topo, with high wailles, with po-tes and with lockes: and let men to kepe them, that they myght use theyr malice vpon Israel. He wailled vpon citty Bethsurath, Gazarah and the castell and prouoked theym with men and bytacles. He tooke also the chiefe mennes sonnes in the citty for pledges, and put them in the castell at Ierusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the .c. and liij. yere in the second moneth, Alcimus commaunded, that the walles of the inmost sanctuarie shoulde be destroyed, and the buildynges of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them, the thynges that he went about, were hindred, for he was synpten with a pally, and hys mouthe shut, so that he coulde nomore speake nor commaunde any of hys house: concernyng hys bu-synes. Thus died Alcimus in great mystry at the same time. And when Bathydes sawe that Alcimus was deade, he tournd agayne to the kyng, and so the layde was in rest two yeres.

Then all the vngodly men helde a counsell, say-yng: Beholde, Jonathan and hys companye are at ease, and dwelle without care. Wherefore let vs byyng Bathydes byther, and he shal take them all in one nyght.

So they wente and gaue Bathydes thys counsell which arose to come with agreat host of sent letters piously to hys adherentes, which were in Jewrye, to take Jonathan & those that were with hym: but they might not, for the other had gotten knowledge of theyr deuice. And Jonathan took .i. men of the countrey (whiche were the ryngleaders of them) and slewe them.
Then Jonathan and Symon with theyr company departed vnto the citty Bethbessen which lyeth in the wyldernes, and repayred the decay thereof, and made it stronge. When Bathydes knewe thys, he gathered all hys host, and sent word to them that were of Jewry. Then came he and layd siege to Bethbessen, and foughte a-gaynst it a longe season, and made instrumen-tes of warre. Nowe Jonathan left his brother Simon in the citty, & went forth hym selfe into the countrey, and came with a certayne nomber & slewe Obaras and hys brethren and the chyldren of Phaleron in theyr tentes: so that he be-ganne to be stronge, and to increase in power.

As for Simon and hys company, they went out of the citty, and byent vpon the instrumentes of warre, and foughte agaynst Bathydes, and discomfited hym. And Bathydes was sore vexed, because his counsell & traual was in vayne.
Wherefore he was wroth at the wyched men: & gaue hym counsell to come into theyr land, and slewe manye of them. Then purposed he with hys company to go awayne into hys owne coun-tre: whereof when Jonathan had knowledge he sente ambassadours vnto hym, for to make peace with him, and that he shoulde deliuer him hys prisoners agayne. To the whiche Bathy-des consented gladly, and did accordyng to his desyre: yee, and made an othe, that he shoulde neuer do hym harme all the dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto hym all the prisoners that he had taken out of the land of Iuda, and then turned and went hys way into hys owne lande, nether proceeded he anye further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Irael hadde nomore warre. And Jonathan dyed at Bethemas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodlye men oute of Irael.

The .x. Chapter.

Demetrius belongeth to hys petyr byth Jonathan, Alexander marcheth agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The fynishyng of Iudas and Alexander

In the .c. and lx. yere came Alexander the sonne of noble Antiochus Iudas. ca.
ii. iii. xii.
and tooke Bethsura, whose cite Judas receiued him, and ther he ragged. When Demetrius heard ther-of, he gathered an exceeding greete hoste and wente to the agaynst hym to fyghte. Wherefore Demetrius sente letters vnto Jonathan, with louyng wordes, and prayed hym greatly. For he said: we wyl fyght make peace with hym, before he bynde hym selfe with Alexander agaynst vs: elles he shal remember the euil that we haue done agaynst hym, hys brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, to make weapons, and to be esfederate with hym, & commaunded the pledges that were in the castell to be deliuered vnto him.

Then came Jonathan to Ierusalem, and red the letters in the audyence of al the people, and of them that were in the castell. And therefore were they sore astryed, because they heard that the kyng had geuen hym licence to gather an hoste. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathan, whiche restored them to their elders.
Jonathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, and began to buyld vp, and to repayre the citty: comman-dyng the worke men to wall it, and the mounte Syon rounde aboute wyped free stone, to bee a stronge holde, and so they dyd. As for the heathen that were in the castelles whiche Bathy-des had made vp, they fledde: so that euery man lette the place, and wente into hys owne coun-tre. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of the Jewes, whiche had forsaken the lawe and commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Nowe when kyng Alexander hearde of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan, and when it was tolde hym of the battles and noble actes, whiche he and his brethren had done, and of the great traualles that they had taken, he sayed: where shal we fynde suche a man? Alas, we wyl make him our frend and be confederate with hym. Upon thys he wrote a letter vnto hym, with these wordes: Kyng Alexander saluted hys brother Jona-thas. We haue heard of the, that thou art a valeunte man, and mete to be our frende: wherefore, this daye we ordayne the to be the bye pper of the people, and so he called the kynges frende. (Upon thys, he sente hym a purple clothyng, and a crowne of golde) that thou mayest consider what is for our profyte, and kepe frendshyppe toward vs.

The firste booke

So in the xiiij. moneth of the c. and lx. yere vnto the solempne feast day of the tabernacles Jonathas put his holy rayment vpon hym. The gathered he an host, & made many weapons.
Which when Demetrius heard, he was maruelous for, and sayde: Alas, what haue we done that Alexander hath pientened vs in getting the friendship of the Jewes for his owne defence.

Yet wyl I wyse lounge vnto them also, per, and promysse them dygnytees and rewar-des, that they may be of my lyde. Whereupon he wrote vnto them these wordes. King Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto y^e people of the Jewes.
Where as ye haue kept your couenaunt toward vs, and continued in our frendshipp, not enuynge to our enemyes, we were glad, when we hearde thereof. Wherefore, remaine still, and be faithful to vs: and we shal wel recompense you for the thinges that ye haue done on our party.
We shal release you of many charges, and geue you rewardes. And nowe I discharge you and all the Jewes from tributes: I forgeue you the customes of salte, and release you of the crowne taxes, of the third part of the sheke, and halfe of the frute of trees which is myne owne dwyng.

This I leaue for you frome this day forth, so that tithes shal not be taken of the land of Iuda, nor of the cities which are added therunto out of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth for evermore. Jerusalem also with all thynges belongynge thereto, shal be holpe and free, per, the riches and reibutes shal pertain vnto you. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem, I remyt and geue it vnto the priest that he may let in such men, as he shal chole to kepe it. I frely beleue all the Jewes that are prysoners throughout all my realme, so that euery one of them shal be free from payng any tye bu-te, per, euen of theyr cattell. All the solempne fea-stes, sabothes, new mones, the dayes apointed the iii. dayes before and after the feaste, shal be free for all the Jewes in my realme, so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thyng or to moue any busines agaynst any of them in any manner of cause. Ther shal. xxx. M. also of the Jewes be witten vp in the kynges booke, and haue their wages paid as al other me of warte of the kynges shoud haue, & of them shal be ordeined certein to kepe the kynges strong holdes per, and some of them shal be let ouer the higest busines, that they may saythfuller deale wth the same. The Jewes also shal haue priuies of their owne, & walk in thre owne lawes as the kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cities that are fallen vnto Jewry frome the countre of Samaria and Galilee, shal be take as Jewry, and be vnder one: neither be subiect to any strange Loyde, but to the hye priest. As for Ptolomais and the lande pertyning thereto, I geue it vnto the sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expences of the holpe thynges. Moreover, I wyl geue euery yere. xiiij.
M. sicles of syluer oute of the kynges cheker (which pertyneth vnto me) to the woorke of the temple: per, & loke what remaineth, which they that had our matters in hande in tymes past haue not payed, the same shal they ge-ue vnto them also. And besides all this, the syue thousande sicles which they took yerely of the rentes of the Sanctuary, shal belong vnto the priestes that do scruple.

Item whosoener they be that sit vnto the temple at Jerusalem or wythin the iherosolym therof, wher as they are fallen into the kynges daunger for any maner of busynes, they shal be pardoned, and all the goodes that they haue in my realme shal be free. For the buydynge also and repayrynge of the woorke of the Sanctuary, expences shal be geuen oute of the kynges chequer: Per, and for the makinge of the wal-les rounde aboute Jerusalem, for the breaking downe of the olde and for the setting vp of the stronge holdes in Jewrye, shal the colles and charges be geuen oute of the kynges cheker.

But when Jonathas and the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them neither receiued them: for they remembred the greate wickednes that he had done vnto Israell, and howe soe he had vexed them. Wherefore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a pryncer that had dealete frendshipp wth them, & so they stood by hym alwaye. Then gathered kinge Alexander a greates host, & brought hys armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges brooke battayle together, but Demetrius booke a dede, and Alexander folowed after, and fell vpon them. A myghtie foote feilde was it, contynuyng tyl the sunne went downe and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente Ambassadors vnto Ptolomy the kyng of Egypte with these wodes, sayng: For so muche as I am come agayn to my realme, and am sette in the thione of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynyon ouercommed Demetrius, conquered the lande and brechen feilde wth hym, so that we haue discomfited booth hym and hys host, and sye in the thione of his kyngdome: Let vs now make frendshipp together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe, so that I be thy sonne in lawe, and both geue the rewardes, and her greates dignite. Ptolomy the kyng gaue answer, sayng: Wapye be the daye wherein thou art come agayn vnto the lande of thy progenytours, and sit in the thione of thy kyngdom. As nowe wyl I ful-fyll thy wyppynge: but mete me at Ptolomais that we maye se one another, and that I maye marry my daughter vnto the: accordyng to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt with hys daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais in the hundred. lxiiij. yere, wher kyng Alexander mette hym, and he gaue Alexander hys daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolomais wth great worshippe, lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he shoud be come and mete hym. So he wente honozablye vnto Ptolomais, and there he met the two kynges, and gaue them greates presentes of golde and syluer, and founde fauour in theyr sydes. And ther

there came together agaynst Jonathan certain wycked men and vngreuous personnes of Israell, making complayntes of him, but the kynge regarded them not. As for Jonathan, the kynge commaunded to take of hys garments, and to clothe hym in purple, and so thei dyd. Then the kynge appoynted hym to syt by hym, and sayd vnto his pynces: Go with hym into the myd-dest of the cyter, and make a proclamation, that no man complain agaynst him of any matter that no man trouble him for any manner of cause.

So it happened, that whē his accusers sawe the woorthyppe whiche was proclaimed of him and that he was clothed in purple, they fled enryschon. And the kynge made much of hym, wrot hym amonge hys cheefe frendes, made hym a duke, and partaker of hys domynyon. Thus Jonathan wente agayne to Jerusalem with peace and gladnes. In the hundred thre score y fyue yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demotrius from Certe into his fathers lande: wher-of when Alexander heard tell, he was ryght sorry, and returned vnto Antioch. And Demetrius chose Appolionius, (whiche had the gouer-nauce of Celociria) to be hys capytayne.

So he gathered a grete host, and came vnto Jamnia, and sent word vnto Jonathan the bye priest, sayng: Darest thou withstande vs thy selfe alone? As for me I am but laughed to scorne and shamed, because thou proudest thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaynes. Now thereto ye thou trustest in thyn owne strengthe, come downe to vs into the playne felde, and there let vs proue oure strength together thou walte synde that I haue valeaunt meane of warre with me, and shal knowe whom I am, and the other that stande by me.

Whiche saye: that yowre foote is not able to stande before our face, for thy fathers haue ben thys chaced into theyr owne lande. And now howe wyll thou be able to abyde so greute an host of hofemen? I totemen in the felde where as is netter roche, stone, nay place to fye vnto.

When Jonathan hearde the wordes of Ap-pollonius, he was moued in his mynde: wherfore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Symon his brother met hym to to helpe hym. And they pitched theyr tentes at Joppa, but the citee kepte hym forth, for Joppa was an hold of Appollonius then Jonathan laid siegeto it, and thei that were in the citee, for very feare let hym in, and so Jonathan wan Joppa. Appollonius hearing of thys, toke iii thousand hofemen, with a grete host of foote and wente as though he would go to Jotus and came immediatly into the playne felde: because he had so manye hofemen, and putte his trust in them. So Jonathan soloed vpon hym to Jotus, and there they stroke the battaile.
Nowe had Appollonius left a thousand hofemen behynde them piewe in the tentes. And when Jonathan knewe that suche wayte was laid behynde them they wente rounde aboute the enemyes host, and shot darters as the people frome the moynyng to the euenyng. As for Jonathan people, they kepte theyr order as he had commaunded them, and the enemyes hostes were euer labouryng. Then brought Symon forth hys host, and let them agaynst the foote men, for the hofemen were very al redy. So he discomfited them, and they fledde. And they that were scattered in the felde, gat them to Jo-tous, and came into the temple of Wagon their ydol, that they might ther save their liues. But Jonathan let fyre vpon Jotus and all the cy-tees rounde aboute it, and tooke theyr goodes and viente vpon the temple of Wagon, with all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and viente twelue myghe thousand men. So Jonathan remoued the host frome thence, and broughte them to Acolon: where the men of the cytee came forth, and met hym with grete woorthyppe. After thys went Jonathan and his host agayne to Jerusalem, with grete substaunce of good. And when king Alexander hearde these thynges, he thought to do Jonathan more woorthyppe and sente hym a colar of golde, as the vse is to bee gruen vnto such as are of the kynges nexte blood. He gaue hym also the cytee of Accaron (with the landes belongyng thereto) in posselion.

Chapter.

The despayre betwixt Demetrius and Alexander his sonne in lawe. The death of Alexander. Demetrius reigneth after the death of Antiochus. Upon is besieged of Jonathan. Demetrius hying that noman resisteth hym, sendeth hys army agayne. And upon marcheth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is besieged by the iouen of Jonathan. After hys despayre he hardlyt hys countenance that he had made.

And the kynge of Egypte gathered his hoste (lyke the lande that lyeth vpon the sea coaste) and many wyppes and went about through byccept to obtayn the kyngdom of Alexander, & to loyne it vnto hys owne realme. Upon thys he tooke his iourney into Siria, and was let into the cytees, and men came forth to meete hym: for king Alexander had commaunded the so to do, because he was his father in law. Now when Ptolomee entred into anye citee, he leste mit of warre to kepe it, and this dyd he thyngh out all the citees. And when he came to Jotus they shewed hym the temple of Wagon and Jotus that was vrent vp, with the other thin-ges whiche were destroyed, the deade bodies cast abrood, and the graues that they had made by the waie syde, for such as were slaine in the felde. And tolde the kynge that Jonathan had done all these thynges, to the intent they myght get hym euell wyll. But the kynge sayde not a word thereto. And Jonathan mette the kynge with grete honoure at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke theyr rest. So whē Jonathan had gone with the kynge vnto the water that was called Eleutherns he turned a-gayne to Jerusalem.

Nowe Ptolomee had gotten the domynyon of the citees vnto Cilicia vpon the sea coaste, ymagynyng wycked counceils agaynst Alexander, and sent ambassadours vnto Demetrius, sayng: Come let vs make a bond betwixt vs hdd.iii. so

so that I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome. I repent that I geue Alexander my daughter, for he goeth about to slay me. And thus he flattered Alexander, because he would haue had his realme.

Thus he toke his daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsook Alexander, so that his malice was openly knowne. And Ptolomy came to Antioch, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head: the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kyng Alexander in Sicilia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander heard of this, he came to warre agaynst hym. So kyng Ptolomy brought forth his host and met hym with a myghtie power and chased hym awaye. The selfe Alexander in to Treby, ther to be defended, and kyng Ptolomyes honour increased. And Jabbell the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kyng Ptolomy hym selfe: and they whome he had let in the strong holdes, were slayne of those that were within the cyties. And Demetrius reigned in the hundred and seuen & sixtie yere.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathan them that were in Jewry, to lay siege vnto the castel which was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then went there certayne vngodly persons (whych hated theyr owne people) vnto kyng Demetrius: & told hym that Jonathan belleged the castel. So wher he heard it, he was angry, and immediately came vnto Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathan, that he shoulde lay no siege to the castel but come and speake with hym in all the haste. Scarcely lesse when Jonathan heard this, he commaunded to belege it. He chose also certein of the elders and priestes of Israel, and put him selfe in the parill, and toke with hym gold & silver, clothyng, & diuerse prestes, & went to Ptolomais vnto the king, and found him gracious. And though certayne vngodly men of his owne people made complayntes vpon hym, yet the kyng entreated hym as his predecessor had done before: and promoted hym in the syght of all his frendes: confirmed him in the hys prest hood with all the worship that he had afore, and made hym his chiefe friend. Jonathan also desired the kyng, that he would make Jewry free with the thre head cities of Samaria and the landes pertainyng thereto: vpon this dyd Jonathan promysse hym. iii. C. talents. Whereunto the kyng consented, and gaue Jonathan writing of the same, containing these wordes: Kyng Demetrius sendeth greating vnto his brother Jonathan and to the people of the Jewes. We send you here a copie of the letter which we did write vnto our elder Lathemus, concerning you, that ye shoulde knowe it.

Demetrius sendeth greting vnto Lathemus his elder. For the sakefulness that our frendes the people of the Jewes bepe vnto vs, and for the louyng kindnes which they beare to warden vs: we are determined to do them good. Wherefore, we ordeyne at the coastes of Jewry with iii. cities, Libda, and Ramatha, (whych are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and all the landes pertainyng therunto, to be freely separated for such as do lacyfyce in Jerusalem: both concerning the paymentes which the king toke yereley of Jewry, and the frutes also of the earth and trees. As for other cyties and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them therof from this tyme forth. In like maner we graunt vnto them all the customes of sale and croune to ges, whych were broughte vnto vs. And this freedom that they haue firme and sted fast, from this tyme forth for euermore. Therefore let that ye make a copie of these our letters and deliuer it vnto Jonathan: that it maye be kept vpon a holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this when Demetrius the kyng sawe that his lande was in reaste, and that no resistance was made hym: he sent awaye all his host, euery man to his owne place, excepte an army of straungers, whom he broughte frome the illes of the heathen, wherfore all his fathers host had euell wyll at hym. * Howe was ther one Tryphon (that had ben of Alexanders part afore) whych when he sawe that all the host murmured agaynst Demetrius he wente to Emacluel the Arabian (that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and layd forth vpon hym, to deliuer hym this young Antiochus: & he myghte regne in his fathers stead. He told hym also, what greates euell Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre loued him not and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathan sent vnto kyng Demetrius to hyne them out whych were in the castell at Jerusalem, and in other refuges for they dyd Israel great harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathan, sayng: I wyll not onely dooe these thynges for the and the people, but at tyme conuenient I wyll do boeth the and the people great worship. But now thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wilt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne army is gone frome. So Jonathan sent hym. iii. C. stronge men vnto Antioch: and thei came vnto the kyng: wherfore the kyng was verie glad at theyr commyng. But thei that wer of the cyties (euen an. C. and xx. M. M.) gathered them togerther: and would haue slayne the kyng, whych fledde into his court, and the citizens kepte the freies of the cytye, and beganne to fyghe.

Then the kyng called for the Jewes helpe, which came to him altogether, and wet abode through the cytye, & slew the same day an. C. M. men: for they vpon the cytye, gat many spoyles in that day, & deliuered the king. So when the cytyens sawe that the Jewes had gotten theyr wyll of the cytye, & that the felous disposited of theyr purpose, thei made their supplication vnto the kyng, sayng: Grant vs peace, & let the Jewes cease from troubling vs & the cytye, & vpon this thei call a way their weapons. Thus thei made peace, and the Jewes gat great worshyp in the syght lyght of the kyng, and in the lyght of al were in hys realme, and were spoken of throughout the kyngdome, and so they came agayne to Jerusalem wyth grete goodes.

So the kyng Demetrius sat in the thron of hys kyngdom, and had peace in hys lande. Nevertheless, he dissembled in al that euer he spak and wyth hys wyfe hys selfe frome Jonathan, neither rewarded hym accordyng to the benefytes whiche he had done for hym, but troubled him verie soye. After this came Triphon agayne wyth younge Antiochus, whiche reigned and was crowned kyng. Then they gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whome Demetrius had putte awaye: these fought against Demetrius whiche fledde and turned hys backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes, and wanne Antioche. And younge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, sayng: I conserue the in thy priesthod and make the ruler of four countreies, that thou mayest be a frende of the kynges.

Upon this he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue hym leaue to drynke in gold to be clothed in purple, and to weare a colar of golde. He made hys brother Symon also capytayne, frome the coastes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathan toke his iourney, and wente through the cities beyonde the water of Jordan, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to help him. So he came vnto Hscalon, and they of the cite receiued hym honourably, and from thence went he vnto Gaza, but they would not let hym in: wherfore he layd siege vnto it, burnyng vp and spoilyng the places that were aboute the cite.

And the cityzens of Gaza submytted thein selues vnto Jonathan, which made peace with them, but tooke of their sonnes to pledge, sente them to Jerusalem, and went through the coltre vnto Damascus. Nowe when Jonathan hearde that Demetrius pynnes were come in to Cades (whiche is in Galilee) wyth a great host, purposyng to put Demetrius oute from medlyn in the realme, he came agaynst them, and lefte Symon his brother in the land which came to Bethsura, and layd siege to it a long season, and dyscomfyted them. So they desired to haue peace wyth hym, whiche he graunted them, and afterwarde putte them oute frome thence, toke the cite and set men to hepe it. And Jonathan wyth hys hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betymes in the moynynge gat them to the playne felde of Azot.

And beholde the hostes of the heathen met them in the felde, and layd watche for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathan came agaynst them, the other (whiche were layd to watch) rose out of theyr places and fought and they that were of Jonathan syde, fledde euery man, and there was not one of them left except Mathathias the sonne of Absolomus and Judas the sonne of Calphyr the capytayne of the host. Then Jonathan rente hys clothes, layd earth vpon his heade: made hys prayer and turned agayne to theym in the felde, where they fought together, and put them to flight. Now when hys owne men, that were fledde, sawe this they turned agayne vnto hym and helped hym to folowe vpon all theyr enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same daye thre thousande men, and Jonathan turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The xii. Chapter.

Jonathan sendeth ambassadours to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renewe theyr couenaunt of frendshipp. Jonathan prayeth to fight the populus of Demetrius. Triphon taketh Jonathan by surprise.

Jonathan saynge that the tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sente them vnto Rome for to stablish and to renewe the frendshyppe wyth them. He sente letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counsaile, and sayde Jonathan the hye priest and the people of the Jewes sente vs vnto you, for to renewe the olde frendshyppe and bonde of loue. Upon this the Romaynes gaue them free passpotes, that men should lede them home into the lande of Iuda peaciably. And this is the copy of the letters which Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathan the hye priest with the elders, priests and the other people of the Jewes, send gretyng vnto the Spartians their bretheren. These were letters sent long ago vnto Dmiast the hye priest, from Arius, which than reigned among you, that ye are oure bretheren, as the writinge made thereupon spekyfeth. And Dmiast entreated the ambassadour that was sente, honourably, and receyued the letters: wherein ther was mencyon made of the bonde of loue and frendshyppe. But as for vs, we nede no suche writinges: for why? we haue the holy bookes of scrip- ture in our handes to our comfort. Nevertheless we had rather send vnto you, for the renewyng of the brotherhode and frendshyppe: lest we shoulde be straunge vnto you: for it is long sence the tyme that ye sent wordes vnto vs. Wherfore, in sacrifices that we offer and other ceremonies vpon the hye solempne dayes and other, we alway remember you without fealinge (like as reason is, & as it becometh vs to thinke vpon our bretheren) yet, & are right glad of your spousal- rous honour. And though we haue had greete troubles and warres, so that the kynges about vs haue fought agaynst vs: yet would we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of our louers & frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are deliuered, and our enemyes subdued. Wherfore we chose Samus the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renewe the olde bonde of frendshyppe and loue wyth them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, concernyng the renewa- cyon of our brotherhode. And now ye shall do righte well to geue vs an answer therunto.

tyng vnto Darius the hye p[er]f[ect]. It is found in wyrtynge, that the Medians and Ieremes are brethren. And come out of the generation of Abrahams. And now so much as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do well, to wyte vnto vs of your prosperitie. As for vs, we haue wyrtten our mynd vnto you. Our care is good des are yours, and yours ours. These thinges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

Whē Jonathan heard, that Demetrius p[ri]nce was come forth to fyght agaynst him, with a greater host then afoze, he went from Ierusalem, and met them in the land of hemath, for he gaue them not space to come into hys owne countrey. And he sente spyes vnto thes tentes which came agayn and told hym, that thei wer apoynted to come vpon hym in the nyght season. Wherfoze, whē the sunne was gone downe Jonathan commaunded his men to watche all the nyght, and to be readye wth weapons for to fyght and sent watchmen round aboute the hostes. But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battayle, they feared, and wer afrayed in their bettes, and kindled fyres in their tentes, brake vp and gat them awaye. Neuerthelesse, Jonathan and hys compaigne knewe it not tyll the morning, for they sawe the fyres burning.

Then Jonathan solowed vpon theim, but he might not ouertake them, for thei wer gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathan departed vnto the Arabians (whiche wer called zababei) he tōke theim, and tooke thei goodes. He p[ro]ceeded further also, & came vnto Damascus, and went throughe al the countrey. But Symon hys brother toke hys iourne and came to Ascalon and to the nexte strong holdes, departing vnto Joppa: and dwanne it. For he harde that thei woulde stande of Demetrius parte, wherfoze he set inne of water in the cytee, to kepe it. After this came Jonathan home again and called the elders of the people together and deuyled wth them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Jewry, and the walles of Ierusalem to set vp an hye wall betwixte the castell and the citee, for to separte it frome the cytee, that it myght be alone and that men shoulde netheir by noz sell in it. Upon this they came together for to buyld vp the cytee, and for so muche as the wal vpon the broke of the west syde, called Capbetath was fallen downe, thei repayred it. And Symon set vp Abiadah in Sephelah and made it strong setting postes and lockes vpon it. Some when* Tryphon purposed to regne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slay the hyng Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathan would not suffer hym, but fyght agaynst hym. Wherfoze, he wente aboute to take Jonathan and to hyl him. So he departed, and came vnto Bethsan. Then went Jonathan forth agaynst hym: to the battayle with xi. M. cholen men, & came vnto Bethsan also. But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came wth so great host to destroy hym, he was afrayed: and therfoze he receued hym honourably, commended him vnto al hys frendes, and gaue him rewarde, and commaunded hys men of warre to be as obedyente vnto hym as to hym selfe. And sayd vnto Jonathan: why haste thou caused this people to take such trouble, seying there is no warre betwixt vs? Therfoze send them home agayne, and chole certayne men to waite vpon the, and come thou wth me to Ptolomais: for I wyl geue it the, wth the other strong holdes, men of warre and their offcers. As for me I must depart, this is only the cause of my coming. Jonathan beleued hym, and byd as he sayd, putting a waye hys hostes, whiche wente into the lande of Iuda. He kepte but the thousande by hym, wherof he sent two thousand into Galyle, and one thousande wente wth hym selfe.

Some as sone as Jonathan entered into Ptolomais, the cytyens spared the gates of the cytee, and toke hym, & slewe al them wth the sword, that came in wth hym. The sent Tryphon an host of footemen and hozsmen into Galylee and into the great playne, to destroy Jonathan company. But whē they knew that Jonathan was taken, and al they sayne that waityd vpon hym, they toke counsaile together, & came forth reb to the battayl. So when thei which solowed vpon theim, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned backe agayn. As for the other they went into the land of Iuda peaciably and be wayled Jonathan, and them that were with him right soze. And Israel made great lamentacion. Then al the heathen that wer rounde about them sought to destroye theim. For they sayde: now we haue they no captayne, noz anye man to helpe them. Therfoze, let vs ouercome them, and rote out their name from among me.

After Jonathan was taken Symon to chole captayne of iudee. Tryphon taking hys chylde and monye for the redemption of Jonathan hylde hym and hys chylde. He gaue of Iona that. Tryphon hylde Antiochus, and possibled the realm. He marriede ladye truce wth Symon. Symon winneth war, he possibled the towne of Asen, he marriede his sonne Iohn captayne ¶ When Symon heard that Tryphon gathered a great host to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it: and sawe that the people was in greete fearfulness and care: he came vp to Ierusalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacion sayng: Ye know what greete battayles I and my brethren and my fathers house haue foughte for the lawe and the Sanctuarye, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: throughe occasion wherof, *all my brethren are slayne for Israels sake, and I am lefte alone. And now let me not spare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren: but wyl aduenge my people and the Sanctuarye, oure chyliden and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

At thes wordes the heartes of the people were kindled together, so they cryed wth a loud voyce, sayng: Thou shalt be our captayne in steade of Iudas and Jonathan thy brethren oþþe thou oure battayle, and whatſouer thou commaundeſt vs, we ſhall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, making haſt to ſiue all the walles of Jeruſalem, whiche he made ſtronge rounde aboute. Then ſent he Jonathas the ſonne of Abſalomes wyth a freſhe hoſte vnto Joppa, whiche ſhoulde them oute that were in the caſtell, and remayned there hym ſelfe. Tryphon alſo remoued fro Ptolomais with a great armie, to come into the lande of Iuda, and Jonathas wyth hym in warde. And Symon pitched his tentes at Addus befoze the playne ſeld.

But when Tryphon knewe that Symon ſtoode vpon ſtrade of hys brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynſte hym, he ſent meſſengers vnto hym ſayinge: Withre as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother, it is for money þ he is ſwying in the kynges accompt concerning the buſynes that he had in hande. Wherefoze, ſende nowe an hundred talentes of ſyluer, and his two ſonnes for ſuretye, that when he is letten foſthe, he ſhall not foſake vs, and we ſhall ſende hym againe. Neuertheleſſe, Symon knewe that he diſſembled in his wordes, yet commaunded he the money and chyldren to be deliuered vnto hym, leſt he ſhoulde be the greater enemye agaynſte the people of Iſrael, and ſap: becauſe he ſent hym not the money & the chyldren, therfoze is Jonathas dead.

C So Symon ſente hym the chyldren and an hundred talentes, but he diſſembled, and wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterward came Tryphon into the lande to deſtroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeþ vnto Adoꝝ. But where ſouer they went, ether they went Symon and hys hoſte alſo. Nowe they that were in the caſtell ſente meſſengers vnto Tryphon, that he ſhoulde make haſte to come by ſwyldeſſes, and to ſende them bytailes. And Tryphon made redye all hys hoſtmen to come the ſame nyght. Neuertheleſſe it was a very great ſnow ſo that he came not in Galadit. And whē he dyewenye Baſcharmo, he ſlewe Jonathas and his ſonnes there, & then turned foꝝ to goo home into his owne lande.

Then ſent Symon to ſet his brothers dead corſe, and buryed it in Modin his fathers cytie. So all Iſrael bewayled hym with greaſe lamentacyd, and mourned foꝝ hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the ſepulchre of his father and his brethren, a buyldyng hie to looke vnto, of fre ſtone beynd and befoze, and ſet vpon ſeuē pylles, one agaynſt another (foꝝ hys father, hys mother, & foure brethren) & ſet greaſe pylles rounde aboute wyth armes vpon them foꝝ a perpetuall memoꝝye, and carued wyppes beyde the armes that they myght be ſene of meſſaging in ſ ſee. This ſepulchre which he made at Modin, ſtandeth yet vnto this day.

D Nowe as Tryphon went foꝝth to walke with the pong kyng Antiochus, he ſlewe hym trayterouſly, and caryed in hys ſtrade, crowned hym ſelfe kyng of Aſia, and dyd much euil in the lande. Symon alſo buylde vpon the caſtells in Jewrye, making them ſtronge wyth hie to ers, great walles, portes, and lockes and layde vpon bytailes in the ſtronge holdes. And Symon choſe certayne men, and ſent them to kyng Demetrius, to deſyre hym, that he wold diſcharge the lande from all bondage, foꝝ Tryphon had ſpoiled it very ſaie. Whereupon Demetrius ſkyng answered hym, and woꝝte vnto hym after ſpysmaner.

Demetrius the kyng ſende th gretyng vnto Symon the hie preake his frende, wyth the elders & people of the Jewes. The golde crowne and precious ſtone that ye ſente vnto vs, haue we receyued, and are ready to make a ſtedfaſte peace wyth you: yet, and lo wyte vnto our ofſpycers, foꝝ to releaſe you, concerning the thynges wherein we made you ſee, and the appointment þ we make wyth you, ſhalbe ſpyme & ſtable. The ſtronge holdes which ye haue buylde ſhalbe poure owne. As foꝝ aune ouer ſyghte oꝝ ſaute commytted vnto this daye, we foꝝgeue it and the crowne ſare that ye ought vs alſo. And where as was any other trybute in Jeruſalem it ſhalbe nowe no trybute: & loke who are mette among you to be in our court, let them be wyſten vpon, that there maye be peace betwyte vs.

Thus the poke of the deathen was taken frome Iſrael in the hundredth and ſeuenteenth yeare. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in theyꝝ letters and actes on this maner. * In the ſyſte pte of Symon the hie preake, 1. mac. xlii. and pynce of the Jewes.

In thoſe dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza and beſeeged it rounde aboute, where he ſet vpon oꝝdynaunce of war. And wanne a towꝝe, which he toke. So they gat into the towꝝe, leape into ſ cytie, which was in a great feare: In ſo much that the people of the cytie rente theyꝝ clothes, and clymed vpon vpon the walles with theyꝝ wyues, and chyldren, beſechyng Symon to be at one with them, ſaying.

O rewarde vs not after oure wyckedneſſe but be gracious vnto vs, and we ſhal do the ſeruyce. Then Symon foꝝ very pitye wolde ſyghte nomoꝝe agaynſt them, but put them oute of the cytie, and cauſed the houſes (wherin ſymages were) to be clenſed, and ſo entred the cytie with ſalmes of pꝝayſe, geuyng thanks vnto the Loꝝde. So when he had caſt all abhominacyes oute of the cytie, he ſet ſuche men in it as kept ſ lawe of God and made the cytie ſtronge & buylde a dwellyng place foꝝ hym ſelfe.

Nowe, when they in the caſtel at Jeruſalem were kepte ſo ſtꝝyely, & they coulde not come foꝝthe into the countre, and myght nether hie noꝝ ſell, they were very hungrye, and many of them ſampted to death. In ſo muche that they beſought Symon to be at one with them, which he graunted them. So he put them oute from thence, and clenſed the caſtell from ſylthynneſſe. And vpon the thye and thientye daye of the ſeconde moneth in the Cxxi. yere they entred in to it wyth thankſgeuyng and bꝝanches of Palme trees, with harpes, Croudes, Symbales, and lutes, ſyngyng ſalmes and ſonges of pꝝayſe vnto God, foꝝ that the greaſe enemye of Israel was overcome.

And Symon obeyed that the same daye shulde be kepte every yere in gladnesse, & made strong the pyl of the Temple that was besyde the caltell, where he dwelte hym selfe with hys companye. Symon also perceiuyng that John hys sonne was a myghty man of armes made hym Captayn of all the hostes, and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The Fifth Chapter.

Demetrius is overthrown at Iliace. Syrian being captured, Syria is given up to the Romans. The courtship of Perseus with the Romans, & with the people of Sparta is treated.

In the. Cxxii. yere gathered kynge Demetrius hys hoste, and departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fghte agaynst Tryphon. Nowe when Trisaces the kynge of Persia hearde, that Demetrius was entred in his borders he sent one of his princes to take hym alyne: and to bryng hym vnto hym. So he went & slew: Demetrius hoste, toke hym selfe hroughte hym to Trisaces whiche kept hym inward. And all the lande of Iuda was in rest so longe as Symon luyed, for he foughte & sleigh of hys people, therfore, were they glad to haue him for their ruler, & to do him worship alway.

25 Symon wanne the cite of Joppa also for an haven toun, and made it an entraunce into the pilles of the see. he enlarged the borders of hys people, and conquered them moze land. he gathered vp many of theyr people & were prisoners: he had & dominyon of Gaza, Bethlura and the castell, which he clensed from synners and there was noman that respyted hym. So & euery man tyled hys ground in peace, the land of Juda, and the trees gaue theyr frute and encreace. The elders sat all in iudgement & toke theyr deuyce for the welch of the lande, & yonge men put on woollshyp & harnelle vpon them. he prouyded bytayles for the cyties, & made good lyr stronge holden of them, to & the same of hys woollshyppe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. * For he made peace thorowoute the lande, & Iiraell was full of myrth and loye.

Curp man sat vnder hys dyne and fygge trees, and ther was noman to fray them away There was none in the lande to fyght agaynst them, so then the hynges were overcome. he helpt thole þe wter in aduersyte among his people. he was diligente to se the lawe kept, as for such as wer vngodly & wyched he tooke them away. he set vp the Sanctuarie, and increased the holie vessels of the Temple.

¶ When the Romayne & the Spanyens had gotten Maize, & Jonathan was dead they were ryght loyfe. But when they hearde & Symon his brother was made hye preest in his frende & howe he had wonne the lande agayne with the cyttyn in it: they wrote vnto hym in tables of brasse, to renue the frendshipp, & bonde of loue which they had made afore with Iudas & Jonathan his brethren. Whiche wytynges were red before the congregacyon at Ierusalem.

And this is the copy of the letters that the Sparyans sent. The Senators & cytyens of Sparta sende greetynge vnto Simon the great preeste, wyth the elders, preastes, & the other people of þe Jewes theys brethren. When your ambassadours that were sente vnto our people certified vs of youre dootypppe, honour & p[ro]f persons welth, we were glad of theys commynge and haue wytten the errand to which they spake before the causall of þe people, namely þe Rume nus & some of Antiochus, & Antipater & sonne of Jalon the Jewes ambassadours are come vnto vs, so; to renewe the olde frendshyppe wyth vs. Upon this the people consented, & the men shulde be honourably intreated, & that the copy of theys errande shulde be wytten in þe special booke of the people, so; a perpetual memoire vnto the Sparyans: yee, & that we shuld send a copy of the same vnto Symon the great preest. After this dyd Symon sende Rumenius vnto Rome, wth a golden wynde of a thousand pound weyght, to confyrme the frendshyp wth them: which when þe Romans vnderstode, they sayde what thanches shall we recompence agayn vnto Symon and his chyldren? For he hath sablyshed his brethren, & overcome the enemyes of Israel. Wherfoze they graunted hym to bee free. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of brasse, & nailed it vnto þe pylers vpon þe mount Syon. The copy of the wytyng is this.

The cypher is twentye dayes of the moneth of April in the hundred. lxxii. yeres, in the thyrtye yeare of Symon the hie Prieste, in the greate congregation of the priestes, rulers of y^e people and elders of y^e countie at Asarame, wer these wordes openly declared.

For so much as there was much water in oure land, therefore Symon & sonne of Matha-thias (come of schyldzen of Jacob) and his brethren put them selues in pael, & resisted & ene-myed of theyr people: & theyr sanctuarye and law might be mayntayned, & dyd theyr people greate worshippe: Jonathan in like maner, after & he had gouerned his people & ben thei-re head: dyed, & lyeth buried beynde hyr elders.

After þat woude theþ; enemyes haue troden theþ; holy thynges vnder foote, destroyed their lande, & utterly wasted their Sanctuary: The Symon with his oode them, & fought for his people, spent muche of his owne monye, weapened the valeaunt men of his people, gaue them wages, made strong the cities of Iuda, with Beth-sura þat lyeth vpon the borders of Jewry (wher the odyphnauce of theþ; enemies laye sometime) and set the Jewes there for to hepe it.

he made last Ioyppa also, which lyeth vpon f ser, & Gaza & bordereth vpon Egyptus, (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he let Jewes to kepe it: & whatsoeuer was mete for subduyng of the aduersaryes, & layd he therein. Now wile the people saw the noble actes of Symon, and what worthyp he was purposed to do for them his godly behauiour, & faithfullnesse which he kept vnto them, & howe he sought by alwayes the welth of hys people, because he dyd all thyng therfore they chose hym to be theyr prince, & hys priest

pleast. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym, so that the deathen were taken out of theyr land: & they also which were in the cite of David at Jerusalem in the castle where they went out and defyled all thynges that were about the Sanctuary, and byd great harme vnto cleynesse) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cite, and set up the walles of Jerusalem.

¶ So all the people consented to allowe him, and to do accordyng vnto these wordes: Symon also hym selfe toke vpon hym, & was contente to her the hye pleaste, the captayne, and wyner of the Jewes and pleastes, & to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this wypryng in tables of brasse, and fasten it to the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place, & laye vpon a cove of the same in the treasure, that Symon and his posterite myght haue it.

¶ Antiochus maketh a covenant of friendship with Simon & his sonne. ¶ The Romans send letters vnto Symon and his sonne in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusing the help that Symon first hym, becometh his enemy.

¶ Moreouer kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters from the Isles of the sea, vnto Symon & hye pleaste and wyner of the Jewes, and to all the people, containyng these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth greetynge vnto Symon the hye pleaste, and to the people of the Jewes. For so much as certain wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of our progenytours: I am purposed to chalenge the realme again, and to restore it to the olde estate.

¶ Wherfore I haue gathered a greete hoste and made shippes of warre, that I may go the rowe the country, & be aduenged of them which haue destroyed oure lande, & wasted many cities in my realme. And therfore, now I make the free also from all the trybutes, wherof all kynges my progenytours haue discharged the and from other customes, wherfrom they haue released the: what so euer they be: yet, I geue leave to synke many of thine owne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem, I wyl that it be holy and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence, which thou hast buylded, and kepte in thine handes, shalbe thine. Wher as any thing is of shalbe owng vnto the kynge. I forgeue it the, from this tyme forth for evermore. And when we haue obtayned oure kyngdome, we shal do the, thy people, & the temple greete worship so that your honoure shalbe knowne thorowoute the whole world.

¶ In the Cxxxiiij. yere wente Antiochus into hys fathers lande, and all men of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe were left with Tryphon. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon him, but he fled vnto Doza, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was mischance comyng vnto hym, and that his hoste had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza with an. C. & twente thousande men of armes vpon foote, & eight thousande horsemen. So he compassed the cite rounde aboute, and the shippes came by the see. Thus they vered the cite by lande and water, in so muche that they lasse red noman to go in or oute.

¶ In the meane season came Eumenius, and they that had bene with hym from the cite of Rome, hauing letters wyrtten vnto the kynge and prouinces, wherem were containyd these wordes: Lucius the Maye of Rome sendeth greetynge vnto Diodotus the kynge. The ambassadours of the Jewes oure frendes bring sent from Symon the hye pleaste, and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to renewe the olde frendshipp and bonde of loue, brought a shylde of golde weyng a thousande pounde, whiche we were contente to receyue of them. Wherfore we thoughte it good to wyte vnto the kynge and prouinces, to do them no harme nor to take parte agaynst theim, theyr cities, nor countreyes, neyther to mayntayne theyr enemyes agaynst them. If there be any wycked persones therfore fled from theyr countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Symon & hye pleaste that he maye punishe them accordyng to theyr owne lawe.

¶ The same wordes wrote the Romans also vnto Demetrius the kynge, so Attalus, Araba, Arsaces, and to all the regyons, as Haman, to them of Sparta, Dela, Gido, Gidon, Caria, Camos, Pamphilia, Licia, Alicarnassu and to the Rhodes, so Kaselia, Coa, Mida, Arado, Soztina, Gnida, to Cipres, & Ciren. And of euery letter they sente a cove to Symon the hye pleaste and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge broughte hys hoste vnto Doza the second tyme to take it: where he made dyuers ordynance of warre, and kepte Tryphon in, that he shoulde not come forth. Then sent Symon to Antiochus two thousande cholsen men to helpe hym with golde, spuer, and other pleyntous geer: neuertheless, he wolde not receiue them, but bryake all the covenant which he made with him afore, & wherewith he had bounde hymselfe to hym.

He sente Athenobius also a frende of his unto Symon, for to reason with hym, saying: We wythholde from me Joppa and Gaza, with the castell that is at Jerusalem: whiche are cyties of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed and done greute cruel in the lande, hauinge the dominacyon in many other places of my kyng dome. Wherfore nowe deliuer ye cyties whiche ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon without the borders of Jewry. Or els geue me true hundred talentes offyluer: yee, & for the harme that ye haue done in the cyties, and for the tributes of the same other true hundred talentes. If no, we shal come and fyghte agaynste you.

Enthen Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe the greute worshippe and honour of Symon in golde, syluer, and so greute plenty of ornaments, he marvelled, and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded hym: Then answered Symon & sayd vnto hym: * As for vs, we haue neede taken other mens landes, not witholden them, but only our fathers heritage, whiche our enemyes had vnrightheously in possession a certain tyme. This heritage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in proceste of tyme. And where as thou complained concerning Joppa & Gaza, they dyd greute harme to oure people and in our lande, yett wyl we geue an hundred talentes for them.

After this, Athenobius answered hym not one worde, but turned agayne worshipfully vnto the kyng and tolde hym al these wordes, & the greute bygnite of Symon, with all that he had sene, and the kyng was very angry. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by wyppye vnto Otholadia. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captain of the ierusalem, & gaue hym an hoste of footmen & horsemen, commaunding hym to remoue the hoste toward Jewry, and to buylde vp the cytie of Edion, to make vp the postes, and to warre agaynste the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng hym selfe, he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and began to vexe the people, to make downe Jewry, to take the people prisoners, to slay them, and to buylde vp Edion, where he set horsemen and other men of warre: & they myghte come to the and go the same the stretes of Jewry, as the kyng had commaunded.

¶ Cendebeus the captain of ierusalem, when he was put to flight by the sonnes of Symon, fled vnto the sonnes of Heli, who kept hym, and he was there as a bander. John by this tyme was in the ierusalem.

Then came Ihon vnto Gaza and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebeus had done among the people. Vpon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes, Judas & John, and sayde vnto the: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer from our yowthe vnto this daye foughten agaynste the enemyes of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel of trympes. And nowe for so much as I am olde, be ye in stead of me & my brethren, to go forth and fyghte for oure people and the helpe of God be with you. So he chose twentye thousande fyghtyng men of the country with horse men also, which went forth agaynste Cendebeus, and rested at Wodan.

In the morning they arose, and wente in to the place of the fildes: and behold a myghty greute hoste came agaynste them both of footemen and horsemen. Nowe was there a water brooke betwixt them, & John remoued his hoste towarde them. And when he sawe that the people was a feare to go ouer the water brooke he went ouer first hym selfe, & the men seing this, folowed him.

Then Ihon let his horsemen and footemen in order, the one by the other, for they enemyes horsemen were verie many. But when they blew vp their pikes trompettes, Cendebeus fled with his hoste, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunte gat them to the stronge holde. Judas also Johns brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Ihon folowed syl vpon the enemyes, tyl he came to Edion, which he buylde. The enemyes fled also vnto the towers that were in the felde of Azotus, and those did John burne vp. Thus were there slayne two thousande men of the, and Ihon turned agayne peaceably to Jewry.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus made captayne, which because he had aboundance of syluer and golde, (for he had maryed the daughter of Symon the hye priest) waxed proude in his mynde, and thought to conquire the lande, ymagyning sal shod agaynste Symon and his sonnes to destroy them. Nowe as Symon was goyng aboute the cyties, that were in the country of Jewry, and caryng for them he came doune to Jericho with Machabias and Judas his sonnes, in the thirthe yeere in the xi. moneth called Machab. Then Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus receaued them (but with disceate) into a strong house of his, called Woch, which he had buylde where he made them a bancket.

So when Symon and his sonnes were merry and had drunken well, Ptolomy stole vp with his men, whom he had hid there, and toke their weapons, entered into the bancket house, & slew Symon with his two sonnes, and certayne of his seruantes. Muche greute vnlawfulnessse dyd Ptolomy in Israel, & recompenced euill for good. Then wrote this Ptolomy the same vnto the kyng Antiochus, requyryng hym that he shoulde sende hym an hoste to helpe hym: and so shoulde he deliuer hym the lande, with the cyties and tributes of the same. He sente other meene also vnto Gaza, for to take Ihon, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to hym, and he shoulde geue them syluer, gold and rewarde. And to Jerusalem he sente other to take it, and the Sanctuarie.

Then ranne there one before, and tolde Ihon in Gaza, that his father and his brethren were slayne, and how that Ptolomy had sent to slay hym also. When Ihon hearde this he was fore abashed, and layde handes of them that were come

This is here oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raygned, in the C. lxxiij. yere, the Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble & violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after þat Jason departed our of the holie lande and kyngdome, they bzant by the posted

Nowe after many yeares when it pleased of Persya, * he sent the chylidres childe of thon preestes (which had hid the fyze) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they found no fyze but thyeke water. Then commaunded he the to dyue it up and to bryng it hym, & the offerynges wpthall.

Nowe when & sacrificies were laid on & ordeyd the pcesse Achemias commaunded to spynkle them & the wood with water. When this was done, & the fyre comyng & the sunne shone, which afore was hyd in the cloude: there was a great fyze kyndled. In so much feury man marua-led. Nowe all the pcessees stayed, while the sacryfye was a making. Ionathas prayed fyzt and the other gaue answere.

And Hehemias prayer was after this manner, O Lord God maker of all thynges, & fearful & stronge, thou righteous & merciful, & that art only a gracious kyng, only lyberall, onely iust & myghtie and euerlasting, thou that help urest Israel from all trouble, & that haue chosen the fathers, and halowed them, receyue the offering for the whole people of Israel, preferue thyne owne porceion, & halowe it, gather those together, that are scattered abrode from vs: deliuer them & are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon them which are dyspyssed and abhorred, that the heathen may know & se how that & art our God: Punyssh them & oppresse, & proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set the people agayn in thy holy place * lyke as Moses hard spoken.

It is written also howe the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle & the arke with them: & he went forth vnto the mountain, where Moles climed by, & sawe the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came there, he founde an open caue, where in he layd the tabernacle, the Arke, & the aulter of incense, & so stopp'd & walled. of the human race into the temple by the hands of the Gentiles. Aaron interceded that there be in the temple. He took the bread and ate it. He is the type of God and he is the father of all men.

Wit

What tyme as the holy cytie was in baptised in al peace & welth & when the lawes were yet very well kept (for so was it ordeined by Onias the hye pteast and other godly men that wer enemies to wickednesse) It came ther to* that euen the kynge and knyghtes them sel ues dyd the place grete worshippe, and garni shed the temple with grete gyltes. In somuche that Seleucus kyng of Asia of hys owne ren res, beare all the costes belonging to the ser uice of the offerynges. Then Symon of the tribe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, labou red to worke some mischefe in the cytie, but the hye pteaste refysed hym.

Nevertheless, when he might not overcome Onias, he gat hym to Appolonius the sonne of Theria (which then was chiefe Loyde in Ce loeyria and Phenices) and tolde hym that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of innumerable money, and howe the comen goodes (whiche belonged not vnto the offerynges) were excre ding great also: pre. & howe it were possible all theise myght come vnder the kynge power.

Nowe when Appolonius had thewed the kyng of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kyng called for heliodorus hys steward, and sent hym with a commaundement, to bryng hym the same mome. Immedpactly heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder a colour as though he wolde go thowoe Celocya and Phenices to vset the cyties, but hys purpose was to ful fyll the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was lounge lyce receyued of the hye pteaste into the cytie: he tolde what was de termyned concerning the money, and thewed the cause of hys commynge, he asked also yf it were so in dede. Then the hye pteast tolde hym that there was suche money layde vp for the holdyng of widowes and fatherlesse chyldren and howe that a certayne of it belonged vnto hyccanus. Tobias a noble man, and that of al the money (whiche the wicked Symon had be wrayed) there were. xlii. C. talentes of syluer and two. C. of golde: yee, and that it wer vnpof syble for those mens meaning to be dysceyued that had laide vp they money in the place and temple (whiche is had in worshippe thowoe the whole world) for the mayntenaunce & honour of the same. Wherunto heliodorus answered, that the kyng had comaunded hym in any wise to bryng hym in the money.

So at the daie appoynted, heliodorus en tered into the temple to orde thys matter. But there was no small feare thowout the whole cytie. The pteastes fell downe befoze the auter in their vestimentes, & called vnto heauen vpo him* which had made a lawe concerning iuste men to kepe, that they shulde be safely pteaser ued for suche as comynge them vnto heppynge.
Then who so had looked the hye pteaste in the face it wolde haue greued his herte. For his col lour and the chaungynge of his coloure, de clared the inward sallowe of hys mynde. The ma was al in heuiness, & his body in feare, wher by they that looked vpon hym, myght perceyue the grete of his herte, the other people came out of they houses by heapes vnto the comen pteas er, because the place was lyke to come into con fusyon. The women came together thowoe the streets, & bryng clothes aboute they hys asses.

The wyngins also that were kept in, ranne to Onias, some in prayer, other some looked out of the wyndowes: yee, they al held vp they handes toward heauen, and prayed. A mysera ble thyng was it to looke vpon the comen peo ple, and the hye pteaste bryng in suche trouble.
But they besought Almyghty God the god des whiche were comytted vnto them, myghte be kept whole, for those that had deliuered the vnto they heppynge. Nevertheless, the thyng heliodorus was determyned to do, & perfour med he in the same place, he hym selfe personal lye bryng aboute the treasure with his men of warre. But the spyrte of almyghty God thewed hymself openly, so that they which presumed to obeye heliodorus, fell thowoe the power of God into a grete fearefulnesse and drede.

* For there appered vnto them an hoste a terrible ma lpytyn vpon hym, deckt in good lye arape, and the hoste smote at heliodorus hys foze fete. Nowe he that set vpon the hoste had harnesse of golde vpon hym.

Moreover, there appeared two sayre & bew tyfull ponge men in goodly arape, which rode by hym scourged him on both the sydes, & gaue hym many stryppes wout ceasynge. * With that fell heliodorus sodenlye vnto the ground So they tooke hym vp (bryng compasled a boutte with grete darchenesse) and bare hym out vpon a berr. Thus he came with so ma ny runners and men of warre into the layde trea sury, was bozne oute, where as no man myght helpe hym: and so the power of God was many fest and knowen. He laye styll domine also by the power of God destytute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayed the Loyde that had thewed his po wer vpon hys place and temple, whiche a lytle afoze was full of feare and trouble: & that tho rowe the reuelacyon of the Almyghty Loyde it was fylled with ioye and gladnesse.

Then certayn of heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, that in all hast he wolde cal vpon God to graunt hym his lyfe, which was geyng vp the ghozte. So the hye pteaste consyderyng the matter, and leaste the kyng shulde suspecte that the Jewes had done heliodorus some euill: he offered an healtbofferyng for hym. Nowe wher the hye pteast had obtayned hys peticyon, the same ponge men in the same clorbyng appered and rode besyde heliodorus, sayng: Thanke Onias the hye pteaste, for his sake darthe the Loyde graunted the lyfe: therfore sayng that God hath scourged the, geue hym praise & than kes, and geue euery man hys myghte and po wer. And when they had spoken these wordes, they appered nomore.

So heliodorus offered vnto God, made grete vowes vnto hym, whiche had graunted hym hys lyfe, thanched Onias, toke hys hoste and went agayne to the kyng. Then certified he vnto every man of the great woordes of God that he had sene with his eyes. And when the kyng asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yettner agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde: yf thou haste anye enemye or aduersarye in thy realme, sende hym thither, and thou shalt haue hym punished, yf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no dwelleth) there is a speciall power and working of God. For he that dwelleth in dreuen, dyspeth and defendeth that place, and all that come to do it harme, he punisheth and plagerh them. This is now the matter concernyng Heliodorus, and the keepyng of the treasure at Jerusalem.

The iiii. Chapter.

Heliodorus receiveth word of Symon. Jason besyng the offyce of the hye pryete. And the kyng with consail. The wyche instances of Jason.

Symon now (of whome we spake afore) beyng a brewer of money and of his owne natural countrey, reported the woordes of Onias: as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and as though he had ben a bringer vp of euil. Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemye of the realme: that was so faithful an oursear and defender of the cytie & of his people: yett, & so frequent in the lawe of God: But when the malice of Symon increased so farre, that thow his frendes there were certain men, slaughterers comiterd: Onias considered the perill that myght come thow he thys tyme, and howe that Appolonius (namely the chiefe Loide in Celociria and Phenicia) was al set vpon tyranny, and Symons malice increased the same, he gat hym to the kyng not as an accuser of the cityzens, but as one that by hym selfe intended the comen welthe of the whole multitude.

For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace, neither Symon to leaue of from his folyshnes, excepte the kyng shoulde chaunge. But after the deathe of Heliodorus, when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kyngdome, Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye pryete. For he came vnto the kyng, and promysed hym iii. C. & lx. talentes of syluer, & of the other rentes, lxxx. talentes. Besydes thys he promised hym yett an. C. and. l. yf he myght haue a scole of scholers, and yf he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochians. Which when they had graunted, and he had gotten the supreisyte, he beganne immediately to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the heathen, put downe the thynges that the Jewes had set vp of loue, by John the father of Eupolemius which was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendship and loue. He put downe all the Jewes and lyberties of the Jewes & set vpon the wyched statutes. He durst make a synagoge scole vnder the castel, and set faper yonge men to learne the maners of whoreds and brothels.

This was now the begynnyng of the heathenrye & strange conuersacyon, brought in thow the vngacious & vndeared wychednes of Jason, which shuld not be called a pryete, but an vngodly person. In somuche that the pryetes were now to nomore occupied about the seruyce of the altare, but despyed the temple: regarded not the offerynges: yett gaue they diligence to learne to synge, to waltie, to leape, to dance, and to put at the stonne, not setting by the honoure of theyr fathers, but lyked the glory of the Gyenes best of all: for the whiche they stroue perelously, & were greedy to sola we their statutes: yett, they lyste was in all thynges to be lyke them, whiche afore were theyr enemyes & destroyers. Howbeit, to do wychedly against the lawe of God, shall not escape unpunished, but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were plaide at Tynd (The kyng hym selfe beyng present) this vngacious Jason sent word men, bearing from them of Jerusalem (which nowe were called Antiochians). iii. C. drachmas of syluer for an offeryng to Hercules. These had they that carped them despyed them vnder suche a tacyon, as though they shuld not be offered but bestowed to other vices. Nevertheless he that sent them, sent them to intent that they shoulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were presente, they were geuen as to synnyng of wyppes. And Appolonius the sonne of Helius was sent into Egypt because of the noble men of king Ptolomey Philometos. Nowe when Antiochus perceyued, he was put oute from medlynge in the realme, he soughte his owne pryete, departed from thence came to Joppa: and then to Jerusalem, where he was honourably receyued of Jason, & of the cytie, & was brought in with toschyght and wyth greate prayse, and so he turned hym hote vnto Phenicia.

After, iii. yere Jason sente Menelaus, the forsaide Symons brother, to beate the money vnto the kyng, and to hyng hym answer of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praised of the kyng for magnifyng of his power) turned the pryete hode vnto hym self, layng vp iii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten the commaundement from the kyng (he came hauntyng nothyng that becometh a pryete) but bearyng the stomache of a cruell tyrante, and the wyche of a wyld brute beaste. Then Jason (whiche had dysceyned his owne brother) sayng he hym selfe was beggled also, was layne to the into the lande of the Ammonites, & Menelaus gat the dominyon. But as for the money that he had promised vnto the kyng, he byd nothyng therein, when Antiochus the Ruler of the castell requyred it of hym. For Antiochus was the man that gathered the customs, wherfore they were both called before the kyng. Thus was Menelaus put oute of the pryete hode, and Lisymachus his brother came in his stead. Antiochus also was made loide of the Cyrenas.

king Antiochus concubine. The came the king in all the host, to kill them agayne, and to pacifye the matter, leaping Andronicus ther to be his debite as one mete therfoze. Nowe Menelaus supposing that he had gotten a righte comynent tyme, stole certain vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue them to Andronicus for a present: and some he tolde at Cyrus and in the citie therby. Which when Onias knewe of a suretye, he reioyned hym: but he kept hym in a sanctuary beside Daphnis, that lyeth by Antioch. Wherfoze Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and praied hym that he would slay Onias. So when he cam to Onias, he counsailed him craftly to come out of the sanctuarie geuyng hym his hand with an othe: how be it he suspect hym, and then he lette Onias withoute anye regarde of ryghteousnes. For the whiche cause not onely Jewes but other nacyns also toke indignacion, and were dyspleased for the vnrightheous death of so goodly aman.

¶ And when the kyng was come agayne from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayn of the Giches went vnto hym, complaynyng for the vnrightheous death of Onias. Yee, Antiochus him self was soz in hys mynde for Onias, so that he pitied hym, and he wept, remembryng hys sobernes and manerly behauour. Wherfoze he was so kyndled in hys mynde, that he commaunded Andronicus to be strypped oute of his purple clothyng, and so to be led throughout the citie: yee, and the vnglacynous man to be slayn in the same place: wher he comynitted this wickednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded hym hys punysshment, as he had deserued. Nowe whil Lysimachus had done many wyked dedes in the temple throught the counsaile of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrode: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysimachus for he had caried oute nowe muche golde.

¶ So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lysimachus armed. iii. M. vnto hys tentes to defende hym: a certayne tyzant beyng thei captayn, which was growen both in age and woodnes. But when the people vnderstod the purpose of Lysimachus, some gat stones, some good strong clubbes, and some cast athes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were manye of them wounded, some beyng slayne, and all the other chased away. But as for the wyked church robber hym selfe, thei killed him beside the tresaury. Of these matters therfoze ther was kept a court agaynst Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Cyprus, they made a complaynt vnto hym of Menelaus, concerninge this busynesse: the ambassadours wer. iii. But Menelaus wylt and promysed Ptolomy, to geue hym much money, yf he woulde perswade the kyng. So Ptolomy wente to the kyng into a court: wher he was set to cole hym, and brought hym oute of the mynde. In so much that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions, that not wythstandyng was cause of all myschefe, and thole poze men, whiche yf they had tolde thei cause: yee, before the Iewishians, they shoulde haue bene iudged innocent, them he condeyned to deathe. Thus wer thei sone punyshed, whiche solored vpon the matter for the cite, for the people, and for the holy vessel. Wherfoze, they of Cyprus toke indignacion, and buried the honourably. And so throught the courtesousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remaned stil in auctoritee: increasing in malice, to the hurt of the citryng.

¶ Of the signes and tokens sene in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offence of Jason, the pursuer of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes, the burning of the temple.

¶ The same tyme Antiochus made Jason redye to go agayne into Egypt. Then were thei sene at Jerusalem xl. dayes long, bozemen, runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whiche had rayment of golde, and speares. There wer sene also whole hostes of men weapened, and bozles runnyng in an order howe they came together, howe they helde forth their speides, howe the harnesssed men dyde oure thei swerdes, and shot thei dartes. The wyne of the golden weapons was sene and of all maner of armure. Wherfoze, euery man praied, that those tokens myghte turne to good. Nowe when there was gone forth a false rumoure, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a thousand me and came sodenly vpon the cyte. The cytizens came vnto the walles, at the last was the cyte taken, and Menelaus fledde into the castel.

¶ As for Jason, he spared not hys owne cyte: ying in slaughter, nethe considered he what greate euell it were, to destroye the prosperitee of hys owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the vprooz of hys enemyes, and not of hys fryndes. For all thes gat he not the superiortie, but at the last receiued confusyon for his malice, and fledde agayne lyke a vagabound into the lande of the Ammonytes.

¶ Finally for a rewarde of hys wyckendes he was accused before Bertha, the kynge of the Arabians. In so much that he was fayne to flete from cyte to cyte, beyng dyspised of euery mā as a forsaiker of the lawes, and an abhominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of hys owne naturall countree and of the cyte-tyngs) he was dyspyn into Egypte.

¶ Thus he that afoze put manye oute of thei owne natyue lande, perished frome home hym selfe. He went to Lacedemon, chynkyng there to haue gotten succour by reaso of kindred. And he that afoze had cast many one out vnburyed was thowne out hym self, no man mournyng for him, nor puttyng hym in hys graue: so that he nethe enioyed the buryal of a straunger, ne ther was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

¶ Now when this was done, the kyng suspect that the Jewes woulde haue fallen from hym: wherfoze he came in agreat dyspleasure out of Egypt, and toke the cyte by violence, he commaunded hys men of warre also, yf they shoulde hyl and none spare, but slaye downe suche as wythstode them, or clymed vpon the houses. Thus was ther a great slaughter of young men, olde men, women, chyldren, and wyngins.

In thye dayes there were flayn. i. lxxx. four-tye thousande put in prison, and no less sold. Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the most holy temple, wherelaus that traitour to the lawes and to hys owne natural con- tre, being hys guder, and with his wyched han- des toke the holy vessell, whiche other kynges & cyties had given thider for the garnysshing and honour of the place, theim toke he in hys handes vnyustly, and despyed them.

D So madde was Antiochus, that he consyde- red not, howe that God was a lytle wj othe for the synnes of theim that dwelte in the cytee for the which such confusion came vpon that place. And why? if it had not happened the to haue bene lapped in manye synnes, thys Antiochus (as sone as he had come) had sodenly ben puny- shed, and thus out for hys presumption, & lyke as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to robbe the treasure. Neuerthelesse, God hathe not chosen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therefore is y place become partaker of the peoples trou- ble, but after ward shal it enioy the welch of hys And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wjath of almyghty God, so when the great God is recon- ciled, it shal be set vp in hys worshippe agayn.

So when Antiochus had taken a. vii. mil- l. talents out of the temple, he gat him to An- tioch in al the hast, thynkyng in hys mynde, that he myght make men sayle vpon the dyse lande and to go vpon the see, such an hys mynde had he. he sette debytes ther, to were the people: At Jerusalem left he Philis a Whigia, in maners moze cruel then him selfe that sette hym there: At Gazim he left Andronicus and Menelaus whych were moze greuous to the citezys then order. * Nowe as he was thus set in malice a- gainst the Jewes, he sente Apollonius an ha- ted wyce, with. xxi. mil. commandyng hym to slay those that were of perfecte age, and to sell the women, maydens, and chyldren. When he came to Jerusalem, he sayned peace, and kepte hym still vntill the Naboth day. And then he commaunded hys mē to take the to theys wea- pons (for the Jewes kepte hys dape) and so he slewe all them that were gone forth to the ope- playe, running here and there through the cyte wyth hys men weaponed & murdered a great nomber. But Judas Machabens whych was the tenth, fled into the wyldernesse, led hys lyfe there wyth hys companye amonge wyld bea- stes: and vpon the mountaynes, dwelling ther and eatyng grasse, least they shoulde be parta- kers of the synithynes.

The. vi. Chapter.

The Jewes are compelled to leave the same of God. The tem- ple is despoiled. The residue are martyred: that they shall not ab- horre the abominable worshippe the heathen offered them. The precious payre of Eleazar.

D Or longe after thys, sent the kyng a messenger of Antioch, for to com- pell the Jewes, to alter the ordyna- unces of the fathers, and the lawe of God, to defile the temple that was at Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Juppter Olympius: that they shoulde be in Gazim as those whiche dwell at the place of Jupiter the herberous. Thys wyched sedicion of the vn- godlye was heauye vnto all the people: for the temple was full of voluptuousnes, byddyng and bolling of the heathen, of ribaundes and bar- lottes together. The women went into the ho- ly place, and bare in that was not lawfull. The altar also was ful of vnlawfull thynges, which the lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Sa- boths were not kepte, the other solempne sea- stes of the lande were not regarded. To bee plaine, there durste no man bee a knowne that he was a Jewe. In the day of the kynges wyth they were compelled perforce to offer, and whē the feast of Bacchus was kepte, they were con- strayned to were garlandes of pype, and so to go aboute to the honour of Bacchus.

Howeouer though the counsaile of Stolo- my, there wente oute a commaundment in the nexte cytees of the heathen, that they shoulde in- treate the Jewes in like maner: namely, to com- pell them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentiles: and who so would not, to put the to death. A pitous thyng was it to se. There were two women accused to haue circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led round a- bout the cite (the habes hangyng at theys dy- stes) they cast them downe headlonges ouer the walles. Some that were crepte in denues and had kepte the Saboth, were accused vnto Dyl- lip, and bzant in the fyre: because that for fear of God they kepte the commaundment to stil- ly, and would not defende them selues. Nowe I beseech all those whiche reade thys booke, that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersitee: and iudge the thynges (that are hapned) for no destruction, but for a chastenynge of our people. And why? Whē God suffereth not synners log to foloe theys owne mynde, but thostlye puny- sheth them, * it is a token of hys great louyng- kyndnes. For thys grace haue we of God moze then other people, that he suffereth not vs longe to synne vnpunished lyke as other nacions, that when the daye of iudgement cometh, he maye punyche them in the fulnesse of theys syn- nes. If we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer wythdroweth hys mercy from vs: and though he punyche wyth aduersitee, yet doth neuer for- sake hys people. But let thys that we haue spo- ken nowe wyth fewe wordes be for a warnyng and exhortacon of the heathen.

Nowe wyl we come to the declaring of the matter. Eleazar one of the principal scribes, an aged man and of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrayned to gape with an open mouth * and to eate swines flesh. But he despyng ra- ther to dye gloriously then to liue wyth shame offered hym selfe wyllyngly to the martyrdom. Nowe wyl we saye that he must nedes go to it be toke it patiently: for he was at apoynt with hym selfe, that he would consente to do no vn- lawfull thyng for anye pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by being moued with pitee (but not a- right) for y old frendship of the man, toke hym a syde aside vniuersally and praised him that he would let such flesh be brought hym as were lawfull to eat, & then to make a countenance, as though he had eaten of the fleshe of the sacrifice lyke as the kynge commaunded, soz so he might be deliuered from death, and so for the old frendship of the man, they thewed hym thys kynndesse.

But he beganne to consyder hys bysset and honourable age, hys noble and worshippefull booke, and howe that fro hys yowth vnto he had bene of an honest and good conuersacion, yee, howe constantly he had kept the ordynances and lawes commaunded by God, wherfoze he gaue them thys answer and sayed: Yet had I rather fynde belayed in my graue. * For it becometh not myne age (sayed he) in anye wyse to byssemble, wherby manye younge personnes myght thynke, that Cleazar being xxx. yere olde and x. were nowe gone to a strange lyfe and so through myne ypocrysy (for a lytle time of a transpoyr lyfe) they myght be dysceined by this meanes also should I despyle myne age, and make it abhomyable. For though I were now deliuered from the tormentes of men, yet should not I escape the hand of almyghtie God neether almye nor dead, wherfoze I wyl dye fully and do as it becometh mine age. Wherby I maye peraduenture leaue an example of stedfastnes for suche as be younge, yf I wyth a redy mynde and manfully dye an honest death, for the moost worthy and holy lawes.

When he had saied these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to torment. Nowe they that led hym and were mynde a litle afoze, beganne to take displeasure, because of the wordes that he sayed, for they thoughte he had spoken then of an hie minde. But when he was in hys martyrdom, he mourned and sayd Thou (O Lord) which hast the holy knowledge: knowest openly, that wher as I might be deliuered from death I suffer these soze paines of my body: but in my mind I am wel content to suffer them because I feele the. Thus this man died leuyn the moztal of his death for an exaple, not only vnto yong men, but vnto al people, to be stedfast & maly

The punishment of the four hundred and of thys mother

It happened also that ther wer. vii. byrthen (with their mother) take and copelled by the kynge against the lawe, to eat swynes fleshe, namely wyth scourges and leathen whippes. And one of them which was the chyl sayed: What sekest thou and what requyrest thou of vs? As for vs, we are readye rather to suffer death, then to offende the lawes of God & the fathers. Then was the kynge angrye, and had heat cauldrons and brasen pottes. Whych when they wer made hot, immediatly he commaunded the younge of hym that spake fyrst to be cut out, to pull the shynne our hys heade, to pare of the edges of his handes and fete: yee, and that in the syghte of hys mother and the other of hys byrthen. Now when he was cleue marred, he commaunded a fyre to be made & so while there was any breath in hym to be scrid in the cauldron: In the whych when he had bene long payned: the other byrthen wyth thys mother exhorted hym to dye manfullye, saynge: The Lord God whal regardeth the truth, and comfort vs, lyke as Moses testyfeth * and declareth in hys longe, sayng: and he wyl haue compasyon on hys seruantes.

So when the fyrst was dead after thys maner, they broughte the seconde, to haue hym in derpion, pulled the shynne wyth the heare ouer hys head, and asked hym, yf he would eate swynes fleshe, or he were payned in the other members also throughout hys body. But he answered boldlye, and sayed: I wyl not do it. And so was he tormented lyke as the fyrst, and wher he was euen at the gryping vpon of the ghost he sayed: Thou moost vnglacynous personne puttest vs nowe to death, but the kynge of the worldes shall rayse vs vp (whych he sayed for hys lawes) in the resurreccyon of euery lastyng lyfe.

After hym was the thyrde had in derision & when he was requyred, he putte out his tounge and that ryght sone, holdyng forth his handes manfullye, and spake wyth a stedfast sayeth: These haue I of heauen, but nowe for the law of God I despyle them: for my truste is that I shall receyue them, of him agayne. In so much that the kynge and they whych wer wyth him marueled at the younge mans boldnesse, that he nothyng regarded the paines.

Now when he was dead also, they vnder the fourth wyth the tormentes in lyke maner. So when he was nowe at hys death, he saied: It is better that we bringe putte to death of minne, haue our hope and trust in God, for he shal rayse vs vp agayne. * As for the, thou shalt haue no resurreccyon to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyfth they tormented hym. Then looked he vnto the kynge and saied thou hast power among men for thou art a moztal man also thy self, to do what thou wilt, but thincke not, that God hath forsaaken our generacion. Abide the tary stil awhile, and thou shalt se the greates power of God, howe he will punyssh the and thy seede.

After him they broughte the. vi. which bring at the point of death sayed: Be not dysceined (O kynge) for thys we suffer for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God, & thersfore maruelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thyncke not thou, whiche takest in hande to stryue agaynst God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembrance) sawe her seven sonnes dye in one daye, and suffered patiently, because of the hope that she had in God yee, she exhorted euery one of them in especial and that boldly and stedfastly wyth perfect wyl dome, wakenge vpon her wyrdly thoughte with a manly stomache, and saied vnto them: I can not tel how ye came in my wombe: for I netheer gaue you byrth nor soule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the members of your bodies together but the maker of the world, whiche fashioned the body of man, and began all thynges. Euen he also of his owne mercy shal geue you lyfth & lyfe agayne lyke as ye nowe regard not your owne selues for his lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Ananias that she had bespyed hym, therefore he let her go wth her seruantes, and beganne to exhort the yongest sonne (whiche yet was left) not onely wth wordes but (wage vnto hym wth an oth) that he shoulde make hym a rich and welthy man (if he wold forsake the lawes of his fathers) yet, and that he shoulde geue hym, whatsoeuer were necessary for hym. But when the yong man woulde not be moued, for al these thynges, he called his mother, & counsailed her to laue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her wth many wordes, she promysed hym that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she tourned her vnto hym: hangyng the cruell tynante to scorne) and spake wth a bolde voyce. O my sonne, haue pitie vpon me, that bare the nyne monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, noysed the and brought the vp vnto this age. I beseeche my sonne looke vpon heauen and earth and all that is therein, & consider that God made them and mannes generacion of naught: so walte thou not feare this hangman, but suffer death gladly: like as thy brethren haue done: that I maye receiue the agayne in the same mercy wth thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speakyng these wordes the yong man sayde whom loke ye for. Walder soze do ye tary? I will not obey the hynges commandemente, & but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moyses. As for thou that ymaginest all myche agaynst the Jewes thou walt not escape the hande of God, for we suffer these thynges, because of our synnes.

And though God be angrie wth vs a lytle while (for our chastenyng and reformatyon) yet shall he be at one agayne wth his seruantes. But thou (O Hametia and moost abhominable person.) Wyldest thou selte thyng vayne hope, in beyng so malicious vpon the seruantes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whiche is almyghty, and seethe all thynges. My brethren that haue suffered a lytle payne are nowe vnder the covenante of euerylastyng lyfe: but through the iudgement of God, thou walt be punished ryghteously for thy pryde.

As for me lyke as my brethren haue done I offer my soule and my body for the lawes of oure fathers, calling vpon God, that he wylldoone be merciful vnto oure people: yet, & wth paine and punishmente to make the graunte, that he only is God. In me now and in my brethren the wrath of all myghty God is at an end, which ryghteously is fallen vpon oure people.

Then the kyng beyng kindled in anger was made cruel vpon hym then vpon al the other, & toke indignacion, that he was so lightly regarded. So this yong man dyed vnderpyed, and put his trust vpon the Lord, last of al after sonnes, was the mother put to death also. Let this now be ynough spoken, concernyng the sufferynge, and extreme cruelnes.

The viii Chapter.

¶ Judas gathered together his host. Sathanas is frely agaynst Judas. Judas exhorteth his folowes to constancye. Lychanus to overcome. The Jewes grow thicke after they haue put these enemies to flight, bringing the spiles vnto the iherusalem and vnto the wyddenes. Sathanas flyeth vnto Antiochus.

Then Judas Machabeus, and they that were with hym, went pryncipally into the townes, called they: kynsolles and feldes together, toke vnto the all suche as contynued yet in the sayd & lawe of the Jewes, & brought forth. vi. M. men. So they called vpon the Lord, that he woulde haue an eye vnto his people, whiche was troden doune of every man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was defiled of the vngodly: to haue compassyon vpon the destruction of the cytie, whiche was hostile lyke to be layde waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym: to remember the moost vnrightheous deathes of yong innocēt chyliden, & blasphemys also done vnto his name & to punyssh them.

Nowe when Machabeus had gathered this myltitude together, he was to myghty for the heathen (for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the townes and Cyties vniuerses, bent them, tooke the moost commodious places, and slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made suche chaces by nyghte, in so muche that his manlynes was spoken of, euery where.

So when Philippe sawe that the man increased by lytle and lytle, and that the matter prospered wth hym for the mooste parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomey whiche was a capteyne in Celicia and Idemices, to helpe hym in the kynges busines. Then sent he Aicanos Patrocle a special frend of his in all the hark and gaue hym of the comon sozte of the heathen no lesse then. xx. M. harnessed men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Jewes, haung to help him one Gorgias a man of warr, whiche in matters concernyng battailes, had grete experience. Aicanos ordeined also the tribute which the Romaynes shoulde haue had, to be geuen vnto the kyng out of the captiuite of the Jewes, namely. ii. M. talents. And immediately he sent to the cities of the seacoast, requirynge the for to by Jewes to be their seruantes and bondmen, promysinge to sei them. lxxx. for one talent: but he considered not the wrath of almyghty God, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of this he tolde the wex that wer with him of Aicanos commyng. Nowe were there summe of them fearfull, not trustyng vnto the ryghteousnes of God, and fled they way.

But the other that remained, came together and besoughte the Lord, to deliuer them from that wicked Aicanos, which hadde solde them or euer became nye them, and though he woulde not dooe it for theye sakes, yet for the covenante that he made wth their fathers and be cause because thei called vpon his holy and glorious name. And so Machabeus called his men together, namely about. vi. M. exhortyng them not to agre, vnto their enemies: neither to be a scraped for the multitude of theyr aduersaries commynge agaynst them vnrpghteously: but to fight manly, considering the repoyse that thei had done to the holy place without cause, howe thei had despyed and oppressed the cyter: yee, & destroyed the lawes of the fathers. * For they (saied he) trust in theyr weapons and boldnes but our confydence is in the almyghtye Lorde which in the dwynnyng of an eye may both destroy them that com agaynst vs, & al the world.

He exhorted the also to call to remembrance the helpe, that God thewed vnto theyr fathers: as when there perished an C. and. lxxv. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of the battaile thei had in Babilon agaynst the Salacians: how all the Macedonians that came to helpe them, fode in feare: and howe they beyng but onelye vi. M. slew an C. and. xx. M. through the helpe that was geue them from heauen, whereby thei also had receiued many benefites.

Through these wordes the men toke good hertes vnto them, ready to dye for the law and the coltre. So he let vpon euery companye a caprayn one of his owne brethren: Simon, Joseph and Ionathas, geuyng eche one. xv. C. men. he caused Esdras also to reade the holpe booke vnto them: & to geue them a token of the helpe of god.

* Then he him self beyng captain in the foze fronte of the battaile, buckled with Arcanos. And God was their helpe, in so much that thei slew about. ix. M. men and compelled the moze part of Arcanos hoost to fle, thet wer so wounded and feble. Thus they tooke the mony from those that came to bye them, and solored vpon them on euery syde. But when the tyme came vpon them they turned, for it was the Saboth and therfore they solored nomoze vpon the. So they toke their weapons and spoiles and kept the Saboth, geuyng thanks vnto the Lorde whych had deliuered them that day, and thewed them his mercy. After the Saboth, thei by tributed the spoiles to the sicke, and to the fatherles, and to wyddowes, and the residue had thei them selues with theirs. When this was done, and thei all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercifull Lorde to be at one with his seruantes.

Of those also that were wyth Timotheus and Bachydes, whych fought agaynst them, p. lxxv. M. wanne he and stronge bold, and deuyded mo spoiles: euer geuyng an equall porcyon vnto the speche, to the fatherles to wyddowes, and to aged personnes.

And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together, thei layed them all in conue nyent places, and the remnaunte of the spoiles brought they to Jerusalem. Thei slew also Philarches that wyked personne which was with Timotheus, and had vered many Jewes. And when they helde the thankegeuyng at Jerusalem for the victorie, they byt those that had set eye vpon the portes of the temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled into an house: and so thei gat a worthy rewarde for theyr wickednes. As for the moost vngacious Arcanos, which had brought a M. marchantes, to bye the Jewes he was through the helpe of the Lorde brought doun out of them whom he regarded not, in so much that he put of his glorious raimente fled by see, and came alone to Antioch, with greete shame & dishonour whiche he gat through the destruction of his host. Thus he that promysed the Romaines to pay them their tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: Beganne now to say plainly, that God was the defender of the Jewes, and therfore not possyble to wounde them, because they solored the lawes whych God had made.

¶ Antiochus flyyng to spyle Persopolys, to tryuen to fflyghte also he persecuted the Jewes, he is slayen of the Lorde. The say ned repentance of Antiochus he dyeth.

The same time, came Antiochus agayne with dishonour out of Persis. For when he came to Persopolis, and undertoke to robbe the temple: and to subdue the citee, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so much that he and his were faine to fly with shame. And so after that flight, it hapened that Antiochus came agayn with dishonour. But when he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Arcanos and Timotheus. Now, as he was aunceyng hym self in his wyath, he thought he was able to aduenge the injury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes and therfore commaunded to make ready his charet, balyng on his iourneye, wythoute ceasynge, the iudgemente of God prouokynge hym because he had spoken so proudeply that he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a grane of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israel, that seeth all thynges, smote hym wyth an vnspysable plage, whiche no man coulde heale. For as soon as he had spoken these wordes, ther came vpon him an horrible payn of his bowelles, and a soze grete of the armed.

And that was but right: for he had martred other mens bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howe be it he would be in nowyse cease from his malice. Yee, he was yet the prouder and moze malicious agaynst the Jewes. But while he was commaundyng to make hast in the matter, it hapened that he fell doun vpon lentys frome the charete so that it brouled his bodye, and dyd hym greete payne.

And so he that thought he might commaund the floudes of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) and to wey the hye mountaines in a pater of balafice, was now brought doun to the ground, and caried vpon an hostrytter, knowledgyng the mannyest power of God vpon hym: so that the wyked bodye of his was full of wormes whych in his payne fell quicke out of his flesh. In so much that his hoost was greued wyth the smell and synke of hym.

Thus he that a litle afore thoughte he mighte reach to the starres of heauen, hym myghte no man nowe abyde nor beare for the vehemence of synche. Therfore, he beyng broughte some hys great pynde, beganne to come to the know ledge of hym selfe: for the punishment of God warned hym, and his paine increased more and more. And when he hym selfe myghte not abide hys owne synche, he sayed these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God, and that a man desire not to be like vnto him. This wycked person prayed also vnto the Lord, of whome he should haue optayned no mercede. And as for the cytee that he came vnto so hastily, to byng it doune to the grounde, and to make it a graue for dead men: nowe he despayeth to deliuer it free.

And as touchyng the Jewes, whom he had subged not worthy to be buried, but would haue cast them oute for to be deuoured of the foules and wild beastes, sayng: that he would haue destroyed both olde and young: Nowe he promyseth, to make them like the cizezins of Atyes. And where as he had spoiled the holy temple a fore, now he maketh promise to garnish it with great gites, to encrease the holy ornaments, and of hys owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belonging to the offeringes: yee, and that he would also become a Jewe hym selfe to go through euery place of the wynde, and to preache the worde of God.

But when hys paines would not ceasse, for the righteous iudgement of God was come vpon hym) out of a very dyspayre he wrote vnto the Jewes, a letter of intercession, conteynyng these wordes. The kyng and prince Antiochus wisheth vnto the vertuous cizezins of the Jewes, much heath and good prosperite. Yf ye and your chyldren fare well, and yf all thynges go after your mynde: we geue greates thankes. In my sickenes also I do remember you louyngly for as I came out of Persia, & was taken with a sore discaise: I thought it necessary to care for the comyn welth. Rather dyspayre I in my self but haue a good hope to escape this sickenesse.

But considering that my father led an host sometye in the hier places, and shewed who should reigne after hym, that yf there happened any contrauersy, or any heard thyng were declared) thei in the land myghte knowe they the lord, that they should be no insurrection: Again, when I ponder by my self, how that al the myghtie men, and neighbours round about are layng wayte, and loke but for oportunitie to do harme: I haue ordeined that my sone Antiochus shal reigne after me, whom I oft comended to many of you, when I was in the hier kin domes, and haue written vnto hym as foloweth hereafter. Therfore, I pray you and requyre you to remember the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally, and inspecial) and that euery man wilbe faithfull to me and to my sone. For I hope that he shalbe of sober and louing behauiour, and yf ye folow my deuice, he shalbe indifferente vnto you. * Thus I murderer and blas phemer of God was sore smytten: and lyke as he had intreated other men, so he died a miserable death in a straung countre vpon a mountain. And his body did Philip (who went with hym) carry away: which carrying the sone of Antiochus went into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometos.

The .x. Chapter.

¶ John Baptistes taking the cytee and the temple, he beganne to showe the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fight agaynst the Idumeans, & Antiochus cometh to Ierusalem, wherewith Iudas repulseth him, & they men open in the eye to the helpe of the Jewes, & mothers to Iudas.

Nachabeus nowe and hys companye (through the helpe of the Lord) wan the temple and cite again, destroyed the alters and chapels that the heathen had buylded through the stretes, censed the temple, made an other alter of byschite one, and after .ii. yeres thei offered sacrificers, set forth the incense, the lightes and shewbread. When that was done thei fel doune flat vpon the grounde and besought the Lord, that they might come nomore into such trouble: but yf they lined any more agaynst him, he hym selfe to chasten them with increpe, and not to come in the handes of those aleauntes and blasphemous men. Nowe vpon the same daye that the straungers polated the temple, it happened that on the verye same daye it was censed againe namely the .xii. day of the moneth called Casfeu, thei kepte ryghte dayes in gladnes like as in the feast of the tabernacles remembryng, that not long afore thei held the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mounteines and in demmes like beastes. And to the same token thei bare grene bowes, bryanches & palmes, before hym that had genen them good fortune to cense his place. Thei agreed also together, and made a statute that euery yere those dayes should be solemnly kept of all the people of the Jewes. Nowe Antiochus then (who was called a noble) died: it is sufficiently tolde. Nowe wyl we speake of Eupator the sone of that wycked Antiochus, howe it happened with hym: & so wyth the we wordes to comprehend the aduersyte that chaunced in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngedome, he made one Lytiar which had bene captain of the host in Phenices and Assyria ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Eupator, being a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to spe in iudgement for such wrong as was done vnto the) undertooke to deale peaceably with them. For the whiche cause he was accused of the frenches before Eupator, & when he was suspecte to be a traytoure (because he had left Cyprus & Philometos had committed vnto him, and because he departed fro noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned hym selfe and dyed.

Now when Cozryas was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers and undertooke oft tymes, to warre with the Jewes. Whereouer the Idumeans that held the strong holdes, receiued those that were dyscyn from Ierusalem & toke in hand to warre also. But thei that wer with Nachabeus besought & prayed vnto the Lord that he would be thei helper, so they fell vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans, & wan many places.

Lissas goeth aboute to overcome the Jewes. Antiochus is sent which were sente from you, deliuered me wth synges, & requyred me to fulfyll the thynges concerning theyr errande. Therefore looke what myght be graunted, I certifieth & hyng therof: & what soeuer was conuenient I agreed thereto. If ye note wyl be saydful in f^r matters I shal enduer my selfe thereafter also to do you good. As concerning other thynges by euery article therof: I haue comytred them to your messengers, & to those whome I sent vnto you, to comynure wth you of f^r same, save ye wel. In f^r C. xl. & viii. yere, f^r xiii. daye of the moneth Dioclosinthus. Now the hynges letter containeth these wordes: hyng Antiochus sendeth gretyng vnto his brother Lysias. For so muche as our father is now dead, our wyl is, f^r they which are in our realme, liue wthout any insurreccion, & euery man to bee diligent in hys owne matters. We vnderstand also f^r the Jewes wolde not content to our father, for to be brought vnto f^r custome of the Gentyles, but f^r theye to haue theyr owne statutes, for f^r which cause they requyre of vs al so, to let them remaine still by theyr owne lawen.

E Therefore our mynd is f^r this people shal be in rest: we haue concluded & determined also, to restore the theyr temple agayn f^r they may lyue accordyng to the vse & custome of theyr forefathers. Thou shalte do vs a pleasure therfore, if f^r send vnto them & agre with them, f^r wth they are certifieth of our mynd, they may be of good chere, and looke to theyr owne welth. And this was the letter. f^r the hyng wrote vnto f^r Jewes hyng Antiochus sendeth gretyng vnto the consell, & the other people of the Jewes: If ye face well: we haue oure desyre: as for vs, we are in good helth. Menelaus came & tolde vs howe f^r your desyre was to come doune to your people which ar with vs. Therefore, those f^r wyl come we geue them fre liberty, vnto the. xiii. daye of the moneth of Appyl, f^r they may vse f^r meates of the Jewes & theyr owne lawes, lyke as afore and none of the by any manner of waies to haue darne f^r thynges done in p^rgnosance. Menelaus whom we haue sente vnto you, shal comen with you at large: save ye well. In the. C. l. viii. yere, the. xv. daye of the moneth of Appyl.

F The Romans also sent a letter containyng these wordes: Quintus Metellus & Titus Manilius embassadors of the Romans, sende gretyng vnto the people of f^r Jewes. Looke what Lysias f^r hynges & hysman haue graunted you we graunt the same also. But as concerning f^r thynges which he referred vnto the hyng sende whether some wth speede, & ponder f^r matter diligently among your selues, f^r we may cast the best to your profite, for we must depart now vnto Antioch. And therefore wyte shortly agayne, f^r we may know your mynd. Farewel. In f^r C. l. viii. yere, the. xv. daye of the moneth of Appyl.

The. xii. Chapter.

Antiochus troubled the Jewes. The wyched dete of the Jewes against the Jewes. Judas is aduantaged of the Jewes f^r the gain of Jerusalem. The perfidy of the Jewes against Antiochus. Antiochus is taken and let goe without. Judas pursueth Antiochus. Judas offeringe sacrifice for the braue sheweth the hope of the resurrection.

C When these courtiages were made: Lysias went vnto f^r hynges, and the Jewes tylied theyr grounde. But Timotheus, Appolonius the sone of Geinei, Jerome & Demophon f^r proud Archonoz, the captain of Egypt, & they play in those places, wold not let the liue in rest & peace. They of Joppa also bidde such a damful dede. They playd f^r Jewes f^r dwelt among them, to go wth theyr wyues & chyldren into the synnys which they had prepared & did wth them as though they had ought them none euell wyl for so muche then as they was gone forth a general proclamaciō thowt f^r cytie because of peace they consented thereto, & suspect nothing, but wth they were gone f^r the into f^r orde, they bounde no lesse then. ii. C. of them. When Judas knewe of this cruelty shewd vnto his people, he commaunded those f^r were wth hym to make them re by, exhortyng them to cal vpon God f^r righteous Judge: went forth against those murderers of his brethren, set fyre in f^r haue by nyght, byt vth f^r shipps, & those f^r escaped from f^r fire, he slew wth the sword. And wth he had done this, he departed as though he wolde come againe, & roote our al the of Joppa. But wth he had gotte word f^r the Jammites wer milded to do in f^r he maner vnto f^r Jewes which dwelt among the, he came vpon the Jammites by nyght, & set fyre on f^r haue wth the shipps, so f^r the light of f^r fyre was sene at Jerusalem, vpon a. ii. C. & xl. furlonges.

Now wth they wer gone from thence. ix. furlonge, in theyr iourney toward Timotheus. v. Men of fore, & v. C. horsemen of f^r Arabians fought wth him. So when battail was earnest & prospered wth Judas thowt f^r helpe of God: f^r residue of f^r Arabians being overcome, besought Judas to be at one wth them, & prompted to geue hym certaine pastures, & to do hi good in other thynges. Judas thynkyng f^r they wulde in dede be profitable concerning many thynges, promysed them peace: wherupon they toke handes, & so they departed to theyr tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cytye, whiche was very fast kept wth byrdges, f^rced rounde about f^r walles, & diuers hiden of people dwellyng therein, called Caspin. They f^r wer win it, put such trust in f^r strength of f^r walles, & in floze of byrtaples: f^r they were f^r slacker in theyr doynge, curlyng & reuylng Judas wth blasphemies, & speaking such wordes as it becometh not. But Machabeus calling vpon the great pynce of the world (which about any battail times, or ordinaunce of warre, byd cast doune the walles of Jericho, in the tyme of Josue) fell m^rfully vpon the walles, toke f^r citie thowt f^r helpe of f^r lord) made an exceedig great slaughter: In so muche f^r a lake of two furlonges brode which lay therby semed to flowe wth blond of f^r slain. Then departed they f^r thence vii. C. & l. furlonges, & came to Taraca vnto f^r Jewes f^r are called Tubianci. But as for Timotheus, they could not get hym there, for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed from thence, & had leftte certayn men in a very strong holde. But Dositheus, & Sosipater which wer captaynes captaynes with Machabees, after those 7 Tymotheus had left in the house of defence, even 2000 men. And Machabees prepared him to the 1000 men 7 were about hym, let them in order by companies, & went forth against Tymotheus, whiche had with hym an 1000 men of sorte two thousande and fyne hundred horsemen.

When Tymotheus had knowledge of Judas coming, he sent 7 women, chyldren, & the other baggage unto a castell called Carnion (for it could not be won, & was hard to come unto, the waies of the same places were so narrow) & when Judas company came first in sight, 7 enemies were smytten with feare, they saw 7 presence of God: which serch al thinges. In so much 7 they lying one here, another there, were rather dyscomfyted of theyr owne people, & wounded w the strokes of theyr owne weardes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge upon the punishment of theyr godly, & slew 1000 men of the Tymotheus also hym selfe fell into 7 handes of Dositheus, & Dositheus, whome he besoughte w many prayers, to let hym go with his lyfe, he cause he had many of 7 Jewes fathers & brethren in prison, whiche (if they put hym to death) might be dysappointed. So when he had promysed saith fully to deliuer them agayne accordynge to the eddyccion made, they let hym go withou harme for the helth of the brethren. And when Judas had slayne 1000 men, he went from Carnion.

After that he had chased away, & slayne his enemies, he remoued 7 host to ward Ephraim a strong cite, wherin dwelt many diuers people of 7 heathen, & the strong yong men kept 7 waller defendynge them myghtelye. In this cite was much ordynance & prouision of barres. But when Judas & his company had called vpon almyghty God (whiche w his power breaketh 7 strenght of 7 enemies) they wan 7 cite, & slew 1000 men of the 7 were then. From thence went they to 7 cite of 7 Bethanians, whiche lyeth w. C. furloges from Ierusalem. But when 7 Jewes whiche were in 7 cite testified: 7 the cytyzens delte louyngly w them: yee, & intreated the kyndly in 7 time of theyr aduersite, Judas & his company gaue the thannes, despyng them to be frendly sty vnto them, & so they came to Ierusalem, the hys least of the weakes beyng at hand. And after 7 feast of pentecost they went forth against Gorgias gouernour of Iudum, w. 1000 men of sorte and 1000 horsemen. Whiche when they met together it chaunced a fwe of 7 Jewes to be slaine. And Dositheus one of 7 Bachenors a myghty horseman toke holde of Gorgias, & wolde haue take hym quicke. But an horseman of Thacta fel vpon hym & smote of his arme so 7 Gorgias escaped & fled into Moza, when they now 7 were of Gorgias lyde, had fought long & were weary Judas called vpon 7 Lord, 7 he wold be theyr helper, & captain of the feide: & with 7 he began w a manly voise to take vp a songe of psalme, & a crye. In so much 7 he made 7 enemies afraied & Gorgias men of war toke their flight. So Judas gathered his host, & came into 7 cite of Dabul. And when 7 vii. day came vpon the, they cleansed the selues (as the custome was) & kepte the sabboth in the same place. And vpon 7 daye folowynge, Judas & his company came to take by the bodies of them 7 were slayne, & to burye them in their fathers graues. Now vnder 7 coats of certayne Jewes whiche were slaine, they founde Jewels 7 they had taken out of 7 temple & from the pould of the 7 Imiters: whiche thing is so bidde 7 Jewes by the lawe. The euery man saw, 7 this was 7 cause wherfor they were slaine.

And so euery man gaue thannes vnto 7 Lord for his ryghteous iudgement, whiche had opened the thyng 7 was hyd. They fell do wne also vnto 7 prayers, & besoughte God, that the faute whiche was made, myght be put out of remembrance. Besides 7, Judas exhorted 7 people earnestly, to kepe them selues from such synne: for so muche as they sawe before theyr eyes, 7 these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so muche 7 he brought together two 1000. Dignamars of spluer, whiche he sent vnto Ierusalem 7 ether might a sacrifice be offered for the mysdoe. In the which place he dyd well & right: for he had some consp. deracyon & pondyng of the lyfe 7 is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought 7 they, whiche were slaine, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vaine, to make any vow or sacrifice for the 7 were dead. But for so muche as he saw, 7 they which dye in the fauoure & belefe of God, are in good rest & soie, he thought it to be good & honorable for a reconcyllynge, to do the same for those which were slaine, 7 the offence might be forgiven.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The coming of Eupator into Ierusalem. The death of Demetrius: Machabees going to fight against Eupator: murther his souldiers vnto prayer. He byllets souldiers thurande men on the citie of Antiochia. Rhodes the treasurer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus caryeth sundry ships with the Jewes.

In the C. lxx. yere gat 7 Judas knowledge, that Antiochus Eupator was coming with a great power into Ierusalem, and Lissas the steward & ruler of hys matters wyth hym haung an 1000 men of sorte. 1000 horsemen. 1000. Elephantes, and 1000. Chariots. Menelaus also toynd hym selfe with the (but wyth great dyscreet) & spake saye to the kyng, not for any good of the countrey, but because he thought to haue bene made some great man of auctoryte. But 7 kyng of hynge moured Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodlye person, & Lissas infortuned the kyng 7 this Menelaus was the cause of all myschefe: so that the kyng commaunded to take him, & (as the manner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place. There was also in the same place a tower of 1000 cubytes hye, deaped w a fwe: but aboute, it was so made, ymen might loke doune on euery syde. Wherunto the kyng commaunded 7 shamefull persone to be caste among 7 ashes, as one 7 was cause of all vngodlynesse. And reall it was 7 the vngodlye shuld dye such a death, & not to be buried: for he had done much myschefe vnto the aplyte of God (whose syze & alyes were holy) therfore was it ryght, that he hym selfe also shulde be destroyed with alyes.

But the kyng was wroth in his mind, & came to shewe hym selfe moze cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Whiche when Judas perceived, he commaunded his people to call vpon his Lord nyght & day that he wold now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alway. For they were afraied to be put from thei lawe, from thei natural country & from the holy temple: & not to suffer the people (which a lytle while afore began to recouer) to be subdued agayne of blasphemous nacyōs. So when they had done this together, & besought the Lord for mercie, with wepyng & fastyng. iii. dayes long flat vpon the ground. Judas exhorted them, to make thei selues ready. But he & the elders together deuised to go forth first to thei people, afore the kyng brought his hoste into Jewry, and afore he beseged the cite, & commyt the matter vnto God.

Wherfore, he ascribed the power of al thingen vnto God, & maker of sworde & shild, & his people to fyght manfully: yet, euen vnto deathe for the lawes, the temple, the cite, thei owne natyue country, & to defend his cytyzens: & let his hoste before God. He gaue them also & were to him a token of his vncrope of God, chosing out his manliest yonge men, went by nyghte into his gyspauynton, & to thei hoste. xiii. Men. & his greatest Elephantes & those & sat vpon them.

DThus when they had brought a great feare & rumour among the tentes of thei enemyes, & all thinges went prosperously to them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God being thei helper & defender. Nowe when the kyng perceyued the manlinesse of the Jewes, he went about to take strong places by craft, & removed his hoste vnto Bethsura, which was a wel kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they were chased away, hurt & dyscomfyted. And Judas sent vnto them & were in such thinges as were necessary. In the Jewes hoste also there was one Rhodocus which tolde the enemyes thei secrettes: but they sought hym oute, & when they had gotten hym they put hym in prison. After this dyd the kyng comen with them & were in Bethsura, tooke truce with them, departed & stroke battaile with Judas, whiche ouercame hym.

EBut when he vnderstoode, that Hieripppe (whome he had left to be ouerser of his bulwarkes at Antioch) beganne to rebell agaynst hym, he was altorned in his mynde: so that he seided hym selfe to the Jewes, and made them an othe to do whatso euer they thought ryghte.

Nowe when he was reconcyled with them: he offered, to be much of his temple, gaue greates gyftes vnto it, embzased Machabeus, making hym captayne and gouernoure from Ptolomys vnto the Serrenes. Neuerthelesse, when he came Ptolomys, the people of the cite were not content with the bonde of frendshyppe: for they were afraied, that he wold breake the cōuynant. Then came Lysias vnto the senate and enformed the people, & shewed thei cause why, and pacified them. So he came agayne vnto Antioch. This is now the matter concerning the kynges iourney, and his returne.

The xliii. Chapter.

Howe the mayson of the Rache, Demetrius (which Symon to kill the Jewes. Symon maketh a compacte with the Jewes) wold be put to death through the mayson of the Rache, & Symon maketh Rache to be taken. The boldnes of Rache.

After thei peres was Judas entoured, med howe that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come up to a greates power and myghtes, & so thei the haue of Crapulus, to take certayne chynobious places and countreys, agaynst Antiochus and his captayne Lysias. Nowe Alcimus (whiche had bene hys pleast, and dysfully dyspyed hym selfe in the tyme of the murtheryng) seying & by no meanes he coulde be helped, nor haue any moze entralle to the aulter: he came to kyng Demetrius in the C. & li. yere, & perswadinge vnto hym a crowne of gold, a palme & an Olive tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple, and & daye he helde his tongue. But when he had gotten oportunitie for his madnes, Demetrius called hym to counsaile, and asked hym, what thynge he coulde saye the Jewes leane vnto. He answered: The Jewes that be called asyde (whose captayne is Judas Machabeus) mayntayne warres, make insurreccions, and wyl not let the realme be in peace.

For I being dyspyued of my fathers honour (I meane the hys pleasthode) am come hether: partly because I was saythful vnto the kyng and partly because I sought the prosperite of the cytyzens. And why all our people, & so thei the wyckednesse of them, are not a lytle troubled. Wherfore, I beseeche the kyng, consider all these thinges diligently, & the make some prouision for the lande and the people, according to the kynndes that thou haste offered vnto them. For as long as Judas hath the vpper hand, it is not possible that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also hauing euell wyll at Judas, let his kyng Demetrius on hys agaynst hym: which immediately sent Alcimus (ruler of his Elephantes) a captayne into Jewry, commaunding hym to take Judas hym selfe alyue, but to slay them that were with hym, and to make Alcimus hys pleaste of the great Temple.

Then the heathen which fled out of Jewry from Judas, came to Sicanos by Rothen, thynkyng the harme and decaie of the Jewes to be thei welfare. Nowe when his Jewes hearde of Sicanos chyming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprynckled them selues with earth, and besought hym which made them his people, and ener defended his owne poeccion with euident tokens, that he wold preserve thei still. So at the commaundement of the captayne, they removed from thence, and came to a towne called Delsasan. And Simon Judas brother fel in hande with Sicanos, but & so thei the sodaine comyng of the enemyes, he was afraied.

Neuerthelesse, Sicanos bearyng the manlynesse of them that were with Judas, & the bold stomaches that they had to fyghte for thei natural countrey, durst not moue the matter to bloudshedding. Wherfore, he sent Theodocius Theodorius, and Gathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had take long aduise-ment therupon and the captayne shewed it vnto synnithud, they wer agreed in one mind to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sette vpon these matters quyetly among them selues, the scooles also were brought & set forth. Neuertheles, Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to waite in conuenient places, leaste there shulde sodaynely aryse any euill theowse the enemyes. And so they communed reasona-ble together.

D Apicano, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, oz- dined hym selfe not vnreasonably, but sent a way the people & were gathered together. He loued Judas euer with his herte, and fauoured hym. He praid bl also to take a wyfe, & to haue foorth chyldren. So he married, liued in rest, and they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceyving & lone that was betwixt them, and howe they were agreed together, came to Demetrius, and tolde hym & Apicano had taken strange mat- ters in hand, and ozderped Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges successor. Then & kyng was soze displeased, and theowse & we- ked accusacions, which Alcimus made of Ap- cano, he was so prouoked, & he wrote vnto Ap- cano saynge: that he was very angrie for the frendshyppe & agreement, which he had made w Machabeus. Neuertheles, he commaunded hym in all the haste, that he shuld take Machabeus prisoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

E Which letters when Apicano had sene, he was at his wyttes end, and soze greued, that he shulde breake & thinges wherein they had agre- ed specially seying Machabeus was the man & neuer byd hym harme. But because he myghte not withstande the kyng he sought oportu- nite to fulfill his commaundement. Notwithstan- dyng when Machabeus sawe that Apicano be- ganne to be churliche vnto hym, and & he intrea- ted hym moze roughlye then he was wonte, he perceiued & lache vnkynndnes came not of good and therfore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrew hym selfe from Apicano. Whiche when he knewe that Machabeus had manfully p- uentured hym, he came into & great and mozte holy temple: & commaunded & p- ceastes (whiche were doynge theys vsual offerynges) to deliuer hym & man. And when they sware & they coulde not tell where the man was whome he soughte he stretched out his hande, & made an othe, sayng: If ye wyll not deliuer me Judas cap- taine I shall remoue this Temple of God into a playne felde, I shall breahe downe the sulter, and consecrate this temple vnto Bacchus. Af- ter these wordes he departed.

F Then the p- ceastes lyfte vp theys handes to ward heauen, and besought him that was eu- er the defender of theys people, saynge: Thou O Lord of all, which haste nede of nothyng, wol- dest that the temple of thy habitacyon shuld be among vs. Therfore nowe O most holy Lord hepe this house euer vnderpiled: whiche lately was clouised. Now was there accused vnto Ap-

no, one Razis an alderman of Jerusalem a lo- uer of the holy cytie, and a man of god repozte: which for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. This man oftetymes, when the Jewes wer mynded to kepe them selues vnderpiled, defended and de- liuered them, being content stedfastly to spend his bodye and his lyfe for his people.

G So Apicano wylling to declare the hate & he bare to the Jewes, sent v. C. men of warre to take him: for he thought, if he gat hym, he shuld byng the Jewes in great decay. Now when & people began to rushe in at his house, to breahe the doores, and to set fyre on it: he byng now ta- ken, wold haue defended hym self w his sword chosyng rather to dye manfullye, then to yelde hymself to those wycked doers: & because of his noble stocke, he had rather to haue ben put to & extreme cruelty. Notwithstanding, what time as he mysted of his stroke for past, and & mul- titude fell in vpolently betwixt the doores, he ran boldly to & wal, and cast hym selfe doune man- fully among & heape of them, whiche gaue some place to his fall, so that he fell vpon his bellye. Neuertheles, whyle there was yet hert with in hym, he was kyndled in his mynde, & whyle his bloude gushed oute exceedingly: for he was verye soze wounded, he ran theowse the myddest of the people and gat hym to & toppe of a roche. So when his bloude was gone, he toke out his owne bowels with both his handes, and thye we them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of lyfe and spyrte to rewarde hym this agayne and so he dyed.

The xv Chapter.

Apicano goeth aboute to come vpon Judas on the Sabbath daye. The blasphemy of Apicano. Machabeus exhortyng vnto the Jewes the wyson & sterneth theys hartes. The p- ap- of Machabeus. After the herte of Apicano is ones overcome: Ma- chabeus commaundeth his herd and his handes to be cut of: & his tongue to be greeued vnto the foules.

Nowe when Apicano knewe that Ju- das was in the countre of Samaria, he thoughte with all his power to stirre a felde with hym, vpon a Sa- bath daye. Neuertheles the Jewes that were compelled to go wyth hym, sayed: O do not so cruely and vnkynndly, but halow the Sabbath daye, and wo:thyp hym, that seeth all thynges for all thys, yet sayed the vngacious person: Is ther a myghtie one in heauen, & commaun- ded the Sabbath daye to keper? And when they sayed yee, the lyuyng God, the myghty Lord in heaue: commaunded the seuenth day to be kepte: And I am myghtie vpon earth, to com- maunde them for to arme them selues, and to perforce the kynges busynes. Notwithstan- dyng, he myghte not haue his purpose.

Apicano had deuiled with great prid to ouer- come Judas, and to byng a way the vycrope: But Machabeus had euersast confidence and a perfect hope in God, that he wold helpe him and exhorted his people, not to be afrayd at the coumyng of the heathen: but alway to remem- ber the helpe & had ben shewed vnto them from heauen: yee, & to be sure now also, & slough- God

God wolde geue them þe vncertoyn. He spake vnto the out of the lauer & prophetes, putting the in remembraunce of þe hardshippes þe had dryed ben afore and made the to be of a good courage

B So when they þe bettes were place vp, he shewed them the dyscrefulnesse of the heathen and howe they wolde kepe no couenaunte nor othe. Thus they weapored them: not wth the armour of shyde & speare, but wth wholsome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also wherthorow he made the all glad, which was this: he thought þe he sawe Onias (which had bene hys yreallte, a verreous and a lonyng man sad, and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, & one that had bene exercysed in godlynesse from a chyld) holdyng vp his handes towardes heauen, and prayng for his people. After this ther appered vnto hym another man which was aged honourable & gloypous. And Onias sayde: This is a louer of the byethen, and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth muche for the people and for all the holie cytie: Jeremy þe prophet of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde out his ryght hand, and gaue vnto Judas a sword of gold, sayng: Take this holy sword a gyfte from God, wherwith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israel.

C And so they were well comforted thorow the wordes of Judas, & toke courage vnto them so that the ponge men wer determyned in their myndes to fyghte, and to byde styll at it: In so muche that the thynges which they toke in hande, they holdnesse the wed the same, because the holie cytie and the temple were in perel: for the which they tooke more care then for theyr wyues, chyldren, byethen and kynnsfolkes.

A gayne they that were in the cytie, were most carefull for those which were to fyghte. Nowe when they were all in a hope that the Judgements of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes by the nyc, the hoste beyng sette in aray, the Elephantes & horsemen every one standing in his place: Machabeus consyderyng the comyng of the myltitude, the ordynanner of dyuers weapons, the cruellnesse of the beastes, and helde vp his handes towardes heauen, callynge upon the Lorde that doeth wonders, * which getteth not the vncertoyn after the myltitude of þe weapons and power of the hoste (but to them þe please hym) accordyng to his owne wyl. Therfore in his prayer he sayde these wordes.

O Lorde, * thou that dydest sende thynne Aungel in the tyme of Ezechias kyng of Juda, & in the host of Sennacherib slewest an. C. lxxx and. v. W sende nowe also thy good aungel be fore vs: O Lorde of heuens in the fearfulness and byde of thy myghty arme, & they which come agaynst the holie people to blasfeme them, make the strayed. So he made an ende of his wordes. Then Sicanos and they þe were with hym, dyewe nyc wyth shawmen, and songen: but Judas and his compayns with prayer and callynge upon God.

With theyr handes they smote, but with theyr bettes they prayed vnto the Lorde, & slew no lesse then thre & thysyde thousand men: For thorow the present helpe of God they were gloryously comforted.

Nowe when they left of, and were turning agayne with ioye, they vnderstode that Sicanos hym selfe was slayne with the other. Then they gaue a greater shoute and a crye, prayng the Almyghty Lorde wth a loude voyce. And Judas (which was euer ready to spende hys bodye and lyfe for hys cytyzens) commaunded to smyte of Sicanos head, with his arme and hande, and to be broughte to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called all þe people, and the prestes to the aulter with those that were in the castell, and shewed them Sicanos head, and his wyched hande which he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tonge also of the vngodly Sicanos to be cut in lytle peces, & to be caste vnto the soules: and the cruell mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple.

So every man gaue thankes vnto the Lorde sayng: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vnderpiled.

As for Sicanos head, he hanged it vp vpon the hye castell, for an eydent and plain token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holie, namelpe the thysyene daye of the moneth Adar which in the byzians language is called the nexte day before Mardocheus day. Thus was Sicanos slaine and from that tyme forth the Iewes had the cytie in possession.

And here wyl I now make an ende.

And so all the generacions from Abraham to Dauid, are fourtene generacions. And from Dauid vnto the captiuyter of Babylon, are fourtene generacions. And from the captiuyter of Babylon vnto Christe, are fourtene ge-neracions.

C The byrthe of Iesus Christe was on thys wyse. ✠ When hys mother Marye was married to Ioseph (before they came to dwel together) he was founde wth chylde by the holpe gooste. Then Ioseph her husbnde (because he was a ryghteous man, and woulde not put her to shame) he was mynded, pynclipe to departe from her. But whyle he thus thought: beholde, the angell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym in a slepe, saynge: Ioseph, thou sonne of Dauid: feare not to take vnto the Mary thy wyfe. For that whiche is conceaued in her, cometh of the holpe gooste. She shall byrnyng forth a sonne, and thou shalt cal his name: Iesus. For he shall saue hys people from theyr synnes.

All thys was done that it myghte be fulfylled whych was spoken of the Lorde by the pprophet sayng: * Beholde, a mayde shall be wth chylde, and shall byrnyng forth a sonne, and they shall cal hys name Emanuel, whych ys a man interprete, it is as muche to saye, as God wth vs. ✠

And Ioseph as sone as he awoke out of slepe, byd as the angell of the Lorde had bydden hym: and he toke hys wyfe vnto hym, and knewe her not, tyll she had brought forth a sonne, begotten sonne, and called hys name Iesus.

The. ii. Chapter.

The tyme and place of Christes byrth. The wise men offer their presentes. Christ flyeth into Egypt, the yode children are slayne. Christ turneth into Galilee.

When Iesus was boine at Ber-thleem a citie of Jewye, in tyme of herode the kynge: Beholde, there came wyse menne from the east to Ierusalem, sayng: Where is he þ is boine kynge of Jewes?
For we haue sene his starre in the east, and are come worshyppe hym.

When herode the kynge had herde these thyn-ges, he was troubled, and all the crite of Ierusalem wth hym. And when he had gathered all the chiefe prestes and scribes of the people together: he demaunded of the, where Christ shoulde be boine. And they said vnto hym: At Berthleem in Jewye. For thus it is wyrtten by the ppophete: * And thou Berthleem in the lande of Juda, art not the least amonge the pynces of Iuda.
For out of the shall ther come vnto me the captaine, that shall gouerne my people Israel.

Then herode (when he had pceuely called the wyse men) he enquired of them dilygently what tyme the starre appeared, and he had them go to Berthleem, and sayd: So your way thither, and searche dilygently for the chylde. And when ye haue found hym byrnyng me worde agayn that I maye come and worshyppe hym also.

When they had hearde the kynge, they departed: and lo, the starre whiche they sawe in the east, went before them, tyll it came, and stode ouer the place, wherein the chylde was. When they sawe the starre, they were excedyng glad:
and wente into the house, and founde the chylde wth Marye hys mother, * and fell downe flat and worshyped hym, and opened their treasures, and offered vnto hym gyftes, gold, frankynsence and myrr. And after they were warned of God in slepe (that they shoulde not go agayn to herode) they returned into theyr owne coun-tre another waye. ✠

When they wer departed, beholde the angell of the Lorde appeared to Ioseph in slepe, sayng:

arise, and take the childe and his mother, and flye into Egypt: and be thou there tyll I brynge the childe. For it shall come to passe that herode shall seeke the childe to destroye hym. And when he awoke he toke the childe and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt, and was there tyll the death of herode, that it myghte be fulfilled, which was spoken of the Loide by the prophet, say- yng: out of Egypt have I called my sonne.

Mat. ii. 13.
Luce. ii. 22.

Then herode when he sawe that he was mocked of the wyse men, he was excreasyng wrothe, and sent forth men of warre, and slew all the chyldren that were in Bethleem, and in all the co- sters (as many as were two yere olde or under) accordyng to the tyme, whiche he had diligently knowne of the wyse men.

Jer. xxxi.

Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by the prophete Jeremie, where as he sayde: in Rama was there a voyce herde, lamentacion, weeping and great mourning. Rachel weeping for her chyldren, and would not be comforted, be- cause they were not.

Mat. ii. 18.

But when herode was deade: beholde, an angell of the Loide appea- red in a slepe to Joseph, in Egypt, sayng: arise and take the childe and his mother, and go into the lande of Israel, for they are dead whiche soughte the chyldes lyfe. And he arose, and tooke the childe and his mother, and came into the land of Israel. But when he hearde that Archelaus did raygne in Jewry, in the towne of his father herode, he was afrayde to go thither. And with standyng, after he was warned of God in a slepe, he turned asyde into the parties of Galile, and wente and dwelte in a cytie whiche is cal- led Nazareth: that it myghte be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophetes: he shall be called a Nazaryte.

At those dayes came Ihon the bap- tist, preachinge in the wyldernes of Jewrye, and sayng: Repente of the life that is past, for the kyng- dome of heaven is at hande. For thus is he of whome the prophete Esaye spake, whiche sayth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes, prepare the waye of the Loide, & make his pathes straight. Thus Ihon had his ray- ments of Camels heere. And a gyrdell of a skynne aboute his loynes. His meate was locustes and wilde hony. Then went out to hym Jerusalem and all Jewrye, and all the region rounde aboute Jordane, and were baptised of hym in Jordane, confessyng theyr synnes.

Then cometh Iesus from Galile to Jor- dane vnto Ihon, to be baptised of hym. But Ihon forbad hym, sayng: I haue neede to be ba- ptised of thee: and comest thou to me? Iesus answe- red and sayde vnto hym: Let it be so nowe. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfill al righteousnes. Then he suffered hym. And Iesus, when he was baptised, came straight waye out of the water. And lo, heauen was open vnto hym: & he sawe the spirite of God, descendyng like a doue, and lightyng vpon hym. And lo, there came a voyce from heauē sayng: This is my beloued sonne in whom I am well pleased.

Christ taketh and is tempted: he collecteth Disciples, and howe Christ was baptised of hym in Jordane.

Then was Iesus led away of the spirite into wyldernes: to be tempted of the deuell. And when he had fasted fourte dayes and fourtie nightes, he was at the laste hongred. And when the tempter came to hym, he sayde: If thou be the sonne of God, commaunde, that these stones be made bread. ¶ In this Chapter and in the two next following is contained the most excellent and loving sermon of Chas in the mountains; which sermon is the best here that opened the understanding into the lame. In this 17th Chapter, especially the piety of the ergei he describes as disciple: Of mental laughter, wrath and anger, of abstinence, of fearing of suffering wrong and of love, even towards a man's enemies.

The Gospell

Againe, ye haue herde howe it was sayde to them of old tyme: * thou shalt not forswere thy seife, but shalt performe vnto the Lord those thynges that thou swearest. * But I saye vnto you: sweare not at all, neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by earth, for it is his fote: neither by Ierusalem, for it is the cytie of y greates hyng: neither shalt thou sweare by thy head because thou canst not make one heer white or blacke. But your communicaciō shall be: yea, yea, naye, naye. For whatsoeuer is added moze then these, it cometh of euell.

Ye haue herde that it is said: * an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. But I saye vnto you, that ye resist not euell. But * whosoever geue the a blowe on the ryght cheeke, turne to hym the other also. And if any manne will sue the at the lawe, & take awaye thy coat, let hym haue thy cloake also. And whosoever wyl compel the to go a myle, go wyth hym twayne. Geue to hym that asketh the, and from hym that woulde bozowe, turne not thou awaye.

Ye haue herde that it is sayde, * thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure, and hate thyne enemye. But I say vnto you: loue your enemyes. Blesse them that curse you. * Do good to them that hate you, praye for them whych hurte you and persecute you, & ye may be the chyldren of your father whych is in heauen, for he maketh his sunne to aryse on the euell, & on y good, and sendeth rayne on y iust and on the vniuste. For yf ye loue them whych loue you: what rewarde haue ye? Do not the publicans also euen thus? And yf ye make muche of youe bzethren onely, what synfuler thyng do ye? Do not also y publicans like wyse? * ye shal therfor be persyte eue as your father which is in heauen, is persyte. *

Of almes, prayer, and fastyng. Be tokyd both the careful leryng of worldly thynges.

In the dede yf ye geue not youre almes in the sight of men, to the intent yf ye would be sene of the. Or els you haue no rewarde with your father which is in heauen. Therfore when thou givest thyne almes, let not trumpettes be blown before the, as the ppoctyes do in the synagoges and in y strettes: for to be prayled of men. Merely I say vnto you: they haue they reward. But when thou wilt geue almes, let not thy left hande knowe what thy ryght hande doeth, that thyne almes may be in secrete, and thy father whiche seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly. *

And whē thou prayest: thou shalt not be as the ppoctyes are. For they vse to fraude prayyng in the synagoges, and in the caryers of the strettes, that they maye be sene of men. Merely, I saye vnto you: they haue they reward. But when thou prayest: entre into thy chambze, and whē thou hast shut thy doze praye to thy father whiche is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

But when ye praye: bable not muche, as the heathē do: for they thynke it wyl come to passe that they shal be herd for they much babylnges sake. Be not ye therfore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges ye haue nede of before ye aske of hym, after this maner therfore praye ye.

 Our father whiche art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Let thy kyngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, as well in earth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure dayly bzeade. And forgyue vs oure dettes as we forgyue oure debtors. And leade vs not into temptacion, but deliuer vs from euell. For thyne is the kyngdome and the power, and the glorie for euer. Amen.

Therfore yf ye forgyue other men they: trespasses, your heauenly father shall forgyue you. But yf ye wyl not forgyue men they: trespasses, nomoze shall your father forgyue you your trespasses.

 Whosoever: when ye fast, be not sad as the ppoctyes are. For they disfigure they faces, & it maye appere vnto men, howe that they fast. Merely, I say vnto you, they haue they reward. But thou when thou fastest, anoynt thyne head and washe thy face that it appere not vnto men that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, whiche is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

Lay not vp for your selues treasure vpo earth where the rust & moth doth corrupt, and where theues bzeake through and steale. * But lay vp for you treasures in heauē, wher neither rust nor moth doth corrupt, & wher theues do not bzeake thorow: nor steale. For where your treasure is, there wyl your herte be also. *

 The lyght of the body is y eye. Wherfore yf thyne eye be synge, all thy bodye shal be full of lyght. But yf thyne eye be wyched, all thy body shal be ful of darknesse. Wherfore, yf y lyght that is in the, be darknes, howe great is y darknes? * No man can serue two masters. For ether he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els leane to the one, & despise the other: ye ca not serue God and Mammon. Therfore I saye vnto you: * be not careful for your lyfe, what ye shal eate or drynke, nor yet for your body, what raimēt ye shal put on. Is not y lyfe moze woorth then meat: and the body moze of value, the raimēt? Beholde, the foules of the ayre: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor cary in the barnes: and your heauenly father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?

 Which of you (by taking careful thought) can adde one cubyte vnto his stature? And why care ye for raimēt? Consider the lilyes of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not, neither do they spynne. And yet I saye vnto you, y euen Salomon in all his royaltie was not arrayed lyke one of these. Wherfore, if God so clothe y grasse of y felde (which though it stande to daye is to morowe cast into the foynasse) shall he not much moze do y same for you, o ye of lytle faith? Therfore take no thought, sayng: what shall we eate, or what shall we drynke, or wherwith shall we be clothed? After all these thynges doo the gruyless sike. For your heauenly father knoweth knoweth. that ye haue nede of al these thynges. But rather seeke ye fyrst the kyngdome of God and the ryghtheousnesse therof, and al these thynges shalbe ministred vnto you.

Care not then for the moow. for the moowes daye shall care for it selfe: suffycente vnto the daye, is the traunyle therof.

The vii. Chapter.

The folowynge foloweth and each iudgement, expoundeth ppeccacye, chaunceth vnto prayer, warneth to be hase of false prophetes: and wyllet the hearers of his wordes to be doers of the same.

Wagde not, that ye be not iudged: for as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. And what measure ye mete, with that same shall other men measure to you. Why seest thou a moate in thy brothers eye: but couldest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye? Or howe sayest thou to thy brother: brother, suffer me, I wyl plucke out a moate out of thyne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thyne owne eye. Thou hypocrite, firste cast out the beame out of thyne owne eye, & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

Aske and it shalbe geuen you: Seke and ye shall fynde: knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoever askereth, receaueth, & whosoever sekereth, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shalbe opened. Is there any man amonge you whycher if his sonne aske bread, wyl offer hym a stone? Or if he aske fysh, wyl he geue hym a serpent? If ye then (when ye are euell) can geue your chyldren good gyftes, howe muche moze shall your father whych is in heauen, geue good thynges, vnto you aske of hym.

Therefore, whatsoeuer ye woulde that men should do to you: do ye euen so to them also. For this is the lawe and the prophetes. Enter in at the strait gate: for wyde is the gate, and broad is the waye that leadeth to destruction: and many there be whych go in therat. But strait is the gate, and narrow is the waye, whiche leadeth vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it. Beware of false prophetes whych come to you in shepes cloynges, but inwardly they are rauenyng wolues. Ye shall knowe them by theyr workes.

Do men gather grapes of thornes? or figges of thystles? Eue so euery good tre bynggeth forth good frutes. But a corrupt tre, bynggeth forth euell frutes. A good tre can not bynge forth bad frute: netter can a bad tre bynge forth good frutes. Euery tre that bynggeth not forth good frute, is hewe doune, and cast into the fyre. Wherefore, by theyr frutes ye shall knowe them. Not euery one that sayeth vnto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kyngdome of heauen: but he that doth the wyl of my father, whiche is in heauen. (He shall enter into the kyngdome of heauen.)

Wagde not, that ye be not iudged: for as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. And what measure ye mete, with that same shall other men measure to you. Why seest thou a moate in thy brothers eye: but couldest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye? Or howe sayest thou to thy brother: brother, suffer me, I wyl plucke out a moate out of thyne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thyne owne eye. Thou hypocrite, firste cast out the beame out of thyne owne eye, & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

Aske and it shalbe geuen you: Seke and ye shall fynde: knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoever askereth, receaueth, & whosoever sekereth, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shalbe opened. Is there any man amonge you whycher if his sonne aske bread, wyl offer hym a stone? Or if he aske fysh, wyl he geue hym a serpent? If ye then (when ye are euell) can geue your chyldren good gyftes, howe muche moze shall your father whych is in heauen, geue good thynges, vnto you aske of hym.

my wyl sape to me in þ daye: Lorde, Lorde, haue we not prophecied thowth thy name: And tho towe thy name haue caste out deuils: And done many myracles thowth thy name: And then wyl I knowlage vnto them: I neuer knew you: Departe fro me, ye that wylle iniquyte.

For whosoever heareth of me these wordes, & doeth the same, I wyl lychen hym vnto a wyse man, whiche buylt his house vpon a roche: & a howter of rayne descended, and floudes came and the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that house and it fell not, because it was grounded on the roche. And euerye one that heareth of me these wordes, & doeth the not, shalbe lychen vnto a foolyshe m. whych buylt his house vpon sand and a howter of rayne descended, and floudes came, & the wyndes blew, and beate vpon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

And it came to passe, when Iesus had ended these saynges, people were astonnyed at his doctrine. For he taught them as one hauyng power, and not as the scribes. (of them and the pharysees.)

Christ cleareth the leper, and healeth the captiues fetters, and many other diseases, helpeth the mother in lawe, syllet the sex, and the wounde, and dyspayth the deuils out of the possessed into the swyne.

When he was come doune from the mountayne muche people folowed hym. And beholde, there came a leper, and worshypped hym sayyng: Wapster, if thou wylte thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth his hande, and touched hym sayyng: I wyl, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leprosy was clyensd. And Iesus sayeth vnto hym: se thou tel no man: but go and shew thy selfe to the ppeaste, and offer thy gyfte: that Moses commaunded to be offered for a wytnes vnto them.

And when Iesus was entered into Capernaum, there came vnto hym a Centurion, and besought hym, sayyng: Waster my seruaunt lyeth at home syche of the palsy, and is greuously payned. And Iesus sayeth, when I come vnto hym, I wyl heale hym. The Centurion answered, and saide: Sy, I am not worthy, that thou shouldest come vnder my rooff: but speake the worde onely, and my seruaunt shalbe healed. For I also my selfe am a man subiecte to the authorite of another, and haue souldyers vnder me, & I sape vnto this man: go, & he goeth: and to another come, and he cometh, and to my seruaunt do this, and he doeth it. When Iesus herde these wordes, he marueled: and sayde to them that folowed hym: Verely, I sape vnto you: I haue not founde so greates saythe in Israel. I sape vnto you: that many shal come from the East, and West, and shall rest wryth Abraham and Isahac and Jacob in the kyngdome of heauen: but the chyldren of þ kyngdome shalbe cast oute into vster darkness: there shalbe wepyng and gnasyng of teeth. And Iesus sayde vnto the Centurion: go thy waye, and as thou beleuest, so be it vnto the. And his seruaunt was made.

Wagde not, that ye be not iudged: for as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. And what measure ye mete, with that same shall other men measure to you. Why seest thou a moate in thy brothers eye: but couldest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye? Or howe sayest thou to thy brother: brother, suffer me, I wyl plucke out a moate out of thyne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thyne owne eye. Thou hypocrite, firste cast out the beame out of thyne owne eye, & then shalt thou se clearly to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

And he sayd vnto them: go poure wythes. Then wente they oute, and departed into the herd of swyne. And beholde, the whole herd of swyne was carryed headlong into the see, and perished in the waters. Then they that kept them, fled & wente they wythes into the cytie, and told euery thyng, what had fortuned vnto the possessed of the deuylles. And beholde, the whole cytie came oute to meete Iesus, and when they sawe hym, * they besought hym that he woulde departe out of theyr countrey.

The heareth the pallye, collecte Matthew from the end. and Iesus sayd to hys discyples, heareth the woman of the bloudy floure: the pers Jannes daughter, groweth two blind men they fight, maketh a woman man to speake and Iesus out a deuyl.

¶ Entred also into a shyp, & passed ouer, and came into his owne cytie, and behold, * they brought to him a man sycke of the pallye, lying in a bed. And when Iesus sawe the sayd of the, he sayd vnto the sycke of the pallye: sonne, be of good cheere, the synnes be forgiven thee. And beholde, certayn of the scribes said within them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe their thoughtes, he sayd: Wherefore thynke ye euill in your heartes? Whether is easier to saye, the synnes be forgiven thee, or to saye, arise & walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in earth. Then sayeth he vnto the sycke of the pallye: * arise, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thyr house. And he arose, and departed to his house. And it came to passe as Iesus sat at meat in his house: beholde, many publycans also and synners that cam, sat doune with Iesus and hys discyples.

¶ And when the pharisees sawe it, they sayd vnto his discyples: why eateth your master with publycans and synners? But when Iesus heard that, he sayd vnto them: They that be stronge neede not the physician, but they that are sycke. So perather and learne what that meaneth. * I wyl haue mercy and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance. ¶ Then came the discyples of Iohn vnto hym, saying: * why do we and the pharisees fast, for the moste parte: but thy discyples fast not? And Iesus sayd vnto them: the bydegrome whichen mourne as long as the bydegrome is with them: But the daye wyl come, when the bydegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. A woman putteth a peece of newe cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he away the peece from the garment, and the rent is made worse. Rather do men put new wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, & the wyne runneth oute, and the bottels perishe. But they put new wyne into newe bottels, and both are saued together. ¶

But when the people wer putte forth, he went in, and toke her by the hande, and she arose. And thei went abode into all that lande. And when Iesus departed thence, twoo blynde menne folowed hym crying and saying: O thou soone of David haue mercy on vs. And whē he was come into the house, the blinde came to hym. And Iesus saith vnto them: Be- leue ye, that I am able to dooe this: Thei saied vnto hym: Loyde, we beleue. Then touched he their eyes, saying: * Accordyng to your faith bee it vnto you. And their eyes wer opened. And Iesus charged thei saying: See that no manne knowe of it. But thei, when thei wer departed, spied abode his name in all that lande.

As thei went out, beholde, * thei brought to hym a dourne manne possessed of a deuill. And when the deuill was cast out the dourne spake. And the people merrailed, saying: it was neuer so sene in Israell. But the pharises saied: he casteth out deuils, through the prince of deuils.

And Iesus went aboute all cities and townes teaching in their synagoges, and preaching the glad tynges of the kyngdome, and healyng euery sickenes and euery dyscalse among the people. But when he sawe the people: * he was moued with compassion on thei, because thei wer destitute, and scattered abode, euē as shepe ha- yung no sheperde. Then saith he vnto his dis- ciples, the * herust truly is plenteous, but the labourers are fewe. Praye ye therefore the Lord of the herust, that he will sende labourers into his haruest.

¶ Chide feithful out his thurlye apostles to praye in house, searche them change, teacheth thei, and comforteth them againe persecution and trouble.

As when his twelve disciples wer called vnto hym, he gaue thei po- uere against vncleane spirites, to cast them out, and to heale all maner of sickenes and all maner of dyscalse.

The names of the twelve apostles are these. The first, Simon whiche is called Peter: * And to his brother: James the soone of zebede, & Iohn his brother: philly & Bartholomew: Tho- mas and Mathew, whiche had been a publick. James the soone of Alpha, and Lebheus (whose surname was Taddes) Simeon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot, whiche also betrayed hym.

* Iesus sente forth these twelve in nombre, whom he commaunded, saying: Goo not into y wape of the Gentiles, and into the citee of the Samaritans entre ye not. But goo rather to y lost shepe of the house of Israell. So and preach saying: The kyngdome of heauen is at hande.

Heale the sicke, cleanse the lepers, raise the dedde, cast out deuils. * Frely ye haue receiued gene- free ly. * Possesse not golde nor syluer nor brasse in your purses, nor yet scrippe to wardes your iou- nry: neither stode cotes, neither shos, nor yet a rod: * For y woodkman is woorthy of his meate

But to whatsoeuer citee or towne ye shall come enquire who is woorthy in it, and there abyde till ye goo thence. * And when ye come into a house salute the same. And if the house bee woorthy, let your peace come vpon it, but if it bee not woorthy let your peace returne to you again.

And whoeuer shall not receiue you, nor wil heare your preaching: when ye departe out of that house or that citee * Shake of the dust of your fete. Clerly I saie vnto you: it shal bee easier for the lande of sodom and Gemoza in the daye of iudgement, then for that citee. * Behold I sende pon forth, as shepe among wolues. Be ye ther- fore wise as serpentes and innocent as doves. * But beware of menne for thei shall deliuer you vp to the countailes, & shall scourge you in their synagoges. And ye shal bee brought to the dedde rulers, and kynges, for my sake, in witness to thei and to the Gentiles.

But * when thei deliuer you vp, take ye no thought, how or what ye shall speake: * For it shal be geuen you, euē in that same houre what ye shall speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the spirite of your father whiche speaketh in you. * The brother shall deliuer vp the brother to death, and the father the soone. And the col- dyen shall aryle agaynst their fathers and mo- thers, and shall putte them to death: and ye shal bee hated of al menne for my names sake. * But he that endureth to the ende, shal bee saved.

But * when they persecute you in this citee flye ye into another. For verily I saie vnto you ye shall not goo through all the cites of Israell till the soone of manne bee cor- * The disci- ple is not aboue the master: nor seruante a- boue his Loyde. It is ynough for the dysciple, that he bee as his master is, and that the ser- uante bee as his Loyde is. If thei haue called the Loyde of the house, Behold: how muche more shall thei call thei of his householde. Feare thei not therefore. * For there is no- thyng clothe that shall not bee opened: and no- thyng hyd, that shall not bee known.

What I tell you in darkenes, that speake ye in lighte. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes. * And feare ye not thei whiche kyll the body but are not able to kyll the soule. But rather feare hym, whiche is able to destroye bothe soule and body into hel. Are not two hille sparowes sold for a farthyng? And one of thei shall not light on the grounde without your father. Yea, euē all the heares of your hedde are nombred. Feare ye not therefore: ye are of more value then many sparowes. * Every one therefore that shall knoweloge me be- fore menne, hym will I knoweloge also before my father whiche is in heauen. But whoeuer shall denye me before menne, hym will I also de- nye before my father, whiche is in heauen.

Thynke not that I am come to sende peace into the earthe. I came not to sende peace, but a swerde. For I am come to sette a manne at va- riance * agaynst his father, and the daughter a- gaynst her mother, and the daughter in law a- gaynst her mother in lawe. And a mannes foes

¶ The disciples plucke feathers of coine. Christ healeth the blind man, helpeth the possessed & was blinde a woman and recoverd who is his brother, sister and mother.

At that time Iesus went on the Sabbath daies through scorine & his disciples were an hungred and began to plucke & eate of corne and to eate. But when the pharisees saw it, they said vnto hym: behold, thy disciples dooe & whiche is not lawfull (for thyne) to dooe vpon the Sabbath daie. But he said vnto them. haue ye not read what Dauid did, when he was an hungred, & they that were with hym: how he entred into the house of God, and did eate the twelve brydes which were not lawfull for hym to eate, neither for the whicher were with hym, but onely for the priestes? Or haue ye not read in the law, how that, on the Sabbath daies, the priestes of the temple breake the Sabbath & are blamelesse? But I saye vnto you that in this place is one greater then the temple. Wherefore, if ye wist what this meaneth, I require mercy and not sacrifice ye would not haue condemned innocents. For the loome of manne also, is Lorde euen of the Sabbath daie.

And he departed thence * and went into their synagoge : & beholde there was a manne whiche had his hande dyed vp. And he asked hym, say-yng : * is it lawfull to heale vpon the Saboth dayes

dapes: that thei might accuse hym. And he sayd vnto them: whiche of you will it bee, that shall haue a shepe, and if it fall into a pitte in the laboth dape, will he not take it and like it out? How muche moze then is a manne better then a shepe: Wherefoze it is lefull to doze a good dede on the laboth dapes. The saierth he to the manne stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth. And it was restoyed vnto healeth, like as y other.

¶ Then was broughte to hym a blinde & donnee mane, that was vered with a deuell, and he healed hym, in so muche, that the blinde and donnee botte spake and sawe. And all the people were amazed, and said: Is not this the soonne of Dauid? But when the pharises heard it, thei saied this felow dyueth the deuilles no other wyse out, but by the helpe of Belzeub the chief of the deuilles. But when Iesus knewe their thoughtes he saied vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuiled against it self, shalbee broughte to noughte. And euery cite or house deuiled agaynst it self shall not stande. And if Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuyled agaynst himself. How shall then his kyngdome endure? Also, if I by the help of Belzeub caste out deuilles, by whose helpe doo your chyldren caste them out? Therefoze they walke by your iudges. But if I caste out the deuilles by the spirite of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you.

¶ Welis how can one entre into a strong mannes house, and spoyle his trewels, excepte he firste bynde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house? He that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abroad. Wherefoze, I saie vnto you, all maner of synne and blasphemie shalbee forgiven vnto menne: but the blasphemie agaynst the spirite, shall not bee forgiven vnto menne. And whosoever speaketh a woorde agaynst the soonne of manne, it shall bee forgiven hym. But whosoever speaketh against the holy ghoiste, it shall not bee forgiven hym, neyther in this woorde, neyther in y woerde to come. ¶ Ether make the tree good and his frute good: or els make the tre euill, and his frute euill. ¶ For the tree is knowen by his frute. O generation of vipers, how can ye speake good thynges, wher yout selues are euill? For out of the aboundance of the herte, the mouth speaketh. A good manne out of the good treasure of y herte, byngeth forth good thynges. And an euill manne, out of y euill treasure byngeth forth euill thynges. But I saie vnto you, of euery ydell woerde that menne shall haue spoken they shall geue accomptes in the dape of iudgemente. ¶ For out of thy woordes thou shalt bee iustified: and out of thy woordes thou shalt bee condemned.

¶ Then certain of the scribes and of the pharisees asked hym, sayng: Master, wer wilt see a signe of thee. But he answered and saied to them: The euill & aduonterous generation: sekerh a signe: there shall no signe bee geuen to them but the signe of the prophete Jonas: for as Jonas was thre dapes and thre nyghtes in the whales belly, so shall the soonne of manne bee thre dais and thre nyghtes in the herte of the earth: The menne of Antioch shall rise in the iudgemente with this nation, and condempne it, because thei amended at the preaching of Jonas. Beholde here is one greater then Jonas. ¶ The queene of the South shall rise in the iudgemente wyth this generacyon, and shall condempne it: for she came from the vtmost partes of y worlde to heare the wysed of Salomon. And beholde in this place is one greater then Salomon.

¶ When the vncleane spirite is gone out of a manne, he walketh throughout drye places seeking rest, & findeth none. Then he saierth: I will retourne into my house, from whence I came out. And when he is come, he fyndeth it emptye and swepte, and garnished. Then gooeth he and taketh vnto hym seuen other spirites wourse the hymself, and so entere he in, and dwelleth there. And the ende of that manne is wourse then the begynnyng. Euen so shall it bee also, vnto this forward generacion. While he yet talked to the people: beholde, his mother & his brythren stode without desiring to speake with hym. The one saied vnto hym: beholde, thy mother and thy brythren stande without, desyryng to speake with thee. But he answered, and saied vnto hym that had tolde hym: Who is my mother? or who are my brythren? And he stretched forth his hande towarde his disciples and sayed, beholde, my mother and my brythren. For whosoever dooth the wyl of my father whiche is in heauen, the same is my brother, sister, and mother.

The parable of the scribe, of the tares, of the mustards seede, of the leauen, of the treasours hid in the heide, of the pearles, and of the nette.

¶ The same dape went Iesus out of the house, & sat by the sea syde, and muche people were gathered together vnto hym, so greatly y he went, and sat in a ship, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thynges to them by similitudes, sayng: Beholde, y sower wit so, yto sowe. And wher he sowd, some seedes fell by the waies side and y fowles came & deuoured them vp. Some fell vpon stony places, where thei had not muche earth, and anon they sprung vp, because they had no deperthe of earth: and when the sunne was was vp they caught beate, and because they had no rote, they wyddered awaye. Again some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprong vp and choaked them. But some fell into good ground, and brought forth frute: some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

B And the disciples came, and said vnto hym:

Why speakest thou to them by paraboles? he answered and sayd vnto them: * it is geuen vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauen, but vnto them it is not geuen. * For whosoever hath, to hym shall be geuen, and he shall haue aboundaunce. But whosoever hath not: from hym shall be taken awaie euery thing that he hath. Therefore speake I to them by similitudes: for they seynge, see not: & hearyng they heare not: neither doo they vnderstand. And in them is fulfilled the prophesie of Esaias, which saith: * with eares ye shall heare, and shall not vnderstande: and seynge ye shall see, and shall not perceiue. For these peoples heartes is wored grosse, and their eares are dull of hearing, and their eyes haue they closed, lest at any tyme they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, & should vnderstand with their heart and bee converted, that I also might heale them.

C * But blessed are your eyes, for they see: and your eares, for they heare. Clerely I saye vnto you, * that many prophetes & righteous menne haue desired to see those thynges, which ye see, and haue not sene them: and to heare those thynges, which ye heare, and haue not heard them.

E * Heare ye therefore the similitude of the sower. When one beareth the woorde of the kyngdome and vnderstandeth it not, then cometh the euill manne & taketh awaie that which was sowne in his heart: this is he which was sowne by the waie syde. But he that receiued the seede which was cast into stonye places, the same is he that beareth the woorde, and anon with ioy receiuerh it, yet hath he no roote in hymself, but dureth for a season: for when tribulacion or persecution happeneth because of the woorde, by and by he falleth. He also that receiueh seede into the thornes, is he that beareth the woorde, and the care of this worlde: and the dyspayrefulnes of synnes choke vp the woorde, and so is he made vnfertill. But he that receiueh seede into good grounde is he that beareth the woorde, and vnderstandeth it: which also beareth frute, and bringeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde.

D Another similitude putte he forth vnto them sayyng: * The kyngdome of heauen is lykned vnto a manne, which sowed good seede in his felde. But while manne slepte, his enemye came, and sowed tares among the wheate, and went his waye. But when the blade was sprong vp and had brought forth frute, there appeared the tares also. So the seruantes of the householde came, and said vnto hym. Wilt thou biddeste not that they should goe and gather the tares? he answered and sayd vnto them: let them be together vntill the harvest: and in tyme of harvest, I will bidde the reapers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to be brynte: but gather the wheate into my barn.

E * Another parable putte he forth vnto them, sayyng: * The kyngdome of heauen is like to a gayne of mustard seede, which a man sowed in his felde, which is the lesse of all the seedes. But while it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tree so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make their nestes in the boughes thereof.

Another similitude spake he vnto them: The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto leuen, which a woman taketh and hyderhin three peches of meale, tyll all bee leuened. * All these thynges spake Iesus vnto the people by similitudes, and without a parable spake he nothing vnto them: that it might bee fulfilled, which was spoken by the prophete, that saith: * I will open my mouth in paraboles: I will speake forth thynges which haue been kepte secreete from the begynnyng of the worlde. * When the people were sente awaye, then came Iesus into the house. * And his disciples came vnto hym, sayyng: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the felde. He answered, and sayd vnto them.

He that soweth the good seede is the sonne of manne. The felde is the worlde. And the chylidren of the kyngdome they are the good seed: the tares are the chylidren of the wyched, the enemye that soweth them, is the deuill. The harvest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers be the angels. Euen as the tares therefore are gathered and brynte in the fyre: so shall it bee in the ende of this worlde. * The sonne of manne shall sende forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them which doo iniquitee: and shall caste them into a furnace of fyre. There shall be wailynge & gnashynge of teeth. * Then shall the righteous shyn as the sunne in the kyngdome of their father. Whosoever hath eares to heare, lette hym heare.

Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a treasure hid in the felde: the which a manne hath founde and hyd: and for ioy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the felde. Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was caste into the sea and gathered of all kynde of fyshes: which when it was full, menne drew to lande, and sette doune and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad awaie. So shall it bee at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come & seuer the bad frō among the good, & shall cast them into a furnace of fyre: there shall be wailynge & gnashynge of teeth. Iesus saith vnto the house of israel: vnderstand all these thynges. They said vnto hym: yea Lord. Then said he vnto them. There unto hym: wilt thou then that wee goe, & weede them vp? But he said: naye, lest while ye gather vp the tares ye pluche vp also the wheate with them, let both grow together vntill the harvest, and in tyme of harvest, I will bidde the reapers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to be brynte: but gather the wheate into my barn. * Another parable putte he forth vnto them, sayyng: * The kyngdome of heauen is like to a gayne of mustard seede, which a man sowed in his felde, which is the lesse of all the seedes. But while it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tree so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make their nestes in the boughes thereof.

Euen as the tares therefore are gathered and brynte in the fyre: so shall it bee in the ende of this worlde. * The sonne of manne shall sende forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them which doo iniquitee: and shall caste them into a furnace of fyre. There shall be wailynge & gnashynge of teeth. * Then shall the righteous shyn as the sunne in the kyngdome of their father. Whosoever hath eares to heare, lette hym heare.

Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a treasure hid in the felde: the which a manne hath founde and hyd: and for ioy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the felde. Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was caste into the sea and gathered of all kynde of fyshes: which when it was full, menne drew to lande, and sette doune and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad awaie. So shall it bee at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come & seuer the bad frō among the good, & shall cast them into a furnace of fyre: there shall be wailynge & gnashynge of teeth. Iesus saith vnto the house of israel: vnderstand all these thynges. They said vnto hym: yea Lord. Then said he vnto them. There for every scribe whiche is taught vnto the kyng dome of heauen, is like vnto a manne that is an houtholder, whiche byngeth out of his treasure thynges newe and olde. I

And it came to passe that when Iesus had finished these similitudes, * he departed thence: And when he came into his owne countrey, he taught them in their synagoges, in so muche, that: they were astonyed and said: whence cometh this wysdome and powers vnto hym: is not this carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary: and his brethren, James and Ioses and Simon and Judas? And are not all his sisters with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges. And they were offended at hym. Iesus said vnto them: * A prophete is not without honoure, saue in his owne countrey, and in his owne house. And he did not many miracles ther because of their vnbelefe.

¶ When he taken and behedded. Chyldre seereth five thousande menne with fyue loaves and fyue fishes, and ap- preached by night vnto his disciples upon the sea.

¶ That tyme * Herode the Tetrarche hearde of the fame of Iesu, and said vnto his seruantes: this is Ihon the baptist. he is risen from the dedde, and therefore these miracles wroughte by hym.

For Herode had taken Ihon and bounde hym, and putte hym in prison because of Herodias, his brother Philipps wife. For Ihon said vnto hym: * it is not lawfull for thee to haue her. And when he would haue putte hym to deathe, he feared the people, * because they counted hym as a prophete. But when Herodes by the daye was kepte, the daughter of Herodias daunced before them, and pleased Herode. * Wherefore he promised with an othe, that he would geue her whatsoeuer she would aske. And she beeyng instructed of her mother before, said: geue me here Ihon baptistes hedde in a platter. And the kyng was forp. Nevertheless, for the othes sake, and them whiche sat also at the table, he commaunded it to bee geuen her: and sente to mentoures, and bebedded Ihon in the prison, and his hedde was broughte in a platter, and geuen to the damosell, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came and toke vp his bodye, and buryed it: wente, and tolde Iesus.

¶ When Iesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shippe vnto a deserte place, out of the waie. And when the people had hearde thereof, they folowed hym on foot and lette the cities. And Iesus wente forth, and sawe muche people, and was moued with mercie towarde them, and he healed of them those that were sicke. And when the even was come on, his disciples came to him, sayng this is a deserte place, and the houre is now past: lette the people departe, that they maye goo into the townes, and buye them victualles. But Iesus said vnto them. They haue no neede to goo awaye. Geue ye them to eate. They said vnto hym, wee haue here but fyue loaves and two fishes. He said byng them better to me. And he commaunded the people to sit doune on the grasse, and he tooke the fyue loaves and the two fishes and lift vp his eyes towarde heauen and blessed. And when he had broken them, he gaue the loaves to his disciples, and his disciples gaue them to the people. And they did all eate, and were satisfied. And they gathered vp / of the fragmentes that remayned / twelue baskets full. And they that did eate, were aboute fyue thousande menne besyde women and chyldren.

* And straight waie Iesus made his disciples to get vp into a shippe, and to go before hym vnto the other syde while he sent the people awaye. And when the people were sent awaye, he went vp into a mountaigne to praye alone. And when nyght was come, he was there hymself alone. But the ship was now in the myddes of the sea, and was tolt with waues, for it was a contrary wynde. And in the fourth watche of the nyghte, Iesus went vnto them walking on the sea. And when the disciples sawe hym walking on the sea they were troubled, sayng: it is some spirite, and they cried out for fear. But straight waie, Iesus spake vnto them, sayng: be of good cheare, it is I: bee not afrayed. Peter answered hym, & said: Lorde, if it bee thou, byd me come vnto thee on the water. And he said: come. And when Peter was come doune out of the shippe, he walked on the water, to go to Iesus. But when he sawe a mighty wynde, he was afrayed. And when he began to synke, he cried, sayng: Lorde saue me. And immediatly Iesus stretched forth his hande and caught hym, and said vnto hym. O thou of litle faith, wherefore diddest thou doubt?

* And when they were come into the shippe, the wynde ceased. Then they that were in the shippe came and worshipped hym, sayng: of a truthe thou art the sonne of God. And when they were gone over, they came into lande of Genesareth. And when the merne of the place had knowlage of hym, they sent out messengers into all the countrey round aboute the coste, & brought vnto hym all that wer sicke, and besoughte hym, that they mighte touche the hemme of his vesture onelye. And as many as touched it were made safe.

¶ Chyldre exccuseth his disciples, and rebuketh the scribes and pharises for transgressing Godes commandmentes through their owne tradicions. The thyng that goerth into the mouth defileth not the manne, but the defuureth the wombe of Cananes daughter, healeth the multitude and bryngeth fyue loaves and a fewe litle fishes, fedeth foure thousande menne, besyde women and chyldren.

¶ When came to Iesus scribes and pharises (whiche wer come from Iherusalem) sayng: why dooe thy disciples transgresse the tradition of the elders? For they waite not their handes when they eate bread. But he answered & said vnto them: why dooe ye transgresse the commandemente of God because of your owne tradicion? For God commaunded, sayng. * Honour father & mother, and he that curseth father or mother: let hym dye the deathe. But ye saie: every one that saie to his father and mother: * what gift soener should haue come of me the same is turned vnto thy profite: and so shall he not honoure his father or his mother.

And

And thus haue ye made the commandemente of God of none effecte, because of youre owne traditions. Ppocrites, full well did Elay prophesy of you saying: This people draweth nie vnto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with lippes, howbeit, their heartes are farre from me: but in vain dooe they serue me, teaching the doctrynes and pceptes of menne.

B And he called the people to hym, and said vnto them, heare and vnderstande. That whiche goeth into the mouth, defileth not manne: but that whiche cometh out of the mouth, defileth the manne. Then came his disciples, & said vnto him: knowest thou not, that the pharises were offended at this saying? But he answered and said: Every plante whiche my heavenly father hath not planted, shall be plucked vp by the rootes. Let them alone, they bee the blinde leaders of the blinde. If I blinde leade the blinde, bothe shall fall into the ditch. Then answered Peter and said vnto hym: declare vnto vs this parable. Iesus said: are ye also yet without vnderstandyng? dooe not ye yet vnderstande, what soeuer entereth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught? But those thynges whiche proceed out of the mouth, come forth fro the heart, & they defile the manne. For out of the heart proceed euill thoughtes, murders, breaking of wedlocke, whozdon, thestes, false witness, blasphemies. These are the thynges whiche defile a manne. But to take meate wth vnwashed handes, defileth not a manne.

C And Iesus went thence, and departed into the costes of Tyre and Sidon, and beholde a woman of Canaan (whiche came out of the same costes) cryed vnto hym saying: haue mercie on me. O Lorde, thou sonne of Dauid: My daughter is piteously vexed with a deuill. But he answered her nothing at all, and his disciples came & besought hym, saying: sende her away, for she crieth after vs. But he answered, & said: I am not sente: but vnto the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Then came she, & worshipped hym, saying: Lorde, helpe me. he answered and said: it is not mete, to take the chyldeys bryde, and to cast it to dogges. She answered & said: trued Lorde for the dogges eate of the crummes, whiche fall from their masters table. The Iesus answered & said vnto her: O woman, greate is thy faith: be it vnto thee, eue as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.

D And Iesus went awhete from thence, and came nie vnto the sea of Galilee, and went vp into a mountaigne, and satte doune there. And muche people came vnto hym, byyngyng with them thole that were lame, blinde, deafe, maymed, & other many: and cast them doune at Iesus fete.

E And he healed them: in so muche, that the people wondrously, when they sawe y domine speake the maymed to be whole, the lame to walke, & the blinde to see. And they glorified the God of Israel. Then Iesus called his disciples vnto him, and said: I haue compassion on the people because they continue with me now thre daies, and haue nothing to eate: and I will not let thei departe sayyng, lest they miscary by the waye. And his disciples sayed vnto hym: Whence should we gette so muche bryde in the wyldernes as to suffice so greute a multitude? And Iesus sayeth vnto them: how many loaves haue ye? And they saye: seuen, and a fewe litle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde: and toke the seuen loaves, and the fyshes: and after that he had geuen thanks he brake them, and gaue to his disciples, and the disciples gaue them to the people. And they did all eate, and were sufficed. And they toke vp (of the broken meate that was left) seuen baskettes full. And yet they that did eate were foure thousande menne, besyde women and chyliden. And he sente awaye the people, and toke hypppe and came into the partes of Magdala.

The xvi. Chapter.

The pharises require a token. Iesus sheweth his disciples of the pharises doctryne. The confession of Peter. The keyes of heauen. The sayntfull must beare the crosse after Chri. st.

The pharises also with the Saducees, came and tēpted hym, and desired hym, that he would shew them a sygne from heauē. he answered and said vnto them: whē it begynneth to bryawe towardē euen, ye saye: it wyll bee saye whether, for the skye ys read. And in the morning: It wyll bee foule whether to daye, for the skye ys gloumyng red. O ye ppoctites, ye can discern the outward apperance of the skye: but can ye not discern the sygnes of the tymes? The frowarde and aduouterous nacyon requyret a sygne, and there shall no sygne be geuen vnto it, but the sygne of the ppopet Jonas. And he left them, and departed.

And when his disciples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgotte to take bryde with them. Then Iesus sayed vnto them: Take hede and beware of the leuen of the pharises and of the Saduces. And they thought in them selues, saying: we haue taken no bryade with vs. Whyche when Iesus vnderstode he sayed vnto them: O ye of lytle faith, why take ye thought wythin your selues, because ye haue brought no bryade? Dooe ye not yet perceyue, nether remembre those fyue loaves, when there wer fyue thousande menne, & how many baskettes toke ye vp? Nether the seuen loaves when there were foure thousande menne, and how many baskettes toke ye vp: how happeneth it that ye dooe not vnderstand, that I speake it not vnto you concerning bryade, that ye shuld beware of the leauen of the pharises, and of the Saduces? Then vnderstode they, how that he had not them beware of the leuen of bryade: but of y doctryne of the pharises, and of the Saduces.

When Iesus came into the coastes of the cite whiche is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples saying: who dooe menne saye y I am the soone of manne? They sayed: some saye y thou art Ihon the baryst, some helyas, some Jeremias, or one of the nobze of the ppopetes. he sayeth vnto them. but who saye ye that I am

Simon

Simon Peter answered and saide: * Thou arte Christ the sonne of the lyving God. And Jesus answered and saide vnto hym: happye arte thou Simon the sonne of Ionas, for thou shalt be fished by the sonne of man. And I say vnto the that thou art Peter: and vpon this * rocke I will buyde my congregaciō. And the gates of heuē shall not preuaile against it. And I will geue vnto the, the keyes of the kyngdō of heauen: And whatsoeuer thou byndest in earthe, shall be bounde in heauen: and whatsoeuer thou locest in earthe, shall be loosed in heauen also. ¶

Then charged he his disciples, that they shoulde tell no man, that he was Jesus Christe. ¶ From that tyme forth began Jesus to shewe vnto his disciples, how that he must go vnto Ierusalem, and suffer many thynges of the elders, and of the p̄iestes, and scribes, and must be kylled and be rayssed againe the thirde daye. And when Peter had take hym aspyde, he began to rebuke hym saying: master, saue thy self, this shall not happen vnto the: but he turned hym about, & saide vnto Peter: go after me Satana, thou hindrest me: for thou sauest not the thynges that be of God, but those that be of men.

¶ Then saide Jesus vnto his disciples: ¶ If any man will folow me, let hym forsake hym self and take vpon hym his crosse, & folow me. ¶ For whoso wyl saue his life, shall lose it. Againe who so doeth lose his life for my sake, shall fynde it. For what doth it p̄ofyte a man, yf he wyne all the world, and lose his owne soule? Or what shall a man geue to redeeme his soule againe? ¶ For the sonne of man shall come in the gloze of his father, with his angels: and then shall he rewarde euery man accordyng to his dedes. ¶ Clearly I saye vnto you, & there be standyng here, whiche shall not tast of death, tyl they se the sonne of man come in his kyngdome.

The xvij. Chapter. ¶
The transfiguration of Christ. He healeth the lunatyke, and p̄cureth tribute.

¶ After sixe dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James & Iohn his brother, and bringeth them vp into an hye mountayne out of the waye, & was transfigured before them. ¶ And his face shone as the sonne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And beholde, ther appeared vnto them Moyses and Elias talkyng with hym. Then answered Peter, and saide vnto Jesus: Lorde, here is good helyng for vs. ¶ If thou wilt, let vs make here thre tabernacles: one for the, and one for Moyses, & one for Elias. While he yet spake, beholde, a byghe cloude shadowed them. And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude whiche said: this is my beloued sonne, in whome I deelyte. ¶ Heare hym. And when the disciples hearde these thynges, they fell on theyr faces and were sore afrayed. And Jesus came & touched them and saide: aryse and be not afraid. And when they had lyft vp theyr eyes they sawe no man, saue Jesus onely.

¶ And when they came doune from the mountayne, Jesus charged them saying: see that ye shewe the vision to no manne, vntill the sonne of manne be risen againe from the dedde. ¶ And his disciples asked hym, saying: why the saye the scribes, that helias must firste come? Jesus answered, and saide vnto them: ¶ Helias truly shall firste come, and restore all thynges. But I saye vnto you, that Helias is come already and they knowe hym not: but haue dooen vnto hym whatsoeuer they lusted. In lyke wyse shall also the sonne of manne suffer of them. Then the disciples vnderstode, & he spake vnto them of Iohn Baptist. And when they were come to the people there came to hym a certain man knelyng doune to hym, and saying: Master haue mercy on my sonne, for he is lunatyke and sore vexed, for oft tymes he falleth into fyre, and oft into the water. ¶ And I broughte hym to thy disciples, and they coulde not heale hym. Jesus answered and saide: O faithles and croked nation, how long shall I bee with you? how long shall I suffer you? Bring hym hether. And Jesus rebuked the deuill, and he departed out of hym. And the childe was healed euē that same tyme. ¶

¶ Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly, and saide: why couldest thou not cast hym out? Jesus saide vnto them: Because of your vnbelefe. For verely I saye vnto you: ¶ If ye haue faith as a graine of musterde seede, ye shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue hence to yonder place, and it shall remoue: nether shall any thyng be impossible vnto you. Howbeit this kinde goeth not out, but by praye and fastyng. While they were occupied in Galilee, Jesus said vnto them: ¶ It will come to passe that the sonne of manne shall be betrayed into the handes of menne, and they shall kill hym and the thirde daye shall he rise againe. And they were exceeding sore. ¶ And when they were come to the citee of Capernaum, they that use to receiue tribute money, came to Peter, and saide: Woorth your master paie tribute? he saith: yea. And when he was come in to the house, Jesus p̄uented hym saying: what thinkest thou Simon? of whom dooe the kynge of the earth take tribute? of his owne children, or of straungers? Peter saith vnto hym: of straungers. Jesus saith vnto hym: Then are the children free: ¶ For withstanding, least wee should offend them, goo thou to the sea, and cast an angle, and take the fysh that firste cometh vnto thee: and when thou hast opened his mouth thou shalt fynde a peece of twenty pence: that take and geue it vnto them for me and thee. ¶

He teacheth his disciples to be humble and to hate: to auoyde occasions of sinne, and one to loyde another's offence.

¶ The same tyme came the disciples vnto Jesus, saying: ¶ Who is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen? Jesus called a childe vnto hym, and set hym in the myddell of them, and saide: Verely I saye vnto you: ¶ except ye turne, & become as children, ye shall not enter into the kyngdome of heauen. Whosoouer therfore humblyeth bleth hym self as this chyld, the same is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen. And who so recei-ueth suche a chyld in my name, receiveth me.

Mat. 18. 6 But whoso dooth offende one of these litle ones which beleueth in me, it wer better for hym that a millstone wer haged aboute his necke, and that he wer drownded in the depeth of the sea. Wo unto the world because of offences. * Necessarye it is that offences come. But wo vnto the mane by whom the offence cometh.

Mat. 18. 7 Wherfore * if thy hande or thy fote hynder thee, cut hym of and cast it fro thee. It is better for thee to enter into life hant or maymed, rather then thou shouldst be (hauyng twoo handes or twoo fete) bee cast into euerylasyng fyre. And if thine eye offende thee, pluche it out, & cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather then (hauyng twoo eyes) to bee cast into hell fyre. Take hede that ye despise not one of these litle ones. For I saie vnto you, that in heauen the angels doe alwayes beholde the face of my father whiche is in heauen. For sooner of mane is come to saue that which was lost. How thynke ye? If a manne haue an hundred shepe, and one of them bee gone astraye dooth he not leaue ninety nine in the mountaynes, and goeth & sekerth it that was gone astraye.
And if it happen that he fynde it, verily I saie vnto you: he reioiceth more of that shepe then of the nynty and nyne whiche went not astraye. Euen so it is not the will of your father in heauen that one of these litle ones should perishe.

Mat. 18. 15 Whosoever if thy brother trespass agaynst thee, go and tell him his faute betwene him and thee alone. If he heare thee, thou hast wone thy brother: But if he heare thee not, then take yet with thee one or twoo, that * in the mouth of twoo or thre witnesses, every matter may bee established. If he heare not them, tell it vnto the congregation. If he heare not the congregacion let hym bee vnto thee as an heathen manne, or as a publican. Verily I saie vnto you: what soever ye hynde on earth, shall bee bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye loose on earth, shall bee losed in heau. Again I saie vnto you, that if twoo of you agree in earth vpon any manner of thyng, whatsoeuer they desire: they shall haue it of my father whiche is in heauen, for where twoo or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the middes of them.

Mat. 18. 19 Then came Peter to hym, and saide: Lorde, how oft shall I forgiue my brother, if he synne agaynst me: till seven tymes? Iesus saith vnto hym: I saie not vnto thee vntill seven tymes: but scruffy ty mes seven tymes. For the soze is the kyngdome of heauen likened vnto a certa-ine manne that was a kyng, whiche would take accountes of his seruantes. And when he had begonne to reken, one was broughte vnto hym whiche oughte hym tenne thousande talentes, but for as muche as he was not able to paie, his Lorde commanded hym to bee solde, and his wife and chylde, and all that he had: & payement to bee made. The seruante fell downe, and besoughte hym sayng: Wit haue pacience with me, and I will paye the all. Then had the lord pitie on the seruante and loosed hym and forgaue hym the debte.

So the same seruante went out, & founde one of his feloes whiche oughte hym an hundred pence and he layd handes on hym, and toke hym by the throte, sayng: paye that thou owest. And his feloe fel downe, and besoughte hym, sayng: haue pacience with me, and I will paye the all. And he would not, but wente & cast hym into pelson, till he should paye the debte. So whē his feloes sawe what was done, they were very sorry and came & told vnto their lord: be al that had happened. The his Lorde called hym and said vnto him: O thou vngacious seruante, I forgaue the all that debt, whē thou besydest me: shouldst not thou also haue had compassion on thy feloe, euen as I had pitie on the? And his Lorde was wroth, and deliuered hym to the iaplers, till he should paye all that was due vnto hym. So* whē wyse shall my heavenly father do also vnto you if ye from your brether, forgiue not (euery one his brother) their trespasses. For

The xix. Chapter.

Christe groweth and dwelleth concerning marriage, and teacheth not to be carefull, nor to loue worldly thynges.

As it came to passe: that whē Ie-sus had synghed the saynges, he gat him from Galile, and came in to the coastes of Ieruzalem, beynde Iordane, and muche people folo-wed hym, and he healed them there.

The pharysees also came vnto hym temptyng hym, and sayng vnto hym: Is it lawfull for a man to make a deuocement wyth his wyfe for any manner of cause? He answered and said vnto them: haue ye not red, howe that he which made man at the begynnyng * made the man and woman, and said: for this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shall cleaue vnto his wife and they twayne shall be one flesch, wherfore now they are not twayne but one flesch. Let no man therefore put asunder, that which God hath cou-bled together. They said vnto him: why did Moses then commaunde to geue a testimonial of deuocement to put her away? he said vnto them Moses (because of the hardnes of your hartes) * suffered you to put away your wyues: But fro the begynnyng it was not so, I saie vnto you: whosoever putteth away his wife (except it be for fornicacion) and marryeth another, breake-th the blocke. And whoso marryeth her which is deuoced, doth commit adultery.

His disciples said vnto hym: if the matter bee so betwene man and wyfe, then is it not good to marry. He saide vnto them: all men cannot comprende this sayng: & saue they to whome it is geue: for there are some chaste which are so borne out of their mothers wombe. And there are some chaste, which he made chaste of men. And there bee chaste, which haue made them selues chaste for the kyngdome of heuens sake. He that can compzehende it, let him cōprehende it. * Then wer there brought vnto hym yonge chylde, that he shoulde put his put his handes on them and praye. And the dysciples rebuked them. But Iesus said vnto the suffre the chylidren and forbyd them not to come vnto me. for of such is the kyngdome of heauen And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence.

And beholde, one came, and saide vnto hym:
+ good master, what good thyng shal I do, that I may haue eternal lyfe. he said vnto hym: why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, and that is God. But if thou wilt enter into lyfe, kepe the commandementes. he sayeth vnto hym: which? Iesus said: * Thou shalt not comyt manslaunder. Thou shalt not comyt aduoutry. Thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnes: honoure father and mother:
* and thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self The yong man sayeth vnto hym: All these thynges haue I kept from my yowth vp: what lacke I yet? Iesus sayd vnto hym: if thou wilt be per-fyt, * go and sell all that thou hast, and geue to the poore, & thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and folow me. But when the yong maherde that sayng, he wente awaye soyy. For he had great possessions.

Then Iesus sayd vnto his dysciples: verely I say vnto you: it shalbe hard for: & crye to entre into the kyngdome of heauen. And agayne I say vnto you: it is easyer for a camell to go throughe the eye of a needle, then for the ryche to entre into the kyngdome of God. When the disciples herd this, they were excedynglye amazed, sayng: wherthen can be said: But Iesus beheld them and sayd vnto them: wyth men this is impossyble: but wyth God all thynges are possyble.

Then answered Peter and sayde vnto hym: Beholde, * we haue forsaken all and folowed the, what shal we haue therfor? Iesus sayde vnto them: Verely I say vnto you, * when the sonne of man shall sit in the seat of his maiestye, ye shalle haue folowed me, in the regeneracion * shall sytte also vpon the xii. seates, and iudge the xii. trybes of Israel. * And euery one that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or systers, or father or mother, or wife or chylidren, or landes for my names sake, * shal receaue an hundred fold, and shall inherite euery lastyng lyfe. I. * but many that are first, shalbe last, and the last shalbe first.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ Child teacheth by a similitude that God is better than to no man. he teacheth his disciples to be lowly, and geueth two bynde men they sight.

¶ The kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto a man that is an housholder, which wet out early in the mornynge to hyre labourers into his vyngard.
And when the agremēt was made with the labourers, for a peny a daye, he sent the into his vyngard. And he went out aboute the thryd houre, & sawe other standyng ydell in the market place, & sayd vnto the: go ye also into the vyngard, and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I will geue you. And they wente theyr waye. Agayne he wente out aboute the syxte and nynt houre, and ydell ydell. And aboute the eleuenth houre he went out, and found other standyng ydell, & sayd vnto them: why stande ye here all the daye ydell? They saye vnto hym: because no mā hath hyred vs. he sayeth vnto them: go ye also into

geue you. So, when euen was come the lord of the vyngard sayd vnto his steward: call the labourers, and geue the theyr hyre, begynnynge at the last vntill the first. And when they had come that came aboute the eleuenth houre they receaued euery man a peny. But when the first came also, they supposed that they shoulde haue receaued more, and they likewise receaued euery man a peny. And when they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst the good man of the house, sayng: These last haue wrought but one houre and thou hast made them equall vnto vs which haue borne the burthen and heate of the daye.

But he answered vnto one of them and sayde frende, I do the no wrong: dydest thou not agree wyth me for a peny? Take that thyne is and go thy waye: I will geue vnto this last, euen as vnto the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as my lysted with myne owne goodes? Is thine eye enuie because I am good? So the last shalbe first and the first shalbe last. For many be called, but few be chosen. I.

¶ And Iesus goyng vp to Ierusalem, toke the twelue disciples asyde in the way, and sayd vnto them: * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shalbe betrayed vnto the chefe priestes and vnto the scribes, and they shal condemne hym to death, and shall deliuer hym to the Gentils, to be mocked, and to be scourged and to be crucified: and the thryd daye he shal ryse agayne. * Then came to hym the mother of Iesudes chylidren, with her sonnes, worshyppyng hym & desyryng a certayne thyng of hym.
And he sayeth vnto her: what wilt thou? She sayd vnto hym: Graunt, I praye the, that my two sonnes may sit, the one on the ryghte hande, & the other on the left, in the kyngdome. But Iesus answered & sayde: ye wote not what ye aske. Are ye able to drynke of the cuppe that I shall drynke of, & to be baptysed w the baptysme? I am baptysed with. They saye vnto hym: we are. he sayd vnto the: ye shall drynke in dede of my cup: & be ba-ptysed with the baptysme? I am baptysed with.
But to sit on my ryghte hande, and on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shal chaunce vnto the that it is prepared for of my father.

¶ And when the ten herd this, they disapoynd at the two brethren. But Iesus called the vnto hym, and sayd: * ye knowe that the prynces of nacions haue dominion ouer the. And they that are great men, exercise authoritee vpon them.
It shal not be so amonge you. But whosoever will be great amonge you, let hym be your minister, & whoso will be cheefe amonge you, let hym be your seruaunt: euen as: & sonne of man came not to be ministered vnto, but to minister, and to geue his life a redemption for many. I.

¶ And as they departed fro Jerico, much prople folowed hym. And beholde, two blynd men syttyng by the waye syde, when they heard that Jesus passed by, they cryed sayng: O Lord thou some of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And ¶ people rebuked them, because they shoulde holde they peace. But they cryed the more, sayinge: haue mercy on vs, O Lorde, thou soune of Dauid.

And Iesus shode spyll and called them, and said: what wyl ye ¶ I shall do vnto you? They saie vnto hym: Lorde, that our eyes maye be opened.
So Iesus had compassion on them, and touched they eyes, and immediatly they eyes receaued syght. And they folowed hym.

¶ The .xii. Chapter. ✠

¶ He cytherh into Jerusalem, by woth the marchantes out of the temple, casteth the tregge mce, & cytherh y pha-ryses woth the synnytyrde of the rme lawes and of the hulbandmen, that cleme such as wex sent wroth them.

And whē they & dyēd nyr vnto Jerusalem, and ther come to Beth-phage, vnto mosse Olyuete: then lent Iesus two discyples, sayng: vnto them: go into the toun that lyeth ouer agaynst you, & a none pe shal fynde an asse bounde, & a colte, wyth her: looke them, and brynge the vnto me. And yf any man say ought vnto you, say ye: the Lord hath nede of them: & straight way he will let the go.
Al this was done, & it myght be fulfilled, whiche was spoken by the prophet, sayng: & Tel ye the daughter of syon: behold, thy kynge cometh vnto the meke, sperryng vpon an asse and a colte, & fole of the asse vled to the yocke. The discyples went and dyd as Iesus commanded them, and broughte the asse & the colte, & put on them theyr clothes, & let hym thereon. And many of þe people sped theyr garments in the way. Other cutte downe bryches from þe trees, & strawed them in the way. Whereouer þe people that went before, &

They that came after, cryed sayng: holanna the sonne of Dauid. * Blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lorde¹ holanna in the brest. I

✠ And when he was come to Ierusalem, all the cyrie was moued, sayng: who is thys? And the people sayde: this is Iesus, the prophete of Nazareth, a cyrie of Galile. ² And Iesus wente into the temple of God, and cast out all the that solde and boughe in the temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the mony changers, and seates of them that solde doves, and said vnto them: It is wytten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer. But ye haue made it a drinke of theues. And the blind, and the balde came to hym in the temple, and he denied them.

When the chiefe p̄iestes and scribes sawe the wonders that he dyd, and the child cryng in the temple: and sayng: hofanna to the sonne of Dauid: they besought, and sayd vnto hym: hearest thou what the saye: But Iesus sayd vn to the: why not: haue ye neuer read: Out of the mouth of babes and suckelinges thou halte oꝝ bernyed p̄p̄le. And he left them, and wente oute of the cytie vnto Bethanpe, and had hys aby dyng there. ¶ In the moꝛnyng as he returned into the cytie againe, he hongred: and whē he had spied a figge tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothing thereon, but leaues only, and said vnto it: neuer fruite growe on thee henceforward.
And anon the figge tree withered away. And when by a discipple sawe it, they marvelled, say-yng: How soone is the figge tree withered awaye? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: * If ye haue sayth and doubte not, ye shall not onely do thys that is happened vnto the figge tree: but also if ye shall saye vnto thys mountayne: remove, and caste thy selfe into the see, it shall be done. * And all thynges whatsoeuer ye shall in prayer (if ye be-lieue) ye shall receaue them.

✠ And when he was come into the temple the chiefe priests and the elders of the people came vnto hym (as he was teaching) and sayd: * By what auctorite doste thou these thynges? and who gaue the thes power? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I also wyl aske of you a certayne thyng, which ye tell me, I inly he wyl tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The daytyme of Ihon: whence was it: from heauen or of men? And they thought among theselves, sayng: If we saye from heauen, he wyl saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue hym? But if we shall saye of men, then feare we the people. * For all men holde Ihon as a prophete. And they answered vnto Iesus, and sayde: we can not tel. And he sayd vnto them: neither tel I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges. ¶ What saye ye to this? ¶ A man had two sonnes, and came to the first, and sayde: sonne, go and worke to daye in my vynyarde. he answered and sayde: I wyl not, but afterwarde, he repented, and went. Then came he to the seconde, & sayde vnto hym: And he answered, & sayd: I wyl go, and wente not. ¶ Whether of the twayne dyd he the wyl of the father? And they saye vnto hym: the first. Iesus sayeth vnto them: verely I saye vnto you, the publicans and harlottes go into the kyngdome of God before you. For Ihon came vnto you by the waye of synners, & ye beleued hym not: but publicans and harlottes beleued hym. And ye (which ye had seene) were not moued afterwarde with repentance, that ye myght haue beleued hym.

¶ Herthen another symilitude. A Ther was a certain ma an hougholder, which platted a vyne parde, & hedged it round about, & made a wynepyssle in it, & buile a tower, & let it out to husbānien, & wet into a strange cōstie. And when the tyme of frute dyrtwe nere, he sent hys seruauntes to the husbānme, & they myght receaue the frutes of it. And y husbānme caughte hys seruauntes, & beat one, kyllid another, & stoned another.
A gayne he sent other seruauntes, mo then y first and thei dyd vnto the like wise. But last of al, he sent vnto the his owne sonne, sayng: they wyll stand in awe of my sonne. But whē y husbānme sawe y sonne, they said among thei selues: A This is y heire: come, let vs kyll hym, & let vs enioie his inheritance. And they caughte him, & they cast hym out of y vyneyard, & stowe hym. When the lordes therfore of y vyneyard cometh, what wyll he do vnto those husbānme? They sayde vnto hym: For as much as they be euil, he wyl cruelly destroye the, and wyl let out his vyneyarde vnto other husbānmen, whych shall dryuer hym the frute

the frute in due seasons. Iesus sayth vnto them: Why ye neuer read in the scripture? The stone whych the buylders refused, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lordes doynge and it is maruelous in oure eyes. Therefore saye I vnto you: the kyngdome of God shal be taken from you, and geuen to a nacyon whiche shall bring forth the frutes thereof. And whosoeuer falleth on this stone, shal be broken in peces: but on whomsoever it falleth it shall all to grynne hym. And when the chiefe priestes and pharysees had herd his parables, they perceyued he spake of them. And they went about to laye handes on hym: but they feared the people, because they toke hym as a prophet. And Iesus answered and spake vnto the again by parables and said.

The xxii Chapter.

The marriage of the kynges sonne. Tribul to be geuen to the emperoure. Christ confuted the opinion of the pharysees, concerning the resurrection, and answered the scruples vnto his question.

The kyngdome of heauē is like vnto a ma that was a kyng, which made a marriage for his sonne & sent forth his seruantes, to call the that were hydden to the wedding, & they would not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruantes, sayng: Tell them whych are hydden: behold, I haue prepared my dynner, myne oren & my satynges are kylled, & all thynges are ready, come vnto my marriage. But they made lyght of it, and went they wayes: one to his ferme place, another for his marchaundise, & the remanent toke his seruantes, and intrated them shamefully & slew them. But when the kyng herd thereof, he was wroth and sent forth his men of warre and destroyed those murderers and bent vp theyr eyte.

Then sayd he to his seruantes: the marriage is drede is prepared. But they whych wer hydden wer not worthy. So ye therfore out into the bye wayes: and as many as ye fynde, byd them to my marriage. And the seruantes went out into the bye wayes, and gathered together all as many as they could fynde, both good and bad, and the wedding was furnished with gesses. Then the kyng came in to see the gesses, and whē he spied there a man, whych had not on a wedding garment, he sayd vnto hym: friend, how comest thou in hyther, not hauyng a wedding garment? And he was enen spechlesse. Then sayd the kyng to his mynistres: take he and bynd hym bande and soote, and cast him into vter darkenesse: there shal be wepyng and gnashyng of teth. For many be called, but fewe are chosen.

Then wrote the pharysees, and toke counsell how they myght tangle hym in his wordes. And they set out vnto hym their disciples wth herodes seruantes, sayng: Master, we know that thou art true, and teachest the waye of God truly, netter carest thou for any man, for thou regardest not the outward apperaunce of men. Tell vs therfore: how thyngest thou? Is it lawfull that trybute bee geuen vnto Cesar or not? But Iesus perceauyng theyr wickednes, sayde:

Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? shewe me the trybute mony. And they toke hym a peny. And he sayd to them: whose is this peny image and super scrypeyon? They saye vnto hym: Cesar. Then sayd he vnto them: Geue therfore vnto Cesar the thynges whych are Cesar, and vnto God, those thynges that are Goddes. When they had herd these wordes, they marueyled, and left hym, and wente they waye. The same daye came to hym the Saducees: whych say that ther is no resurrection, and asked hym, sayng: Master, Moses sayde: that if a man dye, hauyng no chyld, his brother shuld marrye his wyfe, and rayse vp siede vnto his brother. Ther wer wth vs seue brethren, & the fyrst married a wyfe, and deceased wythout issue, and left his wyfe vnto his brother. Likewise, the second and the thyrde, vnto the seuen. Last of all the woman dyed also. Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wyfe shal she be of the seue? For they al had her. Iesus answered and sayd vnto the: ye do erre, not knowyng the scripture, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection, they netter marrye nor are married, but are as the Angels in heauen.

But as touchyng the resurrection of the dead: haue ye not rede that which is spoken vnto you of God, whych sayeth: I am the God of Abrahā and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not a God of dead, but of lyuyng.

And when the people herd this they wer astonnyed at his doctrine. But when the pharysees had herd, that he had put the Saducees to silence they cam together, and one of them (whych was a doctoure of lawe) asked hym a question, temptyng hym, and sayng: Master, whiche is the great commaundement in the lawe? Iesus sayd vnto hym: Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God wth all thy herte, and wth al thy soule, and wth all thy mynde. This is the fyrst and great commaundemente. And the seconde is lyke vnto it.

Thou shalt loue thyne neighbour as thy self. In these two commaundementes hange all the lawe and prophetes.

Whyle the pharysees wer gathered together Iesus asked them sayng: What thynke ye of Christ? whose sonne is he? They said vnto hym: the sonne of Dauid. he sayd vnto them: howe then doeth Dauid in spytte call hym Lozde, sayng: The Lozde said vnto my Lozde: set thou on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stoles? If Dauid then call hym Lozde, howe is he then his sonne? And no man was able to answer hym any thyng, neyther durste any man (from that tyme forth) aske hym any mo questions.

The xxiii Chapter.

Christ cryeth vnto the pharysees, herodes and hypocrites, and prophesyeth the destruction of Ierusalem.

When spake Iesus to the people, and to his disciples, sayng: The Scribes and pharysees sit in Moses seate. Al therfore, whansoeuer they byd you obserue, that obserue and do: but do not ye after theyr

The xxiii. Chapter.

Christ sheweth his disciples the destruction of the temple, & the ende of the world, and the tokens of the latter dayes, & warneth them to make, for the world shall suddenly perishe.

And Iesus wente out and departed from the temple: and his disciples came to hym, for to shew hym the buynges of the temple. Iesus saied vnto them: Se ye not all these thynges?

Verely I saie vnto you: there shall not bee here leste one stone vpon another, that shall not bee destroyed. And as he saie vpon mount Oliuete, his disciples came vnto hym secretly, sayng: tel vs: when shall these thynges bee: and what shal bee the token of thy commyng and of the ende of the world? And Iesus answered, & saied vnto them: Take heede, that no man deceiue you. For many shal come in my name, sayng: I am Christ, & shal deceiue many. Ye shal heare of warres & tidynge of warres: bee not troubled. For all these thynges must come to passe, but the ende is not yet. * Nation shall rise against nation, and realme against realme: and there shalbe pestilence, and hunger and earthquakes in all places.

All these are the begynnynges of sorowes. * Then shall they putte you to trouble, and shal kyll you & ye shalbe hated of all nacions for my names sake. And then shall many be offended, & shall betraye one another, & shal hate one another. And many false prophetes shal arise, and shal deceiue many. * And iniquitie shall haue the vpperhand, the loue of many shal abate. * But he that endureth to the ende, the same shalbe safe. * And

And this Gospel of the kyngdom shalbe preached in all the world, for a wytnes vnto all nations, and then shall the ende come.

¶ When ye therefore shal see the abhominacion of desolacion (that was spoke of by Daniel the prophet) stand in the holy place, whose reade is let hym vnderstand. Then let them whiche be in Jerusaleme, flye into the mountaynes. And let hym whiche is on the houle toppe, not come downe to set any thyng oute of his house. Neither let hym whiche is in the felde, retorne backe to fetch his clothes. Also shalbe in those dayes to them that are with chylde, & to the that geue sucke. But praye ye that your flight be not in the wynter, neither on the Saboth daye. For then shalbe great tribulacions: such as was not lens the begynnyng of the world to this tyme, nor shalbe. Yet except those dayes should be shortned, they shuld not helpe be saved, but for the chosens sake those dayes shalbe shortned.

¶ Then if any man saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there: beleeue it not. For there shall arise false Christs, & false prophetes: and shall shewe the greates myracles, & wonders. In so muche (that if it wer possible) they shuld deceaue: behold, I haue told you before. Wherfore, if they saye vnto you: behold, he is in the deserte, go not ye forth: behold, he is in the secret places, beleeue it not. For as the synghenynge cometh out of the east, & appeareth into the west: so shall the comynge of the sonne of man be.

¶ For whersoever a dead karhas is, thre wyll the Eagles also be gathered together. Immediately after the tribulacions of those dayes shall the sunne be darkened, and the moone shall not geue her lyght, and the starres shall fall fro heauen, and the power of heauen shalbe moued. And then shal appere the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shall all the kynredes of the earth mourne, and they shal see the sonne of man comynge in the cloudes of heauen, with power and greates glorie, & he shall send his Angels with the greates voyce of a trompet, and they shal gather together his chosen, from the hyghest partes of heauē, vntyll they endes thereof.

¶ Learne a sylmptude of the figgetree: whē his boughes is yet tender, & the leaues sprong ye knowe that sommer is nye. So lyke wyll ye, when ye se all these thynges, be ye sure that it is nere, euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you: this generacō shal not passe, tyll all these thynges be fulfilled. ¶ Heauen and earth shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. But of that daye and houre knoweth no man, nor the angels of heauen, but my father only.

¶ When in a bed, the one shalbe receaued, and the other refused. ¶ Watche therefore, for ye knowe not what houre your Lord shal come. Of this yet be sure that if the good man of the house knewe what houre the thiefe would come: he would surely watche, and not suffer his house to be broken vp. Therefore, be ye also ready, for in such an houre as ye thynke not, wyll the sonne of man come. ¶ Who is a faythfull and wyse seruaunt, whome his Lord hath made ruler ouer his household, to geue them meat in season. Blessed is that seruaunt, whom his Lord (when he cometh) shall fynde so doynge: Verely I saye vnto you, that he shall make hym ruler ouer all his goodes. But and if that euill seruaunt saye in his herte: my Lord shal be long a comynge (and so begynne to smyte his feloes, yet, and to eate and drynke with the dronken) the same seruaunt his Lord shal come in a daye when he loketh not for hym, and in an houre that he is not ware of, and shall hewe hym in peeces, and geue hym his porcion with the popytes: there shalbe wepyng and gnashynge of teth.

¶ When shall the kyngdome of heauen be lyke vnto ten vyrgyns, whiche toke their lampes, and went to mete the byrdgrom (and the byrdgrom) But fyue of them were folysh, and fyue were wyse. They that wer folysh, toke they lampes but toke none oyle with the. But the wyse toke oyle with them in they vessels, with the lampes also. Whyle the byrdgrom taryed, they all slombred and slepte. And euen at mydnyght, there was a crye made: behold, the byrdgrom cometh: go oute to mete hym. Then all those vyrgyns arose, and prepared they lampes. So the folysh sayd vnto the wyse: geue vs of your oyle: for our lampes are gone out. But the wyse answered, sayng: not so lest they be not ynough for vs and you, but go ye rather to them that sel and buye for your selues. And whyle they went to buye, the byrdgrom came: and they that wer ready, wente in with hym to the maryage, and the gate was shut vp. Afterward came also the other vyrgyns, sayng: Lord, Lord, open to vs. But he answered and sayde: Verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. ¶ Watche therefore for ye knowe neither the daye, nor yet the houre wherin the sonne of man shall come.

¶ Then he that had receaued the fyue talentes, went, & occupied with the same, & wanne other fyue talentes. Lyke wyll ye also he that receaued two, gaped other two. But he that receaued one, went & dygged in the earth, and hys lozdes money. After a long season the lord of those seruaunts came, and rekened with them. And so he that had receaued fyue talentes came and

and brought other fyue talentes, sayng: My lord deliuered it vnto me fyue talentes: beholde I haue gayned wyth them fyue talentes mo. His lord sayd vnto hym: wel thou good and faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: entre thou into the reioys of thy lord. He also that had receaued two talentes, came and sayd: My lord thou deliueredst vnto me two talentes: beholde I haue wonne two other talentes wyth the: his lord sayd vnto hym: wel good and faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast ben faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: entre thou into the reioys of thy lord.

C Then he whych hath receaued the one talent, cam, and sayd: My lord, I knewe the, that thou arte an harde man, reappynge where thou hast not sown, and gatherynge where thou hast not strawed, & therfore was I asrayed, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that thyne is. His lord answered and sayd vnto hym: thou euil and slothfull seruaunt, thou knewest, that I reape where I sowed not, & gather where I haue not strawed, thou oughtest therefore to haue deliuered my money to the exchaungers, & then at my comynge shouldest thou haue receaued myne owtne wyth vantage. Take therfore the talent from hym, and geue it vnto hym whych hath ten talentes. * For vnto euery one that shal be geuen, & he shal haue aboundaunce: But he that hath not, from hym shal be taken awaye euery thyng that he hath. And cast the vnyppyttable seruaunt into vetter darke, & ther shal be wepyng and gnashynge of teth.

* Myche, and ye vssted me. * I was in prison, & ye came vnto me. Then shall the ryghteous answer hym sayng: Lord, when sawe we the an hongred, & fed the: or thyrstye, & gaue the drynke? when sawe we the herbourlesse, and toke the in? or naked, and clothed the? or when sawe we the syche, or in prison, and came vnto the? And the kyng shall answer, and saye vnto them, verily I saye vnto you, in as muche as ye haue done it vnto one of the least of these my brethyn, ye haue donett vnto me.

Then shall he saye also vnto them, that shal be on the left hande: * departe from me ye cursed into euerlastyng fyre: whyche is prepared for the deuyl and his angels. For I was an hongred and ye gaue me no meat. I was thyrstye, and ye gaue me no drynke. I was herbourlesse, and ye toke me not in. I was naked & ye clothed me not. I was syche and in prison, & ye vssted me not. Then shall they also answer hym sayng: Lord, when sawe we the an hongred, or thyrstye, or herbourlesse, or naked, or syche, or in prison, and did not mynister vnto the? Then shall he answer the, sayng: Verily, I say vnto you, in as muche as ye dyd it not to one of the least of these, ye dyd it not to me. And these shal go into euerlastyng payne, the righteous into life eternall.

The xxvi Chapter.

¶ Many Magdalene anoynted Christ. They eat the Magribanbe. Christ prayeth in the garden. Judas betrayeth hym. Peter curseth of Maichus care. Christ is accused by false wytnesses, Peter denieth hym.

And it came to passe, whil Jesus had si-nyghed all these saynges, he sayd vnto his dyscyples. * Ye knowe that after two dayes shalbe Easter and the sonne of man shal be deliuered ouer to be crucified. * Then assembled together the chiefe pree-stres and the scribes and the elders of the people, vnto the palace of the hye preeft (which was called Cayphas) and held a counsell that they might take Jesus by subteltye and kyll hym. But they sayd: not on the holye daye, least there be an op-roure among the people.

¶ When Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Symeon the leper, ther came vnto hym a woman: * hauynge an alabastrer boxe of pyncopoyntmente, and poured it on his head, as he sat at the tabor. But when his dyscyples sawe it, they had indignacion sayng: Whereto seruet this waste? This oyntmente myght haue bene well solde, and geuen to the poore. When Jesus vnderstode that, he sayde vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? For she hath wrought a good wojke vpon me. * For ye haue poore alwayes wyth you: But me shall ye not haue alwayes.
And in that she hath cast this oyntment on my body, she dyd it to bury me. Verily, I saye vnto you wherforeuer this Gospell shal be preached in the worlde, there shall also this that she hath done be tolde, for a memoypall of her.

¶ Then one of the twelve (which was called Judas Iscariot) went vnto the chiefe preestres, and sayd vnto the: what wyl ye geue me, and I wyl deliuer hym vnto you? And they appoynted vnto him thyrty peces of syluer. And fro that time foze he sought oportynyte to betraye hym.

¶ The first daye of sower bread, the dyscyples came to Jesus, sayng vnto hym, where wylte thou & we prepare for the to cate the pasche? And he sayde: go into the cite, to synche a man, & saye vnto hym, the master sayeth: my time is at hande, I wyl kepe myne Easter by the, wyth my disciples: And the dysciple dyd as Jesus had a-poynted them, & they made ready the pasche.

¶ When the eue was come, he sat downe wyth the twelve. And as they dyd cate, he sayde: Verily, I saye vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me. And they were exceeding lozofull and began euery one of them to saye vnto hym: Lord, is it I? he answered and sayde: he that byppeeth his hande wyth me in the dyshe, the psal. xli. e. Euen shall betraye me. * The sonne of man true-ly goeth, as it is wyrtten of hym: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for that man, yf he had not bene bozne. Then Judas whiche betrayed hym answered and sayd: master, is it I? he sayd vnto hym: thou hast sayd. When they were eatyng Jesus toke bread, and when he had geuen thankis, he brake it, and gaue it to the discyples, and sayd: * Take, eat, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, and gaue it them, say-yng: Drynke ye al of this, for this is my blood (whiche is of the newe testamente) that is shed for many, for the remysyng of synnes. But I say vnto you: I wyll not drynke hence forth of this frute of vyne tree, vntyll I draye when I shall drynke it new with you in my fathers kyngdome.

mar. xliii. e.  And when they had sayd grace, they wente out vnto mount Oliuete. Then sayeth Jesus vnto the: all ye shalbe offended because of me this nyght. For it is wyrtten: * I wyll smyte & shep-herde, and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered abrode. But after I am rysen agayn, I wyll go before you into Galile. Peter answered, & sayde vnto hym: * though al men be offended because of the, yet wyll not I be offended. Jesus sayd vnto hym: Clerke, I saye vnto the, y in this same nyght, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thysse. Peter sayd vnto hym: Pee, though I shoulde dye with the, yet wyll I not denye the: Lyke wyll also sayd all the discyples.

mar. xliii. b.  Then came Jesus with them vnto a farme place (whiche is called Gethsemane) & sayd vnto the discyples: syt ye here whyle I go & praye yonder. And he toke with hym Peter & the two sonnes of zebede, & began to waie sorrowful and deuy. Then sayd Jesus vnto the: * My soule is heuy, eue vnto the death. Tary ye here & watche with me. And he wente a lytell farther, and fell flat on his face, & prayed, sayyng: O my father, yf it be possyble, let this cuppe passe from me: neuer thelesse, not as I wyll, but as thou wyll.
And he came vnto the discyples and founde the a slepe, and sayeth vnto Peter: What coulde ye not watch with me one houre: watche & praye, that ye entre not into temptation. * The spyte is wylling, but the fleche is weak.

mar. xliii. e.  He went away once agayn and prayed, say- yng: O my father, yf this cuppe maye not passe away from me, except I drynke of it, thy wyl be fulfylled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayn. For they eyes wer heuy. And he left the and wente agayne, and prayed the thyrde tyme, sayyng the same wordes. Then cometh he to his discyples, and sayeth vnto them. Slepe on nowe and take youre rest. Beholde, the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse, let vs be goyng: be-holde, he is at hande, that doeth betraye me.

mar. xliii. e.  Whyle he yet spake: lo, Judas one of the nom- ber of the twelue, came, and with hym a greate multytude, with swordes and staves, sent from the chiefe prestes and elders of the people. But he that betrayed hym, gaue them a token, say-yng: Whom soeuer I kysse that same is he, hold hym faste. And forthwith he came to Jesus, and sayd: Haille Master, and kysed hym. And Jesus sayd vnto hym: frende, wherfore arte thou come? Then came they, and layed handes on Jesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them whiche were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, & drew his sword and stroke a seruaunte of the hye prestes, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: put vp thy swerde into his sheath. * For all they that take the swerde: shall perishe with the swerde. Thinkest thou that I can not now praye to my father, & he shall geue me (euen now) more then twelue Legions of Angels? But how then shall the scrpytutes be fulfilled: for * thus must it be. In that same houre sayde Jesus to the multytude: * Ye be come out as it were vnto a shepe, with swordes and staves, for to take me. I sat daylye with you teachyng in the temple, and ye toke me not. * But all this is done, that the scrpytures of y prophetes myght be ful-fylled. * Then al the discyples forsoke hym, and fled. And they toke Jesus, & led him to Cayphas the hye preste where the scrpytes and the elders wer assembled. But Peter folowed hym a farr of vnto y hye prestes palace, and went in, and sate with the seruauntes, toke the ende.

* The chiefe prestes and the elders, and all the counsell, soughte false wytnes against Jesus (for to put hym to death) but found none: yee, when many false wytnesses came, yet found they none.
At the last came two false wytnesses, and they sayde: Thys felow sayde: * I am able to destroye the temple of God, & to buyde it agayne in thre dayes. * And the chiefe preste arose, and sayd vnto hym: Answerest thou nothyng? Why do these beare wytnes agaynst the? But Jesus helde his peace. * And the chiefe preste answered and sayde vnto hym: I charge the by the lyuyng God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christus the sonne of God. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: thou hast sayd.
Howe thelesse, I saye vnto you: * Here after shall ye se the sonne of man sytting on the right hande of power, and comyng in the cloudes of the shay.

* Then the hye preste rent his clothes, sayyng: he hath spoken blasphemy: what nede we of any mo wytnesses? Scholde, now ye haue herd his blasphemy, what thynke ye? They answered, & sayd: he is worthy to dye. * Then dyd they spyt in his face, and buffeted hym with fyngers. And other smote hym on his face, with the palme of theyr handes, sayyng: Tell vs thou Christ, who is he that smote the?

Peter sat without in the palace. And a damsel came to hym, sayyng: Thou also wast with Jesus of Galile: but he denyed before the al, sayyng I wote not what thou sayest. Whē he was gone out into the porche, another wenche sawe hym, and sayd vnto them that were there: This felow was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denied with an othe (sayyng: I do not knowe the man. And after a while, came vnto him they (that rode by) & sayd vnto Peter: * surely thou art euen one of them, for thy speache bewayeth the. Then began he to curse and to sweare, that he knewe not the man. And immediatly the cocke crowe. And Peter remembred the word of Iesu, whyche sayde vnto hym, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thryse: and he wente out, and wept bitterly.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed vnto Pilate. Judas hangeth hym self. Christ is crucified amonge thynke. He cryeth and is buried. Watchmen kepe the grave.

When the morning was come, all the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people, helde a counsell agaynst Iesu, to put hym to death. & brought hym bounde, and deliuered hym vnto Pontius Pilate the debyte.

Then Judas (whyche had betrayed hym) repynge that he was condemned, repented hym self, and brought agayne the thryty plates of syluer to the chiefe priestes and elders, saynge: I haue sinned, betraying the innocente blood. And they sayde: what is that to vs? He thow to that. And he cast doune the syluer plates in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged hym self.

And the chiefe priestes toke the syluer plates and sayd: it is not lawfull for vs to put them into treasure, because it is the payce of bloude. And they toke counsell: and bought wryth them a potters feilde, to burye straungers in. Wherfore the feilde is called - (in hebrewe, that is) the feilde of blood vntill this daye. Then was fulfilled, & which was spoken by Jeremy the prophete, saynge: and they toke thrytye syluer plates, the payce of hym that was valued, whome they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and gaue them for potters feilde, as the Lorde appoynted me.

Jesus stode before the debyte, and the debyte asked hym, saynge: arte thou the kyng of the Jewes? Iesus sayeth vnto hym: Thou sayeste. And when he was accused of the chiefe priestes & elders, he answered nothing. Then sayeth Pilate vnto hym: hearest thou not, how many witnesses they laye agaynst the? and he answered hym to neuer a word: in so much that the debyte marvelled greatly.

At that frast, the debyte was wont to deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, whome they would desire. He had then a notable prisoner, called Barrabas. Therefore when they were gathered together, Pilate sayd: whether wyl ye that I geue loose vnto you? Barrabas, or Iesus, whyche is called Christ? For he knewe that for crueltie they had deliuered hym.

When he was set doune to geue iudgemente, hym wylde sent vnto hym saynge: haue thou nothinge to do wryth that iuste man. For I haue suffred many thynges this daye in my slepe because of hym. But the chiefe priestes & elders perswaded the people, that they shuld aske Barrabas, and destroye Iesus. The debyte answered, and sayde vnto them: whether of twayne wyl ye, that I let loose vnto you? They sayde: Barrabas. Pilate sayd vnto the: what shal I do then wryth Iesus whyche is called Christ?

They all sayd vnto hym: Let hym be crucified. The debyte sayde: What euell hath he done? But they cryed the more, saynge: Let hym be crucified. When Pilate sawe that he coulde pte naye nothinge, but y more busynesse was made he toke water and washed hym bades before the people, saynge: I am innocente of the bloude of this iuste personne, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayde: Hys bloude be on vs and on oure chyldren. Then let he Barrabas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered hym to be crucified.

Then the souldiers of the debyte toke Iesus in the common hall, and gathered vnto hym all the compaigne. And they strypped hym, & put on hym a purple robe, & platted a crowne of thornes, and put vpon his head, & a rebe in his ryght hand: & bowed the knee before hym, and mocked hym saynge: hallo kyng of the Jewes. And whē they had spyt vpon hym, they toke the rebe, and smote hym on the head.

And after that they had mocked hym, they tooke the robe of hym agayne, and put hym owne rayment on hym, and led hym away to crucifye hym. And as they came out, they found a man of Cyren (named Symon) hym they compelled to beare his crosse. And they cam vnto a place which is called Golgotha (that is to say: a place of dead mens scoules) and gaue hym vynerger to drynke, myngled wryth gall. And whē he had tasted therof, he woulde not drynke.

When they had crucified hym, they parted hym garments, and caste lottes: that is myghte be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophete: And they departed my garments amonge them, and vpon my vesture byd they caste lottes. And they sat and watched hym there, & set vpon ouer hym head, the cause of hym death wrytten: This is Iesus the kyng of the Jewes. Then were there two threues crucified wryth hym, one on the right hande and another on the lyfte.

They passed by crucified hym, waggynge theyr heades, and sayng: thou that destroyedst the temple of God, and bydest buyde it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. If thou be the sonne of God, come doune from the crosse. A phetyshe also the hye priestes, mockinge hym wryth the scriybes and elders sayde: he saued other, hym selfe can he not saue. If he be the kyng of Israel let hym now come doune from the crosse, and we wyl helpe hym. He trusted in God, let hym deliuer hym now, if he wyl haue hym, for he sayde: I am the sonne of God. The threues also which were crucified wryth hym, cast the same in hym to the. From the syxtē houre was there darknesse ouer all the lande vnto the nyntē houre. And aboute the nyntē houre, Iesus cryed wryth a loude voyce, saynge: Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani. That is to saye: My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me? Some of them that stode there, when they herde that, sayde: This man calleth for Helias. And streyght waye one of them ranne, and toke a sponge, and when he had fylled it full of vynerger, he put it on a rebe, and gaue hym to drynke. Other sayde: let be, let vs se whether se whether helias will come and deliuer hym. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loude voice pelded vp the ghoste. And beholde, the vasse of the temple did rent into twoo partes, from top to the bottome, and the earth did quake, and the stones rent, and graues did open: and many bodies of saintes whiche slepte, arose, and wente out of the graues, after his resurrection, & came into the holy cite, & appeared vnto many. When the Centurion and they that were with hym watchyng Iesus, sawe the earthquake, & those thynges whiche happened, they feared greatly, sayyng: Truly, this was the sonne of God.

* And many women were there (beholdyng hym afarre of) whiche folowed Iesus fro Galile, ministring vnto hym. Among whiche was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of iehedechyden. When the euen was come * there came a riche manne of Trimathea named Ioseph, whiche also was Iesus discipule. He wet vnto Pilate and begged the body of Iesus: Then Pilate commanded the body to be deliuered. And when Ioseph had taken the body, he wrappd it in a cleane linnen cloth, and laied it in his newe tombe whiche he had hewen out, euen in the rocke, and rolled a greate stone to the doore of the sepulchre & departed. And there was Mary Magdalen & the other Mary, sitting ouer against the sepulchre. The next daie that folowed the daie of prepa-ryng, the hie prestes and pharisees came together vnto Pilate, sayyng: Sir wee remembre that this deceitful sated while he was yet aliue. After thre dayes I will rise again. Commaunde therefore that the sepulchre bee made sure vntill the third daie, lest his disciples come, & steale hym awaie & saie vnto the people: he is risen from the dedde and the last erreure shalber worse then the first.
Pilate said vnto them: Ye haue the watche, go your waie, make it as sure as ye can. So they wet and made the sepulchre sure with watchemen, and sealed the stone. E

The xxviii. Chapter.

The resurrection of Christ. The hie prestes gaue the custodians money to saie that Christ was stolen out of his graue. Christe appeareth to his disciples, and teueth them forth to preache and to baptise.

Vpon an euening of the Saboth whiche durneth the first daie of Ma-bothes, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.
And beholde, there was a greate earthquake for the angell of the Lorde descended from heauen, and came and roulded backe the stone from the doore, and satte vpon it. His countenance was lyke lightenyng, and his raymente white as snowe. And for feare of hym the keepers were astonneped, and became as dedde menne.

* The angell answered, and saied vnto the women, feare ye not. For I knowe, that ye see Jesus whiche was crucified: he is not here: he is risen as he saied. Come see the place where that the Lorde was laied: and goo quickly, tell his disciples, that he is risen again from the dedde. And beholde, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye shall see hym. Lo I haue tolde you. E

* And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with feare and greate ioye, and did rine to tellyng his disciples woordes. And as they wet to tell his disciples: beholde, Iesus mette them, sayyng: All haille. And they came and helde hym by the fete and worshipped hym. Then saied Jesus vnto them: be not afrayed. Soo tell my brethren that they goo into Galyle, and there shall they see me. When they were gone, behold some of the keepers came into the cite, and they wet vnto the hie prestes, all the thynges that had happened. And they gathered them togerther with the elders, and tooke counsayll, and gaue large money vnto the souldiours, sayyng: Saye ye, by your discipples came by nyghte and stole hym awaie whyle ye slepte. And yf thys come to the rulers eares, wee wyll perswade hym, and saue you harmeles. So they toke the money, and did as they were taught. And thys sayyng is wrytten among the Jewes vnto this daie. E

* Then the eluen discipples wente a waie into Galile, into a mountaigne, where as Iesus had appoynted them. And when they sawe hym they worshipped hym. But some doubted. And Iesus came, and spake vnto them, sayyng: * All power is geuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth.
* Soo ye therefore, and teache all nations, baptisyng them in the name of the father, and of the sonne, and of the holy ghoste: Teaching them to obserue all thynges, whatsoeuer I haue commaunded you. And lo, * I am with you alwaie euen vntill the ende of the worlde. E in the wyldernesse: * Prepare the way of the Lorde and make his pathes straight. * Iohn did baptise in the wyldernesse, and preached the baptisme of * repentaunce, for the remission of synnes. And all the lande of Iewy and they of hierusalem wente out vnto hym, and were baptised of hym in the ryuer of Iordan confessyng theyr synnes. * Iohn was clothed with camels haire, and with aggydell of a skynne aboute his loynes. And he dyd eate locustes and wyld bo-then I, cometh after me, whose shoe lachet I am not worthy to toupe doune, and vnloose. I haue baptised you with water: but he shall baptise you with the holy goste. Rub. viii. 18. Mar. xii. 1.

Mar. iii. 13. And it came to passe in those daies, that Iesus came from Nazareth, of Galile, * and was baptised of Ihon in Iordan. And as soon as he was come vp out of the water: * he saw heauen open, and the spirite descendyng vpon hym like a dove: And there came a voyce from heauen. Mar. iii. 14. * Thou art my deare sonne in whom I delite. Mar. iii. 15. And immediately * the spirite bore hym into wyldernesse: and he was there in the wyldernes fourty dayes, and was tempted of Satthan, and was with wilde bestes. * And the angels ministered vnto hym. Mar. iii. 16. After that Ihon was taken, * Iesus came into Galile: * achyng the Gospell, of the kyngdome of God, and sayng: the tyme is come, and the kyngdome of God is at hande: * repente and beleue the Gospell. Mar. iii. 17. Mar. iii. 18. As he walked by the sea of Galile, he sawe Symon and Andrieus his brother, casting nettes into the sea, for they were fishers. Mar. iii. 19. And Iesus said vnto them: folow me, and I will make you to become fishers of menne. Mar. iii. 20. And straight waie they forsoke their nettes and folowed hym. Mar. iii. 21. And when he had gone a litle further thence, he sawe James the sonne of zebede, and Ihon his brother, whiche also were in the shyppe, mending their nettes. Mar. iii. 22. And anon he called them. Mar. iii. 23. And they lefte their father zebede in the shyppe with the byrded seruautes, and folowed hym.

Mar. iii. 24. And they came into capernaum: and straight waie on the Saboth dayes, he entered into the synagoge, and taught, and they were astonied at his learnyng. * For he thought them as one that had auctorite, and not as the scribes. Mar. iii. 25. And there was in their synagoge a manne vexed with an vncleane spirite, and he cryed sayng: Mar. iii. 26. Alas, what haue we to dooe with thee thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroye vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holy one of God. Mar. iii. 27. And Iesus rebuked hym, sayng: holde thy peace, and come oute of the manne. Mar. iii. 28. And whē the vncleane spirite had tozned hym, and cryed with a loude voyce, he came out of hym. Mar. iii. 29. And they were all amased, in so muche that they demaunded one of another among them selues sayng: Mar. iii. 30. What thyng is this? What newe doctryne is this? For with auctorite commaunded he the foule spirites, and they obeyed hym. Mar. iii. 31. And immediately his fame spred a brode througout al the region, bordering on Galile.

Mar. iii. 32. And forthwith when they were come oute of the synagoge, * they entered into the house of Symon and Andrieus, with James and Ihon. Mar. iii. 33. But Symons mother in lawe laye sick of a feuer. Mar. iii. 34. And anon they tell hym of her. Mar. iii. 35. And he came, and toke her by the hande: and lift her vp and immediately the feuer forsoke her, and she ministered vnto them. Mar. iii. 36. And at euen when the sunne was downe, they brought vnto hym al that were diseased, and theim that were vexed with deuils. Mar. iii. 37. And all the citee was gathered together at the doore, and he healed many that were sicke of diuers diseases, and cast oute many deuils, and suffered not the deuils to speake, because they knewe hym. Rub. viii. 18. Mar. xii. 1. And in the moynyng verie early, Iesus (when he was risen vp) departed, and wente out into a solitary place, and there prayed. Mar. iii. 38. And Symon and they that were with hym, folowed after hym. Mar. iii. 39. And when they had founde hym they said vnto hym: all menne seke for thee. Mar. iii. 40. And he said vnto them: lette vs goo into the next townes, that I maye preache there also: for therfore am I come. Mar. iii. 41. And he preached in their synagoges, in all Galyle, and caste the deuils oute.

Mar. iii. 42. * And there came a leper to hym, besecchyng hym, and knelyng doune, and sayng vnto hym: if thou wylte, thou canste make me cleane. Mar. iii. 43. And Iesus had compassion on hym, & put forth his hande, touched hym, and sayeth vnto hym: I wil be thou cleane. Mar. iii. 44. And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from hym, and he sente hym a waie for thyng, and sayeth vnto hym: * See thou saye nothyng to any manne: but gette thee hence, shewe thy selfe to the prieste and offer for thy cleansing, shole thynges whiche Moyses commaunded, for a witnesse vnto them. Mar. iii. 45. But he (as soon as he was departed) began to tel many thynges, and to publishe the sayng: in so muche that Iesus coulde nomore openly entre into the citee, but was without in deserte places. Mar. iii. 46. And they came to hym from euery quarter.

Mar. iii. 47. He healed the manne of the palsy, called Kuri the customer, caryng with open synners, and crucifying his disciples.

Mar. iii. 48. After a fewe dayes also, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noised that he was in the house. Mar. iii. 49. And anon many were gathered together, in so muche that now there was no roume to receiue them, no, not so muche as about the doore, and he preached the woordes vnto them: * And they came vnto hym, byng one sicke of the palsy, whiche was borne of foure menne. Mar. iii. 50. And whē they could not come nie vnto hym, for paele, they vncouered the rooffe of the house that he was in. Mar. iii. 51. And when they had broken vp the roff, they did (with cordes) let doune the bed whereon the sicke of the palsy laye. Mar. iii. 52. When Iesus sawe their faith, he said vnto the sicke of the palsy: * soone, thy synnes be forgiven thee. Mar. iii. 53. But there were certayne of the scribes sitting there, and thynkyng in their heartes: why dooeth he speake these blasphemies? Who can forgive synnes, but God onely? Mar. iii. 54. And immediately when Iesus perceived in his spirit that they so thought within them selues, he said vnto them: why thynke ye such thynges in your heartes? Mar. iii. 55. Whether is it easier to saye to the sicke of the palsy, thy synnes be forgiven thee, or to saye aryle, take vp thy bed, and walke? Mar. iii. 56. But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of manne hath power in earth to forgive synnes, he saith vnto the sicke of the palsy: Mar. iii. 57. I saie vnto thee: * arise & take vp thy bed and gette thee hēce vnto thy owne house. Mar. iii. 58. And immediately he arose, toke vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so muche that that thei were all amazed, and glorified God, saying: wee neuer sawe it on this fashion.

C And he went again vnto the sea, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught theim. And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Leui & sonne of Alpha, sitting at the recte of custome, and said vnto hym: folow me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that when Iesus satte at meate in his house, many publicans and synners came also together at meate with Iesus and his disciples. For there were many, that folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharises sawe hym eate with publicans and synners, thei said vnto his disciples: how happeneth it, that he eateth, and drynke with publicans and sinners? When Iesus heard that, he said vnto theim: Thei that bee whole, haue no neede of the phisicion, but thei that are sicke. I came not to call the righteous, but synners to repentance.

And the disciples of Ihon and the pharises did faste, and thei come and saie vnto hym: Why dooe the disciples of Ihon and the pharises faste but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus said vnto theim: can the chyldre of the wedding fast while the bydegrome is with theim? As long as they haue the bydegrome with theim, they cannot faste. But the dayes will come, when the bydegrome shall be taken awaye from theim, and thei shall thei fast in those dayes.

D Romanne also soweth a pece of newe clothe vnto an olde garmente, els taketh he awaye the newe pece thereof from the olde, and so is the rente wounde. And no manne powreth newe wyne into olde bottels, els the new wyne dooth burst the bottels and the wine runneth out, and the bottels are marred. But newe wyne muste be putte into newe bottels. And it chaunced on (again) that he wente throughe the cozne felde on the Saboth dayes and his disciples began by the waye to plucke the eares of cozme. And pharises said vnto hym: behold, why dooe thei on the Saboth dayes, that whiche is not lawfull? And he said vnto them: haue ye neuer read what Dauid did, when he had neede, and was an hungred, bothe he and thei that were with hym? How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the hie priesse, and did eate the shewbreds (whiche is not lawfull to eate, but for the priesstes onely) and gaue also to theim whiche were with hym? And he said vnto them the Saboth was made for manne, and not man for the Saboth. Therfor is the sonne of man, Lord also of the Saboth.

The. lii. Chapter.

C He helpeth the manne with the withered hande, chooseth his apostles, & casteth out the vncleane spites, which the pharises ascribe vnto the deuill. The brother, the ore, and mother of Christ.

And he entered again into the Synagoge, and ther was a manne there whiche had a withered hande. And thei watched hym, whether he would heale hym on the Saboth daye, that thei mighte accuse hym. And he said vnto the manne whiche had the withered hande: arise, and stande in the middes. And he saith vnto theim: whether it is lawfull to dooe good on the Saboth dayes or to dooe euill: to saue lyfe, or to kill? But thei helde their peace. And when he had looked round aboute on theim, with anger, mourning on the byndnes of their heartes, he saith to the mane: stretch forth thyne hande. And he stretched it out. And his hand was restored, euen as whole as the other. I. And pharises departed, and straight waye gathered a counsaill (with theim that belonged to herode) against hym, that thei mighte destroye hym. But Iesus answered with his disciples to the sea. And a greete multitudine folowed hym from Galile: and from Iewry, and from Iherusalem, and from Iudaea, and from beyond Iordane. And thei that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a greete multitude of menne: whiche (when thei had herde what thynges he did) came vnto hym.

And Iesus commanded his disciples, that a shippe should waite on hym, because of the people: lest thei should chong hym. For he had healed many, in so muche that thei pressed vpon hym for to touche hym, as many as had plagues. And when the vncleane spites sawe hym, thei fell downe before hym, and cried saying: thou art the sonne of God. And he straightely charged theim that they should not make hym knowne. And he wente vp into a mountaigne, and called vnto hym whom he would, and thei came vnto hym. And he ordeined the twelue, that they should bee with hym, and that he mighte sende them forth to preache: and that thei mighte haue power to heale sikenneses, and to cast out deuils. And he gaue vnto Simon the name Peter. And he called James the sonne of zebede and Ihon James brother, and gaue theim to names Sonargers, whiche is to saie: the sonnes of thonder. And Andewe, and Philippe, and Bartholomewe, and Mattheu, and Thomas, and James the sonne of Alpha, and Thaddaeus, and Simon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot: whiche also betrayed hym.

And they came into the house, and the people assembled together agayne, so that thei had not leyser so muche as to eate byede. And when thei that belonged vnto hym, heard of it, thei wente out to laie handes vpon hym. For thei said, he is madde. And the scribes whiche came downe fro Iherusalem, said: he hath Belzebub, and by the chief deuill, casteth he out deuils. And he called them vnto hym, & said vnto the in parables.

How can Sathan dryue out Sathan? And if a realme bee deuised agaynst it self, & realme cannot endure: And if a house bee deuised agaynst it self, that house cannot contynue. And if Sathan make insurrection agaynst hym self, and bee deuised, he cannot continue, but hath an ende. No manne can entre into a strong mannes house, and take a waie his goodes, except he first binde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house. Clerely I saie vnto, all synners shall be forgiuen vnto mennes chyldren, and blasphemies where with soner they haue blasphemed. But he that that speaketh blasphemy against þe holy ghoſte dath neuer forgiuenes, but is in daunges of eter-nall dampnation. For thei ſaid: he hath an vncleane ſpírte. There came alſo his mother and his brethren, & ſtoode without, & ſente vnto hym to call hym out. And the people ſatte about hym and ſaid vnto hym: behold, thy mother and thy brethren ſeke for thee without. And he answered them, ſaying: Who is my mother and my brethren? And wyl he had looked round about on his diſciples, whiche ſatte in compaſſe aboute hym, he ſayed: Beholde, my mother and my brethren. For whoſoeuer dooth the wyl of God, þe ſame is my brother and my ſiſter and mother.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The poſſible of the ſower. Chriſte ſheweth the ſem-ple of the ſea, whiche openeth hym.

And he began again to teach by the ſea ſide. And there gathered together vnto hym muche people, ſo greatly that he entered into a ſhippe, & ſatte in the ſea, and all the people ſtoode by the ſea ſyde on the ſhoore. And he taught them many thynges by parables, & ſaid vnto them in his doctryne: hearken to: behold, there went out a ſower to ſowe. And it fortuned as he ſowed, that ſome fell by the waie ſide, and the foules of the ayre came, and deuoured it vp. Some fell on ſtony grounde, where it had not muche earth, and immediatly ſprang vp, becauſe it had not depth of earth, but a ſhorte while the ſunne was vp, it caughte heate: and becauſe it had not rootyng, it withered away. And ſome fell among thornes and the thornes grewe vp, and choaked it, and it gaue no frute. And ſome fell vpon good grounde and did yelde frute that ſprang vp, and grewe and brought forth, ſome thirty fold, and ſome ſixtye fold, and ſome an hundred fold, and he ſaid vnto them: he that hath eares to heare lette hym heare.

And when he was alone, they that were a-boute hym with the twelue, asked hym of the parable. And he ſaid vnto them: To you it is giuen to knowe the myſterye of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are without, all thynges happen by parables: that when they ſee they maye not ſee, and not deſerne, and when they heare, they maye heare & not vnderſtand: leaſt at any tyme they ſhould tounne, and their ſynnes ſhould bee forgiven them: And he ſaid vnto them: knowe ye not this parable? And how then will ye knowe all other parables.

The ſower ſoweth the woorde. And they (whereof ſome bee reuerſed to bee by the waie ſyde) are thoſe, where the woorde is ſowen: And when they heare, ſathan commeth immediatly, and taketh awaye the woorde, that was ſo-wen in their heartes. And ſuche wyle the other that receiue the ſeede into ſtony ground, are they whiche when they heare the woorde, at once receiue it with gladnes, yet haue no root in themſelues, and ſo endure but a tyme: and anon when trouble and perſecution aryleth for the woordes ſake, they fall immediatly. There bee other that receiue ſeede into thornes, and thoſe are ſuche as heare the woorde, and ſearce of this woerde, and the diſcreetfulnes of riches, and the luſtes of other thynges, enter in and choke the woorde, and it is made vnfructfull: and other there bee, that haue receiued ſeede into a good grounde: thei are ſuche that heare the woorde and receiue it, ſo that one cometh forth bringing forth thirtye, ſome ſixtye, ſome an hundred.

And he ſaid vnto them: is the candell lighted, to bee putte vnder a buſhell, or vnder the table? Is it not lighted to bee putte on a candel-ſticke? For there is nothing ſo ſecrete, that ſhall not bee opened: neither hath it been ſo ſecrete, but that it ſhall come abroad. If any manne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And he ſayed vnto them: take heede what ye heare: & whiche what meature ye meate, with ſame ſhall other meine meature vnto you again. And vnto you that haue, ſhall moze bee giuen. For vnto hym that hath, ſhall it bee giuen, and from hym that hath not, ſhall bee taken awaye, euen that whiche he hath. And he ſaid: ſo is the kyngdome of God, euen as if a manne ſhould ſowe ſeede in þe ground, and ſhould ſleepe, and ryle vp night and daye: and the ſeede ſhould ſpring and growe vp while he is not aware. For the earth bringeth forth frute of her ſelf: firſt the blade, then ſtubble after that the full cometh in the eare. But when þe frute is brought forth, anon he beſtuffeth in the ſheell becauſe the harueſt is come.

And he ſaid: where vnto ſhall we liken the kyngdome of God? or with what compariſon ſhall we compare it? It is lyke a grappe of muſtard ſeede: whiche when it is ſowen in the earth is leſſe then all ſeedes, that bee in the earth when it is ſowen, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes: and beareth greete brynches, ſo that the fowles of the ayre maye make their neſtes vnder the ſhadowe of it.

And with many ſuche parables ſpake he the woorde vnto them, after as they might heare it. But without parable ſpake he nothing vnto them. But when they were alone, he expounded all thynges to his diſciples. And the ſame daye when euen was come, he ſaid vnto them: lette vs paſſe ouer vnto the other ſyde.
And they lefte the people, and toke hym, euen as he was in the ſhippe. And there were alſo hym other ſhippes. And there aroſe a greete ſtorme of wynde, and the waues daſhed into the ſhippe, ſo that it was now full. And he was in þe ſterne a ſleepe on a pelowe. And they awaked him and ſaid vnto hym: Maſter careſte thou not, þe we periſhe? And he roſe vp, and rebuked þe wynd and ſaid vnto the ſea: peace, bee ſtill. And the wynde ceaſed, and there folowed a greete calme.
And he ſaid vnto them: Why are ye ſo fearefull? How happeneth it that ye haue no faith?
And they feared exceedingly, and ſaid one to another: Who is this? For bothe wynde and ſea obeye hym.

The .v. Chapter.

Chriſte deliuereth the poſſeſſed from the vncleane ſpírte: the woman from the bloody iſſue, and tal-keth the captiuitie broughte.

And he came ouer to the other syde of the sea, into the countrey of the Gaderenites. And when he was come oute of the shippe immediately there mette hym ouer of the graues, a manne possessed of an vncleane spirite, whiche had his abydng among the graues. And no manne coulde bynde hym no nor wiche cheynes, because that when he was often bounde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes asunder, and brake the fetters in peces. Neither coulde any manne tame hym. And alwayes, nyghte and daye he was in the mountaignes and in the graues, cryng and beating hymself with stones. But when he had spyed Iesus afarre of, he ranne and worshipped hym and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayed what haue I to dooe with thee? Iesus & sooone of the moste highest God: I requyre thee in the name of God, that thou tourmente me not. For he sayed vnto hym: come out of the manne thou foule spirite. And he asked hym, what is thyne name? And he answered and sayed vnto hym: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayed hym instantly, that he would not sende them awaye ouer of the countrey.

But there was there nye vnto the mountaynes a grate heerde of swyne sedng, and all the deuils besoughte hym sayng: sende vs into the heerde of swyne, that wee maye enter into them. And anon Iesus gaue them leaue. And the vncleane spirites went out and entered into the swyne. And the heerde was carped bedng into the sea. Ther were almoste two thousande and were drowned in the sea. And the swyneherdes fled, and tolde it in the citee, and in the feldest. And thei wente oute for to see what had happened: and came to Iesus, and sawe him that was vexed with the fende and had the legion, sit both clothed and in his righte mynde, and they were afrayed. And they that sawe it tolde them, how it happened to hym that was possessed with the deuill: and also of the swyne. And thei began to praye hym, that he would departe ouer of their cooste. For when he was come into the shippe that had the deuill praid hym, that he might bee with hym. Howbeit, Iesus would not suffer hym, but said vnto hym: goo to thyne owne house and to thy frendes, and shewe them how greate thynges the Lorde hath dooen for thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee. And he departed, & began to publishe in the tenne citees how greate thynges Iesus had dooen for hym, and all menne did maruaill.

C And when Iesus was come ouer agayne by shippe vnto the other syde, muche people gathered vnto hym, and he was nie vnto the sea. And beholde, there came one of the rulers of the Synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he sawe him, he fell downe at his fete, & besoughte hym greatly, sayng: my daughter lyeth at poynte of deathe, I praye thee come and laye thy hande on her, that she maye bee safe and liue. And he wente with hym, and muche people followed hym, and thonged hym. And ther was a certain woman, whiche had been diseased of an yllue of bloodde, twelue yeres, and had suffered many thynges of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and felt none admeument at all, but rather was worse, and worse. When she had harde of Iesus she came in the presse behynde hym, and touched his garmente. For she said: if I maie but touche his clothes, I shal bee whole. And straighte waye the fountayne of her bloodde was dyed by, and she felte in her body, that she was healed of that plage. And Iesus immediately feyng in hymself that vertue proceeded from hym, tourned him about in the presse, and said: who touched my clothes? And his disciples said vnto hym: thou seest the people thrust thee, and at best thou who didst touche me? And he looked rounde about for to see her that had dooen this thyng: But a woman fearyng and tremblyng (knowyng what was dooen within her) came, and fell downe before hym, and tolde hym all the trouth: And he said vnto her: Doughter, thy faith hath saved thee: goo in peace, and bee whole of thy plage.

Whyle he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagoge's house, certain whiche said the doughter is dedde: why discelest thou the master any further? As soone as Iesus heard the woorde that was spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the synagoge: bee not afrayed, onely beleue. And he suffered no manne to folow hym, save Peter, and James, and Iohn the brother of James. And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the synagoge, and sawe the wonderng, and them that wepte and wailed greatly, & wente in, and said vnto them: why make ye this a dooe, and wepe? The damsell is not dedde, but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scoone. But he putte them all oute, and taketh the father and the mother of the damsell, and them that were with hym, and entereth in where the damsell laye, and taketh the damsell by the hande, and said vnto her: Tabita, cumy: whiche is (if one dooe interprete it) damsell, I saye vnto thee arise. And straighte waye the damsell arose, & walked. For she was of age of twelue yeres. And thei were astonnyed out of measure. And he charged them stragghely, that no manne should knowe of it, & commaunded, to geue her meate.

Christe sendeth his Apostles to heale them that were diseased. Of Iohn and Herode. Of the four loues and three fishes. And of the walking on the sea.

And he departed thence, and came into his owne countrey, and his disciples folowed hym. And when the Sabbath daye was come, he began to teache in the synagoge. And many that heard hym were astonnyed, and sayed: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wysedome is this that is geuen vnto hym: and suche vertues that are wrought by his handes? Is not this the carpenter Maries sonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Iuda and Symon? and are not his sisters here with vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus said vnto to them: * A prophete is not despised, but in his owne countre, and among his owne kynne, and in his owne household. And he coulde there shew no miracle, but layd bys handes vpon a fewe sicke folke, and healed them, and marueled, because of their unbelene. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

B And he went aboute by the tounes that lye on euery side, teaching. * And he called fewelue and began to sende them forth twoos and twoos, and gaue them power against vncleane spirites. And he commaunded them, that they should take nothing in their iorney save a robbe onely: no scripe, no hyrde, no money in their purse, but should bee shooed with sandales. And that they should not put on twoo cootes. And he said vnto them: Whersoeuer ye enter into an house, ther abide till ye departe thence. * And whosoeuer shal not receiue you nor heare you, when ye departe thence, shake of the dust that is vnder your fete, for a witnesse vnto them. * Merely I saie vnto you: it shal bee easier for iohom and Gomoz in þe daie of iudgement, then for that citee. * And they went out and preached, þe menne should repente and they cast out deuils: & anoynted many that were sicke, with oyle, and healed them. C And hyng herode heard of hym (for his name was spreade a brode) and he said: Iohn baptist is risen again from the dedde, and therefore miracles are wroughte by hym. Other said: it is helias, some said: it is a prophete, as one of þe prophetes. But when herode hearde of hym he said: It is Iohn whom I bebedded, he is risen from deathe again. * For herode hymself had sent forth menne of warre, and laied handes vpon Iohn, & bounde hym, and cast hym into prison, for herodias sake, his brother Philippes wife (because he had married her.) For Iohn saied vnto herode: It is not lawfull for thee to haue thy brothers wife. Herodias laied waite for hym, & would haue kyled hym, but she coulde not. For herode feared Ioh, knowyng that he was a iust manne and an holy: and gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he did many thynges, and hearde hym gladly. MAT. D And when a conuenient daie was come, that herode on his birth daie, made a supper to the Loydes, his capitaines, and chief estates of Galile: and whē the daughter of the same herodias came in, and daunced, and pleased herode & they that sat at boude also: the kyng sayed vnto the damsell: aske of me what thou wilt, and I will geue it thee. * And he swaie vnto her whatsoeuer thou shalt aske of me, I will geue it thee, eue vn to thee one halfe of my kyngdome. And she wēt forth, and saied vnto her mother: what shall I aske? she saied: Iohn Baptistes hedde. And she came in straight waie with hyst vnto the kyng and asked, sayng: I will, that thou geue me by and by in a charger, the hedde of Iohn Baptist. And þe kyng was sope: howbeit for his othes sake, and for the sake whiche satte at supper also, he would not cast her of. And immediatly the kyng sente the hangman and commaunded him to bringe the hedde to her brought in. And he wente and bebedded hym in the prison, and broughte his hedde in a charger, and gaue it to þe damsell, and the damsell gaue it to her mother. And when his disciples hearde of it, they came, and toke vp his body, and laied it in a grave. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

And the Apostles gathered them selues toge ther vnto Iesus, & tolde hym all thynges, both what they had dooen, and what they had taught. And he saied vnto them: * come ye alone, out of the waye into the wyldernesse, and rest a whyle. For there were many commers and goers, and they had no leasure so muche as to eate. * And he went by ship out of the waie into a deseret place. And the people spied them, when they departed: and many knewe hym, and rāne a foote thether out of all citres, and came thether before them, and came to gether vnto hym. And Iesus went out and sawe muche people, * and had compassion on them, because they were lyke shepe, not hauyng a shepheard. And he began to teache them many thynges. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

* And when the daie was now farre spent, his disciples came vnto him, sayng: this is a deserte place, and now the tyme is farre passed let them departe, that they maie goo into the countre rounde about, and into the tounes, and buye them byede: for they haue nothing to eate. He answered and saied vnto them, geue ye the to eate. They saied vnto hym: shall we goo and buye twoo hundred peny worth of byede, & geue them to eate? he saied vnto them: * how many loues haue ye? 300 and 40. And when they had feared, they saied: five and twoo fishes. And he commaunded them, to make them all sitte downe by compaignies vpon the grene grasse. And they sat downe, here a rowe & ther a rowe, by hundreds and by fifties. And when he had taken the fyue loues and the twoo fishes, and looked vp to heauen, he blessed and brake the loues, & gaue them to his disciples, to set before them, and the twoo fishes deuided he among them all. And they all did eat, & were satisfied. And they toke vp twelue baskettes full thereof, and of the fishes. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

And they that byd eate, were aboute fyue thousande menne. * And stryght waie he caused his disciples to goo into the shippe, and to goo ouer the sea before vnto Bethsaida, whyle he sente awaye the people. * And asone as he had sente them awaye he departed into a mountaigne to praye. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

* And whē even was come, the shippe was in the myddes of the sea, and he alone on þe lande and he sawe them troubled in rowyng, for the wynde was contrary vnto them. And aboute the fourth watche of the nyght, he came vnto them walkyng vpon the sea, and would haue passed by them. But whē they sawe hym walkyng vpon the sea, they suposed it had been a spyrte and cryed out: for they all sawe hym, and were afraid. And asone he talked with the, and saied vnto them: bee of good cheare, it is I, bee not afrayed. * And he wente vp vnto them into the shippe, and the wynde ceased, and they were so amazed in them selues beyonde measure, & maruailed. For they remembred not of the loues, because their hearte was blynde. MAT. XIII. 12. 13. 14.

And when thei wer ouer the water thei came into the lande of Genezareth and dreye up into the banen. And as sone as thei were come oute of the ship, straight waie they knewe hym, & ranne forth throughtout all the region rounde aboute, and began to carpe aboute in beddes those that were sicke. When thei hearde that he was there. And whether soeuer he entered, into townes, ci- tees, or villages, thei laied the sicke folkes in the streetes, and prayed hym that thei might touch and it wer but the hemme of his vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe. R

The vii. Chapter.

The disciples eate with vnwaschen handes. The commandmentes of God is trasgessed by men nes tradicions. Of the woman Syrophenyca.

And the pharisees came together vnto hym, and diuers of the scri- bes whiche came from Hierusalem. And when thei sawe certayne of his disciples eate breade, with commen that is to saie, with vn- waschen handes, thei complayned. For the pha- rises and all the Jewes, except thei wasshe their handes ofte, eate not, obstruyng the tradicions of the elders. And when thei come from the mar- ket, excepte thei wasshe, thei eate not. And many other thynges there be, whiche thei haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the wasshyng of cup- pes and cruces, and brasse vessels, and of tables.

Then asked hym the pharisees and scribes why walke not thy disciples accordyng to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but eate breade with vnwaschen handes? He answered and saied vnto them: Well prophesied Esai of you, ppa- crites, as it is written: This people honoureth me with their lippes, but their heart is farre fro me: howbeit, in vayne dooe thei serue me, tea- chyng the doctrynes and commandmentes of menne. For ye laye the commaundment of God aparte, and obserue the constitucions of menne, as the wasshyng of cruces, and of cuppes & ma- ny other suche like thynges ye dooe. And he saied vnto them: Well, ye calle asyde the commaun- dementes of God, to mayntain your owne consti- tucions. * For Moses saied: honoure thy father & thy mother: and whoso curseth father or mo- ther, let hym die the death. But ye saie: a manne shall saie to father or mother, Cozba: whiche is, what gyfte soeuer cometh fro me, walke for thy profite. And so ye suffer hym nomoze to doo ought for his father or his mother and make the woorde of God of none effecte, throught your owne constitucio, whiche ye haue ordeined. And many suche thynges dooe ye.

And when he had called all the people vnto hym, he saied vnto them: he then vnto me, eury one of you, and understande: There is nothyng without a manne, that can defile hym, when it entereth into hym: but the thynges whiche pro- ceade out of a manne, those are thei that defile a manne. If any manne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And when he came into the house, a- waie from the people, his disciples asked hym of a similitude. And he saied vnto them: are ye al- so so greatly without vnderstandyng? Dooe ye not yet perceiue, that whatsoeuer thyng from w- out, entereth into a manne, it cannot defile hym, because it entereth not into his heart, but into the bely: and goeth out into the draught, pourgyng out al meates? And he saied: that whiche cometh out of manne, defileth a manne. For from with- in euen out of the hearte of manne procede euil thynges aduoutyng fornicacion, murder, theft, couetousnes, fraude, deceite, vnclennes, a wicked ipe blasphemies, pryde, solisnes: all these euill thynges come from within, and defile a manne.

And from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, & would that no manne should haue kno- wen. But he could not be hid. For a certain wo- ma (whose daughter had a foule spirite) as sone as she hearde of hym, came and fell at his fete. The woman was a Syche out of the nation of Syrophenyca, & she besought hym, that he would caste out the deuill fro her daughter. But Iesus smied vnto her: let the chyldren first bee fed. For it is not meete, to take the chyldrens breade and to cast it vnto the whelpes. She answered and saied vnto hym: euen so Lord. neuertheles the whelpes also eate vnder the table of the chyldrens crommes. And he saied vnto her: for this sayyng go thy waie, & deuill is gone out of thy dought- ter. And when she was come home to her house, she found that the deuill was departed, and her daughter lyng on the bedde.

And he departed again from the coastes of Tyre and Sidon, and came vnto the sea of Ga- lile through the middes of the coastes of the tenne cities. * And thei brought vnto hym one that was deaffe and had a impediment in his speche and thei prayed hym, to put his hande vpon hym. And when he had taken hym asyde from the people, he putte his fyngers into his eares, and did spie, and touched his tounge, and looked vp to heau- and sighed, and saied vnto him: Ephata, that is to saie: bee opened. And straight waie his eares wer opened, and the bryng of his tounge was loused, and he spake plain. * And he commaun- ded them, that thei should tell no manne. But he moze he forbad them, so muche the moze a great deale thei publisshed, sayyng: he hath dooen all thynges well, he hath made bothe the deaffe to heare, and the domme to speake. R

The viii. Chapter.

The miracle of the seven loues. The pharisees aske a signe. The leuen of the pharisees. The byrde ecci- meth his sight.

In those dayes * when there was a verie greete companye, and had no- thyng to eate. Iesus called bys dy- sciples to hym, and saied vnto them: I haue compassion on the people, be- cause they haue now ben with me thre dayes and haue nothyng to eate: And if I sende them a waie fastyng to their owne houses, they shall faynte by the waie. * For diuers of thei came from farre. And bys disciples answered hym: where should a manne haue brede here in a wil- dernes, to satisfie thes? And he asked them: how many many loaves haue ye? Thei saied: seuen. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde. And he toke the seuen loaves, and whē he had geuen thanckes, he brake, and gaue it to his disciples, to set before them. And thei did set them before the people. And thei had a fewe small fishes. And when he had blessed, he commaunded them also to bee sette before them. And they brydeate, and were sufficed. And they toke vp of the broken meate, that was left, seuen baskettes full. And they that did eate: were aboue foure thousande. And he sent them awaie.

B And anon he entered into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parties of Dalmanutha. And the pharises came forth, and began to dispute with hym, sekynge of hym a signe fro heauen tempeyng hym. And when he had sighted in his spyrte, he saith: why dooth this generacion seke a signe? Verely I saie vnto you, there shall no signe bee geuen vnto this generacion. And he left them, and went into the ship againe, & departed ouer the water. And thei had forgotten to take bryde with them: neither had thei in the ship with them moze then one loofe. And he charged them, sayng: * Take hede, beware of the leuen of the pharises, and the leuen of herod. And thei reasoned among them selues, sayng: We haue no bryde. And Iesus knew it, and he saied vnto thei: why take ye thought because ye haue no bryde? perceiue ye not, yet neither vnderstand haue ye your heartes yet blinded? haue ye eyes and see not? And haue ye eares, and heare not?

Doe ye not also remembze? * When I brake fyue loaves among fyue thousande menne, how many baskettes full of broken meate toke ye vp? Thei saied vnto hym: twelue. * When I brake seuen among foure thousand, how many baskettes of leauiages of the broken meate toke ye vp? Thei saied, seuen. And he saied vnto them how happeneth it that ye doe not vnderstande? * And he came to Bethsaida, and thei brought a blynde manne vnto hym, and desired hym to touche hym. And he caughte the blynde by the hande, and led hym out of the towne: and when he had spitte in his eyes, he putte his handes vpon hym, he asked hym if he sawe ought. And he looked vp, and saied: I see the menne: for I perceiue them walke, as thei were trees. After that he putte his handes agayne vpon his eyes, and made hym see. And he was reioyced, and saue every manne clearly. And he sent hym home to his house sayng: nerher goo into the towne, nor tell it to any in the towne.

E And Iesus went out, and his disciples into the townes that long to the citee called Cesarea Philippi. And by the waie he asked his disciples sayng vnto them: Whom doo menne saie that I am? And thei answered: some say thou art Ihon baptist, & some saie, helias. Again, some saie: thou art one of the p̄ph̄tes. And he saied vnto them: but whom saie ye that I am? Peter answered and saith vnto hym: thou art Verie Christe. And he charged them, that thei should tell no manne of hym. And he began to teache them, * how that the sonne of manne must suffer many thynges, and bee reproued of elders, and of the hiercestes, and scribes, and bee killed and after thre daies aryse again. And he spake that sayng openly. And Peter toke hym syde, and began to chide hym. But he turned aboute, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, sayng: Soo after me Sat̄an. For thou sauereste not the thynges that bee of God, but the thynges that bee of menne.

* And when he had called the people vnto hym to his disciples also, he saied vnto them: Who soeuer will folow me, lette hym forsake hymself and take vp his crosse, and folow me. For whosoever will saue his life, shall lose it. But whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospell, the same shall saue it. For what shall it profite a manne, if he wyne all the worlde, and lose his owne soule? What shall a manne geue to redeme his soule with all againe? * Whosoever therefore shall bee ashamed of me and of my wordes, in this aduoutrous and synfull generacion of hym also shall the sonne of manne bee ashamed, when he cometh in the glozy of his father with the holy angels.

The transfiguration. The lunathe is healed. The dispersion who should bee greater. Officers and sayth ben.

And he saied vnto them: Verely, I saie vnto you: There be some among them that stande here, whiche shall not taste of death, til thei haue sene the sonne of God come with power.

* And after sixe daies, Iesus taketh Peter and James and Ioh̄, and leadeth them vp into an hie mountaigne, out of the waye alone: and he was transfigured before them. And his rayment did shyne, and became verie white, even as snowe: so whiter as no fuller can make vpon earthe. And there appeared vnto them helias with Moses. And thei talked with Iesu. And Peter answered and saied to Iesu: Master here is good beryng for vs: lette vs make also thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for helias. For he wist not what he saied: for thei were assayed. And there was a cloude that shadowed them. And a voyce came out of the cloude, sayng: * This is my beloued sonne: heare hym. And sobornly when they had looked rounde aboute, they sawe no manne moze then Iesus onely with them.

* And when thei came doune from the hill, he charged them that thei should tell no man those thynges that thei had sene, till the sonne of man were risen from death agayne. And they kepte that sayng with them, and demaunded one of another, what the sayng from death agayne shoulde meane? And they asked hym, sayng: why then saie the scribes, that helias muste firste come? He answered and saied vnto them: Helias verely when he cometh firste, restoreth all thynges. And the sonne of manne (as it is written of hym) shall suffer many thynges & bee set at naught. But I saie vnto you that he-was (as come, and thei haue done vnto him what foer they woulde, as it was wyrtten of hym

And when he came to his disciples, he saue much people about them, and the scribes dys-putting with them. And straight waye at the people (when thei beheld hym) were amazed, and ranne to hym, and saluted hym. And he asked scribes: what dispute ye among them? And one of the company answered, and sayde. Master, I haue brought vnto the my sonne, which hath a deafe speeche. And when he saith vnto hym, he feareth hym, and he someth, and gnasseth wyth his teeth, and pyneth awaye. And I spake to the disciples that they should caste hym oute, and they coulde not.

He answered hym, and sayth: O synners, blese nation, howe longe shall I be wyth you? How longe shall I suffer you? Synge hym vnto me.
And they brought hym vnto him. And as sone as the speeche saue hym, he tare hym. And he seid vnto thei: howe longe is it agoo sens this happened hym? And he said of a chylde and ofte tymes it hath cast hym in the fyre, and into the water to destroye hym. But if thou canst do any thyng, haue mercy on vs, and help vs. Jesus sayde vnto hym: if thou couldest beleue. All thynges are possible to him that bele-ueth. And straight waye the father of the chylde cried wyth teares, sayng: Lord, I beleue, helpe thou myne vnbeliffe.

When Jesus sawe that the people come run-nyng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spete, sayng vnto hym: Thou deafe and deaf spete, I charge the come oute of hym, and entre nomoze into hym. And the spete (when he had cried, and rent hym) came oute of hym, and he was as one that had bene deafe, in so muche that one saide: he is deafe. But Jesus caughte hys hande, and lyfte hym vp, and he rose. And wher he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly: why coulde not we cast hym out? And he said them: this kind can come forth by nothyng, but by prayer and fasting.

And thei departed thence, and toke theyr journey throughe Galilee, as he woulde not, that any man should knowe it. For he taughte his disciples, and sayde vnto them: the sonne of man shal be deliuered into the handes of men, & they shal kyl hym: and after that he is kylled, he shal arise agayne the thyrde daye. But they wyte not what he said, and were afraide to aske him.
And he came to Capernaum. And wher he was come into the house, he asked theym: what was it that ye disputed amonge youre selues by the waye? And they held theyr peace: for by the waye they hadde reasoned amonge them selues, who should be the chiefe. And when he was set doune he called thei. xij. to hym and sayde vnto them: if any man desire to be fyrst, the same shal be last of all, and seruaunte to all. And he tooke a chylde, and set him in the myddes of them, and when he had taken hym in hys armes, he sayde vnto theym: whosoever receyuethe anye suche chylde in my name, receyuethe me. And whoso-uer receyuethe me, receyuethe not me, but hym that sent me. ¶

Thou answered hym, sayng: After we shal be one cast oute deuils in thy name, and he so-looth not vs: and we forbad hym, because he so-looth vs not. But Jesus said: for byd hym not.
For there is no man whiche (if he do a myracle in my name) can lyghly speake euell of me.
For he that is not agaynst vs, is on oure parte.
Whosoener shall in my name geue you a cup of water to drinke, because ye belong to Christ verely I saye vnto you: he shall not lose hys reward. And whosoener shall offend one of these lytle ones, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, if a myllstone were handged aboute hys necke, and he wer cast into the sea. Wherfore if thy hande hinder the, cut it of. It is better for the, to enter into lyfe maimed, then hauing two handes to go into hell, into fyre that neuer shal be quenched. Wher they? wome die the not and the fyre goeth not out. And if thy foot be a synneraunce vnto the, cut it of. It is better for the to go halfe into lyfe, then (hauing two fete) to be cast into hel, into fyre that neuer shal be qu-ched: wher thei? wome dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And if thyne eye hynder the pluche it out. It is better for the to go into the kingdome of God with one eye, then (hauing two eyes) to be cast into hell fyre: wher thei? wome dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out.
¶ Euerie man shal be salted wyth fyre. And euerie sacryfice shal be seasoned wyth salte.
Salte is good. But if the salte be vnswaue, what shal be season therewyth? Haue salte in poure selues: and haue peace amonge youre sel-ues: one wyth another.

¶ The .x. Chappter. ¶

¶ Of the man which was bound with the fetter of synne, and howe he was loosed.

And when he rose from thence, he wente into the coastes of Jewe, & throwe the region that is beyonde Jordane: And the people resorted vnto hym a frethe, and as he was woute, he taughte them agayne. And the Pharyses came, and asked hym: Is it lawfull for a man to put awaye his wyfe, to proue hym? And he answered and said vnto theym: What byd Moses byd you do? and they sayde: Moses suffered to wyghte a testymonyall of deuocement, and to put her away. And Jesus answered and said vnto thei: For the hardnes of your heart he wrot this precept vnto you. But at the fyrst creation God made them, man and woman. Therfore shall a man leaue hys father and mother, and byde by hys wyfe, and they twaine shal be one flesch.
Therfore, what God hath coupled together let not man seuerate.

And in the house hys disciples asked hym again of the same matter. And he said vnto thei: Whosoener putte a way his wyfe, and ma-ryeth another, heareth wedlocke to her warde.
And if a woman forsake her husband, and bemarryed to another, he comytteth adoulttry. ¶ And thei broughte chylidren to him, that he woude touche them. And his disciples rebuked those that broughte them. But when Jesus sawe it, he was displeased and said vnto them: Suffer the chylidren to come vnto me, for by them not. For of such is the kyngdom of God. ¶ And he layd vnto you, whosoeuer dooth not receiue the kyngdom of God, * as a chylde, he shall not enter therein. And when he had taken them vp in his armes, he put his handes vpon them, and blessed them.

¶ And when he was gone forth into the way, ther came one runnyng and kneled to hym, and asked hym: * good master what shal I do, that I may inherite eternall lyfe. Jesus sayd vnto hym: why callest thou me good? Ther is none good but one, whych is God. Thou knowest, I commaundementes: breake not Matymony: hyl not: steale not: beare no false wytnesse: defraude no man: honour thy father and mother. he answered and sayd vnto hym: Master, all these haue I obserued from my yowth. Jesus be helde hym, and fauoured hym, and sayd vnto hym: one thyngg thou lackest. * Goe thy waye, sell that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folow me. I and take vpon my crosse vpon thy shoulders. But he was dyscomforted because of that sayng, and went awaye mournynge, for he had greute possessions.

And when Jesus had looked round aboute, he sayd vnto his disciples, * howe vneasye shall theye that haue monye, enter into the kyngdom of God. And the disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Jesus answered agayne, and sayd vnto them: chylidren, howe hard is it for them that truste in monye, to enter into the kyngdom of God. It is easier for a cammel to go thorow the eye of an needle, then for the rich to enter into the kyngdom of God. And they were astonied out of measure, sayng betwene them selues: who then can be saued? Jesus looked vpon them, and said: wyth men it is vnpossible, but not wyth God: for * wyth God all thynges are possible.

And Peter began to say vnto hym: Loo, we haue forsaaken all, and haue folowed the. Jesus answered, & sayd: Verely I say vnto you, ther is no man that hath forsaaken house, or bryeth, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wyfe, or chylidren, or landes, for my sake and the Gospelles, but he shall receaue an hundred fold more in this lyfe, houses and bryethen, and sisters, and mothers, and chylidren, and landes wyth persecutions: and in the world to come, eternall lyfe. * But many that are fyrst, shal be last: and the last, fyrst. And he went in the way going vnto Ierusalem. And as Jesus went betwene the, and they were amazed, and folowed, and were afrayed.

And Jesus took the twelue agayne, and began to tell them what thynges shoulde happen vnto hym. * Behold we go vnto Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shal be deliuered vnto the hyerchiefes and vnto the scribes: and they shall condempne hym to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentyles, and they shal mocke hym, and scourge hym, spytte vpon hym, and kill hym. And the thirde daye he shal rylse agayne.

* And James and Iohn the sonnes of zebedee came vnto hym, sayng: Master, we wold that thou shouldest do for vs whatsoener we desyre. he sayd vnto them: what woude ye? I shoulde do for you? They sayd vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we maye sytte one on the ryght hande and the other on the lyfte hande, in thy gloire. But Jesus sayd vnto them: Ye wot not what ye aske: Can ye drynke of the cup that I drynke of, and be baptizyd wyth the baptyme, that I am baptizyd wyth? and they sayd vnto hym: that we can. Jesus sayd vnto them, ye shal in dede drynke of the cup that I drynke of: & with the baptyme, that I am baptizyd wyth, shal ye be baptysed in: but to syt on my ryght hande and on my lyfte hand is not myne to geue, but it shal happen vnto the, for whom it is prepared.

* And when the ten heard it, they beganne to disdayn at James and Iohn. But Jesus when he had called them to hym, sayd vnto them: ye knowe that * they whiche are sene to beare rule among the people, reygne as Lordes ouer them. And I they be great among them, exerceyle authorite vpon them. Auert theles, so shal it not bee amonge you: but whosoeuer of you wyl be greute among you shal be poure minister. And whosoeuer of you wyl be chefe, shal be seruaunt of all. For * the sonne of man also came not to be mynistrd vnto: but to minister, and to geue his lyfe for the redemption of many.

And thei came to Hierico: * And as he went out of the cite of Hierico wyth his disciples and a greute number of people: blind Bartimeus the sonne of Timeus, sat by the hye waye syde beggynge. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he beganne to cry, and say: Jesus thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked hym, that he shoulde holde his peace. But he cryed the more a great dealer: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be called: And they called the blind, sayng vnto him: Be of good comfort: rise, he calleth the. And he threwe away his cloke, and rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and sayd vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blind sayd vnto hym: Master, that I myght se. Jesus sayd vnto hym go thy way, thy faith hath saued the. And immediatly he receiued his syght, and folowed Jesus in the waye.

Jesus cometh to Ierusalem. The synners cast out of the temple. The synners quytte on Iudas Iscariot.

And when they came nye to Ierusalem vnto Bethphage and Bethanay, berydes mount Oluete, he sent betwene for the two of his disciples, and sayeth vnto them: Goe your waye into the tounne, that is ouer agaynste you

And as soon as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynd a coltre bounde, wher on neuer man sat: lose hym and bypunge hym ther. And if anye man saye vnto you why do ye so? Say ye, that the Lord hath neede of hym: & straight way he wyll send hym byrder. And they wente theyr waye, and founde the coltre tyed by the doze wythoute in a place where two wayes mette, and they loosed hym. And byuers of them that stood there, saied vnto them: * What doo ye losynge the coltre? And they saied vnto them: euen as Iesus had commaunded. And they let hym go. And they broughte the coltre to Iesus and cast theyr garments on hym: and he sat vpon hym. And many spede theyr garments in the waye. Other cut downe bryanches of the trees, and strawed them in the waye. And they that wente before and they that folowed cryed, sayynge: Hosanna * blessed is he that cometh in the name of s. Lord. Blessed be the kynge dome, that cometh in the name of hym that is Lord of our father Dauid Hosanna in the hest.

And the Lord entered into Jerusalem and in to the temple. And when he had looked round about vpon all thynges, and nothe the euentyde was come, he wente oute vnto Bethany with the twelue. * And on the morow when they were come out from Bethany, he hongred. And when he had spied a fygge tree afarre of, hauing leaues, he came to se if he myghte fynd any thyng thereon. And when he came to it, he founde no thyng but leaues: for the tyme of fygges was not yet. And Iesus answered and saied vnto s. fygge tree: neuer man eate frute of the here after while the woilde standeth. And his discyples heard it.

And they came to Ierusalem. And Iesus went into the temple, and began to caste out them that soule and bougte in the temple, and ouer thier the tables of the money chaungers, and the stoles of them that solde doves: and would not suffer that any man shoulde carpe a vessell throughe the temple. And he taught sayynge vnto them: * is it not wyrtten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nations? But ye haue made it a denne of theues.

And the scribes and the hye priestes herde it, and soughte howe to destroye hym. * For they feared hym, because all the people marueled at his doctryne. And when euen was come, Iesus went out of the cytee. * And in the morning as they passed by, they sawe the fygge tree dried vpon the rotes. And Peter remembred, and saied vnto hym: * Master, beholde the fygge tree which thou cursedst, is withered awaye. And Iesus answered and saied vnto them: haue confidence in God. * Verely I saye vnto you, that whoso euer shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, and cast thy self into the sea, and shal not doubte in his heart, but shal beleue that those thynges whiche he sayth shal come to passe, whatsoeuer he sayeth he shal haue. Therefore I saye vnto you: * what thynges soeuer ye desire, when ye praye, beleue that ye receiue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and praye: for geue, if ye haue oughte agaynst any man, that your father also which is in heauen, may forgiue you your trespasses.

And they came agayne to Jerusalem. * And as he walked in the temple: there came to hym the hye priestes, and the scribes, and the elders and sayed vnto hym: by what auctorite doest thou these thynges? and who gaue the thess auctorite, to do these thynges? Iesus answered and sayed vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng and answere ye me, and I wyl tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The baptisme of Ihon, whether was it frome heuen or of men? Answer me. And they thoughte in them selues, sayynge: if we saye from heauen he wyll saye: why then byd ye not beleue hym? but if they had sayed: of men, they feared the people. For all men counted Ihon, that he was a very prophet. And they answered and sayed vnto Iesu: we cannot tell. And Iesus answered, and sayed vnto them: neither wyll I tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. *
The. xii. Chapter.

The vineyard is let out. * And to Cesar that belongeth to Cesar: of the labours, of the doctes of lawe, pprocytes must be refused, the offering of the poore labours.

And he beganne to speake vnto the by parables. A certayne man plantet * a vineyard, and compassed it aboute with an hedge, and ordeined a winepresse, and built a towre and let it out to hye vnto husbandmen, and wente into a straunge countree. And when the tyme was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruaunte, that he myght receiue of the husbandmen of s. frute of the vineyard. And they caught hym and bet hym, and sent hym awaye agayn emptye. And mozeouer he sente vnto them another seruaunte, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sente hym awaye agayn al to reupled. And agane he sent another, and hym they kylled: and manye other, beatynge some, and kyllynge some.

And so when he had but one beloued sonne he sente hym also at the last vnto them, sayynge they wyll feare my sonne. * But the husbandmen said amongst the selues: this is the heyre: come * let vs kill him, and the inheritance shal be ours. And they tooke hym and kylled hym, and cast hym out of the vineyard. What shal therfore the Lord of the vineyard do? he shal come and destroye the husbandmen, and let out the vineyard vnto other. haue ye not read this scripture? * The stone which the buylders byd refuse, is become s. chiefe stone of the cozner, this is s. Lordes doynge, and it is merueylous in our eyes. They wente aboute to take hym, and feared the people. For they knewe, that he had spoken the parable agaynst them. And they lefte hym and wente theyr waye.

* And they sent vnto hym certain of the pharises and herodes seruantes, to take hym in his wordes. And as soon as they were come, they sayd vnto hym: Master, we knowe that thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou considerest not the outward apperance of men, but teachest the wape of God true: Is it lawfull to pay tribute to Cesar, or not? Dughe we to geue, or ought we not to geue? But he understod theyr simulation, and said vnto them: Why tempte ye me? Saying me a peny, that I may se it. And they brought it. And he sayed vnto the. Whose is this ymage, and superscripcion? And they sayed vnto him: Cesars. And Iesus answered, and sayed vnto them: * Geue to Cesar the thynges that belong to Cesar: & to God the thynges which pertaine to God. And they marvelled at hym.

Then came also vnto him the saducees: which saye that there is no resurrection. And they asked hym saying: Master? Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mans brother dye, and leue his wife behynde hym, and leue no chyldren: that his brother should take his wife, and raise vp lede vnto his brother.

There were seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he dyed, left no seede behynde hym. And the seconde toke her, and died, neither left he any seede. And the thyrde lyke wyse. And the fourth had her, and left no seede behynde them. Last of all the wife died also. In the resurrection theyr sowe when they shall rylle agayne, whose wyfe shall she be of them? For seuen had her to wyfe. And Iesus answered and sayed vnto them: Wo ye not therfore erre because ye understand not the scriptures, neither the power of God: For when they shall rylle agayne from death, theyr neither mary, nor are maryed: but are as the angels, which are in heauen. As touchyng that they rylle agayne: haue ye not reade in the booke of Moses, howe in the bulfe, God spake vnto hym, saying: I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isahac, and the God of Iacob: He is no God of dead, but the God of lyuynge. Ye are therfore greatly deceyued.

* And when there came one of the scribes: and had heard them disputyng together (and perceined that he had answered them wel) he asked hym: whyche is the fyrst of all the commaundmentes? Iesus answered hym, the fyrst of all the commaundmentes is: Heare O Israel: * The Lord our God is Lord only: And thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with al thy heart, and with all thy soule, and with al thy mynde and with all thy strength. This is the fyrst commaundment. And the second is lyke vnto this: * Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe: There is none other commaundment greater then these.

And the scribe sayed vnto hym: Wel master thou hast sayd the truthe, for there is one God, and there is none but he. And to loue hym with all the heart, and with al the minde, and with all the soule, and with all the strength, and to loue a mans neyghbour as hym selfe, is a greater thyng then all burnt offerynges and sacryfices. And when Iesus sawe that he answered discretely, he sayed vnto hym: Thou arte not farre from the kyngdom of God. And no man after that, durst aske hym anye questyon.

And Iesus answered and sayed, teaching in the temple: howe saye the scribes that Chryst is the sonne of Dauid? For Dauid hym selfe in the holy goste sayed: * The Lord sayed to my Lord, sit on my ryght hande tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stole. Dauid hym selfe calleth hym Lord: and howe is he the sonne of Dauid? And much people heard hym gladly.

And he sayed vnto them in hye doctryne: he ware of the scribes, which loue to go in long clothynges: and loue salutations in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregacions, and the ypermost remedies at feastes, which deuour widows houses, and vnder a pretence make longe prayers. These shall receiue greater dampnacion.

* And when Iesus sat ouer against the treasury, he behelde, howe the people put money in to the treasury. And many that were rych, cast in much. And there came a certayne pooze widow, & she thre we in two mytes, which make a sarchyng. And he called vnto hym his disciples, and sayed vnto them: Clerely I saye vnto you: that this pooze wyddowe hath cast moze in, then all they which haue cast in to the treasury: For they all haue cast in of theyr superfluyte: but she of her pouerte, by deast in all that she had, euen all her lyuynge.

The xliij. Chapter

¶ As he went oute of the temple, * one of his disciples sayed vnto hym: Master, se what stones, and what buyldynges are here. And Iesus answered and sayed vnto hym: Seest thou these great buyldynges? Theyr shall not be left one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwne downe. And as he satte on mounte Olyuete, ouer agaynst the temple, Peter and James, and Iohn, and Androw, asked hym secretly: tell vs when shall these thynges be? And what is the sygne when all these thynges shall be fulfilled? And Iesus answered them and began to saye: * Take heed, least any man deceyue you. For many shall come in my name saying: I am Chryst, and shall deceyue many.

¶ When ye shall heare of warres, and rydinges of warres, be ye not troubled. For such thynges must needs be. But the end is not yet. For they shall rylle nacyon agaynst nacyon, and kyngedome agaynst kyngedome. And there shall be earthquakes in all quarters, and famyngment shall ther be, and troubles. These are the begynnyng of sorowes. * But take ye heed to power & selus. * For they shall byng you vp to the coosts, and into the wyngages, and ye shall be ten, pre, and shall be brought before rulers and kynges for my sake, for a testimonial vnto the. * And the Gospell must fyrst be publyshed amonge all nations.

* But when they leade you and present you take ye no thoughte, neither ymage aforeshande what ye shall say: but what foruers is giuen you in the same houre, that I speake. For it is not ye that that speake but the holy ghooste. The brother shall deliuer by the brother to death, and the father the sonne: and the chyliden shall ryle agaynst the; fathers and mothers, and shall put them to death. And ye shall be hated of all men, for my names sake. But whoso endureth vnto the ende the same shall be safe.

* Whosoever, when ye see the abhominacion of desolacion (whereof is spoken by Daniell the prophet) stand wher it ought not: let hym that readeth vnderstande. Then let them that be in Jerusaleme, fly to the mountains. And let hym that is on the house top, not go doune into the house neither enter therein to fetch anye thyng out of hys house. And let hym that is in the feld, not turne backe agayn vnto the thynges which he left behynde hym, for to take hys clothes with hym. Wo shall be then to them that are wchyliden and to them that geue such in those dayes. But praye ye that your flight be not in the winter. For there shall be in those dayes such tribulacion as was not from the begynnyng of creaturres, (whyche God created) vnto this tyme, neither shall be. And excepte that the Lord should shorten those dayes, no fleshe would be saved. But for the electes sake, whom he hath chosen he hath shortened those dayes.

* And then, if any man saye to you: loe here is Christ: loe he is there, beleue not. For false Christes and false prophets shall ryle, & shall shewe myracles and wonders, to deceiue, if it were possible, euen the electe. But take ye heede: Beholde I haue shewed you al thynges before.

* Whosoever, in those dayes, after that tribulacion, the sunne shall waxe darke, and ymone shall not geue her lyght, and the starres of heauen shall fall: and the powers whyche are in heuen shall moue. * And then shall the sonne of man comynge in the cloudes, with greates power and gloire. And then shall he sende hys angels, and shal gather together his elect from the four wyndes, from the ende of the earth, to the uttermost parte of heauen.

* Learne a symilitude of the figge tree. When hys bough is yet tender, and hath brought forth leaues, ye know that sommer is nere. So ye in like maner: when ye see these thynges come to passe: vnderstande, that he is nye euen at the doores. Clerely I say vnto you: that this generacion shall not passe, tyll these thynges be doone. Heauen and earth shall passe, but my wordes shall not passe. But of day and tyme knoweth no man, no not the angels which are in heauen neither the sonne hym selfe, save the father only.

* Take heede, watche and praye, for ye know not when the tyme is. As a man which is gone into a straunge countre, and hath left his house and geuen hys substance to hys seruantes, & to every man his worke, and commaunded the porter to watche. Watche ye therefore, for ye knowe not when the mayster of the house will come, euen at mydnyght, whether at the cocke crowing, or in the dawning: least if he come so denyly he fynde you slepyng. And that I say vnto you, I saye vnto all, watche.

The xiiii. Chapter.

¶ I praye you diligently to remember the sayings which I haue sayd vnto you, for they shall be fulfilled in you.

After two dayes was Easter, and the dayes of sweete bread. * And the hye priestes and the scribes sought, how they might take hym by craft and put him to death. But they sayd: not in the feast daye, least any busines arise amonge the people. * And when he was at Bethania, in the house of Simo the leper, euen as he sat at meat, there came a woman hauing an Alabastrer boxe, of oyntment, called Marth, that was pure and costly: and she brake the boxe, and poured it on hys heade. And there were some, that were not contente wthyn them selues, and sayd: what neede this wast of oyntment? For it myght haue bene solde for moze then thye hundred pens, and haue bene geuen vnto the poore. And they grudged agaynst her.

And Iesus sayd: let her alone, why trouble ye her? she hath doone a good worke on me. * For ye haue the poore with you all wayes, and whensoever ye wyll, ye may do them good, but me haue ye not alwayes. she hath doone that she coulde: she came also forhande, to anoynte my body to the buryng. Clerely I saye vnto you: whersoever this Gospell shall be preached, there shall be doone the whole worke: this also that she hath doone shall be remembered in remembrance of her.

* And Judas Iscarioth, one of the xii. went away vnto the hye priestes, to betraye him vnto them. When they heard that, they wer glad and promysed that they would geue hym money. And he sought, howe he myghte conueniently betraye hym.

* And the fyrst day of sweete bread (when they offered Pasche) his disciples said vnto hym: where wylte thou that we go and praye, that thou mayst eate the Pasche? And he sendeth forth two of hys disciples, and saith vnto them: Go ye into the cytee, and there shall meete you a man bearyng a pytcher of water, folowe hym. And wher he soeuer he gooeth in, saye ye to the good man of the house, the master sayeth: where is thy greut chamber, where I shall eate Pasche with my disciples? And he wil shewe you a great parlour, paved & prepared: there make ready for vs. And his disciples went forth, and came into the cytee, and founde as he had sayd vnto them, and they made ready the Pasche.

* And when it was nowe euentyde, he came with the xii. And as they sat at boord and did eate, Iesus said: Clerely I say vnto you: one of you (that eateth with me) shall betraye me. And they began to be sorry, and to say to him one by one: is it I? And another said: is it I? he answered & sayd vnto them: It is one of the xii. eue he shal dipper with me in the platter. The sonne of man truly goeth as it is wyrt of hym: but wo to that man, by whome the sonne of manne is betrayed. Good wer it for that man, if he had neuer bene bozne.

* And as they did eate, Iesus toke breade: & when he had geuen thanks he brake it, & gaue to them and sayd: Take, eate, this is my body.

and bounde Iesus, and led hym away, and deli-art thou the kyng of the Jewes? And he answered and said vnto him: thou sayest it. And the hye priestes accused him of many thynges. So Pilate asked hym again sayng: * Answerest thou nothing? Beholde, howe many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesus yet answered nothing, so that Pilate marvelled.

At that leaſt Pilate dyd deliuer vnto them a prisoner: whomsoever they woulde desire. And ther was one þ was named Barrabas, which laye bounde wyth them that made insurrection he had committed murder. And the people called vnto hym: and began to desyre him, that he would do, accordyng as he had enen done vnto them. Pilate answered them sayng: Wyl ye that I let loſe vnto you the kyng of the Jewes?
For he knewe that the hye priestes had deliue-red hym of enuy. But the hye priestes moued þ people, that he shoulde rather deliuer Barra-bas vnto them.

Pilate answered agayn and said vnto the:
* What wyl then that I do vnto hym, whom ye call the kyng of the Jewes? And they cried again: crucifie hym. Pilate sayed vnto them what euell hath he done? And they cried þ moze feruently: Crucifye hym. And so Pilate willing to contente the people, * let loſe Barrabas vnto them, and deliuered vnto Iesus (when he had scourged hym) for to be crucified.

B And the souldiers led hym away into þ commen hall, and called together the whole multitude, and they clothed hym wyth purple, & they platted a crowne of thornes, and crowned hym withall, & beganne to salute hym: Hail kyng of the Jewes. And they smote hym, on the head with a rebe and dyd spyt vpon hym and bowed their knees, and woſhypped hym.

And when they had mocked hym, they toke the purple of hym, and put his owne clothes on hym, and led hym out to crucifye hym. * And they compelled one that passed by, called Symon of Cyrene (the father of Alexander and Rufus) whiche came out of the felde, to beare his crosse. * And they brought hi to a place named Golgotha (whiche is yf a man interpret it: the place of dead mens sculles) and they gaue hym to dryncke, wyne mingled wyth myze, but he receiued it not.

And when they had crucified hym, they parted his garmentes, casting lottes vpon them, what euerymā shoulde take. And it was about the thyrtyd houre, and they crucified hym. And the title of his cause was written: The kyng of the Jewes. * And they crucified with him two the-ues, the one on the ryght hand, and the other on hys left. And the scripture was fulfilled which sayth: * he was counted among the wyched. *
And they that wente by, rayled on hym, wagging theyr heades, and sayng: A wyetch, thou that destroyest the temple, and buyldest it in thre dayes: saue thy selfe, and come doune from the crosse. Lyke wyse also mocked hym the hye priestes amonge them selues wyth the scriybes and sayed: he saued other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Chyſt the kyng of Israel descend nowe from the crosse, that we maye se, and be-lieue. And they that were crucified wyth hym, checked hym also.

* And when the fyrte houre was come, darke-nesse arose ouer all the earth, vntil the ix. houre.
And at þ ix. houre Iesus cried with a loud voyce sayng: Eloi, Eloi, lamaſabachani: whiche is (þ one interpret it) * my God my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of the þ stode by, when they heard that sayed: beholde, he calleth for Elias. * And one ranne, & filled a sponge ful of vineger, and put it on a rebe, & gaue hym to dryncke: sayng: let hym alone, let vs se whether helias will come and take hym doune.

But Iesus cryed with a loud voyce, & gaue vp the ghoſt. * And the vaple of the temple dyd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the botome.
* And when the Centurion (which stode befoze hym) sawe that he so cryed, & gaue vp the ghoſt he said: Truly this mā was the sonne of God.
* Ther wer also women a good way of, behol-dyng hym: among whom was Mary Magdalene, * and Mary þ mother of James the lytle: and Ioles, and Mary Salome. * (whiche also whē he was in Galile had folowed hym and my-nistred vnto hym) & many other women, which came vp wyth hym vnto Ierusalem.

And now when the euen was come (because it was the day of preparyng, that goeth befoze the sabboth) * Ioseph of the cyter of Aramat (ha-a noble counsellour, whiche also looked for the kyngdome of God, came, and wente in boldly vnto Pilate, and begged of hym the body of Jesu. And Pilate marvelled that he was alre dye dead, and called vnto hym the Centurion, and asked hym, whether he had bene any whyle dead. And when he knewe the truth of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Ioseph. And he bought a linnen cloth, and tooke hym doune, and wra-a sepulchre that was hewen out of a roche, and rouled a stone befoze the dooze of the sepulchre.

The first Chapter.

¶ The conception and birth of Iohn the Baptist. The concey-on of Zachary. & the birth of Iohn the Baptist.

There was in the dayes of He-rode the kyng of Jewry, a certaine priest named zacharias * of the course of Abia. And his wyfe was of the daughters of Aron: and her name was Elizabeth: they were both ryghte trous before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordynances of the Lord that no man could fynde faulte with them. And they had no chyld because that Elizabeth was barren, and they bothe were now well strycken in age.

And it came to passe, that when zachary executed the Priestes office, before God, as his course cam: according to the custome of the pre-stres office: he fell to burne incense.

And he * wente into the temple of the Lord and the whole multitude of the people were out in prayer, whyle the incense was a burning.
And there appered vnto hym an Angell of the Lord, standynge on the ryghte syde of the sultare of incense. And when zachary sawe hym he was abashed and lease came on hym.

But the Angel sayed vnto hym: feare not zachary, for thy prayer is heard. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shall beare the a sonne, and thou shalt call his name Iohn, and thou shalt haue lope and gladnesse, and manye shall reioyse at his birth. For he shall be greater in the syghte of the Lord, and shall neither drynke wyne ner strong drynke, and he shall be fylled with the holy ghoist even frome his mothers wombe: and many of the chyldren of Israel shall turne to their Lord God. And he shall go before him in the syghte power of * Helias to turne the hartes of the fathers to the chyldren, and the vnbelievers to the wyldome of the iust men, to make ready a perfekte people for the Lord.

And zachary sayd vnto the Angel: by what token shall I knowe thyng? For I am olde, and my wyfe well strycken in yeres. And the angell answered and sayed vnto hym: I am Gabryell, that stande in the ptesence of God, and am sente to speake vnto the: and to the the these glad thynges. And beholde it shall come to passe that thou shalt be domme, and not be able to speake, vntyll the daye that these thynges be perfourmed, because thou beleuest not my wordes, which shall be fulfilled in the season.

And the people wayed for zachary, & merueyled that he sayed in the temple. And when he came oute, he coulde not speake vnto them.
And they perceaued that he had seene a vision in the temple. And he became vnto them and remained speechlesse.

¶ And it soortuned, that as soon as the dayes of his office wer out, he departed into his owne house. And after those dayes, his wyfe Elizabeth conceived, and had her selfe foure monethes sayng: This will hath God dealt with me, in the dayes wherein he hath looked on me, to take frome stryed, yee see Iesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. he is risen, he is not here. Behold, the place where they had put him. But go your way and tell his disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see hym as he said vnto you. ¶ And they went out quikly, and fled from the sepulchre: for they trembled and were amazed. Neither sayed they anye thyng to any man, for they were asfraid.

C ¶ When Iesus was risen earlye the fyfthe dayes after the labor, he apered first to Mary Magdalene, out of whome he had cast .viij. deuils.
And she went, and tolde them that were with him, and they mourned and wept. And they whyle they hearde that he was aloue, and had apered vnto her beleued it not. ¶ After that appered he vnto two of them, in a straunge figure, as they walked and wente into the countrey. And they wente and tolde it to the remnaunte. And they beleued not these also.

¶ Afterwarde he appered vnto the eleuen as they sate at meate: and caste in the ptesence they: vnbeliefe, and hardnesse of heart: because they beleued not them whiche had sene that he was risen agayne from the dead. And he sayed vnto them: ¶ Go ye into all the world & preach the Gospell to al creatures, he that beleueth and is baptised, shall be saved. But he that beleueth not, shall be dāpned. And these tokens shall folow them that beleue. ¶ In my name they shall cast out deuils: they shall speake with newe tounges, they shall dryue awaye serpentes. And yf they drynke any deadly thyng, it shall not hurt them. They shall lay theyr handes on the sycke and they shall recover.

¶ So then, when the Lord had spoken vnto them: he was receyued vnto heauen, and is on the ryght hande of God. And they wente forth and preached euery where: the Lord working with them, and confortynge the wordes with myracles folowynge.

And in the fyrte moneth the angell Gabriell was sent from God vnto a cytie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a vyrgyne sponſed to a man whose name was Ioseph, of the house of Dauid and the vyrgins name was Mary. And the angell wente in vnto her, and sayde: Hail full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed arte thou among women. When she sawe hym, she was abashed at hys saynge: and caste in her mynde, what maner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her, feare not Mary: for thou hast founde grace wyth God. Beholde, * thou shalt conceiue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Iesus. he shall be greute, & shall be called the sonne of the hyest. And the Lorde God shall geue vnto hym the scat of his father Dauid, and he shall raygne ouer the house of Iacob for euer, and of his kyngdome there shall be none ende.

Then sayd Mary vnto the angel: how shall this be, sayng I knowe not a man? And the angell answered & sayde vnto her. The holy gost shall come vpon the, and the power of the hyest shall ouerthadow the. Therefore also that holy thyng which shall be borne, shall be called sonne of God. And beholde, thy Cousyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceyued a sone in her age. And this is her seet moneth, which was called barren: for * with God shall nothyng be vnpossible. And Mary sayd: behold the handmaiden of the Lorde be it vnto me accordyng to thy worde. And the angell departed from her.

And Mary arose in those dayes, and went into the mountaynes with hait into the cytie of Iewye, and entred into the house of Iacoby, & saluted Elizabeth. And she returned, that when Elizabeth herde the salutation of Mary, she be spide in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy gost, and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayde: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruite of thy wombe. And wherfore happened this to me, that the mother of my Lorde shulde come to me? For so, as lone as the voyce of thy salutation pounded in mine eares, the babe sprang in my wombe for ioye. And blessed arte thou & haue beleued: for those thynges shall be performed, which were tolde of from the Lorde. And Mary sayde:

* My soule magnifyeth the Lorde. And my spete hath reioiced in God my saviour. For he hath looked on my lowe degree of his handmaiden: for so, now from hence forth shall all generacions call me blessed. Because he that is myghty, hath done to me great thynges, and holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that feare him, from generacion to generacion. he hath thewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered them & are proude in the ymaginacion of theyr deite. * he hath put downe the myghtye from theyr seates, & exalted them of lowe degree. he hath fylled the hongry with good thynges: and sent a waye the ryche empty. he hath helpe his seruant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy.

* Euen as he prayd to oure fathers, Abrah-Elizabeths tyme came that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne. And her neyghbours and her cosyns heard howe the Lorde had shewed greute mercye vpon her and they reioiced wyth her.

And it fortuneth that in the eyght daye, they came * to circumsyse the chyld: and called hys name zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother answered and sayd: not so, but he shalbe called Ihon. And they sayde vnto her: There is none in thy kynred, & is named wyth this name. And they made sygnes to his father howe he wolde haue hym called: And he asked for wytyng tables, and wrote, sayng: hys name is Ihon. And they maruelled all. And his mouth was opened immediatly, and his tongue also, and he spake, and praised God. And there came on all them that dwelt nye vnto the. And all these saynges were noyed abrode throughe out all the hyll contree of Jewye: and all they heard them, layde the vp in theyr heartes, sayng: What maner of chyld shall this be? And the hande of the Lorde was wyth hym.

And hys father zacharias was fylled wyth the holy gost, and prophesied, sayng: Praise be to the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visyted and redeemed his people: & hath raised vp * an hoyme of salucion vnto vs in the house of his seruante Dauid. Euen as he promysed by the mouth of his holy prophetes, which were sent the world beganne. That we shulde be saued from our enemies, and from the hande of al that hate vs. That he wolde deale mercifullye with oure fathers, and remembre his holy conenant: * And that he wolde performe the orde, which he sware to oure fathers Abraham, for to geue vs. * That he deliuered oure of the handes of oure enemies, myghte serue him woute feare all the dayes of our lyfe, in such holynes & ryghte trounes as are acceptee before hym. And thou chyld shalt be called the prophet of the hyest for thou shalt go before the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes: to geue knowlage of salucion vnto his people for remission of synnes. Throughe the tender mercy of our God, where by the day spryng from an hye hath visyted vs.

* To geue lyght to them that sat in darcknesse, and in the yadower of death, to gyde our feet into the waye of peace. And the chyld grew and waxed strong in spete, and was in wyldernesse tyll the daye came, when he shoulde thewe hym selfe vnto the Israelites.

1. Mat. 23.2

And every man went unto his owne cite to be taxed. And Joseph also ascended from Galile, out of a cite called Nazareth, into Iherosaleme, vnto the cite of David, which is called Bethleem because he was of the house and lineage of David to be taxed with Mary his spoused wyfe, which was with chylde. And it fortuned that while they were there, her tyme was come that she shoulde be deliuered. And she brought forth the first begotten sonne, and wrapped hym in swaddling clothes, and laide hym in a maunger because there was no roume for the in the ynn.

And there were in that same region, shepherdes watchyng and keepyng theyr flocks by nyght. And lo, the Angell of the Lorde stode hard by them, & the byghtnes of the Lorde shone rounde about them, and they were sore afrayed. And an angel sayd vnto them. Be not afrayed. For behold, I bring you tidynge of great ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is borne this daye in that cite of David, a sauour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take this for a signe ye shall fynde the chylde wrapped in swaddling clothes, and layed in a maunger. And straight waye there was with the angel a multitude of heauenly souldiers praisyng God, and sayyng, Glorify to God on hye, and peace on the earth, & vnto men a good wyll.

And it fortuned, as soone as the angels were gone awaye from them into heauen. The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now euen vnto Bethleem, and let this thyng that we heare saye is happened, whyche the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Joseph and a babe layde in a maunger. And when they had seene it, they publyshed abrode the sayyng: which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that heard it, wondered at those thynges which were told the of the shepherdes. But Mary kept all those sayynges, & pondered them in her heart. And the shepherdes returned, praisyng and laudyng God for all the thynges that they had heard & seene, euen as it was tolde vnto them.

And beholde, there was a man in Iherusalem whose name was Symeon. And the same man was iuste and godly, and looked for the consolacion of Israel, and the holy goste was in hym. And an aungell had declared of the holpe ghoste, that he shuld not se deach, except he first sawe the Lorde Christ. And he came by inspiration in the temple.

And when the father and mother brought in the chylde Iesus: to doo for hym after the custome of the lawe, then toke he hym up in his armes, and sayde: Lorde, now lettest thou thy seruauunt depart in peace, accordyng to thy promise. For myne eyes haue seene the saluacion: which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. * I light to lyghtern gentylis, and the glory of thy people Israel.

And mozeouer the sword shall pearce thy soule, & the thoughtes of many heartes maye be opened.

And there was a prophetesse, one Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser: which was of a great age, and had luyed with an husbande. vii. yeres from her byrgynete. And she had bene a widowe about. iiii. score & iiii. yeres, whiche departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastynges and prayers nyght & daye. And she came sayde that same houre, and praysed the Lorde, and spake of hym, to all them that looked for redemption in Iherusalem.

And when they had performed all thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to theyr owne cite Nazareth. And the chylde grew, and waxed stronge in spiryt, and was fylled with wysdome and the grace of God was vpon hym.

Of the purgacion of Iherosaleme, and of the purgacion of the temple, and of the purgacion of the synagoge.

In the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Cyberius the Emperoure, Pontius Pilate beyng Lefitenaunte of Ieru-salem, and Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galyle, and hys brother Phylippe Tetrarch of Iture: and of the region of the Teaconites and Lysanthe the Tetrarch of Abilene (whi Anna and Caphas were the hie prieftes) the word of the Lorde came vnto John the sonne of zacharias in the wyldernesse. And he came into all the coastes aboute Iordane, preaching the baptyme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtten in the booke of s^{er}udes of Elsaye the prophete, sayng: * The voice of a cryer in s^{er} wyldernesse: prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, make his pathes straghte. Every valley shalbe fylled, and every mountayne and hyll shalbe brought lowe. And hynges that be crooked shalbe made straghte, and the rough wayes shalbe made plain: and all flesh shal se the saluacyon of God. ¶

Then saide he to the people, that were come forth to be baptysed of hym. * O ye generacyon of vipers, who hath taught you to saye from s^{er} zach to come? Wynges forth therfore due frutes of repentance, and begyn not to saye with in your selues: we haue Abraham to our father.
For I say vnto you: God is able of these stones to raise vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Nowe also is the axe layde vnto the roote of the trees, & eu-ery tree therfore which byngeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

And the people asked hym, sayng: * what shal we do then? he answered and sayeth vnto them: he that hath two coates, let hym part wyth hym that hath none, & he that hath meate let hym do lyke wyse.

Then came s^{er} publycans also to be baptysed and sayd vnto hym: what shal we do?
And he sayde vnto them: requyte no more, then that which is appoynted vnto you.

The souldiers lykewise demaunded of hym sayng: & what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them, hurt no man: neyther trouble any man wylongfully: and be content with your wages.

As the people were in a doubt, and all men muled in theyr hartes of John, whether he were very Christ: Iohn answered and sayd vnto the all: * I baptise you wyth water, but one stronger the I shal come after me, whose sho latcher I am not worthy to vnloose, he shal baptise you wyth the holy gost, and wyth fyre: * which hath his fanne in his hande, & wyll pource his floore and gather the coorne into his barn, but s^{er} chaffe wil be burne with fyre & neuer shal be quenched.
And many other thynges in hys exhortacyon preached he vnto the people.

Then Herode s^{er} Tetrarch, when he was rebuked of hym, for Herodias hys brother Phylippes wyfe, and for all the euyls which he rode byd, added this a bove all, and layde John in pylone.

And it fortuned that when all the people re-ceyued baptyme (and when Iesus was baptysed and byd praye) the heauen was opened, and the holy goste came downe in a bodelye shawe lyke a dove vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen, whiche sayde: * Thou arte my beloued sonne, in the doo I deelyte.

And Iesus hym selfe beganne to be aboute thyrty yere of age, so that he was s^{er} supposed to be the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Hely, which was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Leuy, which was the sonne of Welchy: which was the sonne of Ianna: whiche was the sonne of Ioseph, which was the sonne was the sonne of iozababell, whiche was the sonne of Salathiel: whiche was s^{er} sonne of Aeri whiche was the sonne of Welchy, whiche was the sonne of Abdi, which was the sonne of Co-sam: which was the sonne of helmadan, which was the sonne of her, whiche was the sonne of Ieso: which was the sonne of helizer, whiche was the sonne of Ioram: which was the sonne of Mattha, which was s^{er} sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Symeon: which was the sonne of Iuda, which was the sonne of Ioseph: whiche was the sonne of Ionam: whiche was s^{er} sonne of heliachim: whiche was the sonne of Welcha whiche was the sonne of Menan: whiche was the sonne of Matthat: whiche was the sonne of Nathan, whiche was the sonne of Dauid: whiche was the sonne of Jesse: whiche was the sonne of Obed: whiche was the sonne of Boos: whiche was the sonne of Salmon, whiche was the sonne of Naassan: whiche was s^{er} sonne of Aminadab: whiche was the sonne of Aran, whiche was the sonne of Esrom: which was the sonne of Phares: which was the sonne of Iuda whiche was the sonne of Iacob: whiche was the sonne of Israhac: which was the sonne of Abraham, whiche was the sonne of Tharra: whiche was the sonne of Nachor, which was the sonne of Harach, whiche was the sonne of Ragau: whiche was the sonne of Phalec: whiche was the sonne of Heber, which was the sonne of Sala, whiche was the sonne of Canaan: whiche was the sonne of Arpharat, which was the sonne of Sem: which was the sonne of Noe, which was the sonne of Lamech, whiche was the sonne of Mathusala: which was the sonne of Enoch, whiche was the sonne of Jared, which was the sonne of Malaleel, whiche was the sonne of Cainan, which was the sonne of Enos, which was sonne of Meth: whiche was the sonne of Adam: whiche was the sonne of God.

And he came to Nazareth, wher he was nourished and (as his custome was) he went into the Synagogue on the Sabbath day, and stood up for to read. And there was deliuered vnto him the booke of the Prophetes Esay. *
When he had opened the booke, he found a place wherin it was written. ¹ The spirit of the Lord hath anointed me, to preach the Gospel to the poore, he hath sent me to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliuerance to the captiues, and to open the eyes to the blind, and to send them that are bound, and to preach the acceptable yere of the Lord.

And he closed the booke, and gaue it agayne to the minyſter, and ſat downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the ſynagoge were ſaned on him. And he beganne to ſape vnto them This daye is this ſcripture fulfilled in your man that was a wydow. * And many lepers were in Israel in the tyme of Ihesus the Pro- phete: and none of them was clyened, sauyngs Naaman the Syrian.

And all they in the Synagoge (when they herde these thynges) were fylled with wrath, and rose vp, and thrust hym out of the cytie, and led hym euen vnto the edge of Iherusalem (whereon their citty was buylt) & they might cast hym doune hedlyng. But he departed, and went his waye euen thowowe the myddes of them. ¶ And came doune to Capernaum (a citty of Galilee) there taught them on f. Saboth dayes. * And they were astonnyed at hys doctryne: for hys preachyng was wth power. * And in the sy-nagoge ther was a man, wherch had an euile spyte of a deuill, and cryed wth a loude voyce sayng: let me alone, what hast thou to do wth vs, thou Iesus of Nazareth? Arte thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the what thou arte, euen the holy of God. And Iesus rebuked hym saying: holde thy peace, and come out of hym. And when the deuill had thowen hym in the myd-den, he came oute of hym, and hurte hym not.

 And feare came on theim all, and they spake e-amonge theim selues, saynge: what maner of of Chrysler products in the Group. The highlights for future all, and future years. He clarifies the latter, breaks the manner of the policy, collects the customer and he safely with open firmness.

It came to passe that (when the people pressed upon hym, to heare the word of God) he stode by the lake of Genesareth: & sawe two shyppes stande by the lake syde, but the fyshermen were gone out of them, and wer walshing theyr nettes. And he entred into one of the shyppes (which pertayned to Symon) & prayed hym that he wolde chylstr oute a lytell from the lande. And he sat downe and taught the people out of the shyppe. When he had lefte speakyng, he sayd vnto Symon: Launche out into the drepe, and let synne youre nettes to make a draught. And Symon answered and sayde vnto hym: Master, we have laboured all nyght, & haue taken nothing. Neuer thelesse, at thy commaundement, I will loke for the nette. And when they had this done, they inclosed a greates multitude of fyshes. But theyr nette brake, & they beckened to the fyshers (whiche were in the other shyppe) that they shoulde come, & helpe them. And they came, and fylled both the shyppes that theyr sonke againe.

When Symon Peter sawe this, he fell downe at Jesus knees, sayng: Lorde, go from me, for I am a synfull man. For he was a tonyed, and all that were with hym, at the draughte of fyshes, which they had take: & so was also James and John the sonnes of zebede, which were parteners wyth Symon. And Jesus sayd vnto Symon: feare not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And they broughte the shyppes to lande, & forsooke all and folowed hym.

C And it foreruned that when he was in a certayne cytie: beholde, there was a man full of leprosie, and when he had spyed Jesus, he fell dat on his face, and besoughte hym, sayng: Lorde, if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth his hand, and touched hym, sayng: I will, be thou cleane. And immediatly he leprosie departed fro hym. And he charged hym that he shoulde tell no man: but go (sayth he) & shewe thy selfe to the preeste, and offer thy cleansing accordyng as Moyses commaunded, for a wytnesse vnto them.

But so muche the more went there a fame abroad of hym, and muche people came together to heare, and to be healed of hym of theyr infirmities. And he kept hym out of the way in the wyldernesse, and gaue hym selfe to prayer.

And it happened on a certayne daye: that he taught, and there sat the Pharisees and doctors of the lawe, which were come out of all the townes of Galyle and Jewye, and Jerusalem. And the power of the Lorde was presente, to heale them. And beholde, men brought in a bed, a man which was taken wyth a palsy, and they soughte meanes to bryng hym in, & to laye hym before him. And when they could not fynd on what syde they myght bryng hym in (because of the presse) they went vpon the topp of the house and let hym downe thowhe by tylling bed and all, euen in the myddes before Jesus.

E When he sawe theyr faith, he said vnto hym man thy synnes are forgiven the. And the scribes and the Pharisees began to thynke, sayng: What folowe is this, which speaketh blasphemy? who can forgive synnes but God only?

But when Jesus perceyved theyr thoughtes, he answered, and sayd vnto the: What thynke ye in youre hertes: Whether is easer to saye: thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye: rise vp, and walke? But that ye may knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes on earth, he sayde to the syche of the palsy: I saye vnto the: arise, take vp thy bedde, and go vnto thy house. And immediatly he rose vp before them, and toke vp his bed: wheron he laye (and departed to his owne house, praising God. And they were all amazed, & they gaue the glory vnto God. And were fylled wth feare, sayng: We haue sene straunge thynges to daye.

And after this, he went forth, and sawe a Publycane named Leui, sittyng at the recepte of custome, and he sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he lefte all, and rose vp, and folowed hym: And Leui made hym a great feast in his owne house. And there was a great company of Publycans and of other that sate at meate with the. And the scribes and Pharisees murmured a gainst his discyples, sayng: Why do ye eat and drynke with Publicans and synners? And Jesus answered & sayde vnto them: They that are whole neede not the phisician: but they that are syche. I came not to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance.

And they sayd vnto hym: Why do the discyples of John fast often, and praye, and the discyples of the Pharisees also, but thynke eat & drynke? he sayde vnto them: Can ye make the childe of the wedding faste, whyle the bydegrome is wyth the? The daies wyl come, wher the bydegrome also shalbe taken away from theim: the wyl they fast in those dayes.

he spake also vnto the a synnitylde. No man putteth a peece of a newe garment, into an olde vesture, for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe, and the peece that was taken oute of the newe, agreeeth not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde bottels. For yf he do, the newe wyne wyl buyste the bottels, & runne out of itselfe, and the bottels shal perishe. But new wyne must be put into newe bottels, and bothe are preserued. No man also that drynketh olde wyne strayght wape can a way with newe: for he sayeth: the olde is better.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ He exorcised his discyples, that plucke the eares of men, he healyth the man wyth the withered hande, chooseth his twelve apostles, maketh a fower sermon, and teacheth to haue good for euill.

It happened on an after pryncypall Sabbath, that he went thowhe to cozne felde, and his discyples plucked the eares of cozne, and did eate, and rubbed them in theyr handes. And certayne of the Pharisees sayde vnto the: Why do ye that which is not lawfull to do on the Sabbath dayes? And Jesus answered the, and sayde: Have ye not red what Dauid dyd, wher he hym self was an ynuerd, & they which were shewyng hym, sayng: the Jewes and sayng: the Jewes say: The woman that hath her first husband dead, and he sayng with her first husband.

¶ When he had ended all his saynges in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum. And a certain Centurions servant which was dere unto hym, lay sicke, and was in perill of death. And when he herd of Jesu, he sent unto hym the elders of the Jewes, he sayng: hym that he wolde come, and heale his servant. And whil they came to Jesus, they besought hym in instantie, sayng: he is worthy that thou shouldest doo this for hym. For he loveth our nacyon, and hath buyt vs a synagoge.
And Jesus went with them.

And when he was nowe, not farr from the house, the Centurion sent ferdens to hym. Say-ng: unto hym: * Lord, trouble not thy selfe: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my rooff. Wherefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come unto the: but save thou my word and my servant shal be whole. For I also am a maner under power, and have under me souldiers, and I saye unto one go, and he goeth, and to another, come and he cometh: and to my seruant, do this, and he doth it. Whil Jesus herde this, he marvelled at hym, and turned hym about and sayd to the people that folowed him I say unto you, I have not found so great faith no, not in Israel. And they were sente, turned backe home agayne, and founde the servant whole that had bene sicke.

¶ And it fortuned after this, that he wente into a cite, which is called Baim, and many of his disciples went with hym, and much people.
When he came nye to the gate of the cite: be-holde, there was a dead man carped out, which was the only sonne of his mother, and she was a widowe, and much people of the cite was with her. And when the Lorde sawe her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her: wepe not.
And he came nye and touched the coffin: a they that bare hym stode still. And he sayde: Ponge man, I saye unto the: aryse. And he that was dead, sat up, and began to speake. * And he delivered hym to his mother. And ther came a fear on them all. And they gave hym glory unto God, sayng: * A great Prophet is risen up amonge us, & God hath vlysted his people. * And this rumour of hym went forth thorowout all Jewry, and thorowout all the regions whiche lye rounde aboute.

And the disciples of John thewed hym of al these thinges. * And John called unto hym two of his disciples, and sent the to Jesus, sayng.
Art thou he that shouldest come: or shall we looke for another? When the me were come unto him they sayde: John Baptist sent us unto the, say-ng: Art thou he that shouldest come: or shall we wepe for another? And in a same houre he cured many of theyr infirmities and plagues, and of cruel spirytes, & unto many that were bynde he gaue synge. And he answered, and sayde unto them: go your waye and byng woerde again to John what thynges ye have sene and heard, & howe that: the bynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clyensd, & deafe heare, the dead rise agayne, to the poore is the glad tydynges preached, and happy is he that is not offended at me.

* And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speake unto the people concernyng John. What went you out into the wyl-dernesse for? to see a reede shaken with the wind?
But what were ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft rayment? Behold, they which are godgrouly appareled, and lyue delicately, are in hynges courtes. But what went ye forth to see?
A Prophet? Ver, I saye to you, and moze then a Prophet. This is he of whom it is wyrtten * Beholde, I sende myne angel before thy face which shall prepare thy way before the. For I saye unto you among weimens chyldren, is ther not a greater prophet then John Baptist? Ac-cordinge to the, he that is lesse, in the kyngdome of God is greater then he. ¶

And all the people, and the Phyllytians that herd hym, iustified God, and were baptysed in the bapteme of John. But the Pharisees and lawyers despyed the counsell of God agaynst them selves, and were not baptysed of hym.

And the Lorde sayde: * Wherunto shal I ly-ken the men of this generacyon? what thyng are they lyke? They are lyke unto chyldren syttyng in the market place, & cryng one to another, and sayng: We have pyped unto you, & ye have not daunsed: we have mourned to you, & ye have not wepte. For John Baptist came, nether eatyng bread nor drynkynge wyne, and ye saye he hath the deuell. The sonne of man is come, and eateth and drynketh, and ye saye: be-holde a gloriuous man, and an unmeasurable drynker of wyne a frende of Phyllytians & sym-onnes. And wyld is iustified of al her chyldren.

* And one of the Pharisees despyed hym that he wolde rate with hym. And he went into the Pharisees house, and sat downe at meat. * And beholde a woman in a cete (whiche was a synner) allone as she knewe that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisees house, she brought an alabaster box of oymment, and stode at his fete behynde hym wepyng, and beganne to washe his fete w teares, and byd wyppen them with the heares of her heade, and kyssed his fete, and anoynted the with the oymment.

When the Pharise which had bydded hym sawe this, he spak to hym selfe, sayng: If this man were a Prophet, he wolde surely knowe who, and what maner of woman this is that touched hym, for she is a synner. And Jesus answered, & sayde unto hym: Symon I have som what to saye unto the. And he sayde: Sayster, saye on. There was a certayne lender whiche had two debtors, the one oughte fyue hundred pence, and the other sytys. When they had nothyng to paye, he forgave them bothe. Tell me therfore, whiche of them wyll loue hym moze?
Symon answered and sayde: I suppose that he to whome he forgave moste. And he sayde vnto hym: Thou haste truly iudged.

S And he turned to the woman, and sayde vnto hymon: Wert thou this woman? I entered into thyne house, thou gauest me no water for my fete, but she hath washed my fete with teares, and wiped them with her head. Thou gauest me no kisse: but she, since the time I cam in, hath not ceased to kisse my fete. Mine heade with oyle she dyddest not anoynte: but she hath anoynted my fete with oymment. Wherfore I saye vnto the: many synnes are forgiven her, for she loued much. To whom lesse is forgiven, the same doth lesse loue. And he sayde vnto her: thy synnes are forgiven thee. And they that sat at meat with hym, beganne to saye to hym them selues: What is this which forgive synnes also? And he sayde to the woman: * Thy sayth hath saved the. Go in peace. I

The viii. Chapter.

A Chapter with his Disciples goeth from Galilee to Galilee and thence to the parable of the sower, telling unto his mother and his brother, it is the saying of the son, and the people, and he putteth the seed into the hands of the sower, and he putteth the seed into the hands of the sower, and he putteth the seed into the hands of the sower.

And it fortuned afterward that he him selfe also wente throughout ctyes & townes: preaching & shewing the kingdome of God, and the twelve with hym. And also certayne women, which were healed of euill spertes, and infymities: Mary which is called Magdalene (out of whome wente seven deuilles,) and Joanna the wyfe of Chusa herodes steward, and Susanne, and many other, which mynystrered vnto hym of theyr substance. When muche people were gathered together, and were come to hym oute of all ctyes, he spake by a synyltude. * The sower wente oute to sowe hye seede: and as he sowed, some fell by the waye syde, and it was troden doun, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it. And some fel on a ston, and as soone as it was spronge vp it withered awaye because it lacked moystenesse. And some fell among thornes, and the thornes spronge vp with it, and choked it. And some fell on good grounde, and spronge vp, and bare fruite, an hundred folde. And as he sayd these thynges he cryed: he that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

And his disciples asked hym, saying: what manner of synyltude is this? And he sayd: vnto you is it given to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of God, but to other by parables: that when they se they shuld not se: * and when they heare, they shulde not vnderstande.

The parable is this: * The seede is the worde of God. Those that are besyde the waye, are they that heare, then cometh the deuill, and taketh awaye the worde oute of theyr heertes, lest they shulde beleue and be saved. They on the ston, are they whiche when they heare receyue the word with ioye, and these haue no rootes: whiche for a whyle beleue, and in tyme of temptation go awaye. And that whiche fell among thornes, are they whiche when they haue herve, go forth, and are choked with cares and ryches, and voluptuous lyuing, & bying forth no fruite. That whiche fell in the good grounde, are they, whiche with a pure & good herte heare the worde, and kepe it, and byyng forth fruite thowthe patience. I

 A man when he lyghteth a candell, couereth it with a vessel, or putteth it vnder a table, but setteth it on a chandelie, that they which enter in, maye se the lyght. * Nothyng is in secret, that shall not come abrode. Seyther any thyng hid, that shall not be knowen & come to lyght. Take hede therfore, howe ye heare. For whosoever hath, to hym shalbe geue: * And who so euer hath not, fro hym shalbe taken: eue that same which he supplieth that he hath.

 Then came to hym his mother, and his brethren, and could not come at hym for pzeale. And it was tolde hym, and sayde: Thy mother and thy brethren stande without, and wolde se the. He answered and sayde vnto them: my mother and my brethren are these, which heare the worde of God and do it.

 And it chaunced on a certayne daye, that he went into a thyn, and his disciples also, and he sayde vnto them: Let vs go ouer vnto the other syde of the lake. And they launched forth the boat as they sayed he fell a slepe. * And there arose a boyme of wynd in the lake, and they were fylled with water, and were in leoparde. And they came to hym, & awoke hym, saying: Master, we are losse. Then he arose and rebuked the wynde and the tempest of water, and the ceased, & it waxed calme. And he said vnto them: where is your fayth? They feared & wondered among them selues, saying: What (thyng he) is this? For he commaundeth the wynde and water, and they obey hym. * And they sayed vnto the region of Gadrenites, whiche is ouer agaynst Galyle.

And when he wente oute to lande, there met hym oute of the ctye a certayne man, which had a deuill longe tyme, and ware no clothes neether abode in any house: but in graues. When he saw Iesus and had cred, he fell downe before hym, and with a loude voyce sayde: * What haue I to dooe with the Iesus, thou sonne of the God moste hye? I beleue the torment me not: for he commaunded the foule spysite to come out of man. For oftentymes he had caughte hym, and he was bounde with chaynes, and kepte with fetters: and he brake his bandes, and was carped of the sende into wyldernes.

And Iesus asked hym saying: What is thy name? And he sayde: Legion, because many deuils were entered into hym. And they besoughte hym that he wolde not commaunde them, to go oute into the depe. And there was there an herde of many swyne, feeding on an hyll: and they besoughte hym, that he wolde suffer them to entre into them. And he suffered the. Then wente the deuils out of the man and entered into the swyne. And the heard ranne headlyng with violence into the lake, and were choked. When the herdmen sawe what had chaunced, they fled, and told it in the the elders, and of the hye p[re]sby[ter]s & scrybes, and be slayne and cyle agayn the thyrde daye.

And he sayd to them al, p[er] any man wyl come after me, let hym deny hym self, and take v[er]y crosse dayly and foloe me. * For whosoever wyl saue hys lyfe shall lose it. But whosoever doeth lose hys lyfe for my sake, the same shall saue it.
For what shall a man geve for a man if he wyne whole worlde, & lose hym selfe, or runne in dam-mage of hym selfe? For who so is ashamed of me, and of my wordes, of hym shall the soune of man be ashamed, when he cometh w[ith] hys ma-iesty, and in the maiesty of hys father, and of the holy angels. I tell you of a crutche: there be some standyng here which shal not tast of death till they se the kyngdome of God.

And it fortuned that aboute an. viii. dayes after these saynges, he toke Peter and Jho and James, and went v[er]y into a mountayn to praye And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was chaunged, and hys garment was white, & shone. And beholde, there talked w[ith] hym two men, whych wer Moyses and helias, p[er] appeared in the maiesty, and spake of hys departyng, whyche he should ende at Jerusalem. But Peter and they that were w[ith] hym, were trey w[ith] slepe. And when they awoke they sawe hys ma-iesty, and two men standyng w[ith] hym.

And it chaunced as they departed from hym, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: Master, it is good beyng here for vs. Let vs make also h[er]e tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moyses, and one for helias (and wyl not what he sayd.) While he thus spake, ther came a cloude & overshadowed them, and they feared when they were come into the cloude. And ther came a voyce out of a cloude sayng: * This is my deare sonne, heare hym.

And as sone as the voyce was passe, Jesus was founde alone. And they kept it close: and told no man in those dayes, any of those thynges which they had seene. * And it chaunced that on the next daye (as they came doune from the hyll) muche people met hym. And beholde, a man of the company cryed out, sayng: Master, I beseech the, be-holde my sonne, for he is all that I haue, and he is a spyte taketh hym, and sodenly he cryeth, and getteth hym, and teareth hym, that he somer a-gayn, and w[ith] much payne departeth fro hym when he hath rente hym, and I besought thy discypples to cast hym out, and they coulde not.

Jesus answered and sayd: O fayne bleste and crosted nation, howe longe shal I be w[ith] you, and suffer your wyng thy sonne byther. As he was yet accompyng, the fende rente hym, and tare hym. And Jesus rebuked the vnclene spyte, and healed the chyld, and deliuered hym to hys father. * And they were al amazed at the myghty power of God.

But while they wondred euerye one at all thynges whyche he byd, he sayd vnto hys discyples: Let these saynges syncke doune into your eares. For it wyl come to passe: that the sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the handes of men.
But they wyl not what that word ment, and it was byd from them, that they understode it not. And they feared to aske him of that sayng.

And there entred a thought among them which of them should be the greatest. When Jesus perceaued the thought of theyr hartes, * he toke a chylde and set hym harde by hym, and sayde vnto them: Whosoever receaueth this chylde in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth hym that sente me. For he that is least among you all, the same shalbe great.

And Jhon answered, and sayde: Master, we saue one casting out deuils in thy name, and we forbad hym, because he foloweth not w[ith] vs. And Jesus sayd vnto hym: * Forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is w[ith] vs.

And it fortuned when the tyme was come, & he should be receaued v[er]y, he set hys face to go to Jerusalem, and sente messengers before hym.
And they went and entred into a cytie of the Sa-maritanes, to make readye for hym. And they would not receaue hym, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem. When hys discypples, James and Jhon sawe this, they said: Lorde, wylte thou that we commande theye to come doune from heauen and consume them, eue as helias byd? Jesus turned about, and rebuked them, sayng: Ye wote not what maner spite ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destroye mens lyues, but to saue them. And they went to another toun. * And it chaunced that as they were walkyng in the waye, a cer-tayne man sayde vnto hym: * I wyl foloe the whether thou wilt go. Jesus sayd vnto hym: foxen haue holes, and byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not wher to laye hys head.

And he sayd vnto another: foloe me. And the same sayd: Lorde, suffer me firste to go and burye my father. Jesus sayd vnto hym: * Let the dead burye the dead: but go thou and preache the kyngdome of God. And another sayd: Lorde * I wyl foloe the: but let me first go by mye late well, whyche are at home at my house. Jesus sayd vnto hym: A man that putteth hys handes to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of God.

Chapter. I.

The firste daye, he went hym to preache, growth them a charge to be h[er]e, and to praye, p[er]fectly his heavenly father, and w[ith] the scrupel & tempted hym, & by the example of the Samaritanes) he wote who is a mans crychouse. martha receaueth the Lorde into her house, Mary Magdalene is diligent in hearyng his word.

After these thynges, the Lorde appointed other. Ixx. (and two) also and set the two & two before hym into euery cytie & place, whether he him self would come. Therefore sayd he vnto the: * The harvest is greate, but labourers are fewe. Praye ye therfore the Lord of the harvest, to send forth labourers into his harvest, go your wayes: * Behold, I send you forth as laves amyg woules. Weare no wallet, nether scrip, nor shoes, & salute no man by f way. * Into whatsoever house ye enter firste saye: Peace be to this house. And if the sonne sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon hym: yf not, it shall turne to you agayn. And in the same house tary styl, eating and drinkinge suche as they geue. For the labourer is worthy of his reward. I

B Sonot from house to house, and into whatsoeuer cytie ye entre, & they receaue you, cate suche thynges as are set before you, & deale the speche that is therein, and say vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come nye vpon you. But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, and they receaue you not, go your wayes out into the streetes of the same, and saye: euen the verye duste of your cytie (whiche cleaueth on vs) do we toppre of against you. For withstandyng, be persure of this, that the kyngdome of God was come nye vpon you. I saye vnto you: that it shalbe easer in that daye for Sodome, then for that cytie.

C Unto the Chorazin: two vnto the Bethsaida. For yf the myracles had bene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue ben done in you, they had (a great whyle ago) repented of theyr synnes, spitting in heer cloth and ashes. Aeuertheles it shalbe easer for Tyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (whiche arte exalted to heauen) shalt be thruste downe to hell. He that heareth you, heareth me, and he that despyseth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth hym that sente me.

And the xx. turned agayn with ioie, sayng: Lord, euen the verye deuils are subdued to vs thowgh thy name. And he said vnto the: I saw Satan (as it had bene lyghdempnge) fallynge downe from heauen: behold, I geue vnto you power to tread on serpentes and scorpions, and ouer al manner power of the enemy, and nothyng shal hurte you. Aeuertheles in this reioyce not that the spytes are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that your names are wyrtten in heauen.

That same houre reioysed Iesus in the holy goost, and sayd: I thanke the O father, & Lord, of heauen and earth, for thou hast hyd these thynges from the wyse and pruden, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. All thynges are geuen me of my father. No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: and who the father is, but the sonne, and he to whom the sonne will shewe hym.

And he turned to his disciples, & said secretly: Happy are the eyes, whiche se the thynges that ye se. For I tell you, that many prophetes and kynges haue despyed to se those thynges, whiche ye se, and haue not sene them, & to heare those thynges whiche ye heare, & haue not heard them. And beholde, a certayne lawyer stode by and tempted hym, sayng: Master, what shall I do, to inheret eternall lyfe? he sayd vnto hym: What is wyrtten in the lawe? howe readest thou? And he answered and sayde: Love the Lord thy God, with all thy herte, and with all thy soule, and with all thy strengthe, and with all thy mynde: and thy neyghboure as thy selfe.

And he sayde vnto hym: Thou haste answered ryght. Thys do & thou shalt lyue. But he wyllynge to iustifye hym self, sayd vnto Iesus: And who is my neyghboure?

Iesus answered, and sayde: A certayne man descended from Ierusalem to Hierico, and fell amonge threues whiche robbed hym of his rayment, and wounded hym, and departed, leuynge hym halfe deade. And it chanced, that there came downe a certayne picaute that same waye; and when he sawe hym, he passed by. And lyke wyse a Leuyte, when he wente nye to the place, came, and looked on hym, and passed by. But a certayne Samaritane, as he iourneyed, came vnto hym: and when he sawe hym, he had compassion on hym, and went to, and bounde vpon hym woundes, and posed in oyle and wyne, and set hym on his owne beaste, and brought hym to a comen ynne, and made prouysyon for hym. And on the morowe, when he departed, he toke oute two pence, and gaue them to the host, and sayd vnto hym: Take cure of hym: and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come agayn, I wyl recompense the. Whiche now of these thre, thyngest thou, was neyghboure vnto hym that fell amonge the threues? And he sayde: he that shewed mercy on hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto hym: So, and do thou lyke wyse. I

It fortuned that as they wente, he entred into a certayne toun. And a certayne woman named Martha, receaued hym into her house. And this woman had a syster, called Marye, whiche also sat at Iesus fete, and hearde his word. But Martha was combyed about much scrupynge, and stode and sayde: Lord, dost thou not care, that me syster hath lette me to serue alone? Byd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled aboute many thynges, verely one is nedefull. Marye hath chosyn the good parte, whiche shall not be taken awaye from her. I

As it fortuned as he was prayynge in a certayn place: when he ceased, one of his disciples sayd vnto hym: Lord, teache vs to praye, as Iohn also taught his disciples. And he said vnto the: When ye praye, saye: Oure father whiche art in heauē, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. Oure daylye breade geue vs thys daye. And forgeue vs oure synnes. Then answered one of the lawyers, and sayd vnto hym: Master thus sayng, thou puttest vnto rebuke also. The xii Chapter.

The Iewen of the Iherusalem, which comforteth his disciples against persecution, warneth them to be- ware of conuincion, by the similitude of a centaine syche man, he will not haue the charyng upon each of thynges, but to wate, and to be ready agaynst his conuincion.

And there gathered together an innu- merable multitude of people (in so much that they trode one another) he began vnto saie vnto hys discy- ples: Kythe of all be ware of the le- uen of the pharisees, which is hypocrisye. * For there is no thyng couered, that shall not bee vn- couered: neyther hyde that shall not bee knowen. * For what thynges ye haue spoken in darknes shall be heard in the lycht. And that which ye haue spoken into the eare, euen in secrete places shall be preached on the toppe of the houses. * I saie vnto you my frendes, be not afrayed of the that kyll the bodye, and after that haue nomore that they can do. But I wyl shewe you, whom ye shall feare: Feare hym whiche after he hathe kyllied, hath power to caste into hell. Per, I saie vnto you: feare hym. Are not fyue sparowes bought for two farthynges? And not one of the is forgotten of God. Also eue the very heeres of youre head are all nombred. Feare not therfore ye are more of value then many sparowes.

I saie vnto you: every one, whosoeuer con- fesseth me before men, hym shall the sonne of ma knowlage also before the angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men, shall be denyed be- fore the angels of God. * And whosoeuer spea- keth a word agaynst the sonne of man it shall be for- gotten hym. * But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holpe gooste, it shall not bee forgiven. When they bying you vnto the synagoges, & vnto rulers, and officers, take ye no thoughte howe, or what thyng ye shall answer, or what ye shall speake. For the holpe goost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saie.

One of the company sayd vnto hym: Mas- ter, speake to my brother, that he deuide the en- derytallie with me. And he sayd vnto hym: Wa- who made me a iudge, or a deuyder ouer you? And he sayd vnto them take hede and beware of conuincion: For no man lyfe standeth in the aboundance of thynges which he posseseth. And he put forth a symilitude vnto the, sayng: The grounde of a certayne syche man broughte forth plentyful frutes, & he thoughte within hym selfe, sayng: what shall I do because I haue no roune where to bestowe my frutes? And he said Thus wyl I do. I wyl destroye my barnes, and buyld greater, and therein wyl I gather al my goodes that are growen vnto me, and I wyl saie o my soule: Soule thou hast much goodes layed vp in store for many yeares, take thyne ease, eat, drynke and be merry. But God sayd vnto him: * Thou fool, this night wyl thy fete be awaye thy soule agayn from the. * Then whoso shall those thynges be, whiche thou hast prou- ded. So is it with hym that gathereth riches to hym selfe, and is not ready to warde God.

And he spake vnto hys discypples: Therfore I saie vnto you: * Take no thoughte for youre lyfe, what ye shall eate: neyther for the bodye what ye shall put on. The lyfe is more then meat and the bodye is more then rayment. Consyder the rauens, for they neyther sowe nor reape, which neyther haue store house nor barn, and God feedeth them. I howe muche are ye better then fe- thered foules?

Whyche of you (with his taking thought) can adde to his stature one cubyte? If ye then be not able to do that thyng whiche is least: why take ye thought for the remnaide? Consyder the lylies how they growe. They labour not, they spynne not: and yet I say vnto you, that Salo- mon in all hys royaltie, was not clothed lyke one of these. If God so cloth the grasse (whiche is to daye in the felde, and to morowe is cast in- to the foznace) howe muche more wyl he clothe you, O ye of lytle fayth? And aske not ye what ye shall eate, or what ye shall drynke, neyther clymme ye vp an hye: for all such thynges dooe the heathen people of the world seke for. Your father knoweth, that ye haue neede of such thynges. Therfore seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and al these thynges shall be ministered vnto you. * Feare not lytell flocks, for it is youre fathers pleasure to geue you the kyngdome.

Well that ye haue, and geue almes. And pre- pare you bagges, whiche were not olde, euen a treasure, that sayeth not in heauen, where no thefe cometh, neyther mothe corrupteth. For where youre treasure is, there wyl your hearte be also. * Let you loynes be girded aboute, and poure lychtes byrennyng (in youre handes), and ye poure selues lyke vnto men, that wate for the Lord, when he wyl retorne from the wed- dyng: that when he cometh and knocketh they maye open vnto hym immediatly. happye are those seruantes, whome the Lorde (when he cometh) shall fynde wakynge. Certeine I saie vnto you, that he shall gyde hym selfe, and make them to sytte doune to meate, and walke by, and mynster vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yee yf he come in the thyrde watche, and fynde them so, happye are those ser- uantes. This vnderstande, that yf the good ma of the house knewe what houre the thefe would come, he would surely watche, and not suffer hys house to be broken vp. * Be ye therfore ready al- so, for the sonne of man wyl come at an poure when ye thynke not.

Peter sayde vnto hym: * Master, tellest thou this symilitude vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lorde said: who is a faythfull and wise steward whome his lorde shall make ruler ouer his hous- holde, to geue them thei due ty of meate in due season? happye is that seruante, whome hys

Mat. xiii. 6 In there were present at the same season certayne menne that shewed hym of the Galyleans, whose bloude pylate had myngled with theyr owne sacry- fyce. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Suppose ye that these? Galileans were greater synners then al the other Galileans, be- cause they suffered such paynthemene? I tel you naye: but except ye repent, ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe. Of those xviii. vpon whiche the toun in syrie set, and drew them, thynke ye that the synners about all men that dwelt in Jeru- salem? I tell you naye: But except ye repent ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe.

Mat. xiii. 7 * He tolde also this synecryde: a certayne man had a figge tree planted in his vyneyard, and he came and sought frute thereon, and found none. The lord sayde he to the byeller of his vyne- yard: behold, this thre yere haue I come, and sought frute on this figge tree, and fynde none: cutte it downe, why comberst it the ground, and he answered and sayde vnto hym: Loide, let it alone this yere also, tyll I bygge rounde aboute it, and donge it, to se whether it will beare frute and yf it beare not then, after that shall thou cut it downe. And he taught in one of theyr synagoges on the sabboth dayes. And beholde, there was a woman which had a synecryde of infy- mytye. xviii. yere, and was bowed together and coulde in no wyse lyfte vp her heade. When Iesus sawe her, he called her to hym, and sayde vnto her: woman, thou arte deliuered from thy dyscase. And he layd his handes on her, and im- mediately she was made straight and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagoge answered wyth indignacion (because that Iesus had he- led on the sabboth daye) & sayde vnto the peo- ple: There are fyre dayes, in whiche men ought to worke, in them come that ye maye be healed, and not on the sabboth daye.

Mat. xiii. 8 But the lord answered hym and said: Thou hypocryte, doest not eke one of you on the sab- both daye, & loose his oxe or his asse fro the stall and leade hym to water? And ought not thy daughter of Abraham, whome goddard hath bounde (to xviii. yeres) he loosd fro this bonde on the sabboth daye? And when he thus sayde, all his aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes that wer done by hym.

Mat. xiii. 9 Then sayde he: what is the kyngdome of God? lyke as I tolde to hall. I compare it to a synecryde of mustarde sowe whiche a man toke, & sowed in his garden: and it grew and waxed a great tree, and the foules of the ayre made nestes in the boughes of it.

Mat. xiii. 10 And agayne he sayde, wherunto shall I ly- ken the kyngdome of God? * It is lyke leuen, whiche a woman toke, and hid it in the peckes of merle, tyll all was leuened. And he went thro- uow all cyties and townes, teachyng and so- nnyng towards Jerusalem. Then sayde one vnto hym: Loide, seest thou seest that theer saved? And he sayde vnto hym: syne to enter in at the straight gate, for many (I saye vnto you) will seke to enter in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is ryfen vp, and hath shut to the doore, and ye begynne to stande with- oute, and to knocke at the doore, sayyng: Loide, Loide, open vnto vs, and he shall answer, and saye vnto you: I knowe you not whence ye are. The shall ye begyn to say, we haue eaten & dron- ken in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our stretes. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe you you not whence ye are: depart fro me all ye that woulde iniquyte. There shalbe wepyng & gnashyng of teth, when ye shall see Abraham & Isaaac, and Jacob, & all the prophetes in the kyng-they shall come from the east and from the west, and from the north and from the south, and shal syt doune in the kyngdom of God. And beholde, * there are last, whiche shalbe fyrst. And there are fyrst, whiche shalbe last.

C The same day came there certayn of the phari-ses, & sayd vnto hym: get the out of the way and depart hère: for herode wyl kyll the. And he sayd vnto the: So ye and tel that foxe, beholde, I cast and the thyrday I make an ende. Neuertheles any other where, save at Jerusalem.

O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, whiche kyllest the prophetes, and stonest them that are sente vnto your habytacyn is left vnto you desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shal saye: * blessed is he that cometh in

The. xliii. Chapter. ✠

C Hesus caryth mych the pharyse, healeth the bysoppe vpon the Sabbath, teacheth to be lowly, setteth of the grease suppers, and warneth them that wyl folow hym to lepe their accoutres before, what is wyl com them, & the sale of the earth.

And it chaunced, that he went into the house of one of the chiefe phary-ses to eate bread on the Sabbath daye, and they watched him. And behold, there was a certayn man before hym, whiche had a bysoppe.

And Iesus answered, and spake vnto the lawyers and pharyses, saynge: * Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath day? And they held the pe-ce. And he toke hym, and healed hym, and let hym go, and answered them, sayng: Whiche of you shall haue * an asse or an oxe falle into a pye and wyl not straghte wape pull him out on the Sabbath daye? And they could not answer him agayn to these thynges.

He put forth also a symple tude to the gesses, when he marked how they pleased to the hyeste roumes, and sayde vnto them: When thou arte bydden of any man to a wedding, syt not doune in the hyest roume, leste a more honorable man then thou be bydde of hym, and he (that had hym and the) come, and saye to the: geue this manne roume, and thou then begyn with shame to take the loweste roume. But rather when thou arte bydden, go & syt in the lowest roume: that when he that had the, cometh, he maye say vnto the:
* frende syt vpper. Then shal thou haue wyl-lowspe in the presence of them that syt at meate with the. * For whosoever exalteth hym selfe, shalbe brought low. And he that humbleth him selfe, shalbe exalted.

Then sayde he also to hym, that had deliuered hym to dyner: * When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy bretheren; neither thy kynsmen, nor thy frende neighbours; leste they also byde the agayn, and a recompense be made the. But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the feble, the lame, and the bynde, and thou shalt be happy, for they can not recompense the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the lustre men.

When one of them (that sate at meate also) hearde these thynges, he sayd vnto hym: happye is he that eateth bread in the kyngdom of God.

Then sayd he vnto hym. * A certayn man ordeyned a great supper, and bad many, & sente his seruauant at supper tyme, to say to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now ready. And they all at once began to make excuse.
The first said vnto him: I haue bought a farme and I must nedes go and see, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayes: I haue bought sune poche of oxen, and I go to plow the, I praye the, haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue maried a wyfe, & therefore I can not come. And the seruauant returned and brought hym mayster woorde agayn therof.

Then was the good man of the house dys-pleased, and sayd to his seruait: Go out quychly into the stretes and quarters of the ctye, and bryng in hyther the poore, and the feble, and the halte, and the bynde. And the seruauant sayde: Lorde, it is done, as thou hast commaunded, and yet there is roume. And the Lorde sayde to the seruauant: Go out vnto the hye wayes & hedges and compel the to come in, that my house may be fylled. For I saye vnto you, & none of those men which wer bydde, shal eate of my supper.

Then went a great company with hym, and he returned, and sayd vnto them: * If a man come to me, and hate not his father and mother and wyfe, & chyldren, and bretheren, and systers, per, and his owne lyfe also, he can not be my discypple. And whosoever dothe not beare his crosse and come after me, can not be my discypple.

Whiche of you disposed to buylde a toure, syt-teth not doune before, & counteth the coste, whether he haue sufficient to perfourme it: lest after he hath layde the foundation, and is not able to perfourme it, al that beholde it, begyn to moche hym, sayng: this man began to buyld, and was not able to make an ende. Or what king goyng to make bataille against another kyng, syt-teth not doune fyrst, and casteth in his mynde, whether he be able wpyth ten thousande to mete hym that cometh agaynst hym wyth. xx. thousande?
Or els wpyle the other is yet a great way of, he

When he sought vnto hym * all the pharisees and synners, for to heare him. And the pharisees and scribes murmured, saying: he receaueth synners and eateth with them. But he putte forth this parable vnto them, saying: * What man of you hauing an hundred shepe (yf he lose one of them) doth not leaue nyntie and nyne in the wyldernes, and goeth after that wyche is lost vntill he fynde it? And when he hath founde it, he layeth it on his shuldres wyth ioye. And alsoone as he cometh home, he calleth together his louers and neighbours, saying vnto them: Reioyce wyth me, for I haue founde my shepe, which was loste.

I saye vnto you, that lyke wyse ioye shal be in heauen, ouer one synner that repenteth more then ouer nyntie and nyne iuste persons, which nedde no repentance. Ethen what woman (hauing ten goodes, yf she lose one) doeth not lyght a candle, and swepe the house and seke diligently tyll she fynde it? And when she hath founde it, she calleth her louers & her neighbours together, saying: Reioyce wyth me, for I haue founde the grote which I had lost. Like wyse I saye vnto you, shall there be ioye in the presence of the angels of God ouer one synner that repenteth.

Luce. x. 1.

And he sayd: A certayn man had two sonnes, and the yonger of them said vnto the father: Father, geue me the portion of the goodes that to me belongeth. And he deuyled vnto them his substance. And not longe after, when the yonger sonne had gathered al that he had together, he toke his iorney into a farr countree, & there he wasted his goodes wyth riotous lyuynge. And when he had spent all, there arose a greete dearth in all that lande, and he beganne to lacke and went, and came to a cytyzen of the same countrey, and he sent him to his farme, to kepe swine. And he would sayne haue fylled his beipe wyth the coddies that the swyne dyd eate: and no man gaue it vnto hym.

Mat. xlii. a

And he arose, and cam to his father. * But wht he was yet a greete waye of, his father sawe hym, and had compassyon and ranne, and fel on his necke and kysed hym. And the sonne sayd vnto hym: father, I haue sinned agaynst heauē, and in thy sight, and am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father sayde to his seruantes: bring forth the best garment, and put it on hym and put a ryng on his hande, and shoes on his feete. And bring hither that fat calfe, and kyll it, and let vs eat and be mery: for this my sonne was dead, and is alivē agayne, he was lost and is found. And they began to be mery. Then cam his father out, and entreated hym. he answered and sayd to his father: Lo these many yeres haue I done the seruys, neyther bryake at any tyme thy commaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer a hyd to make mery with my frendes: but as soone as this thy sonne was come (whiche hath deuoured thy goodes & harlottes) thou haste for his pleasure kyllid the fat calfe. And he sayd also vnto his disciples: I

* There was also a certayn ryche man, whiche had a steward, and the same was accused vnto hym for he had wasted his goodes. And he called hym, and sayde vnto hym: howe is it, that I heare this of thee? Geue accomptes of thy stewardshippe. For thou mayest be no longer steward. The steward said wythin hym selfe: what shall I do? for my master taketh awaye from me the stewardshippe. I cannot digge, & to begge I am ashamed. I wote what to do, & when I am put out of my stewardshippe, they may receaue me in to theyr houses.

So when he had called all his masters debtors together he sayd vnto the first: howe muche owest thou vnto my master? And he sayde: an hundred connes of oyle. And he sayd vnto hym: take thy byll, and sit doune quickly, and wyte ystie. Then sayde he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he sayde: an hundred quarters of wheat. he sayde vnto hym: Take thy byll, & wyte foure scoore. And the lord commended the vniuste steward, because he had done wysely. For the chyldren of this world are in the pryncypall, wyser then the chyldren of lyght. And I say vnto you: make you frendes of the vnygheuous Mammon, that when ye shall haue nedde, they may receaue you into euerylastyng habitacions. * I saye that is saythfull in that wyche is least, is saythfull also in much. And he that is vnygheuous in the least: is vnygheuous also in muche. So then yf ye haue not bene saythfull in the vnygheuous Mammon, who wyl beleue you in that wyche is true? And yf ye haue not bene saythfull in another mannes busynes, who shall geue you that wyche is your owne? * A seruant can serue two masters: soether he shal hate the one, and loue the other, or elles he shal leaue to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

D All these thynges hearde the pharysees also, whiche were courteous, and thei mocked hym. And he saied vnto thei: Perce thei whiche iustifie your selues before menne: but God knoweth your heartes. For that whiche is highly esteemed among menne, is abhominable in the sight of God. I * The lawe and the prophetes ragged vntill Ihon, and sence that tyme, the kyngdome of God is preached, and euery manne stryuethe to go in. * Easier it is for heauen and earth to perishe then one tittle of shalw to faile. * Who sooner forsaketh his wife, and marieth another, committeth aduoutre. And he whiche marieth her that is deuoyced from her husbandre, committeth aduoutre also.

E * There was a certain riche manne, whiche was clothed in purple and fyne whyte, and eared deliciously euery daye. And there was a certain begger, named Lazarus, whiche laye at his gate full of sores, desiring to bee refrefhed with the cromes, whiche fell from the riches mannes boyde, on (and no manne gaue vnto hym.) The dogges came also, and licked his sores. And it fortuned, that the begger dyed, and was caried by the angels into Abrahams bosome. The riche manne also dyed, and was buryed.

F And beeyng in hell tormentes, he lifte by his eyes, and sawe Abraham afarre of, and Lazarus in his bosome, and he cryed and saied: Father Abraham, haue mercy on me, and sende Lazarus, that he maie dippe the tippe of his fyngger in water, and coule my tounge: for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham saied, soonne remember that thou in thy life tyme receiuest thy pleasure, and contrary wyse, Lazarus receiued payne. But now is he comforted, and thou art punished. Beyond all this, betwene vs and you there is a great space set, so that thei whiche woulde goo from thence to you, cannot: neither maye come from thence to vs.

G Then he saied: I praye thee therefore father, send hym to my fathers house. (For I haue five brethren) for to warne them, lest thei also come into this place of torment. Abraham saied vnto hym: they haue Moses and the prophetes, lette thei heare them. And he saied: naie father Abraham, but if one come vnto them from the dedde thei will repete. He saied vnto hym: If thei heare not Moses and the prophetes, neither will they beleue though on rose from death again. I

The xxii. Chapter.

C The teacher his disciples to auoyde occasions of euill, one to forgiue another, he had to reuend in God, and no manne to presume in his owne iustice. He healeth the tenne lepers, speakech of the latter dayes and of the ende of the worlde.

H He saied vnto the disciples: it can not bee, but offences will come. Reuertles, * Doe vnto hym through whoset come. It were better for hym, that a myllstone were hanged about his necke, & he cast into sea, then that he shoulde offende one of these litte ones. Take hede to your selues. * If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke hym: and if he repente, forgiue hym. And though he synne agaynst thee seuen tymes in a daye, and seuen tymes in a daye turne again to thee, sayyng: if repentesth me, thou shalt forgiue hym.

And the Apostles saied vnto the Lord: increase oure faith. And the Lord saied: * If ye had faith like a grayne of mustarde seede, and shoulde saye vnto this Sycomyne tree: pluche thy self vp by the rootes: and plante thy self in the sea, it shoulde obeye you. Who is it of you, if he had a seruaunt plowynge or sedynge catell, that will saie vnto hym when he cometh from the feilde: God quickly, and sitte doune at meate and saicth not rather vnto hym: Dresse, where-with I maye suppe, and gyde vp thy selfe, and serue me, till I haue eaten and dioncken: and afterwarde eate thou, and dyncche thou? Dooest thou thanke that seruaunt, because he did the thynges that were commaunded hym? I trowe not. So likewise ye, when ye haue dooen all those thynges whiche are commaunded you saye: we are vnprofitable seruautes. Wee haue dooen that whiche was our duty to dooe.

I And it chaunced as he wente to Hierusalem, that he passed through Samaria and Galilee. And as he entred into a certain toun, there mette hym tenne menne that were lepers. Whiche stode a farr off, and putte forth their voices, and saied: Jesu master, haue mercy on vs. When he sawe them, he saied vnto them: * God thet your selues vnto pprestes. And it came to pass as thei went, thei wer clenid. And one of thei, when he sawe that he was clenid, turned backe again, and with a loude voyce praised God and fell doune on his face at his fete, and gaue hym thakkes. And the same was a Samaritan. And Jesus answered, and saied, are there not tenne clenid? But where are those nyne? There are not founde that returned agayne, to geue God prayse, saue onely this straunger. And he sayed vnto hym: aryls, goo thy waye, thy faith hath made thee whole. I

K When he was demanded of the pharysees, when the kyngdome of God shoulde come, he answered them, and sayed: The kyngdome of God shall not come with waytyng for, neither shall thei saie: Lo here, or lo there. For beholde, the kyngdome of God is within you. And he saied vnto the disciples: the daies will come, when ye shall desire to see one daye of the soonne of mane and ye shall not see it. * And thei shall saie to you: Wee here, wee there. Goo not after them, nor foloe them: for as the lightenyng that appeareth out of the one parte that is vnder heauen, and shyneth vnto the other parte whiche is vnder heauen, so shall the soonne of mane bee in his dayes. * But first must he suffer many thynges and bee refused of this nation.

And as it happened in the dayes of Noe: so shall it bee also in the dayes of the soonne of mane. Thei did eate and dyncche, they married wyues and were married, euen vnto that same date that Noe went into the Arche: and the floude came, and destroyed them all. Likewise also as it chaunced in the dayes of Lot. They dyd eate, they dyanche, they boughte, they solde, they planted, doo they thei buylded. But when the same daye that Lot wente oute of Sodom, it rained with fire and brimstone from heauen, * and destroyed theim all. Even thus shall it bee in the daye, when the sonne of manne shall appeare.

G At that daye he that is on the house top, and his stuffe in the house: lette hym not come downe to take it out. And lette not hym that is in the feild tume backe againe to the thynges that he left behynde. * Remembre Lottes wife. * Whosoever will goo aboute to save his life, shall lose it: and whosoever shall lose his life, shall save it. I tell you: in that nighte, * there shall bee two in one bed, the one shall bee receiued, the other shall bee forsaken. * Twoo shall bee agryndyng together the one shall bee receiued, and the other forsaken. * And thei answered, and said to him where Loyde? he said vnto theim: * whereloeuer the bodye shall bee, thether will also the Eagles be gathered together.

The xviii. Chapter.

The teacheth to bee seruente in prayer continually. Of the pharise and the publicane. The kyngdome of God belongeth unto chyldren. Childe asketh the ruler, and putteth the ruler vnto all suche as desire to be his sake, and to come vnto him. The bynde manne is rebuked to his sighte.

A D he putte forth a parable vnto theim signifying that menne oughte alwayes to praye, and not bee weye, sayyng: There was in a certayn citee a iudge, whiche feared not God neither regarded manne. And there was a certayn widowe in the same citee, and she came vnto hym sayyng: auenge me of myne aduersary. And he woulde not for a while. But afterwarde he said within hym self: though I feare not God, nor care for manne, yet because this widowe is importune vpon me I will auenge her, lest she come at the laste and rayle on me. And the Lord said: heare what the vngyghteous iudge saith. And shall not God auenge his electe, whiche crye daye and nyght vnto hym? yea, though he be slowe theim I tell you, that he will auenge them and quickly. * Hewerthelesse, when the sonne of manne cometh, shall he fynd fawch on feawch.

A And he told this parable vnto certayn whiche trusted in theim selues, that thei were perfect and despised othe. Twoo menne wente vnto the temple to praye: the one a pharise, and the other a publicane. The pharise stode and prayed thus within hymself: God, I thanke thee, that I am not as other menne are, extortioners, vniuste aduouterers, or as this publicane. I faste twyse in the weke, * I geue tithes of all that I possesse. And the publicane standyng afarre of, woulde not lifte vp his eyes to heauen, but smote vpon his brest, sayyng: God be mercifull to me a synner. I tell you, this mane departed home to his house iustified, more thei the other. * For euery one that exalteth hymself, shall be brought lowe.

A And he that humbleth hymself, shall be exalted. * Thei broughte vnto hym also young chyldren, that he would touche them. When his disciples sawe it thei rebuked theim. But Jesus (when he had called them vnto hym) said: Suffre chyldren to come vnto me, and forsynd theim not. For of suche is the kyngdome of God. * Clerely I saye vnto you: whosoever receiveth not the kyngdome of God: as a chyld, shall not entre therein. * And a certain ruler asked hym, sayyng: Good master: what oughte I to doo, to obtaine eternal life? Jesus saied vnto hym: Why callest thou me good? None is good, save God onely.

Thou knowest the the commandementes: * Thou shalt not committe aduoutre, thou shalt not kyll, thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false witness, honoure thy father and thy mother. And he said: all these haue I kepte from my youth vp. When Jesus hearde that, he said vnto hym: Yet thou lackest one thyng. * Well art thou fast and distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen and come folow me. When he heard this, he was sojy for he was very riche.

When Jesus sawe that he was sojy, he said: * with what difficultie shall thei that haue money, entre into the kyngdome of God? it is easier for a camell to goo through a nedles eye, then for a riche manne to entre into the kyngdome of God. And thei that heard it, said: And who can the be saved? And he said: * The thynges whiche are impossible with menne, are possible with God. Then Peter said: * Lo, we haue forsake all and folowed thee. he said vnto theim: Clerely I saye vnto you: there is no manne that hath forsaken house, ether father or mother, ether brethren, or wyfe or chyldren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) whiche shall not receiue muche moze in this woilde, and in the woilde to come, life euer lastyng.

Jesus toke vnto him the twelue, and said vnto theim: * Beholde wee goo vp to Hierusalem and all shall be fulfilled, that are wycten by the prophetes of the sonne of manne. For he shall be deliuered vnto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and when thei shall haue scourged hym, thei will put hym to death. * And the thirde daye he shall arise again. * And thei understode none of these thynges. And this sayyng was hid fro theim, so that they perceiued not the thynges whiche were spoken.

A And it came to passe, that as he was comyng vnto Hierico, a certayn bynde manne satte by the waye syde beggyng. And when he heard the people passe by, he asked what it meante. And they said vnto hym: that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayyng: Jesu thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And thei whiche wente before, rebuked hym, that he should holde his peace. But he cried so muche the moze: * thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And whil he was comyng nexe, he asked hym sayyng: what wilt thou that I doo vnto thee? And he said: Loyde, that I maye receiue my sighte: And Jesus saied vnto hym receiue thy sighte: thy faith hath saued thee. And ymmediatly he receiued his sight, and folowed hym prayyng God. And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue prayse vnto God. * The

¶ Of sachers, and the same seruantes, in whom the talents were delivered. Christ cometh to his caluile, and beareth paine.

AND he entered in, & went through hierico. And beholde there was a manne named zachaeus, whiche was a ruler among the publicans, and was riche also. And he sought meanes to see Iesus what he shoulde bee: and coulde not for the presse because he was litle of stature. And he ranne before, and climed vp into a wild figge tree, to see hym for he was to come that waye. And when Iesus was come to the place, he looked vp and sawe hym, and said vnto hym zachae, come downe atonce for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came downe hastilye:

and receiued hym ioyfully. And when thei saw it, thei all grudged, saying: he is gone in, to eate with a manne that is a synner. And zachae stode forth, and said vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the poore, and if I haue dooen any manne wrong, I restoe hym foure folde. Iesus said vnto hym: this day is healtie happened vnto this house, because that he also is become the chyld of Abraham.

¶ For the sonne of manne is come to seke, and to saue that whiche was loste.

And as thei heard these thynges he added ther to a parable, because he was ne to hierusalem, and because thei thought, that the kyngdome of God shoulde shortly appere. He said therfore

¶ A certain noble manne wente into a farr countree, to receiue hym a kyngdome, and to come again. And he called his tenne seruantes, and deliuered them tenne pounde, saying vnto thei: Occupy till I come. But his ciuizens hated hym, and sente a message after hym, saying: we will not haue this manne to raigne ouer vs.

¶ And it came to passe, that when he had receiued his kyngdome, he returned and commaunded these seruantes to bee called vnto hym: (to whom he had geuen money) to wit how muche euery manne had dooen. Then came the first, saying Lorde, thy pounde hath gayned tenne pounde. And he said vnto hym: well thou good seruante: because thou haste been faithfull in a verye litle thyng, haue thou an hundred ouer ten citsers. And another came saying: Lorde, thy pounde hath made five pounde. And to the same he said bee thou also ruler ouer five citsers.

¶ And another came saying: Lorde, behold here is thy pounde, whiche I haue kepte in a naplyn for I feared thee, because thou arte a straigthe manne: thou takest vp that thou laydest not downe, and reapest that thou diddest not sowe. He saied vnto hym: Of thine owne mouth, will I iudge thee, thou euill seruante. knowest thou that I am a straigthe manne, taking vp & laying not downe and reaping that I did not sow. And wherfore ganest not thou my money into the bancke, and at my comyng I might haue requited myne owne with vantage?

¶ And he said vnto thei that stode by: take fro hym that pounde, and geue it hym that hath tenne pounde. And thei said vnto hym: Lorde, he hath tenne pounde. For I saie vnto you, that vnto euerye one whiche hathe walther geuen he hath not shalbe taken awaye, euen that whiche he hath. Waire ouer those myne enemies, (whiche would not that I should raigne ouer thei) bying better, and see thei before me. ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he proceeded forth, taking his iourney, to goo vpo hierusalem.

¶ And it fortuned when he was come nye to Bethphage and Bethany, besides the mount whiche is called Oliuet, he sente two of his disciples, saying: goo ye into the towne, whiche is ouer agaynste you into the whiche, as sone as ye are come, ye shall fynde an asses colte tied, wher on yet neuer manne satte. Loose him, and bying hym hether. And if any manne aske you, why dooe ye loose hym: thus shall ye saie vnto hym The Lorde hath neded therof.

¶ Thei that were sente, wente their waye and founde euen as he had said vnto thei. And as thei were a losing the colte the owners thereof said vnto thei: why loose ye the colte? And thei said for the Lorde hath neded of hym. And thei brought hym to Iesus, and caste their rayment on the colte, and set Iesus thereon. And as he wente, thei spredde their clothes in the waye.

¶ And when he was come nere, he beheld the cite, and wepte on it saying: If thou haddeste knowne those thynges whiche belong vnto thy peace, euen in this thy daye, thou wouldeste take hede. But now are thei hid from thine eyes. For ¶ dayes shall come vnto thee, that thy enemies also shall cast a banke aboute thee, and compass thee rounde, and kepte the on every side & make thee euen with the grounde & thy chyldren whiche are in thee. And ¶ thei shall not leaue in thee one stone vpon another because thou knowest not the tyme of thy visitacion. ¶ And he wente into the temple, and beganne to caste out thei that solde therein, and thei that bought, saying vnto thei: It is writte ¶ my house is the house of prayer: but ye haue made it a denne of theues. And he taught daily in the temple. ¶ But the hye priestes and the scribes and the chief of the people wente aboute to destroye hym: and coulde not fynd what to dooe. For all the people stache by hym when thei heard hym.

¶ Thei aske Christ on question, and he answereth thei another the parable of the vineyard. Of tribute to be geuen vnto Cesar, & how Christ shal reppre the mouches of the pharisees.

AND it fortuned in one of those dayes (as he taughte the people in the temple and preached the Gospel) the hye priestes and the the scribes came together with the elders, and spake unto hym sayng: * Tell vs by what auctorite doest thou these thynges? Echer who is he that geue thes auctorite? Jesus answered and sayed vnto them, I also will aske you one thyng, and ans were me. The baptysme of Ihon: was it from heauen or of menne. And thei thoughte within them selues, sayng: If we saie from heauen, he will saie: why then beleue ye hym not? But and if we saie of menne, all the people will stone vs. For they bee perswaded, that Ihon is a prophete. And thei answered that they could not tell whence it was. And Jesus saied vnto them: nether tell I you by what auctorite I dooe these thynges.

B Then beganne he to purre forth to the people this parable. * A certain manne planted a vyneparde, and lette it forth to housband menne, and wente hym selfe into a straunge countree for a greate season. And when the tyme was come he sente a seruaunte to the housbandemen, that they shoulde geue hym of the frute of the vyneparde. And thei beete hym, and sente hym awaye emptye. And agayne he sente yet another seruaunte. And hym thei did beate, and encreased hym shamefully, and sent hym awaye empty. And again he sente the thirde also, and hym thei wounded, and caste hym out. Then saied the Lorde of the vyneparde: what shall I dooe? I will sende my deare sonne peradventure thei will stande in awe of hym: when thei see hym.

C But when the housbandemen sawe hym, they thoughte within them selues, sayng: this is the beyte, * come lette vs kyll hym, that the inheritaunce maye bee oures. And thei caste hym oute of the vyneparde, and kylled hym. What shall the Lorde of the vyneparde therefore dooe vnto them? he shall come and destroye these housbandemen, and shall lette out his vyneparde to other. When they hearde this, they saied: God forbid. And he behelde them, and saied: what is this then that is writen: * the stone that the buylders refused, the same is become the hedde of the coynre? Whosoever dooeth stumple vpon that stone, shalbe broken: but on whom soeuer it falleth, it will grynde hym to powder. And the hye priestes and the scribes the same houre wente aboute to laye bandes on hym. * And thei feared the people. For they perceined that he had spokē this similitude against them.

D And thei watched hym, and sente forth spies whiche shoulde sayne thein selues righteously, * to take hym in his woordes, and to deliuer hym vnto the power and auctorite of the depute. And thei asked him, sayng. Master, we knowe that thou saieste and teachest righte, nether considerest thou the outward appearance of any manne, but teachest the waie of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue tribute vnto Cesar, or no? he perceined their craftines, and saied vnto them: * Why tempter ye me? shewe me a penny, whose ymage and superscripcion hath it? Thei answered and saied: Cesar. And he saied vnto them: geue then vnto Cesar, the thynges whiche bee long vnto Cesar, and to God the ges that pertain vnto God. And thei could not reproue his sayng before the people: and thei maruailed at his answer, and helde their peace.

E Then came to hym certain of the saducees, * whiche denie that there is any resurrection. And thei asked hym sayng: * Master Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mannes brother dye ha-uyng a wife, and he bye without children, that then his brother shoulde take his wife, and eayse vp seede vnto his brother. There were therefore seven brethren, and the firste tooke a wife, and dyed without children. And the seconde toke her and in like wyse the residue of the seven, and lette no children behynde them, and died. Last of all the woman died also. Now in the resurrection, whose wife of theim shall she bee? For seven had her to wife. Jesus answered and saied vnto thei: The children of this worlde maye wyues, and are maried: but thei whiche shalbee counted worthy of that worlde and the resurrection from the dedde, dooe not marie wyues, nether are maried, nor yet can die any moze, for they are equall vnto the angels, and are the sonnes of God, in as muche as thei are children of the resurrection. And that the dedde shall rise again: Moses also sheweth besides the bush: when he calleth, * the Lorde, the God of Abraham: the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of dedde, but liuyng. For all liue vnto hym. Then certain of the pharises answered, and saied: Master, thou haste well saied. And after that durste thei not aske hym any question at all.

And he saied vnto them: * how saie thei that Christ is Dauides sonne? And Dauid hymself saiet in the booke of the Psalmes: * The Lorde saied vnto my Lorde: sitte thou on my ryghte hande till I make thine enemies thy foote stoele. Dauid therefore calleth hym Lorde: and howe is he then his sonne? Then in the audience of all the people, he saied vnto his disciples: * beware of the scribes, whiche will goo in long clothyng: and loue greeynges in the markettes, & the best seates in the sinagoges, and the chief roomes at feastes, whiche deuoure widowes houses say-nyng long prayes: the same shall receiue greater dampnation.

The xxi. Chapter.

Certe the commenseth the poore widowes: telleth of the destruction of Hierusalem, of false teachers, of the tribus and troubles for to come, of the ende of the worlde, and of his ouer coming.

A he behelde, * he sawe the temple menne, whiche caste in their offer-rynges into the treasury. He saw also a certain poore widow whiche caste in thither twoo mites. And he saied, of a trouth I saie vnto you, * that this poore widow hath putte in moze the thei all. For thei all haue of their superfluite added vnto the offerrynges of God: but she of her penury hath cast in all the substance that she had.

And vnto some that spake of the temple how it was garnished with goodly stones and Jewels, he saied: * The daies will come in the which

(of these thynges whiche ye see) there shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be thyrown doune. And thei asued hym sayng

Master, when shall these thynges be, and what sygne will there be when such thynges shall come to passe? And he saide: Take hede, that ye be not decciued. For manye shall come in my name, and saie thei are Christ: and that time shal weth neare. For ye not theim therefore. But when ye here of warres and sedicions be not affraid. For these thynges muste firste come to passe, but the ende shal not be by and by. Then saide he vnto theim: Nacion shall rise against nacion and kingdom, against kingdom, a great earthquake shall be in all places, and hunger, and pestilence and fearfull thynges. And greasse sygnes shall there be from heauen.

But before all these, thei shal late bandes on you, and persecute you, deliuering you vp to the synagoges & into prison, and shall byng you vnto kynges & rulers for my names sake: And this shall chauce you for a testimoniall. But at a sure paynente therfore in your heartes, not to study before, what ye shall answer: for I will geue you a mouth and wisdom, wher against, all your aduersaries shall not be able to speake nor resist. Whose ouer ye shal be: betrayed of your fathers and mothers and byrth, and kynfolke and frendes, and some of you shall thei putte to death. And hated shal ye be of all menne for my names sake and there shal not one here of your head be perished, possesse your soule by patience.

And when ye see Hierusalem besieged with an hoste, then be sure that the desolacion of the same is nie. Then lette them whiche are in Jeru syle, fflye to the mountaignes. And lette them whiche are in the middes of it, departe out. And lette not them that are in other countres, entree therein. For these be the dayes of vengeance, that all thynges whiche are written maye be fulfilled. But wo vnto thei that be with child and to them that geue sucke in those dayes: for there shal be greates trouble in the lande, & warthe ouer all this people. And thei shall fall throughte the edge of the swerde, and shal be led a waye captiue into all nacions. And Hierusalem shall be troden doune for the Gentiles, vntill the tyme of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

And there shal be sygnes in the sunne, and in the moone, and in the starres: and in the earth the people shal be at their wittes ende, throught dispatre. The sea and the water shall roare, and mennes heartes shal fayle them for feare, and for lohyng after those thynges which shall come on earth. For the powers of heauen shall moue. And then shal thei see the sonne of manne come in a cloude with power and greates glozy. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and lifte vp your heddes for your redemption draweth nie.

And he shewed them a similitude: beholde the figge tree, and all the trees when thei shoute fourthe their budde ye see and knowe of poure owne selues that sommer is then nye at hande. So likewise also, wher ye see these thynges come to passe, be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nie. Clerely I saie vnto you: this generacion shal not passe, till all be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shall passe but my wordes shall not passe.

Take hede to your selues lest at any tyme your heartes be ouercome with sursetting and byonkenness and cares of this life, and so the daie come vpon you vnwares. For as a snare shall it come on all theim that dwell on the face of the whole earth: watche ye therefore continually, and praye, that ye maye escape all these thynges that shall come, and that ye maye stande before the sonne of manne. In y date tyme, he taught in the temple: and at night, he wente out, and abode in the mounte that is called Oluet. And all the people came in the moynyng to hym into the temple, for to heare hym.

The. cxii. Chapter.

This chapter is dedicated. Thei care the rather lambe. The institution of the sacramente. Thei shal see howe he geareth, he reioyseth them. He prayeth thei come vpon the mount. Thei take hym and byng hym to the hye parden house. Peter denieth hym thre times, and thei byng hym before the counsaill.

He leaue of swete byrde byrde nye which is called Easter, and the byrde: then a scriber soughte howe they mighte byll hym, for thei feared the people: Then entered Sathan in to Judas, whose sir name was Iscariot (whiche was of the nombre of the twelue) and he toke his waie, and communed with the hye prestes and officers, howe he mighte betraye hym vnto them. And thei were glad, and promised to geue hym money. And he consented, and sought oportunitie to betraye hym vnto them: when the people were a waye.

Then came the daye of swete byrde, when of necessitee Pascheouer muste be offered. And he sent Peter and Ioh, sayng: go & prepare vs the Pascheouer, that we maye eate. They sayde vnto hym. Where wylte thou, & we prepare? And he sayde vnto them: Beholde, when ye enter in to the cyter, ther shall a man mete you, bearyng a pytcher of water, hym folow into the same house that he entreteth in, and ye shall saye vnto the good man of the house: The master sayeth vnto the: where is the gyste chamber, where I shall eate Pascheouer with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greates parloure paved. There make readye. And they wente and founde as he had sayde vnto them, and they made readye the Pascheouer.

And wher the houre was come, he late doune and the twelue Apostles wyth hym. And he sayde vnto them: I haue inwardlye desyred to eate this Pascheouer wyth you, before that I suffre. For I saie vnto you: henceforth I wyl not eate of it any moze, vntill it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cup, and gaue thankes and sayd: Take this, and drayde it amonge you. For I saie vnto you: I wyl not drynke of the frute of the vyne, vntill the kyngdome of God come.

And he toke byrde, and when he had geuen thankes, he byrde it, and gaue vnto them, sayng sayng. This is my bodye, whiche is geuen for you. This dooe in the remembrance of me. And the like also when he had supped, he toke the cuppe sayng: This cuppe is the newe testament in my bloodde, whiche is shed for you. Per beholde the bande of hym that betrayeth me, is with me on the table. And truly the sonne of manne gooeth as it is appoynted: But woo vnto that manne by whom he is betrayed. And they began to enquire among them selues, whiche of them it was, that should dooe it.

And there was a strife among them, whiche of them shoulde seme to bee the greater. And he saied vnto them: the kynges of nations raigne ouer them: and they that haue authoritee vpon them are called gracious Lordes. But ye shall not bee so. * But he that is greatest among you, shalbe as the younger: and he that is chief, shalbe as he that dooth minister. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meate? Or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at meate? But I am among you, as he that ministereth. Per are they whiche haue bydden with me in my temptations. And I appoynt vnto you a kyngdome, as my father hath appoynted to me: that ye may eate and drynke at my table in my kyngdome, and sitte on seates, iudgyng the twelue trybes of Israel. * And the Lord saied: Symon, Symon, beholde: Satthan hath desired to lyste you, as it were wheate: but I haue prayed for thee that thy faulthe faile not. And when thou art conuerted, strength thy brethren. And he saied vnto hym: * Lord I am ready to goe with thee into prison, and to deathe. And he saied: I tell thee Peter, thy cocke shall not crouche this daie, till thou hast thrise denyed that thou knowest me.

And he saied vnto them: * When I sente you without wallet and scrippe and shoes laked ye any thyng? And they saied, no: Then he saied vnto them: but now he that hath a wallet, lette hym take it vp, and lyke wyse his scrippe. And he that hath no swerde, lette hym sell his coote, and buye one. For I saie vnto you, that yet the same whiche is writen, muste bee performed in me: * euen among the wicked was he reputed. For thole thynges whiche are writen of me haue an ende. And they saied: Lord, beholde, here are two swerdes. And he saied vnto they: it is ynough. * And he came out, and wente as he was wont to mounte Oliuet. And the disciples folowed hym. And when he came to the place he saied vnto them: * praye, leaue ye fall into temptation. And he gatte hym self from them, aboute a stones cast, and knelled downe, and prayed sayng: Father if thou wilt, remoue this cuppe from me. Neuerthelesse, * not my will, but thine bee fulfilled. And there appeared an angell vnto hym from heauen, confortyng hym. And he was in agonye, and prayed the longer. And his sweate was like dropes of bloodde, trickelyng downe to the grounde. And when he rose vp from prayer and was come to his disciples, he founde them slepyng for drewnesse, & saied vnto them why slepe ye? Rise, and praye, lest ye fall into temptation.

* While he yet spake: beholde, there came a compaignie, and he that was called Judas one of the twelue, wente before them, and pressed nie vnto Iesus, to kisse hym. But Iesus saied vnto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of manne with a kisse? When they whiche were aboute hym sawe what shoulde folow, they saied vnto hym: Lord, shall we smite with swerde? * And one of them smote a seruante of the hye preeste, and stroke of his righte eare. Iesus answered and saied: suffer ye thus farre forth. And when he touched his eare, he healed hym.

Then Iesus saied vnto the hye preestes and rulers of the temple and the elders whiche were come to hym. Ye bee come out, as vnto a thefe to swerdes and stauers. When I was dailely with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes against me. But this is euen your verie houre, and the power of darknesse. Then toke they hym and led hym, and broughte hym to the hye preestes house. But Peter folowed a farre of. And whē they had kyndled a fyre in the middes of the palace, and were sette downe to gether, * Peter also sat doune among they. But when one of the women behelde hym, as he satte by the fyre, and looked vpon hym, she saied: this same felow was also with hym. * And he denied hym sayng: woman I knowe hym not. And after a litle while another sawe hym, and saied: thou art also of them. And Peter saied: manne, I am not.

And aboute the space of an houre after, another affirmed, sayng: verely this felow was with hym also, for he is of Galile. And Peter sayed manne I wote not what thou saiest. And immediately while he yet spake, the cocke crewe. And the Lord turned backe, and looked vpon Peter. * And Peter remembered the woordes of the Lord how he saied vnto hym: before the cocke crewe, thou shalt denye me thrise. And Peter wente out and wepte bitterly.

And the menne that toke Iesus mocked hym and smote hym: and when they had byndefolowed hym, they stroke hym on the face, and asked hym, sayng: arde, who is it that smote thee. And many other thynges dispitely saied they against hym. And as soon as it was daye, the elders of the people and the hye preestes and the scribes came together, & led hym into their counsaill, sayng: art thou verie Christe tell vs? And he saied vnto them: if I tell you, ye will not beleue. And if I aske you, ye will not answer me, nor lette me goe. * Hereafter shall the sonne of manne sitte on the righte hande of the power of God. Then saied they all: arte thou then the sonne of God? he saied, ye saie that I am. And they sayed: what neede wee any further witness? For wee our selues haue hearde of his owne mouth.

Christe is brought before Pilate and Herode. The women make lamentation for hym. He prayeth for his enemies, forgiveth the thefe vpon his righte hande, and dyeth on the crosse, and is buryed.

And the whole multitude of them arose & followed hym vnto Pilate. And they began to accuse hym, sayng: wee founde this

chis

this feloe peruercting þe people, and for bydding to paye tribute to Cesar: sayng that þeis Christ a kyng. And Pilate appoyled hym, sayng. Arte thou the kyng of the Jewes? he answered hym and said: thou saiest it. Then sayed Pilate to þe þie prestes, and to the people: I finde no fault in this manne. And thei wer the moze scarce sayng he moueth the people, teachyng througout all Ierussalym, and began at Galile, euen to this place. When Pilate hadde mencion of Galile he asked whether the manne were of Galile. And asone as he knewe that he belonged vnto * Herodes Iurisdiction, he sente hym to Herode whiche was also at Iherusalem at that tyme.

And when Herode sawe Iesus, he was excrapung glad. For he was desirous to see hym of a long season, because he had hearde many thynges of hym, and he trusted to haue seene some miracle dooen by hym. Then he questioned wth hym many woordes. But he answered hym nothyng. The þie prestes and scribes, stode forth and accused hym straighterly. And Herode with his menne of warre, despised him: & when he had mocked hym, he arrayed hym in white clothynge, and sente hym again to Pilate. * And the same daye Pilate and Herode were made frendes together: For befoze they were at variance.

And Pilate called together þe þie prestes and þe people, and said vnto them: ye haue brought this manne vnto me as one that peruercteth the people. And behold, I examyn hym befoze you & finde no faulte in this manne, of those thynges whereof ye accuse hym: No, nor yet Herode. For I sente you to hym, and lo, nothyng worthy of death is dooen to hym. I will therfore chaunge hym, and lette hym loose. * For of necessite, he must haue lette one loose vnto them at the feast.

And all the people cryed at once sayng a waie with him, and belouer to vs Barabbas: (whiche for a certain insurreccion made in the citee and for murder was caste in prysone) Pilate spake again to them willing to lette Iesus loose. But they cryed, sayng: Crucifie hym. Crucifie hym.
He said vnto them the thyrde tyme: what euill hath he dooen? I fynde no cause of death in hym I will therfore chaunge hym, and lette hym goe.
And they cryed with loude voyces, requyryng that he myghte be crucified. And the voyces of them and of the þie prestes preuailed.

And Pilate gaue sentence, that it should be as they requyred: and he lette loose vnto them hym that (for insurreccyon and murder) was caste into prysone, whom thei had desyred and he deliuered vnto them Iesus, to dooe with hym what they would. * And as they led hym a waie, they caughte one Symon of Cyren, commyng out of the feilde: and on hym layed they the crosse that he myghte beare it after Iesus.

And there folowed hym a greates compaignie of people, and women * whiche beweyled and lamented hym: But Iesus turned backe vnto them, and sayed: Ye daughteres of Iherusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for youre selues, and for your chyldre: For behold, the daies will come in the whiche thei shall say: happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and þe pappes whiche neuer gaue sucke. Then shall they begyn to saie to the mountaignes, fall on vs: and to the hylls, couer vs. For if they dooe this in a grene tree, what shall they dooen in the dyer? And there were two euill doores led wth hym to bee slain. * And after that they were come to the place (whiche is called Caluary) there they crucified hym, and the euill doores, one on þe righte hande, and the other on the left. Then said Jesus, father forgeue them for they wote not what they dooe. * And they parted his raimente and caste lottes. And the people stode, and behelde.

And the rulers mocked hym with theim, say-ng: he saucth other menne lette hym saue hym self, if he be very Christ, the chosen of God. The souldyours also mocked hym, and came and offrend hym vineger, and sayed, if thou bee þe kyng of the Jewes, saue thy self. * And a superscrip-tion was writen ouer hym, with letters of Greke, & Latin and Hebrewe: This is the kyng of the Je-wes. And one of þe euill doores whiche wer hanged rapled on hym sayng: If thou bee Christe, saue thy self and vs. But the other answered, & rebuked hym sayng: Fearest thou not God seyng thou art in the same dampnation: wee are righteously punished, for wee receiue accordyng to our dedes. But this manne hath dooen nothyng amysse. And he said vnto Iesus: Lorde remembre me, when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And Iesus said vnto hym: Merely I saie vnto thee to daie what thou wer wish me in Pa-raadise. * And it was aboute the first houre. And ther was darkenes ouer all the earth, vntill the nynth houre, and the sunne was darkened. And the vaille of the temple did rente, euen throughe the middes. And when Iesus had cryed with a loude voyce, he said. Father into thy handes I commende my spirite. And when he thus had said he gaue vp the ghost. * When the Centurion sawe what had happened, he glorified God sayng: Merely this was a righteous manne.
And all the people that came together to that spgge and sawe the thynges which had happened, smote they þe prestes and returned. And all hys acquaintance: and the women that folowed hym from Galyle, stode afarre of, beholdyng these thynges.

And behold * there was a manne (named Joseph) a counsailler, and he was a good manne and a iuste, the same had not consented to the coun-saill and dede of theim, whiche was of Tramach a citee of the Jewes, whiche same also waited for the kyngdome of God: he went vnto Pilate and begged the body of Iesus and tooke it doun and wrappd it in a linnen cloth, and laied it in a sepulchre that was hewen in ston, where in neuer manne befoze was laied. * And that daye was preparyng of þe Saboth, and the Sa-both daye on: The women that folowed after, whiche had come with hym from Galile, beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laied. And thei returned and prepared sweete oboours and spntementes: but rested the Saboth daye, ac-cordyng to the commandementes.

The xxiii. Chapter.

The women came to the grave. Christ appeared unto the three disciples that had followed him. He was in the midst of all his disciples openly their brother and in the scriptures, gave them a charge and ascended up to heaven.

But upon the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre, & brought the sweet odours which they had prepared. & other women with them. And they founde it stone rolled away from the sepulchre, and they wrote in, but founde not the body of the Lord Iesu. And it happened as they were amazed there at. Behold two menne stood by them in shining garments. And as they were afrayed, and bowed downe their faces to the earth, they said unto them: Why seeke ye the living among the dedde? he is not here: but he is risen. Remembre how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galile, saying: that the sonne of manne must bee delivered into the handes of synners, and be crucified, and the thirde daye rise again. And they remembred his wordes, and returned from the sepulchre, and tolde all these thynges unto those eleven, and to all the remnaunte. * It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary Jacoby, and other that were with them, which tolde these thynges unto the Apostles. And their wordes seemed unto them layned thynges, neither beleued they them. And arose Peter and ranne unto the sepulchre, and looked in and sawe the linen clothes layed by themselves, and departed, wonderinge in hym self at that which had happened.

And beholde two of them wente that same daye to a toun (called Emmaus) which was from Hierusalem aboute a sixty fozlonges, and they talked together of all these thynges that had happened. And it chaunced that while they communed together and reasoned, Iesus hymself drew neare, and wente with them. But their eyes wer holden, that they should not knowe hym: And he said unto them: what manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walke and are sad? And the one of them (whose name was Cleophas) answered, and said unto hym: Art thou onely a stranger in Hierusalem and hast not knowen the thynges which have chaunced there, in these dayes? he said unto them: what thynges? And they said unto hym: of Iesus of Nazareth, which was a prophete mighte in dedde, & woode, before God and all the people: and how the hie prieres, and our rulers delivered hym to be condemned to death, and have crucified hym. But wee trusted that it had been he that should have redeemed Israel. And as touching all these thynges, to day is even the thirde daye, that they were dooen.

Then, and certain women also of our companye made us astonied, which came early unto the sepulchre, and founde not his body, & came saying that they had sene a vision of angels, which said that he was alive. And certain of the which were with us, went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said, but hym they saw not. And he said unto them: O fooles & slow of heart, to beleue all that the prophetes have spoken. * Oughe not Christ to have suffered these thynges, and to enter into his glory? And he began at Moses, and at all the prophetes, and interpreted unto them in all scriptures which were written of hym. And they drew neare unto him, which they wente unto. And he made as though he would have gone fether. And they constrained hym: saying: abyde with us, for it draweth toward night, and the daye is farre passed. And he went in, to tarry with them. And it came to passe, as he sat at meate with them, he took hynde, and blessed it, and brake, and gaue to them. And their eyes wer opened, and they knew him: and he vanished out of their sight. And they said betwene them selves: did not our heartes burne within us, while he talked with us by the waye, and opened unto us the scriptures? And they arose by the same houre, and turned againe to Hierusalem, and founde the eleven gathered together, and them that with them, saying: the Lord is risen in dedde, and hath appeared to Simon. And they tolde what thynges were dooen in the waye, and how they knewe hym in breaking of hynde.

As they thus spake, Iesus hymself stood in the midst of them, & said unto them: peace be unto you. (It is I, leave not). But they were abashed and afrayed, and supposed that they had sene a spyrte. And he said unto them: Why are ye troubled, and why dooe thoughts arise in your heartes? Behold my handes and my fete, that it is even I my self. Handle me and see: for a spyrte hath not fleshe and bones as ye see me have. And whyle he thus spake, he showed them his handes and his fete. And while they yet beleued not for joye, and wondered, he said unto them: have ye here any meate? And they offered hym a peece of a broyled fysh and of an hony combe. And he took it, and did eat before them. And he said unto them: These are the wordes which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you: that all mennes be fulfilled which were written of me in the lawe of Moses and in the prophetes, & in the psalmes. * He opened he their witten, that they mighte understande the scriptures, and said unto them: Thus is it written: and thus it behoued Christ to suffer, and to rise againe from death the thirde daye, and that repentance and remission of synnes should be preached in his name among all nations: And must begyn at Hierusalem. And ye are witnesses of these thynges. * And beholde, I will sende the promise of my father upon you. * But tarry ye in the cite of Hierusalem, untill ye be endued with power from on hie. And he led them out into Bethany, and left by his handes, and blessed them. * And it came to passe, as he blessed them he departed fro them and was carryed up into heaven. And they worshipped hym, and returned to Hierusalem with greate joye and were continually in the temple praysyng and lauding God. Amen.

Col. xxxiii

¶ The manifestyng wyth of Chyrt, and howe he became man.
¶ The testymony of Ihon. ¶ The callynge of Andrey, Peter, et.

In the begynnyng was the word, & the word was wyth God: and God was the word. The same was in the begynnyng wyth God. * All thynges were made by it: and with oute it was nothyng, & was made. * In it was lyfe, and lyfe was the lyght of men, and the lyght shyneth in darkenes: and the darkenes comprehended it not. Ther was sent a man frō God whose name was Ihon. The same came as a witness of the lyght, that all men through him myght beleue. * He was not that lyght: but was sente to beare witness of the lyght. That lyght was the true lyght, which lyghteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world and the world was made by hym, and yet the world knewe hym not.

¶ He came among hymys owne, and hymys owne receaved hym not. But as many as receaved hym, to the glau he power to be the sonnes of God, euen them that beleued on his name which was bozne, not of bloude, not of the wyll of the flesch, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

* And the same word became fleshe, and dwelt among vs: and we sawe the glory of it, as the glorye of the only begotten sonne of the father full of grace and truth. ¶

* Ihon beareth witness of hym, and cryeth, sayng: Chys was he of whom I speake, whiche though he came after me, went before me: for he was before me. * And of hys fulnesse haue all we receaved: euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moyses, but grace and truth came by Ihesus Chyrt: * No man hath seene God at any tyme.

¶ The onely begotten sonne whiche is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared hym. ¶

* And chys is the recoorde of Ihon: when the Jewes sente priesstes and Lewites from Ierusalem, to aske hym what art thou? And he confesed and denyed not, and sayed playnely: I am not Chyrt. And they asked hym: what then? art thou helyas? And he sayeth I am not: art thou that prophet? And he answered no. Then sayed they vnto him: What arte thou, that we maye geue an answer vnto them that sent vs? What sayest thou of thy self? he sayed: * I am y^e voice of a crier in the wilderness, make strayght the way of the Lord, * as sayed the prophet Esayas. And they whyche were sente were of the pharysies. And they asked hym, and sayd vnto hym: Why baptisest thou thē, yf thou bee not Chyrt, nor helyas, neether that prophet?

Ihon answered them sayng: * I baptise with water, but there standeth one among you, who ye knowe not, he it is which though he came after me, was before me, whose sho latheret, I am not worthy to vnlose. These thynges wer done in Bethabara beyond Iordane: wher Ihon byd baptise. ¶

* The nexte daye, Ihon seethe Iesus comyng vnto him, and sayeth: * behold the lambe of God, whiche taketh awaye the synne of the world. Chys is he of whom I sayed: After me cometh a man whiche went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe hym not: but that he shoulde be declared to Israel, therfore am I come baptysing wyth water.

* And Ihon bare recoorde sayng: I sawe the sperte descend from heauen, lyke vnto a doue, & abode vpon hym, and I knewe hym not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same saied vnto me: vpon whom thou shalt se the sperte descende, and carye styl on hym, the same is he which baptiseth wth the holy ghoist. And I sawe and bare recoorde that he is the sonne of God. ¶

The nexte day after, Ihon stood agayn, and two of hys disciples, and he behelde Iesus as he walked by, and sayth: behold the lambe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake and they folowd Iesus. And Iesus turned about and saw them folow him: & sayth vnto them: What seek ye? They sayed vnto hym Rabbi: whiche is to saye yf one interprete it, (Master) wher dwellest thou? he sayth vnto them: come and se. They came and sawe wher he dwelt: & abode with him that day. For it was about the tenth houre.

¶ One of the two whiche heard Ihon speake, and folowd hym, was Andrey the sonne of Iohannes. The same founde hys brother Symon fyrst, and sayth vnto hym: we haue founde Mesias (which is by interpretation, an oined) and brought hym to Iesus. And Iesus beheld hym and saied: thou arte * Symon the sonne of Ionas, thou shalt be called Cephas: whiche is by interpretation a stone. The daye folowyng, Iesus woulde go into Galile, and founde Phyllyp, and sayth vnto hym: folow me. * Phyllyp was of Bethsaida the cite of Andrey and Peter. Phyllyp founde Nathaniel and sayth vnto him: we haue found him, of whom * Moyses in the lawe and the prophetes did writ, Iesus the sonne of Ioseph of Nazareth. And Nathaniel saied vnto hym: can there any good thyng come out of Nazareth? Phyllyp sayth vnto him come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathaniel comyng to him, and sayth of him. Behold a right Israelite, in whō is no guyle. Nathaniel sayth vnto hym: whence knowest thou me? Iesus answered and saied vnto hym. Before that thou calledst the, when thou wast vnder the fygge tree, I sawe the. Nathaniel answered and sayed vnto him: Rabbi thou arte euen the very sonne of God, thou art the kyng of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayed vnto hym: Because I sayed vnto the, I sawe the vnder the fygge tree, thou beleuest. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto hym: Mercie, verily, I saye vnto you: hereafter shall ye see heauen open and the angels of God ascending and descending ouer sonne of man.

The .ii. Chapter.

Christ turneth the water into wyne, and healeth the bynde and the lame out of the temple.

And the thirde daye was there a marriage in Cana a cite in Galile, and the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called (and his disciples) vnto the marriage. And when the wyne failed the mother of Iesus sayeth vnto hym: they haue no wyne. Iesus sayeth vnto her: woman: what haue I to doo with the, myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayeth vnto the mynisters: whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you do ye. And there were standing there, vi. waterpottes of stone after the maner of the purifying of the Iewes, containing two or thre syzaphs a peece. Iesus sayeth vnto them: fyl the waterpottes with water. And they fylled them vp to the brim. And he sayeth vnto them: dyaue out nowe, and bere vnto the gouernoure of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast hadde tasted the water that was turned into wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but the mynisters whiche dranke the water knewe.) he calleth the byprome, and sayeth vnto hym. Euery man at the beginning doth set forth good wine, and when men be dronke, then that which is worse. But thou hast kept the good wyne vntil now. This beginninge of myacles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galile, and the weddys glorie, and his disciples beleued on hym.

After this he went downe to Capernaum, he and his mother and his brethren, and his disciples, and there continued manye dayes.

And the Iewes Easter was euen at hand. And Iesus wente vnto Ierusalem, and founde sytting in the temple, those that sold oxen, and shepe, and doves, and chaungers of mony. And when he had made (as it were) a scourge of smal cordes, he dyue them al out of the temple, with the shepe and oxen, and rowed oute the chaungers mony, and ouerthrewe the tables, and sayed vnto them that sold doves: haue these thynges hence, and make not my fathers house, a house of merchandise. And his disciples remembered it, that is wytten: the zele of thyne house hath eaten me.

Then answered the Iewes, and sayed vnto hym: what token shewest thou vnto vs, saying that thou doest these thynges? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them: destroy this temple, and in thre dayes I will reare it vp. Then sayed the Iewes. lvi. yeares was this temple abiding, and wilt thou reare it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of his body. A fowle derfowle as he was spoken frome death agayne his disciples remembered that he thus had sayed: And they beleued the scripture, and the wordes whiche Iesus had sayed.

When he was in Ierusalem at Easter in the feare daye: many beleued on his name, when they saw his miracles which he did. But Iesus dyd not committe hym selfe vnto them, because he knewe all men, and needed not, that any man should testifye of hym. For he knewe what was in man.

The .iii. Chapter.

The commendation of Christ by Nicodemus. The doctrine of the bynde of Iesus, and what bynde he beareth of Christ.

Thet was a man of the pharyse named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Iewes. The same came to Iesus by nyghte, and sayed vnto hym: Rabbi, we knowe that thou art a teacher come frome God: for no man could do such myacles as thou doest, excepte God were with hym. Iesus answered and sayed vnto hym:

Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne from above, he can not se the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus saith vnto him: how can a man be borne when he is olde, can he enter into his mothers wombe and be borne agayne? Iesus answered: Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne of water and of the spete, he cannot enter into the kyngdome of God. That which is borne of the fleshe, is fleshe, and that which is borne of the spete, is spete. Marvaile no thou that I sayed to the, ye must be borne from above. The winde bloweth where it lysteth, and thou hearest the sounde thereof: but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whether it goeth. So is euerye one that is borne of the spete.

Nicodemus answered and sayed vnto him: how can these thynges be? Iesus answered and sayed vnto hym: arte thou a master in Israll, and knowest not these thynges? Verely, verely I saye vnto the, we speake that we do knowe, and testyfy that we haue sene: and ye receyue not oure wytnes. If I haue tolde you earthlye thynges, and ye beleue not: howe shal ye beleue if I tell you of heauenlye thynges?

And no man ascenderth vnto heauen, but he that came downe from heauen, euen the sonne of man which is in heauen.

And as Moyses lyfte vnto the serpente in the wyldernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that whosoever beleueth in hym: perishe not, but haue eternall lyfe.

For God so loued the world, that he gaue his only begotten sonne, that whosoever beleueth in hym, shoulde not perishe, but haue euertlasting lyfe. For God sent not his sonne into the world, to condemne the world: but that the world by hym myght be saued. He that beleueth on hym is not condemned. But he that beleueth not is condemned alreedy, because he hath not beleued in the name of the onely begotten sonne of God.

And this is the condemnation: that lyght is come into the world, and men loved darkenesse moze then lyght, because they dedes were euell. For every one that euell doth hateth the lyght: neyther cometh to the lyght lest his dedes shoulde be reppured. But he that dooth truthe, cometh to the lyght, that his dedes maye be knowne, how that they are wroughte in God. I

D After these thynges came Iesus and his dysciples into the lande of Ierowp and ther he taryed with them, & baptised. And Ihon also baptised in Enon besides Salim, because ther was muche water ther, and thet came and were baptised. * For Ihon was not yet caste into prison.

And ther arose a question betwene Ihons disciples and the Jewes, about purifying. And they came vnto Ihon and saied vnto him: Rabbi, he y was with the beyond Jordan, to whom thou bearest wytnes, beholde the same baptiseth, and all men come to him. Ihon answered and sayed: a man can receyue nothyng excepte it be geuen hym frome heauen. Pe, poure selues are wytnesses, howe that I sayed: I am not Chyyst, but am sente before hym. He that hath the bypdegrome. But the frende of the bypdegrome, whyche standeth and heareth hym, receyvethe great tye because of the bypdegromes voyce. This my ioye therefore is fullfilled. he muste increase, but I muste decrease.

E he that cometh frome an hye, is aboue all: he that is of the earth, is earthly, and speaketh of the earth. he that cometh frome heauen, is aboue al, and what he hath sene and heard, that he testifieth. and no man receiveth his testimony. * he that hath receiued his testimony, * hath set to his seale, that Gods true. For he whom God hath sente speaketh the wordes of God. * For God geueth not the sperte by measure vnto him. The father loueth the sonne, * and hath geuen all thynges into his hande. he that beleueth on the sonne that he euerlastyng lyfe: he that beleueth not the sonne, shal not se lyfe, but the wrath of God abyrdeth on hym. I

The. iiii. Chapter.

The long commynication of Chyyst with the woman of Samaria by the well of Sychar. & how he taught the Salim Jewes.

A sone as the Lord knewe, how synners had harde, that Iesus made and baptised mo dysciples then Ihon: though that Iesus himselfe baptised not, but his disciples. * he lefte Jewy, and departed agayne into Galilee. For it was so that he must nedes go through Samaria. The came he to the cytee of Samaria (which is called Sychar) Besydes the possession, that Jacob gaue to his sonne Ioseph. And ther was Jacobs well. Iesus then beyng weyre of his tourneye, sette thus on the well. And it was aboute the syxt houre: and there came a woman of Samarya to drawe water. Iesus saith vnto her geue me drynke. For his disciples were gone away vnto the tounne to buy meate. Then sayeth the woman of Samarya vnto hym: howe is it that thou beyng a Jewe, askest drynke of me, which am a Samarytane. * For the Jewes hold not wyth the Samarytanes. Iesus answered, and sayed vnto her: If thou knewest the gyfte of God, and who it is that sayeth to the, geue me drynke: thou wouldest haue asked of hym, and wouldest haue geuen the water of lyfe. The woman sayeth vnto hym: Why thou haste nothyng to drawe wyth, and I wel is drepe from whence then haste thou that water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then our father Jacob which gaue vs the well, and he hym selfe draweth thereof and dryeth the well, and dryeth the cattell?

Iesus answered and sayed vnto her: whosoever drynkeh of this water, shall thurst again. But whosoever drynkeh of the water that I shall geue hym shall neuer be moze a thurst: but the water that I shall geue hym, shalbe in him a well of water spryngyng vp into euerlastyng lyfe. The woman sayeth vnto hym: Why geue me of that water that I thurst not netter come hether to drawe: Iesus sayeth vnto her: So, cal thy husband, and come hether. The woman answered and sayd vnto hym: I haue no husband. Iesus sayed vnto her: Thou hast well sayed: I haue no husbende. For thou hast had fyue husbandes, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husbende. In that sayest thou trulye. The woman sayeth vnto him: Why I perceiue that thou arte a prophete. Our fathers worshipped in this mountayne, and ye saye that in Ierusalem is the place, where men ought so to worship. Iesus saith vnto her woman beleue me, I hour cometh, when ye shall (neither in this mountayne, nor yet at Ierusalem) worshippe the father. Pe worshippe ye wote not what: we know what we worshippe.

* For saluacyon cometh of the Jewes: But the houre cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worshippe the father: in sperte, and in the truthe. For such the father also requirerth to worshippe hym. * God is a sperte: and they that worshippe hym, muste worshippe hym in sperte and in the truthe.

The woman sayeth vnto hym: I wote, that Messyas shall come, whiche is called Chyrist. When he is come, he will tell vs all thynges: Iesus sayeth vnto her: * I that speake vnto the am he. And immediatly came his disciples, & maruelled that he talked with the woman. Pet no man saied what meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her? The woman then left her waterpote and wente her waye into the cyte, and sayth to the men: Come, se a man whiche told me all thynges that euer I byd. Is not he Chyrist? Then they went out of the cite, and came vnto hym.

In fmeane whyle his disciples prayed him sayyng: Mayster, eate. he sayed vnto them: I haue meate to eate, that ye knowe not of. Therfore sayed the disciples amonge theym selues, hath any man brought hym ought to eate? Iesus sayth vnto them, my meate is to do the wyl of hym that sent me, and to synge his wyl. he. Say not ye: there are yet. iiii. monethes, & then cometh harveste: Beholde, I saye vnto you: lyfe by your eyes, and loke on the regions, for they are whyle already vnto harveste. * And he that repeth, receiveth rewarde, and gathereth frute vnto lyfe eternall: that both he that soweth, & he that repeth, mighte reioyse together. And here is the sayyng true, that one soweth and another reapeth. I sent you to reape that: wher on ye bestowed no labour. Other men labour-

I can of myne owne selfe do nothing. As I heare I iudge and my iudgement is iust, because I seke not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father whiche hath sent me. ¶ If I should beare wytnes of my selfe, my wytnes were not true. There is another that beareth wytnes of me: and I am sure that the wytnesse whiche he beareth of me is true.

¶ He sent unto Ihon, and he bare wytnes vnto the trouth. But I receiue not the record of man. For these thinges I say that ye might be safe. He was a burning and a shynnyng light and ye would for a season haue reioyced in his lyght. ¶ But I haue greater wytnesse then the wytnes of Ihon. For the woordes whiche the father hath geuen me to say, the same woordes that I do, beare wytnes of me, that the father hath sente me. And the father hym selfe whiche hath sent me, hath bozne wytnes of me. Ye haue not hearde his voyce at anye tyme, nor sene his shap, his word haue ye not abiding in you. For whom he hath sent hym ye beleue not. Search the scriptures, for in them ye chynne ye haue eternall lyfe: and they are they whiche testifie of me. And yet wyl ye not come to me ye may gett haue lyfe. I receiue not praise of men. But I knowe you, that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name and ye receiue me not. ¶ If another come in his owne name, him wyl ye receiue: howe can ye beleue whiche receiue honour one of another, and seke not the honoure that cometh of God onely? Do not thynke that I wyl accuse you to my father. There is one that accuseth you: euen Moyses in whome ye trust. For had ye beleued Moyses, ye would haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But ye ye beleue not hym wyppynge: how shall ye beleue my wordes? ¶

Ihesus seith fyue thousand men, beyng with almyghte that they should not make hym a kynge, and saye much that I helde beastes of hym worde. The same daye was offered at hym, ¶ After these thynges, Ihesus wente by his way ouer the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias: and a great multitude folowed him, because they sawe his myracles which he did on them that wer diseased. And Ihesus wente vp into a mountayn and ther he sat wyth his disciples. And eafter, a feast of Jewes was nye.

¶ When Ihesus then lyft vp his eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto hym, he sayeth vnto Phylippe: whence shall we buy breade, that these maye eat? ¶ Thys he sayed to moue hym, for he hym selfe knewe, what he would do.

¶ Phylippe answered hym: two hundred penyworth of breade are not sufficient for them that eny man may take a lytle. One of his disciples, Andrew the synon Peters brother, sayeth vnto hym: Ther is a lad here, whiche hath fyue barley loaves and two fyshes: but what are they amonge so many? And Ihesus sayed: Make the people sit doune. There was muche grasse in the place. So the mē sat doune in number, about fyue thousande. And Ihesus toke the breade, and when he had geuen thankes, he gaue to the dyscyples, and the dyscyples to them that were set doune. And Ihesus toke of the fyshes as much as they would.

¶ When they had eaten pnygh, he sayeth vnto his dyscyples: gather vp the broken meate, whiche remaineth, that nothing be losse. And they gathered it together, and filled twelue baskettes with the broken meate of the fyue barley loaves, whiche broken meate remained vnto them that hadde eaten. Then those men (when they had sene the myracle that Ihesus dyd) sayed: thys is of a treme: the same prophete, that shoulde come into the worlde. ¶ When Ihesus therfore perceiued that they would come, and take hym vp to make hym a kynge, he departed agayne into a mountayne hym selfe alone. And when euen was now come, his dysciples went doune vnto the sea, and gat vp into a ship and came ouer the sea vnto Capernaum. And it was now darke, and Ihesus was not come to them. And the sea arose with a great wind that blew. So when they had rowne about a. xlv. or. xxx. furlonges, they sawe Ihesus walkynge on the sea, and bys wyng nye vnto the ship, and they were afraied. But he sayeth vnto them: It is I, be not afraied. Then would they haue receyued hym into the ship, and immediately the shippe was at the lande, whither they wente.

¶ The daye folowyng, when the people whiche were on the other syde of the sea, sawe that there was none other ship there, saue that one whiche wente not wyth his dysciples into the shippe, but that his dysciples were gone awaye alone (howbeit, there came other shippes from Tyberias, nye vnto the place, where they dyd eate breade, after that the Lord had geuen thankes) when the people therfore sawe, that Ihesus was not there, neither his dysciples, they also toke shippyng and came to Capernaum sekyng for Ihesus. And when they had founde hym on the other syde of the sea, they sayed vnto hym: Rabbi, when camest thou hether? Ihesus answered them, and sayed: verely verely, I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe the myracles, but because ye dyd eate of the loaves and wer fylled. ¶ Labour not for the meate which perissheth, but for that which endureth vnto euerlastyng lyfe, whiche meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For him hath God the father sealed. Then sayed they vnto hym: what shall we dooe that we maye gett the woordes of God? Ihesus answered and sayed vnto them: thys is the worke of God: that ye beleue on hym whom he hath sente. They sayed therfore vnto hym: What signe shewest thou that we maye se and beleue? ¶ What dost thou worke? Our fathers dyd eate Manna in the desert, as it is wyttē: he gaue them breade from heauen to eate. Then Ihesus sayed vnto them: verely, verely, I say vnto you: Moyses gaue you not breade frome heauen: but my father geueth you the true breade frome heauen. For the breade of God is he whiche cometh doune from heauen and geueth lyfe vnto the worlde.

Then saied they vnto hym: Lorde euermore geue vs thy bread. And Iesus sayed vnto the I am the bread of lyfe. he that cometh to me shall not hunger: & he that beleueth on me shall neuer thurst. But I saye vnto you: that ye also haue sene me, and yet ye beleue not. At that f father geueth me shall come to me, and him that cometh to me, I cast not away. For I am come downe from heauen: not to do that I wyll but that he wyll, whych hath sente me. And this is the fathers wil whych hath sente me: that of all whych he hath geuen me, I shal lose nothing but rapse them vp agayn, at the last day. And this is the wyll of hym that sente me: that euery one whych seeth the sonne: and beleueth on hym, haue euerclastyng lyfe. And I wyll rapse hym vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at hym, because he said: I am the bread of lyfe: whych came downe from heauen: And they sayed: Is not this Iesus the sonne of Joseph, whose father and mother we knowe? how is it then that he sayed, I came downe from heauen? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them: mure not emonge youre selues.

For no man can come to me, excepte the father whych hath sente me, drawe hym: And I wyll rapse hym vp at the last day. It is writte in the prophetes: and they shalbe all taught of God. Euery man therfore that hath heard, and hath learned of the father, cometh vnto me. Not that any man hath sene the father, saue he whych is of God, the same hath sene the father. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that putteth his trust in me, hath euerclastyng lyfe. I am that bread of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eat Manna in the wyldernesse, and are deade. Topp is the bread, whych cometh downe from heauen, that a man maye eate therof, and not dye. I am that lyving bread, whych came downe from heauen. If any man eate of this bread, he shal lyue for euer. And the breade that I wyll geue, is my flesh, which I wil geue for the life of the worlde.

The Jewes therfore stroue among them selues sayng, howe canne this seloe geue vs that flesh of hym to eate? Then Iesus sayd vnto the Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, excepte ye eate the fleische of the sonne of man and drynke hym bloude: ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso eateth my fleische and drynke my bloude, hath eternal life, and I wyll rapse him vp at the last day. For my flesh is meate in dede: & my bloude is drynke in dede. He that eateth my fleische and drynke my bloude dwelleth in me, and I in hym. Is the lyvinge father hath sente me, and I lue for the father: Euen so he that eateth me shall lyue by the meane of me. This is the breade, whych came downe from heauen: not as your fathers dyd eate manna, and are dead. he that eateth of this breade, shall lyue euer.

These thynges sayd he in the Synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Any therfore of his disciples, when they had heard this sayd: this is an heauye sayng: who can abyde the dryng of it? Iesus knewe in hym selfe, that hym discip-ples murmured at it: and he sayed vnto them: Dorch this offendeth you? What and ye shal se that sonne of man ascende vp vnto heuere wher he was before? It is the spere that quycheneth, & flethe podyeth nothinge. The wordes that I speake vnto you are spere and lyfe. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Iesus knewe from the begynnyng, whych they were, that beleued not, and who shoulde betray hym. And he sayed, therfore sayed I vnto you: that no man can come vnto me, excepte it wer geuen vnto hym of my father. From that tyme many of his disciples went hache, and forsoke hym, and walked nomore wyth hym. Then sayed Iesus to the twelue: wyll ye also go away? Then Simon Peter answered hym: Lord to whom shal we go? Thou hast the wordes of eternal lyfe, and we beleue and are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the lyvinge God. Iesus answered them: haue not I chosen you twelue, and one of you is a deuill? he spake of Judas Iscariot, the sonne of Simmon. For he it was, that shoulde betraye hym, bringe one of the twelue.

The vii. Chapter.

Iesus cometh to Jerusalem at the feast, teacheth the Jewes and exhorteth them. They are dyscours appoynted of hym among the people. The pharysees rebuke the officers, because they haue not brought him, and chide wyth Nicodemus for taking his part.

After these thynges Iesus wente a bounte in Galile: for he woulde not go aboute in Jewrye because that the Jewes soughte to kyll hym. The Jewes feasts of feabernacles was at hande. His bryethen therfore sayd vnto him get the hence, and go into Jewrye, that thy dysciple also maye se thy workes that thou doest. For there is no man that dorbe anye thyng in secrete, and be him selfe sekerd to be knowne openly. If thou do such thynges, we wyll seik to f world. For his bryethen beleued not in hym.

Then Iesus sayed vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is alwaye readye. The world cannot hate you: But me it hateth because I testifie of yt, that the workes therof are euill: goo ye vnto this feast, I wyll not go vp yet vnto this feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. When he had sayed these wordes vnto them, he abode styll in Galile. But as sone as his bryethen were come, then went he vp also vnto the feast, not openly, but as it were pveelye. Then soughte the Jewes hym at the feast, and sayed: Where is he? And much murmuring was there of hym amonge the people. For some sayed: he is good, other sayed nay, but he deceiveth the people. Howbeit, no man spake openly of hym, for feare of the Jewes. Howe when halfe of the feast was done, Iesus went vp into the temple, and taughte. And the Jewes maruelled, sayng: how knoweth he the scriptures, seing that he neuer learned? Iesus answered them, & said: My doctryne is not myne: but his that sente me. If any man wyll be obediens vnto his will, he shal knowe of the doctrine whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my my selfe. he that speaketh of hym selfe, seeketh hys owne praise. But he that seeketh his praise that sente hym, the same is true, and no vnright trouthe is in hym.

* Wd not Moses geue you a lawe, and yet none of you heareth the lawe? Why go it about to kyl me? The people answered & saide: Thou hast the deuell: Who goeth aboute to kyl the?
Jesus answered, and saide vnto them: * I haue done one worke, and ye al maruel. Moses ther fore gaue vnto you y^e circumcision not because it is of Moses: but * of y^e fathers. And yet ye on the saboth daye, c^oncumise a man. If a man on of the saboth daye receiue c^oncumision, with oute breaking of the lawe of Moses, by daye ye at me because I haue made a manne euer ye whyte hole, on the saboth daye? Judge not after the vther apperance, but iudge wth a right iudgement.

Then sayd some of them of Ierusalem: is not this he, whom they go aboute to kyl? But loo, he speaketh boldlye, and they sape nothyng to hym. Do the rulers knowe in dede, that this is D very Christ: howbeit * we knowe this manne whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no mā knoweth whence he is. Then cried Iesus in the temple (as he taught) sayng: ye both knowe me and whence I am, ye know. And I am not com of my self but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not. But I knowe hym: (And yf I say that I knowe hym not, I shalbe a lyer like vnto you, but I knowe hym, so I am of hym, and he hath sente me. * Then they soughte to take hym, but no man layed handes on hym, because hys houre was not yet come.

Many of the people beleued on hym, & said when Christ cometh, wyl he do any mo myacles then these that this man hath done?

E The pharises heard that the people murmu red such thynges concernyng hym. * And the pharises and hye p^riestes * sente mynisters to take hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto them: Yet am I a lyte whyte wyth you: and then go I vnto hym that sent me. Ye shal seke me and shall not fynde me: * and where I am, thither can ye not come. Then sayd the Iewes among them selues Whether wyl he goo, that we shall not fynde hym: Wyl he go among the Gentyles (whiche are scattered abrode) and teache the Gentyles?
What maner of sayng is this that he sayd: ye shall seke me, and shall not fynde me: and where I am thither can ye not come.

In the last daye, that was at dape of the feast Jesus stode & cryed sayng: * yf any man thys let hym come vnto me, and drynke. he that be leueth on me (as sayd the scripture) out of his bellye shall flowe ryuers of water of lyfe. But this spake he of the spete, whych they that be leue on hym, shoulde receyue. * For the holye ghooste was not yet there, because Iesus was not yet glorified.

* Many of the people therfore (whent they heard this sayng) sayde: * of a trouth this is a prophete: but other sayd: this is Christe. But some sayd: shall Christ come out of Galyle? sayth not the scripture, that Christ shal come of the seede of Dauid: and oute of the tounne of Bethlerem, where Dauid was? So was there discencion amonge the people because of hym.

And some of them would haue taken hym, but no man layed handes on hym. Then came the mynisters to the hye p^riestes and pharises.
And they sayd vnto them: Why haue ye not brought hym. The mynisters answered: neuer man spake as this man doth. Then answered them the pharises: are ye also dyscieted? Dost anye of the rulers or of the pharises beleue on hym? But this common people whych knowe not the lawe, are cursed. Nicodemus sayth vn to them: (he that cam to Iesus by night, & was one of them:) Dost our lawe iudge any man, be fore it hear him, and know what he hath done?
They answered and sayd vnto hym: Art thou also of Galile? Search & loke. For out of Ga lyle aryleth no prophete. And every man went vnto hys owne house.

The viii. Chapter.

If a woman is taken in aduouty, Christ deliuereth her. The first dome of such as follow Christ, whom they accuse to haue the de uill within hym, and go about to stone hym.

Jesus wente vnto mount Olpuet and early in the moynynge he came agayne into the temple, and all the people came vnto hym, and he saie dounde and taughte them. And the scribes and pharises brought vnto hym a wo man taken in aduouty, and when they had set her in the myddest, they sape vnto him: After this woman was taken in aduouty, cut as the dede was a dopyng * Moses in the law comma ded vs, that such shoulde be stoned. But what sayest thou? This they saide to tempt hym that they might accuse him. But Iesus stooped doun and with his synger wrote on the ground. So when they continued at hyng hym, he liue selfe vp, and sayd vnto them: let hym that is a monge you without synne, cast the fyrst stone at her. And agayne he stooped doun, and wrote on the grounde. And as soon as they heard this they went out one by one, begynnynge at the el dest. And Iesus was left alone, and the womā standynge in the myddes. When Iesus had lyft vp hym selfe, and sawe no man, but the womā he sayd vnto her: woman wher are those thine accusers? hathe no man condemned the? She saide: No man, Lord. And Iesus sayed. Neither do I condemne the. So and * sinne nomore my recorde is true: for I knowe whence I came and whither I go. But ye cannot tel whence I came, and whither I go. Ye iudge after the flesh I iudge no man. And if I iudge, my iudgement

I am one that beareth wytnesse of my selfe, and the father that sent me, beareth wytnesse of me. Then sayed thei vnto hym: where is thy father? Iesus answered: ye neither knowe me: nor yet my father. Then sayed Iesus agayne vnto them: I go my way, and ye shall seeke me, and shall ope in poure synnes. Whether I goe, whether can ye not come. Then sayed the Jewes: wyl he kyll hym selfe: because he sayth: whether I go, whether can ye not come? And he sayed vnto them: ye are from beneath, I am from above. Ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde. I sayed therfore vnto you, that ye shall dye in poure synnes. For: if ye beleue not that I am he, ye shall dye in poure synnes.

Math. xii. 10. and. xii. 10.

Then sayed thei vnto hym: What arte thou? And Iesus sayth vnto them: cul the very same thing that I speak vnto you. I haue many thinges to say, and to iudge of you. Per, and he that let me is true. And I speake in the world of these thinges whych I haue heard of hym. Howbeit thei vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then sayed Iesus vnto them: when ye haue lift vp an hyl the sonne of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of my selfe, but as my father hathe taught me, euen so I speake these thinges: as he sent me, is with me. John. vi. 45. and. xii. 10.

John. vi. 45. and. xii. 10.

Iesus answered them: Alceley, verely, I say vnto you, that whosoener comyngeth synne is the seruaunte of synne. And the seruaunte abydeti not in the house for euer: But the sonne abydeti euer. If the sonne therfore shall make you free, then ore ye free in dede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seede: but ye seke meanes to kyll me, because my word hath no place in you. I speak that which I haue sene with my father, and ye do, that which ye haue sene with your father. They answered and sayd vnto him: Abraham is our father. Iesus sayth vnto them: If ye were Abrahams chyldren, ye would do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kyll me a man that hath tolde you the truth, whych I haue heard of God: thys byd not Abraham: Ye do the dedes of your father. Then sayed thei vnto hym: We were not bozne of fornication. We haue one father euen God. Iesus sayd vnto thei: If God were your father, truly ye woulde lone me. For I proceeded forth, and came from God. Neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me. Why do ye not know my speech? Euen because ye cannot abyde the hearing of my wordes.

cannot abyde the hearing of my wordes.

Ye are of your father the deuyl, and the lustes of your fathers wyl ye serue: he was a murderer from the begynnyng, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truthe in hym. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his owne: For he is a lyer, and the father of the same thyng. And because I tell you the truth, therfore ye beleue me not. Whych of you rebuketh me of synne? If I do save the truth, why do ye not beleue me? he that is of God, beareth Goddes wordes. Ye therfore hear them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes, and sayed vnto hym: Wape we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and hast the deuyl? Iesus answered: I haue not the deuyl: but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonoured me. I seke not myne owne praise, there is one that sekerh iudgerth Alceley, verely, I saye vnto you: if a man kepe my sayng: he shall neuer se death. Then sayed the Jewes vnto him: Now know we that thou hast the deuyl: Abraham is deade, and the prophetes, and thou sayest: if a man kepe my sayng, he shall neuer tast of death. Art thou greater then oure father Abraham, whiche is dedde, and the prophetes are dedde: Whome makest thou thy selfe? Iesus answered: If I honour my selfe, myne honour is nothing. It is my father, that honoureth me, whych ye say, is your God, and yet ye haue not knowne hym: but I knowe hym. And if I saye: I knowe hym not, I shalbe a lyer lyke vnto you. Chap. ix. Chapter.

As Iesus passed by, he sawe a man which was blind from his birth. And his discyples asked hym, sayng: Master, who byd synne, this ma, or his father and mother, that he was bozne blind? Iesus answered: Neither hath thys man sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the wylkes of God shoulde be shewed in hym. I muste worke the wylkes of hym that sent me, whyle it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worke. As long as I am in the worlde, I am the lyght of the worlde.

John. ix. 1. and. xii. 10.

Asone as he had thus spoken, he spat on the grounde, and made clape of the spittle, and rubbed the clape on the eyes of the blind, and sayd vnto hym: Go, washe the in the pool of Siloe, which (by interpretacion) is as much to say, as sent. He wente his way therfore, and washed, and came again, sayng. Sothe neighbours and thei that had sene him before (how that he was a begger

John. ix. 1. and. xii. 10.

Ca beggar (sayde: Is not this he that sat & begged? Some sayde: this is he. Agayne, other sayde: (John. 9.) he is like hym.

He hym selfe sayde: I am euen he. Therfore sayde they vnto hym: Howe are thyne eyes opened? He answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, & annoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the poole Siloe and washe. And when I went and washed, I receyued my syghte. Then sayde they vnto hym, where is he? he sayde, I can not tell.

They brought to s pharises, hym that a lytell before was blynde: and it was the Sabboth daye, when Iesus made claye, and opened his eyes. Then agayne the pharises also asked hym, howe he had receyued his syghte. He sayde vnto them, he put claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed and doo se. Therfore sayde some of the pharises: this man is not of God, because he keepeth not the Sabboth daye. Other sayde, * howe can a man this a synner do suche myracles? And there was a stryfe among the. They spake vnto the blynde man again. What sayest thou of hym whiche hath opened thyne eyes? he sayde: * he is a prophete.

But s Iesus dyd not beleue of the man (howe that he had ben blynde, and receyued his sighte) vntyl they called the father and mother of him that had receyued his syghte. And they asked them sayng: Is this your sonne whome you saye was bozne blynde? howe doth he now se them? his father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe that this is oure sonne, & that he was bozne blynde: but by what meanes he now seeth, we can not tell. O: who hath opened his eyes, & not we tel. he is olde ynough as he hym, les hym answer for hym selfe. Much wordes spake his father & mother, because they feared the Jewes. For s Iesus had conspyred alreadye, that if any man dyd confesse that he was Christ, * he shalbe excommunicat out of the Synagoge. Therfore sayde his father and mother: he is olde ynough, as he hym.

Then agayne called they the man that was blynd, and sayd vnto hym: Seue God s praye we knowe that this man is a synner. He answered therfore, and sayde: Whether he be a synner or no, I can not tell. One thinge I am surer of that where as I was blynde now I see. Then sayde they to hym agayne. What dyd he to thee? howe opened he thyne eyes? he answered them I tolde you verbyly, ye dyd not heare, wherefore wolde ye heare it agayne? wyl ye also bee his discyples? Then rase they hym, and sayde, Be thou his discyppe. We are Moses discyples. We are sure, that God spake vnto Moses. Is for this felow, we knowe not from whence he is.

The man answered, and sayde vnto them this is a maruelous thinge, that ye wot not fro whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes. For we be sure, that God heareth not synners. But if any man be a worshipper of God, and obedient vnto his wyl, him heareth he. Hence the word began, was it not hearde, that any man opened s eyes of one that was bozne blind

If this man were not of God, he coulde haue done nothyng. They answered, and sayd vnto hym: thou arte all together bozne in synne, and dost thou teach vs? And they cast hym out.

Iesus hearde that they had excommunicate hym: and when he had founde hym, he sayd vnto him: doest thou beleue on s sonne of God? he answered & sayde: who is it Lord that I might beleue on hym? And Iesus said vnto him. Thou hast seene hym, * and he it is that talketh with thee. And he sayde: Lord I beleue, and he worshiped hym. ¶ And Iesus sayde vnto hym: I am come vnto iudgemente into this worlde: s they whiche se not, myghte se, and they whiche se, myghte be made blynde. And some of s pharises whiche were with hym, heard these wordes and sayd vnto hym: are we blynde also? Iesus sayd vnto the: * If ye were blynde, ye shuld haue no synne. But now ye say: we se, therfore your synne remaineth.

The x Chapter.

¶ Christ is the true shepheard, and the doze of the shepe, he telleth the truth, and therefore the Jewes take up stones to cast at hym & call him blasphemous and god abusing to call hym.

¶ Every verely, I saie vnto you, he that entereth not in by the doze into s shepe folde, but clymeth vp some other way the same is a thefe and a murtherer.

But he that entereth in by the doze, is the shep-herde of the shepe, to hym the poztter openeth, & the shepe here his voyce, and * he calleth his owne shepe by name, and ledeeth them out. And when he hath sent forth his owne shepe, he goeth before them: and the shepe folowe hym: for they knowe his voyce. A strange: wyl they not folow, but wyl they fele him: for they knowe not s voyce of strangers. This prouerbe spake Iesus vnto the. But they vnderstode not what thinges they were: which he spake vnto them. Then sayde Iesus vnto them agayne: Verely, I saie vnto you: * I am the doze of the shepe. ¶ (euen as many as come before me) are theues and murtherers: but the shepe dyd not heare them. I am the doze: by me if any manne enter in, he shalbe safe, and shall go in and out, and fynde pasture. ¶ These cometh not but for to steale, kyll, and to destroye. I am come that they myghte haue lyfe, & that they myghte haue it more abundantly.

¶ I am * the good shepheard. A good shepe heareth his voyce for the shepe. In hyed seruauunt and he which is not the shepheard, neyther the shepe are his owne / seeth he the wolfe comynge, and leaueth the shepe, and flyeth, and the wolfe catched and scattereth the shepe. The hyed seruauunt flyeth, because he is an hyed seruauunt, and careth not for the shepe. I am the good shepheard, and * knowe my shepe, and am knowne of myne. ¶ As my father knoweth me, euen so knowe I also my father. And * I geue my lyfe for the shepe: and other shepe I haue whiche are not of this folde. Them also muste I byng, and they shall heare my voyce, & there shalbe one folde and one shepheard. ¶

¶ When Iesus therfore sawe her sorpe (¶ Iewes also wepyng whiche came with her) he groined in the spyte, and was troubled in hym selfe, & sayde where haue ye laide hym? They saide vnto to hym, Lord come & se. And Iesus wept. The sayd I Iewes: beholde howe he loued hym. And some of them sayde: colde not he which opened the eyes of the bynd haue made also, that this ma shoulde not haue dyed? Iesus therfore again groined in hym selfe, and came to the graue. It was a caue, and a stone layde on it.

Iesus sayde take ye awayne the stone. Martha the syster of hym that was dead, sayd vnto hym: Lord by this tyme he shal be steeled. For he hath bene deade foure dayes. Iesus sayde vnto her: sayde I not vnto the, that if thou bydest beleue, thou shouldest se the glory of God? Then they toke away the stone from the place where he that had ben dead, was layde. And Iesus lift up his eyes, and sayde. Father, I thanke the, that thou hearest me alwayes, but because of the people whiche stande by: I said it, that they may beleue, that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a loude voyce: Lazarus come forth. ¶ And he was dead came forth, bound handes & fote with grauel clothys, and his face was bounde with a naphyn. Iesus sayde vnto them, lose hym & let hym go. Then many of the Iewes whiche came to Mary (and had sene the thynges whiche Jesus dyd) beleued on hym. ¶ But some of the went they waies to the Pharisees, & tolde the what Iesus had done.

¶ Then gathered the hyerpriestes and the pharises a counsell, and sayde: ¶ What do we?
For this man doeth many miracles. ¶ If we let hym scape thus, all men wyll beleue on hym, & the Remayne shal come, and take away both oure royaume and the people. And one of them named Cayphas being the hyerpriest that same yere sayde vnto them: ¶ Perceyue nothyng at all, nor consyder, that it is expediente for vs, that one manne dye for the people, and not that all the people perishe. This spake he not of hym selfe, but beynge hye p[re]sente that same yere, he prophecyed that Iesus shuld dye for the people and not for the people onely, but that he shoulde gather together in one, the chyldren of God: ¶ ¶ were scattered abrode. ¶ Then from ¶ day forth they toke councill together for to put him to deeth.

Iesus therfore walked nomore openly among the Iewes: but wente bys waye thence vnto a countrey nye to a wilderness, into a cytie which is called Ephraim, and there continued with his discyples. ¶ And the Iewes Easter was nie at hand, and many went out of the countrey vnto Jerusalem before the Easter to purishe themselues. Then soughte they for Iesus and spake amonge them selues as they stode in the temple: ¶ What & thynke ye, scynge he cometh not to the feast daye? The hyerpriestes and Pharises had geuen a commaundemente, that if any man knewe where he wer, he shoulde shewe it, that they myght take hym. ¶ ¶ Then Iesus (syx dayes before Easter) came to bethany, where Lazarus had bene dead, who he ray-sed fro deathe. There they made hym a supper, & Martha serued but Lazarus was one of them ¶ late at ¶ table with hym. ¶ Then toke Mary a pounde of opyntment (called Nardus, perfecte & precyous) and anoynted Iesus fete, and wiped his fete with her heare, and the house was fylled with the odoure of the opyntment. ¶ Then sayde one of hys discyples (euen Judas Iscary-oth Symons sonne, whiche afterwarde betrayed hym) why was not this ointment sold for thre hundred pence, and geuen to the poore? This he sayde, not that he cared for ¶ poore, but because he was a thefe and ¶ had the bagge, & bare that whiche was geuen. Then sayde Iesus: let her alone, agaynst the daye of my buryng darthe she hethen this. For the poore alwayes shal haue with you, but me haue ye not alwaye.

¶ Moche people of ¶ Iewes therfore had know-lage that he was there. And they came not for Iesus sake only, but ¶ they myght se Lazarus also ¶ whom he raysted fro deathe. But the hye priestes helde a counsaile, that they myght put Lazarus to deathe also, because ¶ for hys sake many of the Iewes went away and beleued on Iesus. ¶

¶ On the nexte daye muche people that wer come to the feast, when they hearde that Iesus shulde come to Jerusalem, tooke b[ra]unches of palm trees, and went forth to mete hym, and cryed hosanna, ¶ blessed is he that in the name of the Lord, cometh kyng of Israel. And Jesus got a ponge asse, & sat thereon: as it is wyrt-ten: ¶ feare not daughter of syon, beholde thy kyng cometh sytting on an asse coltre. These thynges vnderstoode not hys discyples at the ¶ tyme: but when Iesus was glorified, then re-membred they that such thynges were wyrtten of hym, and that suche thynges they had done vnto hym. The people ¶ was with hym (when he called Lazarus out of hys graue, and raysted hym fro deathe) bare recorde. Therfore met him the people also, because they hearde that he had done such a miracle. The pharises therfore said amonge them selues: perceyue ye, how we pre-uayle not hyng beholde ¶ (¶ at ¶ shon) woide go eth after hym.

¶ There were certayne grched amonge them that came to woishyppe at the feast: the same cam therfore to whilyp (whiche was of Bethsaida a cyte of Galile) and desired hym sayng: ¶ we wolde sayne se Iesus. Whilyppe came and tolde Andiewe. And agayn Andiewe and whilyp tolde Iesus. And Iesus answered them sayng: ¶ the houre is come, ¶ the sonne of man ple answered hym: We haue hearde oure of the lawe that Christ bydeth for euer: and how say est thou that sonne of manne muste be lyfte vp?

Who is that sonne of man? Then Jesus sayde vnto them: yet a lytle while is the lyght wyth you. * Walke while you haue lyghte, lest the darknesse come on you. He that walketh also in the darke, woteth not whither he goeth. While ye haue lyghte, beleue on the lyghte that ye may be the chyldren of the lyghte. *

pare a place for you, I wyl come agayne, and receyue you, euen vnto my selfe: * where I am there maye ye be also. And whither I goo, ye Thomas sayth vnto hym: Lord, we know not whither þe goest. And howe is it possible for vs to knowe the way? Jesus sayeth vnto hym: I am the waye and the truth, and þe lyfe þe man cometh vnto the father but by me.

If ye had knowe me, ye had knowe my father also. And nowe ye knowe hym & haue seene him.

Philipp sayth vnto hym: Lord, howe vs þe fa-not beare frute of it selfe, excepte it hyde in the vyn: none of you can ye, excepte ye abyde in me. I am the vyn, ye are the brynches. He that aby-deth in me, and I in hym, the same hyngers fozch much frute. For without me can ye do na-thing. If a man abyde not in me, he is caste forth as a brynche and is wytheered: and my gatherers: and caste the into the fyre, and they burne as the what ye wyll, & it shalbe done for you. I here in is my father glorified: for ye beate much frute and become my disciples.

As the father hath loued me, euen so haue I also loued you. Continue ye in my loue. If ye kepe my commaundementes, ye shall abyde in my loue, euen as I haue kepte my fathers commaundementes, and hyde in his loue. These thynges haue I spoken vnto you, that my ioye in you remaine in you, and that your ioye in me be full.

 This is my commaundement, that ye loue togeder, as I haue loued you. Greater loue hath no man, then this: that a man besto-weth his lyfe for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, if ye do whatsoeuer I commaunde you. Henceforth call I you not seruautes: for the seruaunt knoweth not what his lord doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for al thinges that I haue heard of my father, haue I opened to you.

Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeyned you, to goo, and bring forth frute, and that your frute shoulde remaine, that whatsoeuer ye aske of the father in my name he maye geue it you. I.

 Thus commaunde I you, that ye loue togeder. If the worlde hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the worlde, the worlde wold loue his owne. Howbeit, because ye are not of the worlde, but I haue chosen you out of the worlde: therefore the worlde hateth you. Remember the worlde that I saide vnto you: for seruaunt is not greater then lord.
* If they haue persecuted me they wyll also persecute you. If they haue kepte my sayng: they wyll kepe yours also.

 But all these thynges wyll they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not known hym that sent me. If I had not come and spoken vnto them, they shoulde haue had no synne: but now haue they nothyng to cloke they: synne without. He that hateth me, hateth my father also: If I had not done among them the woorkes which none other man did, they shoulde haue had no synne. But now haue they bothe sene and hated: not only me but also my father.
But thus happeneth that the sayng in me be fulfilled that is written in theyr lawe: * they hated me without a cause. I.

 But when the comforter is come: whome I wyll sende vnto you from the father: euen the spere of truth, which procedeth of the father he shall testifie of me. And ye shal beare witness also, because ye haue bene with me from the begynnyng.

The xvi. Chapter.

¶ Comforter you shal receiue. Whom the father shall sende in my name.

These thynges haue I sayde vnto you because ye shoulde not be offended. ¶ ¶ They shall excommunicate you: for synne shall come, that whosoever kyleth you, wyll thynke he doeth God seruice. * And suche thynges wyll they do vnto you, because they haue not known the father, neither yet me. But these thynges haue I told you, that when the synne is come, ye maye remembere them that I tolde you. ¶ These thynges sayde I not vnto you at the begynnyng, because I was present with you.

¶ But now I go my way to hym that sent me, and none of you asketh me whether I go.
But because I haue sayde suche thynges vnto you, your hertes are full of sorrow. Howbeit I tell you the truth, it is expediente for you, if I go away. For if I go not away that comforter wyll not come vnto you. But if I departe, * I wyll sende hym vnto you. And when he is come, he wyll rebuke synne, and of righteousnes, and of iudgement. Of synne, because they beleue not on me. Of righteousnes: because I go to my father, and ye shall se me no more. Of iudgement, because * the prince of this worlde is iudged already.

I haue yet many thynges to saye vnto you but ye cannot beare them away now. Howbeit when he is come (which is the spere of truth) he wyll leade you into all truth. He shall not speake of him self: but whatsoeuer he shal beare that shal he speake, and he wyll shewe you thin-ges to come. He shal glorifye me, for he shall receyue of myne, and shall shewe vnto you. * All thynges that the father hath are myne. Therefore sayde I vnto you, that he shal take of myne and shewe vnto you. I.

 After a while ye shall not se me, and a- gayne after a while ye shall se me: for I go to the father. The sayd some of his disciples betwene themselves: what is this that he sayth vnto vs after a while ye shall not se me, and agayne after a while ye shall se me: and that I goo to the father? They sayde therefore: what is this that he sayth: after a while we can not tell what he sayeth. Jesus perceyued that they wolde aske hym, and sayde vnto them. ¶ Perceyue of this betwene your selues, because I sayde after a while ye shall not se me, & agayne after a while ye shall se me. Verily verily, I say vnto you: ye shall wepe and lament, but contrary wyse, the worlde shall reioyce. Ye shall sorrowe, but your sorrowe shalbe turned to ioye.

A woman when she travaileth, hath so-rowe, because her houre is come: but as soon as she is deliuered of the chyld, she remembereth no more the angurthe for ioye: for a man is borne into the worlde. And ye now therefore haue sorrowe but I wyll se you agayne and your hartes shal reioyce, and your ioye shall no man take from you.

I you. And in that day shall ye aske me no question. ¶ Verily, verily, I say unto you: what soever ye shall aske the father in my name, he will geue it you. ¶ hitherto haue ye asked nothing in my name. ¶ Alas, ye shall receiue: that your lope may be full.

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme will come, when I shall no more speake vnto you by prouerbes: but I shall shewe you playnly from my father. At that daye shall ye aske in my name. And I saie not vnto you that I will speake vnto my father for you. For the father himselfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, that I came out from God. I went out from the father, and came into the world. Again, I leaue the world and go to the father.

¶ His disciples sayde vnto hym: Lo, now we talkest thou playnly, and speakest no prouerbe. ¶ Now are we sure, that thou knowest all thynges, and needest not that any man shoulde aske thee any question. ¶ Therfore beleue we, that thou canst tell us of God. ¶ Jesus answered them: Now ye do beleue. ¶ Beholde the houre is come, when I shall be scattered euerie man to his owne, and shall leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For the father is with me.

These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye myght haue peace. For in this world shall ye haue tribulation: but be of good cheere, I haue overcome the world.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The moste happy and longynge prayer of Christ vnto his father, for all such as receiue the truth.

I these wordes spake Jesus and lyft vp his eyes to heauen, and sayde: father ¶ the houre is come: glorifye thy sonne: that thy sonne also may glorifye the, as thou hast geuen hym power ouer all flesh, that he shoulde geue eternal life to as many as thou hast geuen hym. ¶ This is the only true God and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent.

I haue glorified the on the earth. ¶ I haue synnered the world, which thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye thou me (o father) with thine owne selfe, with the gloire, which I had with the, yet this world was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men, which thou gauest me out of the world. ¶ Thine they were and thou gauest them me, and they haue kepte thy word. ¶ Nowe they haue knowne that all thynges whatsoever thou hast geuen me, are of the. ¶ For I haue geuen vnto them the wordes which thou gauest me, and they haue receyued them, and haue knowne surely, that I came out from the: and they haue beleued, that thou dydest sende me.

I pray for them, I pray not for the world: but for them which thou hast geuen me, for they are thine. And all myne are thine, and thine, are myne, and I am glorified in them. And nowe am I not in the world, and they are in this world and I come to the.

¶ Holy father, kepe thozow the thine owne name, the which thou hast geuen me, that they also may be one, as we are. ¶ Whyle I was with them in the world I kepte them in thy name.

¶ Those that thou gauest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that losse chyld, that the scripture myght be fulfilled.

¶ Nowe come I to the, and these wordes speake I in the world, that they myghte haue me lope full in them. I haue geuen them thy word, and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, euen as I also am not of the world. I desire not that thou shouldest take them out of the world: but that thou kepe them from euill. They are not of the world: as I also am not of the world. ¶ Sanctifye them thozow thy truth. Thy word is the truth. ¶ As thou dydest sende me into the world, euen so haue I also sente them into the world, and for they shall sanctifye I my selfe that they also myghte be sanctified thozow the truth.

¶ Father, I will that they which thou hast geuen me be with me where I am, that they may see my gloire, which thou hast giue me. ¶ For thou loudest me before the makinge of this world. ¶ O righteous father, the world also hath not knowne the: but I haue knowne the: and these haue knowne: that thou hast sent me. ¶ And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and will declare it, that the loue wherewith thou hast loued me, may be in them, and I in them.

Christ is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth, shortly before he goeth to the crucifixion. These wordes of his mouth are. Jesus is brought before Annas, Apphas and Pilate.

When Jesus had spokt these wordes he went forth with his disciples ouer the brooke of Cedron, where was a garden, into the whiche he entred with his disciples. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, knewe the place: for Jesus often tymes resorted thither with his disciples. Judas then after he had receyued a bande of men: (and minystrers of the hie priestes & Pharises) came thither with lanternes, & fyrebrandes & weapons. And Jesus knowing all thynges that shuld come on hym, went forth, and saide vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hym: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus sayd vnto them. I am he. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, stode with them. ¶ None then as he had sayd vnto them I am he, they went backward & fell to the grounde. Then asked he them agayne: Whome seke ye? me therefore, let these go they say. That I say. ^{John. 8. 12} pnyng myghte bee fulfilled whiche he spake: of the which thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

Then Symon Peter hauyng a sword, drew it, and smote the hye priestes seruaunt, and cut of his ryghte eare. The seruaunt's name was Malchus. ^{John. 18. 10} Therefore sayeth Jesus vnto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath, that I not drynke of the cuppe, whiche my father hath geuen me: Then the companye and the captayne, and minystrers of the Jewes toke Jesus, & bound hym, and led hym awaye to Anna synke. for he was sather in lawe vnto Cayphas, which was the hye priest that same yere. Cayphas was he which gaue counsell to the Jewes: that it was expedient, that one man shoulde dye for the people.

And Symon Peter folowed Jesus, & so byd another discipyle: that discipyle was knowen vnto the hye priest: and went in with Jesus into the palace of the hye priest. But Peter stode at the doore withoute. Then went oute that other discipyle (which was knowen vnto the hye priest) and spake to the damsell that kept the doore, and brought in Peter. The sayde the damsell that kepte the doore, vnto Peter. Art not thou also one of this mans discypples? he sayde. I am not. The seruaunt & minystrers stode there, which had made a fyre of cooles: for it was cold & they warmed them selues. Peter also stode among them, and warmed hym.

The hye priest then asked Jesus of his discypples & of his doctryne. Jesus answered hym, I spake openly in the world. I neuer taught in the synagoge, and in the temple whither all the Jewes resorte, and in secrete haue I sayde no thyng. Why askest thou me? Aske them which herd me, what I haue sayde vnto the. Beholde they can tel what I sayd. ^{John. 18. 20} Wher he had thus spoken, one of the minystrers which stode by, smote Jesus on the face, sayyng: and werest thou the hye priest's so? Jesus answered hym: If I haue euill spoken, beare witness of the euill. But if I haue wel spoken, why smytest thou me? And Anna sent hym bounde vnto Cayphas the hye priest.

Symon Peter stode, and warmed him selfe. Then sayde they vnto hym: arte not also one of his discypples? he denyed it, and sayd: I am not. One of the seruautes of the hye priestes (his colyn whose eare Peter smot of) sayd vnto him: byd not I se the in the garden with hym? Peter therefore denyed agayne: and immediatly the cocke crewe. Then led they Jesus from Cayphas into the hall of Iudgement. It was in the morning, and they theim selues went not into the iudgement hall, lest they shuld be defiled, but that they myghte eate Pasceouer. Pylate then wente oute vnto them & sayde: what accusacion bynyng ye agaynst this man? They answered and sayde vnto him: If he were not an euill doer we wold not haue deliuered him vnto the.

Then sayde Pylate vnto the: take ye him, & I iudge hym after your owne lawe. The Jewes therefore sayde vnto hym: It is not lawfull for vs to put any man to death. That I wordes of Jesus myghte be fulfilled: which he spake, sayyng, what death he shoulde dye.

Then Pylate heard & sayyng, he broughte Jesus forth, and sat downe to geue sentence in the place whiche is called the paument, but in the hye nysyng, what death he shoulde dye.

Then Pylate entred into the iudgement hall agayn, & called Jesus, & sayde vnto hi: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Jesus answered: sayst thou that of thy selfe, or byd other tel it of me? Pylate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne owne nacion and hye priestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What hast thou done? Jesus answered my kyngdome is not of this world. If my kyngdome were of this world: then woulde my minystrers surely sayde, that I shoulde not be deliuered to the Jewes, but now is my kyngdome not from here. Pylate therefore sayde vnto hym: Rete thou a kynge then? Jesus answered: thou sayest that I am a kynge: for this cause was I bozne, and for this cause came I into the world, & I shoulde beare witness vnto the truth. And all that are of the truth beare my voyce. Pylate sayde vnto hym: what thyng is truth? And when he had sayde this, he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, and sayeth vnto them: I fynde in hym no cause at all. Ye haue a custome, that I shoulde deliuer you one loote at Easter, wyl ye that I loote vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they all agayne, sayyng: Not hym but Barrabas: the same Barrabas was a murderere.

The xix. Chapter.

hen Pylate toke Jesus therefore, & scourged hym. And the souldiers wounde a crowne of thornes, and putte it on his heade. And they byd on hym a purple garment, & sayde: hyle kyng of the Jewes, & they smote hym on the face. Pylate went forth agayne: and sayde vnto them, beholde, I bynyng hym for the to you, that ye maye knowe, that I fynde no faulte in hym. Then came Jesus forth wearing a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And he sayeth vnto them: beholde the man.

When the hye priestes therefore and minystrers saw hym, they cryed sayyng crucify him, crucify hym. Pylate sayeth vnto the: Take ye him, & crucifye hym, for I fynde no cause in him. The Jewes answered hym: We haue a lawe by our lawe he ought to dye, because he made himselfe the sonne of God. When Pylate herd that sayyng, he was the more afrayde, and went again into the iudgement hall, and sayeth vnto Jesus whence arte thou? But Jesus gaue hym none answer. Then sayde Pylate vnto hym: speakest thou not vnto me? knowest thou not, that I haue power to crucifye the, and haue power to loofe the? Jesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynst me, except it wer geuen the fro above. Therefore, he that deliuered me vnto the, hath more synne. And fro thence forth sought Pylate meanes to loofe hym, but the Jewes cryed sayyng: If thou let hym go, thou art not Celsars frend. For: whosoever maketh hym selfe a kyng, is agaynst Celsar.

When Pylate heard & sayyng, he broughte Jesus forth, and sat downe to geue sentence in the place whiche is called the paument, but in the hye hine tongue, Sabbath. It was the preparyng daye of the Easter, about the fyrte hour. And he sayeth vnto þe Jewes: behold your hyng. They cryed, a waye wyth hym, a waye wyth, crucifye hym. Dylate sayeth vnto them: Shall I crucifye your hyng? The hye priestes answered: we haue no hyng but Ceaser. * Then deliuered he hym vnto them, to be crucifyed. And they tooke Jesus, and led hym a waye. And he bare hys crosse, and went forth into a place, whiche is called the place of dead mens sculles. But in hebreue, Golgotha, where they crucifyed hym, and two other wyth hym, on eyther syde one, and Jesus in the myddes. And * Dylate wrote a tytle, and put it on the crosse. The wrytyng was: Jesus of Nazareth kyng of the Jewes. This tytle reade many of the Jewes. For the place where Jesus was crucifyed, was nye to the crite. And it was wrytten in hebreue, and Greke, and Latyn. The sayd the hye priestes of þe Jewes to Dylate: Wryte not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayd: I am kyng of the Jewes. Dylate answered: what I haue wrytten, that haue I wrytten.

Then the souldyers, * when they had crucifyed Jesus, toke his garmentes, and made foure partes, to euery souldyer a parte, & also his cote.
The cote was without seme, wrought vpo the rowe out. They said therfore among the ieiues: Let vs not dryde it, but cast lottes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture myght be fulfilled, sayng: * They haue departed my raymet among them, & for my cote dyd they cast lottes.
And the souldyers dyd suche thynges in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Jesus his mother and his mothers syster, Mary the wyfe of Cleo-phas and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus therfore sawe hys mother and the dyscypple standyng, * whome he loued, he sayeth vnto hys mother: woman, behold thy sonne. Then sayde he to the disciple: behold thy mother. And from that poure the dysciple toke her for his owne.

After these thynges, Jesus knowyng that all thynges were now performed, that * the scripture myght be fulfilled, he sayth: I thysye. So there stode a vessel by, full of vynerge. * Therfore they fylled a sponge with vynerge, & wrode it aboute wyth ploye, and put it to hys mouthe.
A sone as Jesus then receaued of the vynerge, he sayd: * It is fynished, and bowed hys heade, and gaue up the goost. The Jewes therfore, because it was the preparyng of the Sabbath that the bodys should not remayne vpon the crosse, on the Sabbath daye (for that Sabbath daye was an hye daye) besoughte Dylate, that they legges myght be broke, and that they myght be taken doun. Then came the souldyers, & brake the legges of the fyrste, and of the other whiche was crucifyed wyth hym. But when they came to Jesus, and sawe that he was dead alreadye, they brake not his legges: but one of þe souldyers with a speare thrust him into the syde, and forth with came there out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it bare recorde, and hys recorde is true. And he that sawe it bare recorde that ye myghte beleue. And these thynges were done, that the scripture shuld be fulfilled.

* Ye shal not breake a bone of hym. And agayn another scripture sayth: * they shal lye on hym whom they pearled. * After this, Ioseph of Aramathea (whych was a dysciple of Jesus but secretly for feare of the Jewes) besoughte Dylate that he myght take doun þe body of Jesus. And Dylate gaue hym lycence. * (he came therfore, & toke the body of Jesus.) And there came also Nicodemus (whych at þe begynnyng cam to Jesus by nyght) and brought of myrr and aloes myngled together, about an hundred pounde wayghte. Then tooke they the body of Jesus, and wounde it in lynnen clothes with the odours, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And in the place wher he was crucifyed, ther was a garden, and in the garden a newe sepulchre, wherin was neuer malayde. There layde they Jesus therfore, because of the preparyng of the Sabbath of the Jewes for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ¶

The xx. Chapter.

The resurrection of Christ, whiche appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all hys dysciples, to thys great comforte.

He * fyrste daye of the Sabbath, I cam Mary Magdalene early (whiche it was yet darke) vnto the sepulchre and sawe the stone taken a waye fro the graue. The she ranne, and came to Symon Peter, & to the other dyscypple * whiche Jesus loued, and sayeth vnto them: They haue taken away the Lorde out of the graue, and we can not tell where they haue layde hym. Peter therfore went forth, and that other dysciple, and came vnto the sepulchre. They ranne both together, and the other dysciple dyd ouertume Peter and came fyrst to the sepulchre. And whē he had stouped doun, he sawe the linnen clothes lyng yet wente he not in. * Then came Symon Peter folowyng hym, & wente into the sepulchre, & sawe the linnen clothes lye, & the naphen that was about hys head, not lyng wyth the linnen clothes but wrapped together in a place by it selfe. The wente in also that other dysciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw and beleued. For as yet they knewe not the * scripture, that he shuld ryse agayne from death. ¶ Then the dysciples went a waye agayne vnto theyr owne home.

* Mary stode without at the sepulchre wepyng. So as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into the sepulchre & seeth two angels clothed in white, sittynge the one at the heade, and the other at the fete, where they had layde the body of Jesus.
They saye vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou?
She sayeth vnto them: for they haue take awaye my Lord, and I wote not where they haue layd hym. When she had thus sayde, she turned her selfe backe, and sawe Jesus standyng, and knewe not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? Whom seekest thou?
She supposynge that he had bene a gardener, sayeth vnto hym: Myr, if thou haue bozne hym hence, tell me where thou hast layde hym, and I wyl let hym. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Mary. She turned her selfe, and sayd vnto hym: Rabbi, which is to saye: maister. Iesus sayd vnto her: Touch me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to my brethren, & say vnto the:

I ascende vnto my father and your father, & to my God, and your God. & Marye Magdalene came and tolde the disciples, & she had sene the Lord, and that he had spoken such thinges vnto her.

Luce. xxiii.

The same day at night whiche was the first day of the shabbathes, when the doores wer shut (where the disciples were assembled together for feare of the Iewes) came Iesus, and stode in the myddes, and sayeth vnto the: peace be vnto you. And whē he had so sayd, he shewed vnto the his handes, and his syde. Then were the disciples glad when they sawe the Lord.

Luce. xxiii.

Then sayd Iesus to them again: peace be vnto you. As my father sent me, euen so sende I you also. And when he had sayd those wordes, he blyssed them, and sayd vnto them: Receaue ye the holy goospe. Whosoever synners ye remyt they are remytted vnto them. And whosoever synners ye retayne, they are retayned.

But Thomas one of the twelue, which is called Didimus, was not with the when Iesus came. The other disciples therefore sayde vnto hym: we haue sene the Lord. But he sayd vnto the: except I se in his handes the print of a nayles, and put my finger into the print of a nayles, & thrust my hand into his syde, I wil not beleue. And after viii. dayes again his disciples wer within & Thomas with them. The came Iesus when the doores wer shut, and stode in the myddes, & sayd: peace be vnto you. And after he sayd he to Thomas: bryng thy finger hether, and se my handes and reach hether thy hand, and thrust it into my syde, & be not saythlike, but beleyung.

Luce. xxi.

Thomas answered & said vnto hym: my Lord, & my God. Iesus sayeth vnto hym: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, thou hast beleued, blessed are they that haue not sene, & yet haue beleued. And many other signes truly dyd Iesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not wyrtten in this booke. These are wyrtten that ye myght beleue, & Iesus is Christ the sonne of God, and that (in beleuyng) ye myght haue lyfe thowowe his name.

The xxi. Chapter.

The apperance to hye disciples again by the see of Tzertis, and commaundeth peters cownseyll to firste bye shepe.

Afterward dyd Iesus shewe hym selfe again, at the see of Tzertis. And on this wyse shewed he hym selfe. Ther wer together Symon Peter and Thomas (whiche is called Didimus) & Nathanael of Cana in Galile, and the sonnes of zebedei, and two other of his disciples. Symon Peter sayeth vnto the: I wyll go a faryng. They say vnto hym: like also wyll go with the. They went the next day, and entred into a shyp immediatly, and that nyght caught they nothyng. But when the morning was now come, Iesus stode on the shore: neuer theles his disciples knew not that it was Iesus. Iesus sayeth vnto them: chyldren, haue ye any meat? They answered him, no. And he sayeth vnto them: cast out the net on the ryght syde of the shyp, and ye shall fynd. They caste out therfore, and anon they wer not able to draue it for the multitude of fische.

Then sayd the disciple: whā Iesus loued vnto Peter: It is the Lord: When Symon Peter herd þis it was þe Lord, he gyrd his cote vnto hym (for he was naked) and sprang into the sea. The other disciples came by shyppe, for they wer not farr from lande, but as it wer two hundred cubytes, and they drew the net with fische. A litle then as they were come to lande, they sawe bothe coles, & fyre layde thereon, & bread. Iesus sayeth vnto the: bryng of the fische which ye haue now caught. Symon Peter wente vp and drew the net to the lande full of great fische, an hundred and lxx. And for all there wer so many, yet was not the net broken. Iesus sayeth vnto the: come, & dync. And none of the disciples durste aske hym: what art thou? For they knewe that it was the Lord. Iesus then came, and toke bread, & gaue them and fische likewise. This is now the third tyme that Iesus appeared to his disciples, after that he was risen again, fro death. So whē they had dynced, Iesus sayeth to Symon Peter: Simō Joanna, louest thou me more then these? he said vnto him: yee Lord, thou knowest, & I loue the. He sayeth vnto hym: fede my lābes. He sayeth to hym again the seconde tyme: Symon Joanna, louest thou me? he sayeth vnto him: Yee Lord, thou knowest that I loue the. He said vnto hym: fede my shepe. He sayd vnto hym the thrid tyme: Symon Joanna louest thou me? Peter was soory, because he sayd vnto hym the thrid tyme: louest thou me, & he sayd vnto hym: Lord, thou knowest al thinges, thou knowest that I loue the. Iesus sayeth vnto hym: fede my shepe.

There endeth the Gospell of S. Iohn.

The

The Actes of the Apostles.

The first Chapter. ✠

The ascension of Christ. Matthias is chosen in steade of Judas.

In the former treatise (deare Theophilus) we haue spoken of all that Iesus began to do and teache, vntill the daye in which he was taken vp, after that he sheweth the holy goste had geue commaundementes vnto the Apostles, to whom he had chosen, to whom also he shewed hym selfe alpyne after his passion (and that by many tokenes) appearyng vnto the fourtye dayes, & speaking of the kyngdom of God, and gathered them together, & commaunded them, that they shuld not departe from Ierusalem: but to waite for promes of the father: wherof (sayeth he) ye haue hearde of me. For Iohn trulye baptysed with water, but ye shalbe baptysed with the holye goste after these fewe dayes. When they therfore wer come together, they asked of hym, sayng: Lorde, wilt thou at this tyme, restore againe the kyngdom of Israel: And he sayd vnto the: It is not for you to knowe the tyme, or the seasons whiche the father hath put in hym owne power: but ye shal receaue power, after that the holye goste is come vpon you. And ye shalbe wytnes-ses vnto me, not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Jewrye and in Samary, and euen vnto the worlde's ende.

And when he had spoken these thynges, whyle they beheld, he was taken vp an hye & a cloude receaued hym vnto the sight. And whyle they looked stedfastlye vnto the heauen, as he went, beholde, two men stode by them in whyte apparell, which also sayd: ye me of Galile, why stande ye gasyng vnto heauen? This same Ie-sus, whiche is taken vp from you into heauen, shal so come, euen as ye haue seene hym go into heauen. Then returned they vnto Ierusalem from the mount (that is called Olivete) whych is from Ierusalem a Sabbath dayes iorneye.
And when they were come in, they went vnto a parler, wher abode both Peter and James, & Iohn and Andrey, Wherrypp and Thomas, Bar-tholomewe and Matthewe, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Symon zelotes, and Judas s-ther of James. These all continued wyth one accorde in prayer and supplicacyon wyth the women, and Marye the mother of Iesu, and wyth hys brethren.

✠ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the dyscyples, and sayde (the nombre of names that wer together, wer about an hundred and twentye.) Ye men and brethren, this scripture must nedes haue bene fulfilled, whych the holye goste, sheweth by the mouth of Dauid before of Judas, whiche was guyde to them that tooke Iesus. For he was nombred wyth vs, & had obtayned felshipp in this mynistration. And the same hath now possessed a plat of grounde wyth the rewarde of iniquyte: and when he was hanged, he burste asunder in the myddes, and al his bowels gushyd out. And it is known vnto all the inhabytors of Ierusalem, in so muche that the same felde is called in theyr mother tonge, Acheldama, that is to saye, the blou-dy felde. For it is wytted in the booke of plaimes: Wherofore of these men whiche haue companyed wyth vs (all the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had al his conuersaciō among vs, begyn-nyng at the baptyme of Iohn, vnto this same daye that he was take vp fro vs) must one be ordeyned, to be a wytnes wyth vs of his resurrection.

And they apoynted two, Joseph, which is called Barsabas (whose surname was Justus) and Matthias. And when they prayed, they said: thou Lorde which knowest the hartes of al me shew whether of these two thou hast chosen: & he may take the roume of this ministry and Apostole-shipp, from which Judas by transgression fell, & he myghte go to hym owne place. And they gaue forth their lottes, and the lot fell on Matthias, & he was counted wyth the eluen Apostles. ✠

The ii. Chapter. ✠

The coming of the holy goste. The sermon of Peter before the congregation at Ierusalem, and the increase of the sayrtyll.

When the fortye dayes wer come to an ende, they were all wyth one accorde together in one place. And so-denly there came a sound from heauen, as it had bene the coming of a myghty wynde, & it fylled all the house where they late, and there appeared vnto them clouen tongues, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it sate vpon eche one of them, & they were all fylled wyth the holye goste, and began to speake wyth other tongues, euen as the same spyrte gaue them vnteruaunce.

There were dwelling at Ierusalem, Jewes devoute men, oute of euerye nacyon of them that are vnder heauen. Whiche this was noyde about the multitude came together, & were astonnyed because that euery man hearde the speake wyth hys owne language. They were of al, and maruayled, sayng among them selues: beholde, are not all these whiche speake of Galile? And howe heare we euery man hym owne tongue wherem we were borne? Parthians, and Medes, & Ela-mites, and the inhabytors of Mesopotamia and of Jewrye, and of Capadocia, of Pontus and Asia, Bithynia, and Pamphilia, of Egypte and of the partes of Lybia, whiche is besyde Syzen and straungers of Rome, Jewes and Prosely-tes, Grekes and Arabians: we haue hard them speake in our owne tongues the grate workes of God. They were al amazed, and wondred sayng one to another: what meaneth this?
Other mocked, sayng: these menne are full of newe wyne.

At ii But

The Actes

C But Peter stepped forth with the eleven, and lift up his voyce, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Jewry, and all ye that dwell at Ierusalem, he thys knowen vnto you, and with your eares heare my wordes. For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, saying it is but the thirde houre of the daye. But thys is that whiche was spoken by the prophet Joel: And it shalbe in the last dayes, sayth God, of my spirite I wyl powre out vpon all fleshe. And your sonnes & your daughters shal prophesye, and your younge men shal see visions, and your old men shal dreame dreames. And on my seruantes, & on my handmaydens I wyl powre out of my spirite in those dayes, & they shal all prophesye. And I wyl shew wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the earthe beneath, bloude & fyre, and the vapoure of smoke. The sunne shalbe turned into darhenes, and the moone into bloude before that great and notable daye of the Lorde come. And it shal come to passe that whosoeuer shall call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saued. R

D Ye men of Israel, heare these wordes: Iesus of Nazareth a man approued of God among you with myracles, wonders and signes, whiche God dyd by hym in y^e myddes of you (as ye your selues knowe) him haue ye taken by the handes of vnyrgeddeous personnes, after he was deliuered by the determinate couerl and for knowledge of God and haue crucified & slayne hym: whom God hath raised vp, and loosed the sorowes of death, because it was impossible that he should be holde of it. For Dauid speaketh of hym. * I forsoke hand & I sawe God alwayes before my face, for he is on my ryght hande, that I should not be mooued. Therfore dyd my herte reioyce, & my tongue was glad. Moreover also my fleshe shall rest in hope, because thou wilt not leaue my soule in hel neyther wilt thou suffer thyne holy to se corruption. Thou hast shewed me the wayes of lyfe, thou shalt make me full of ioye with thy countenance. R

E Ye men and brethren, let me feele speake vnto you of the patriarche Dauid: * For he is both dead and buryed, and his sepulchre remayneth vnto this day. Therfore saying he was a prophete, and knewe that God had sware with an oth to hym, that Christ (ascendynge the heu) should come of the frutes of his loynes, and should sit on his seat, he knowynge this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ: that his soule should not be left in hell: neyther his flesh should se corruption. Thys Iesus hath God raised vp, & wherof we all are wytnesses.

F Since now that he by the ryght hande of God is exalted, and hath receaued of the father y^e promyse of the holy goste, he hath shed forth this (as it were) which ye now se and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauen, but he sayth: * The Lorde sayd to my Lorde: sit thou on my ryght hande, vntill I make thy foes thy foote stooles. So therfore let all the house of Israel knowe for a suretie, that God hath made that same Iesus (whom ye haue crucified) Lorde and Christ.

When they herde thys, they were pricked in thei^r hartes, and sayd vnto Peter and vnto the other Apostles: Ye men & brethren, what shall we do? Peter sayd vnto the: repent of your synnes, and be baptysed euery one of you in y^e name of Iesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, and ye shall receaue the gyfte of the holpe goste. For the promyse was made vnto you and to your chyliden, and to all that are afarre of, eue as many as the Lorde our God shall call. And with many other wordes bare he wytnes and exhorted them saying: Haue your selues from this vntowarde generation. Then they that gladly receaued his preaching were baptysed: And the same daye there were added vnto them aboute the thousande soules.

And they continued in y^e Apostles doctrine & felowshipp, and in breaking of bread, and in pray-ers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders and signes were shewed by the Apostles (at Ierusalem. And greute feare came vpon all men.) And all that belted, kept them selues together and had all thynges common, and solde they^r possessyons and goodes, and parted them to all men, as euery man had neede. And they continued daily with one accord in the temple, & brake breade from house to house, and dyd eate they^r meate together with gladnes and synghenes of herte, praisynge God, and had fauoure with all the people. And the Lorde added to the congregacyon daily, suche as should be saued.

The. iii. Chapter. ✠

The holt is redyng to hy^s lete, Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

Peter and Iohn went vp together into the temple at the nyghte houre of prayer. And a certayn man that was halt from his mothers wombe, was brought, whome they layde daylye at the gate of the temple (whiche is called beutyfull) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter and Iohn that they would go into the temple, he desyred to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on hym with Iohn, and sayde: Loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustynge to receaue some thyng of them. Then sayde Peter: Siluer and golde haue I none, suche as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Iesus Christ of Nazareth * ryste vp, and walke. And he toke hym by the ryght hande, and lyfte hym vp. And immediatly his feete and ancle bones receaued strengthe. And he sprang, stode, and walked, and entred with them into the temple, walkynge, and leappynge, and praisynge God. R

And all the people sawe hym walke, & praysed God. And they knewe hym, that it was he which sat and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondered, and were sore aseyoned, at that whiche had happened vnto hym. And as the halte which was healed, helde Peter & Iohn all the people ranne amased vnto them in the porch that is called Salomons.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people: Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at ye at this, or why loke ye so on vs, as though by our owne power or strength we had made this man goe. The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, & of Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered, and denyed in the presence of Pilate, when he had iudged hym to be loosed. But ye denied & holy and iust, and deliued a murderer to be geuen you, and hylled the Lord of lyfe, whom God hath ray- sed from death: of the whiche we are wytnesses. And his name shalowe the sayth of his name hath made this man sounde, whome ye see, and knowe. And the sayth which is by hym hath ge- uen to hym this health in the presence of you all. And nowe brethren, I wote that thowow igno- raunce ye dyd it, as dyd also your rulers. But God (whiche before had shewed, by the mouth of all his prophetes) howe Christ should suffer such thus wyle fulfilled. Let it receyue you ther- fore, and conuert, that your synnes may be done away. When the tyme of refreshing cometh which we shal haue of the presence of the Lord, and when God shal send hym, which before was preached unto you, that is to sayt Iesus Christe whiche must receaue heauen, until the tyme that all thynges, whiche God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophetes, sence the world began, be refroied agayn.

Moses truly sayd unto the fathers: * a Pro- phete shall the Lord poure God rayle vp unto you, euen of your brethren, lyke unto me: hym shall ye heare, in all thynges whatsoeuer he shal saye unto you. For the tyme wyl come that euery soule which wyl not heare that same pro- phet, shal be destroyed from amonge the people. All the prophetes also from Samuel and hence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in like wise tolde of these dayes.

Ye are the chyldren of the prophetes, and of the couenaunt, whiche God made unto our fa- thers, sayng to Abraham: * Euen in thy seide shal all the kynredes of earth be blessed. First wile God had rayled vp his sonne Iesus unto you, he sente hym to blesse you, that euery one of you should turne from his wyckednes. ¶

The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them into prayer, and are more obedient un- to God then unto men.

They spake unto the people, the prelates and the rulers of the tem- ple, and the Saducees came vpon them, takyng it greuouslye & they taught the people, and preached in Iesus the resurreccio fro death. And they layde handes on them and put them in holde, vntyl the next daye, for it was nowe eue- tyde. Howbeit many of them whiche heard the wordes, beleued, and the nombre of the me was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunced on the morowe, that they rulers and elders, and scribes, (and Annas the chiefe prelate and Cayphas, and Ihon, and Ale- xander, and as many as wer of the kynred of the hye priestes) gathered together at Ierusalem. And when they had set the before the, they asked: by what power, or in what name haue ye done this?

¶ Then Peter full of the holie gooste, sayde vnto them: ye rulers of the people and elders of Israel, yf we this daye be examyned of the good dede that we haue done to the synke ma by what meanes he is made whole: bee it knowen vnto you all, & to all the people of Israel, that by the name of * Iesus Christe of Nazareth, whom y- crucified, whome God rayled agayn from de- ath: euen by hym doeth this ma stande here pre- sent before you whole. * This is the stone whiche was caste asyde of you buylders, whiche is become the chiefe of the corner. Neither is there saluacion in any other. * For amonge men vnder heauen ther is geuen none other name, wher in we muste be saued. ¶

When they sawe the boldnesse of Peter and Ihon, and understode that they wer vnclearned and laye men, they marueyled, and they knewe them, that they had bene wth Iesu, and behol- dyng also the man (whiche was healed) stan- dyng wth them, they coule not saie agaynst it, but commaunded them to go asyde out of the counsell, and counceiled among them selues, say- yng: * What shall we do to these menner? For a manyfeste sygne is done by them, and is openly knowen to all them that dwel in Ierusalem, & we can not denye it. But that it bee noysed no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten and charge them, that they speake hence forth to no man in this name.

And they called them, and commaunded the that in no wise they should speake nor teache in the name of Iesu. But Peter and Ihon answe- red, and sayde vnto them: whether it be ryght in the syght of God, to hearken vnto you more then to God, iudge ye. For we can not but speake, that whiche we haue sene and heard. So they threatned they them, and let them go, and found nothyng how to punysh them, because of the people. For al me prayled God because of * that which was done: for the man was aboue fourty yere old, on whom this myracle of healyng was shewed.

¶ As soon as they wer let go, they came to they felows, and shewed all that the hye priestes and elders had said. And when they heard that, they lyst vp they voyces to God wth one accord, & sayd: Lord thou art God, which hast made hea- uen and earth, the sea, & al that in them is, which (in the holy goost) by the mouth of thy seruante David: (our father) haste sayde: * Whyp dyd the heathen rage, & the people pinagen vayne thyn- ges: The kyniges of the earth stode vp, and the rulers came together, agaynst the Lord and a- gaynst his anoynted.

¶ For of a truche, agaynst the holy chyld Je- sus, who thou hast anoynted) bothe Herode and Poncius Pilate, wth the Scentyles and & pro- ple of Israel, gathered them selues together, to do whatsoeuer thy hand and thy counsell determynd before to be done. And nowe Lord beholde they threatenynge, and graunt vnto thy seruantes, that wth all consydence they maye speake thy woide. So shalte thou stretche forth thyne hande, that healynge and sygnes and wonders be done by the name of thy holy chyld Iesus. And aslone as they had prayed, the place moued, where they wer assembled together, and they wer all fylled wth the holye gooste, and they spake the woide of God holdelpe.

¶ And the myltitude of them that belened, were of one heart, and of one soule: they thes sayd any of them, that ought of the thynges whyche be possessed was his owne: but they had al thynges common. And wth greute power gaue the Apostles wytnesse of furreccyph of the Lord Iesu. And great grace was wth them al. Neither was there any among the that lacked. For as many as wer possessers of landes, or houses, solde them, and brought the pryce of the thynges that wer sold and layde it doune at the Apostles fete. And distribucion was made vnto every man accordyng as he had neede. ¶ And Ioseph, whiche was also called of the Apostles, Barnabas (that is to say: the sonne of consolacion) being a Leuite, and of the countre of Cypers, when he had lande, solde it, and layde the pyce doune at the Apostles fete.

The assembling of Ananias, and Sapphira in prison. Miracles are done by the Apostles which are taken, but the Angell of God dryngeth them out of prison. They are brought before f counsel. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beaten, they stayle in trouble.

A Certain man, named Ananias wth Sapphira his wyfe, sold a possession, and kept a way parte of the pryce: his wyfe also beyn of counsell: brought a certayn parte, and layde it at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayde: Ananias, howe is it, that Nathan hath fylled thyne hart, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holy gooste and kepe a waye parte of the pryce of the lande? Wertayned it not vnto the onelye, after it was solde, was it not in thyne owne power? Why hast thou concealed this thyng in thyne herte? Thou hast not lpyd vnto menne, but vnto God. When Ananias herd these wordes, he fell doune and gaue vp the gooste. And great feare came on all them that herd these thynges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put hym aparte, & carryed hym out and buryed hym.

¶ And it fortunede, that (as it were) about the space of thre houres after: hys wyfe came in, ignorant of that whyche was done. And Peter sayd vnto her: Tell me, soldest thou not the lande for so muche? And she sayd: yee, for so muche. Then Peter sayde vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tempt the spyte of the Lord? Beholde, the fete of them which haue buryed thy husbnde are at the doore, and shall carry the oute. Then fell she downe praynght waye at hys fete, and yeldeb vp the gooste. And the yonge men came in and founde her dead, and carryed her out, and buryed her by her husbnde. And greute feare came on all the congregacyon, and on as many as heard it.

¶ By the handes of the Apostles: were many sygnes and wonders shewed amonge the people. And they were also together wth one accord in Salomons porche. And of other durste no man toyne hym selfe to them, neuertheless the people magnified the. The nombre of the that belened in the Lord both of menne and women grewe more and more: in so muche that they brought the synke into the stretes, and layde the on beddes and couches, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter, when he came by, myghte shadowe some of them, (and that they myght all be detoured from theyr infirmities.) There came also a myltitude out of the cyties rounde aboute vnto Ierusalem, bynyng synke folkes, and them whyche wer verely vnclane synners. And they were healed every one.

¶ Then the chefe priest rose vp, and all they that wer wth hym: whych is the secte of Sadduces) and were full of indignacyon, and layde handes on the Apostles, and put them in the comune pryson. ¶ But the angell of the Lord by nyght opened the pryson doores, and brought the forth, and sayd: go, and stande and speake in the temple to the people, al the wordes of this lyfe. When they herd that, they entered into the temple earlye in the moynyng, and taught. But the chefe priest came, and they that were wth hym and called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chyldren of Israel, and sent men to the pryson, to fet them. When the mynysters came, and founde them not in the pryson, they returned and tolde, sayng: the pryson truly founde we shutte wth all dylygence, and the keepers standynge wythout before the doores. But when we had opened, we founde no man wthyn. When the chefe prieste and the ruler of the temple, and the bye priestes herd these thynges, they doubted of the wherunto this would growe.

¶ Then came one and he wred them: behold, the men that ye put in pryson, stande in the temple, and teache the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, wth mynysters and brought the wth out by violence. For they feared the people, lest they shuld haue ben stoned. And when they had brought them, they set them before the counsell. And the chefe prieste asked them, sayng: byd not we straptely comaund you, that ye shuld not teache in this name? And behold, ye haue fylled Ierusalem wth your doctryne, and intend to bynyng this mans bloude vpon vs.

¶ Peter and the other Apostles answered, and sayd: We ought more to obey God then men. The God of oure fathers rayled vp Iesus, whome ye slewe, and hanged on tre. hym hath God lyfte up wth hys ryghte hande, to bee a ruler and a saynoure, for to geue repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of synnes. And we are recorde of these thynges, whych we saye, and so is also the holy gooste, whom God hath gnen to them that obey hym. When they heard that, they claues a sunder, and sought meanes to sleer them. Then stode there vp one in the counsell, a pharyse, named into Samariell, a doctour of lawe (had in reputacion among all the people) & commaunded the Apostles to go asyde a litle space, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Israel, take heede to your selues, what ye entend to do as touchynge these men. For before these dayes rose vp one Theodas, boastynge hym selfe, to whom resorted a number of men, about a foure hundred, whiche was slayn: & they all whiche beleued hym, were scattered abroade, and broughte to nought. After this man, was ther one Judas of Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drew away much people after hym: he also perished and al, euen (as many as barthened to hym) were scattered abroade.

 And now I say vnto you: restraune your selues from these men, and let them alone. For yf this counsell, or this worke be of men, it wyll come to nought. But and yf it bee of God, ye can not destroye it, lest haplye ye be founde to streue against God. And to hym agreed the other: and when they had called the Apostles, they beate them, & commaunded that they shoulde not speake in the name of Iesu, and let them go.

Act. xxi.

And they departed from the counsell, & reioyng that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for his name. And daylye in the temple and in euery house they ceased not, to teache and preache Iesus Christ.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

Expositors (or dragons) are ordered in the congregation, to be scrupulous in necessary shyness of the body, that the Apostles may wave only upon the words of God Secured is accursed.

At those daies (when the nombre of the dyscyples growe) there arose a grudge amonge the Scribes agaynst the Iewes, because they wydowed ther despydd in the dayly ministracion. Then the twelue called the multitude of the dyscyples together, & sayd: It is not mete that we should leaue the word of God and serue tables. Wherefoze chertise loke ye out among you seuen men, * of honest reposte, and full of the holy goost and wysedom, to whom we maye commyttre this busynesse. But we will geue oure selues continually to prayer, and to the ministracion of the worde. And the sayng pleased the whole multitude. And they chose Steruena a full full of fayth and full of the holie goost, and Phylip, and Prochorus, and Nicodemo, & Tymon and Parmenas, & * Nicolas a conuert of Antioche. These they set befoze the Apostles: and when they had prayed they layd their handes on the. And the word of God increased, and the nombre of the dyscyples multiplied in Ierusalem greatly, and a great company of p̄yestes were obedient to the sayth.

C And Miriam, full of faith and power, dyd

Then sent they in men, which sayde: we haue hearde hym speake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moyses, and agaynst God. And they moued the people and the elders and the Scribes: and came vpon hym and caught hym, and broughte hym to the counsell, and brought forth false witnesses, whiche sayde: This man teacheth not to speake blasphemous wordes agaynst this holy place and the lawe: for we herde hym saye: this Iesus of Nazareth shal destroye this place, and will chaunge the ordynances, whiche Moyses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell, looked stedfastly on hym, and sawe his face as it had bene the face of an angell.

The vii. Chapter.

Steven makes answer to his accusation, rebuketh the hardened Jews, and is stoned unto death.

Fhen sayd the chiefe preastre: is it euen so: And he sayd: ye men, brethren, and fathers, hearken: The God of glozpe appeared vnto our father Abraham whe he was in Mesopotamia, befoze he dwelt in Charran, and sayd vnto hym: * Get the out of thy countre, and from thy kynred, and come into the land whych I shal shewe the. The came he out of the lande of Chalde, and dwelt in Charran. And fro thence, when hys father was dead, he brought hym into thys lande, in whych ye now dwell, and he gaue hym none inheritaunce in it, no nor the bredth of a foote: * and promysed that he woulde geue it to hym to pos-seste, and to hys scede after hym, when as yet he had no chyldre.

God verely spake on thys wife * that his fede should sogourne in a straunge lande, and that they should hepe them in bandage, and * entreat them euell, iiii. C. yeaues. And the nacyon (to whome they shalbe in bondage) wyll I iudge, & sayd God. And after that Quill they come forth and serue me in thys place. * And he gaue hym couenaunte of cyscumcyson. * And he begat J-saac, and cyscumcyfed hym the eyght daye, and * Isaac begat Jacob, & * Jacob begat the twelue patryarkes. * And the patryarkes hauing in-dignacyon, soldre Ioseph into Egypte. And God was wyth hym, & deliuered hym oute of al hys aduersities, and gaue hym sauoure & wysedome in the syght of Pharaos kyng of Egypte. And he * made hym gouernoure ouer Egypte, and ouer all hys howsholde.

* But there came a berth ouer all the lande of Egypte and Canaan, and great assylpceyon that oure fathers founde no sustenance. But when Jacob herde that there was come in Egypte, he sent our fathers fyzt. * And at the seconde tyme Joseph was knowne of his bzerbren, & Josephs kynred was made knowne vnto Pharaos. The sente Joseph a message, and caused hys father to be brought, & all hys kynne. lxxv. soules. * And Jacob descended into Egypte, & dyed bothe he and oure fathers, and were caried ouer into Sichem and layde in the sepulchre: that Aba-ham bought for monye of the sonnes of Emor, the sonne of Sichem.

The Actes

C But when the tyme of ^{promesse} drew nepe Exod. ii. 2 (whych God had sowne to Abraham) the peo-Gal. iii. 2 ple grewe and multiplied in Egypt till another kinge arose whiche knewe not of Joseph. The same deale subtilly withour hymned, and cruel in treated our fathers, and made the cast out theys young chyldren, that they should not remain alive. The same tyme was Moses bozne, and Exod. ii. 2 was acceptable vnto God, and nourished vp in his fathers house thre monethes. When he was cast oute, Pharaos daughter took him vp and nourished hym vp for her owne sonne. And Moses was learned in al maner wysedom of the Egyptians, & was myghtie in dedes & in wordes.
And when he was full fourtie yere old, it came in his hert, to vylet his brethren the chyldren of Israel. And when he sawe one of them lustre wryng, he defended hym, and auised his quarel that had the harme done to hym, and smote the Egyptian. For he supposed his brethren would haue vnderstande, howe that God by his hande would deliuer them. But they vnderstode not.

D And the next daye he shewed hym selfe vnto them as they stroue, and would haue set them at one agayne, sayng: Why ye are brethren, why hurt ye one another? But he that dyd his neighbour wronge, thrust hym away, sayng: Who made the a ruler and a iudge ouer vs? wilt thou hyll me, as thou bydest the Egyptian yesterdaye? Then fled Moses at that sayng, & was a stranger in the lande of Madian, wher he begat two sonnes.

E And when fourty yeres were cryed, there appeared to hym in the wyldernes of mounte Sinai an angell of the Lorde in a flambe of fyre in a bushe. When Moses sawe it, he wondered at the syghte. And as he drew neare to behold, the voyce of the Lorde came vnto hym. I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, & the God of Jacob. Moses trebled, and durst not behold. Then sayd the Lorde to hym. Put of thy shoes from thy feet, for the place where thou standest, is holie grounde. I haue perfectly seue the affliction of my people, which is in Egypte, and I haue heard their gronyng, and am come doune to deliuer them. And nowe come, and I will sende the into Egypte.

E Thus Moses whome they forsoke (sayng: Exod. ii. 2 Who made the a ruler and a iudge) the same dyd God sende to be a ruler and a deliuerer by the handes of the angel whych appeared to hym in the bushe. And the same broughte them oute, drewyng wonders and sygnes in Egypte, & in the readen, and in the wyldernes fourtie yeres.
This is that Moses, whych sayd vnto the chyldren of Israel: A prophet shall the Lorde pour God rayse vp vnto you of your brethren, like vnto me, hym shall ye heare.

E Thus is he that was in the congregaciō in the wyldernes to the angel (whych spake to hym in the mount Sinai) and wroto our fathers. Thus man receaued the word of fyre to geue vnto vs, to whome our fathers would not obeye, but cast it from them, and in theys hartes turned backe agayne into Egypte, sayng vnto Aaron:

Make vs goddes to go before vs. For as for this Moses that broughte vs out of the lande of Egypte, we wote not what is become of hym.
And they made a calfe in those dayes, and offered sacrifice vnto the ymage, and reioyced ouer the workes of theys owne handes.

Then God turned hym selfe, and ^{gane} them vp, that they should worshyppe the booke of the lype, as it is wyrtten in the booke of the prophetes. O ye of the house of Israel, gaue ye to me sacrifices and meate offerings, by the space of fourty yeres in the wyldernes? And ye toke vnto you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of youre God Remphan, figures whiche ye made to worshyppe them. And I will translate you beyonde Babylon.

Our fathers had the tabernacle of wyrtlesse in the wyldernes, as he had appoynted them, speahyng vnto Moses: that he shuld make it acordyng to the fashion I had shewen. Whiche tabernacle also oure fathers that came after, brought in with Iosue into the possession of Gentils, whom God haue oute before the face of our fathers, vnto the tyme of Dauid: which found fauour before God, & would sayne haue found a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. But Salomon buylt hym an house.

Howbeit he that is best of all, dwelleth not in temples made with handes, as sayeth the prophet: Heauen is my seate, and earth is my foote stole. What house wilt thou buyld for me sayeth the Lorde? whych is the place of my rest: hath not my hande made all thynges?

Ye styllenech and of vncircumcised hartes and eares, ye haue alwayes resistid the holie goost: as your fathers dyd, to do ye. Whych of the prophetes haue not your fathers persecuted?
And they haue slayne the whiche shewed before of the commyng of that iust, whiche ye haue nowe betrayed, & myrtyred. And ye also haue recea-ued the lawe: by the mynystracyon of angells, and haue not kept it.

When they herde these thynges, they bet-tes claued asunder, & they gnashed on hym with theys tethe. But he bryng full of the holie goost looked vp stedfastlye with his eyes into heauen, and saw the glozy of God, and Iesus standyng on the ryght hande of God, and sayde: Beholde, I see the heauens open, and the sonne of man stan-dyng on the ryght hande of God. Then they gane a shoute with a loude voyce, and stopped theys eares, and ranne vpon hym al at once, and cast hym out of the cite, and stoned hym. And the wytnes layed doune theys clothes at a yonge mans feete, whose name was Saul. And they stoned Steuen, callyng on, and sayng: Lorde Jesu, receaue my spyrte. And he kneled doune, and cryed with a loude voyce: Lorde, laye not this synne to theys charge. And when he had thus spoken he fell asleepe.

The viii. Chapter.

And persecuted the children. The Apostles are free from all. Philip cometh into Samaria, & symon magus is baptised, he is called. Philip baptiseth the chamberlaine.

Saul

Saul¹ consented vnto his death. And at that tyme there was a greate persecution against the congregacion whiche was at Hierusalem and thei were all² scattered a bryde throughe out the regions of Iewy and Samaria, except the Apostles. But deuoute menne dyessed Sireuen and made greate lamentacion ouer him. As for Saul he³ made hanoche of the congregaciō and entered into euery house, and drew oute bothe menne and women and thruste them into prison. Therfore thei that were scattered abrode went euery where preaching f⁴ woode of God.

Then came Philip into a citee of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto theim. And f⁵ people gaue hede vnto those thynges whiche Philip spake with one accorde, hearing and seying the miracles whiche he did. For⁶ vncleane spirittes crying with loude voyce, came oute of many that were possessed of theim. And many taken with palsies, and many that halted, wer healed. And there was greate ioye in that citee.

But there was a certain manne, called Symon, whiche before tyme in the same citee vled witchcraft, and bewitched the people of Samaria, saying that he was a manne that coulde dooe greate thynges. Whom thei regarded, from the lesse to the greates, saying: this manne is the power of God, whiche is called great. And hym thei sette muche by because that of long tyme, he had bewitched theim with soceries.

But asone as thei gaue credence to Philip, preching of the kyngdome of God, and of f⁷ name of Jesus Christ: thei wer baptised bothe men & womē. Then Symon hymself beleue also. And when he was baptised, he continued with Philip, wondering, beholding the miracles and signes, whiche were shewed. When the Apostles whiche were at Hierusalem heard saie that Samaria had receiued the woode of God: they sente vnto theim Peter and Iohn. Whiche whē thei were come doune prayed for theim, that thei myght receiue f⁸ holy ghoſte: For as yet he was come on none of thei but thei wer baptised onely in f⁹ name of Christ Iesu. Then laied thei their handes on theim, & thei receiued the holy ghoſte.

When Symon sawe that throughe laiyng on of the Apostles handes, the holy ghoſte was geuen, he offered theim money, saying: geue me al so this powre, that on whomsoener I putte the handes, he may receiue that holy ghoſte. But Peter said vnto hym: thy money perishe with thee, because thou haste thoughte that the gifte of God maye be obtained with money. Thou haste neither parte nor felowship in this busynes. For thy hearte is not right in the sight of God. Repente therefore of this thy wickednes and praye God, that f¹⁰ he thoughte of thynne hearte maye be forgiven thee. For I perceiue that thou arte full of bitter gall, and wapped in iniquitee.

Then answered Symon and saied: praye ye to the Lorde for me that none of these thynges whiche ye haue spoken, fall on me. And thei whē thei had testified and preached f¹¹ woode of God returned toward Hierusalem, and preached the Gospell in many citees of the Samaritans.

The angell of the Lorde spake vnto Philip, saying: aryse and goo towarde the southe vnto the waye that goorth doune from Hierusalem vnto the citee of Gaza, whiche is in the deserte. And he arose, and wente on. And behold a manne of Ethiopia (a chamberlayne, and of greate auctorite: with Candace quene of the Ethiopians, and had the rule of al her reuerse) came to Hierusalem for to worſhip. And as he returned home agayne sitting in his charret, he red Esai the Prophete.

Then the spirite saied vnto Philip: goo nere and toye thy self to yonder charret. And Philip ranne to hym, and hearde hym rede the Prophete Esai. and saied: Understandest thou what thou readeſt? And he saied: how can I, excepte I had a guyder? And he desired Philip, that he woulde come v¹²y, and sit with hym. The renoure of the scripture whiche he rede, was this: he was led as a shepe to bee slaine: and like a lambe dumme before his shearer, so opened he not his mouthe. Because of this humblenes he was not esteemed. But who shall declare his generacyon: for his lyfe is taken from the earth. The chamberlayne answered Philip, and saied: I praye thee of whom speakest the Prophete this? Of hymself, or of some other manne?

Philip opened his mouthe, and beganne at f¹³ same scripture, and preached vnto hym Jesus. And as thei wente on their waye, they came vnto a certayne water, and the chamberlain saied: See, here is water: what dooeth lette me to bee baptised? Philip saied vnto hym: If thou beleue with all thine hearte thou maist. And he answered and saied: I beleue that Jesus Christe is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charret to stande still. And thei went doune bothe in the water: bothe Philip and also the chamberlayne & he baptised hym. And asone as thei wer come out of the water the spirite of the Lorde caughte awaye Philip and the chamberlayne sawe hym nomore. And he wente on his waye retorsyng: but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked througheout the countree, preaching in all f¹⁴ citees, till he came to Cesarea.

The ix. Chapter.

Saul is converted, and confoundeth the Iewes whiche sayeth Sabitha.

Saul yet baryng out threninges and slaughter against the disciples of the Lorde, wente vnto the hye preeſte, and desired of hym letters, to cary to Damasco, to the Synagoges: that if he founde any of this waye (whether thei were menne or women) he myghte byng them bounde vnto Hierusalem. And whē he journeyed, it fortuneth that as he was come nye to Damasco, sodenly there shyned rounde aboute hym a lyghte from heauen, and he fell to the earth and hearde a voyce, saying to hym: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he sayed: what arte thou Lorde? And the Lorde sayed: I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest. It is harde for thee to lyche agaynst the pycker.

The Actes

And he bothe trembling, and astonied said: Lozde, * what wilt thou haue me to doo? And the Lozde said vnto hym: arise, and goo into ciite, and it shal bee tolde thee what I must doo

B The menne whiche ioyned with hym, stode amased, hearyng a voyce, but seeing no manne. And Saul arose from the earth, and when he opened his eyes, he sawe no manne. But thei led hym by the hande, and broughte hym into Damasco. And he was three dayes without sight, and neither did eate nor drinke. And there was a certain discipule at Damasco, named Ananias. And he said: Beholde, I am here Lozde: and the Lozde said vnto hym: Arise, and goo into the streete (whiche is called streighte) and seeke in the house of Judas after one called Saul: of whome thou hast heard. For he hath sent a vision a manne named Ananias commyng in to hym, and puttynge his handes on hym, that he might receiue his sight.

C Then Ananias answered: Lozde, I haue heard by many, of this manne: how muche euill he hath dooen to the sainctes at Hierusalem, and here he hath auctorite of the hie priestes to bynd all that call on thy name. The Lozde said vnto hym: goo thy waye, for he is a chosyn vessel vnto me, to beare my name before the Gentiles, and kynges, and the chyldren of Israel. For I will shewe hym howe great thynges he must suffer for my names sake.

D And Ananias wente his waye, and entered into the house, and putte his handes on hym, and said: Brother Saul, the Lozde that appeared vnto thee in the waye as thou camest, hath sente me, that thou mightest receiue thy sight, and be filled with the holy ghooste. And immediatly there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, and he receiued sight: and arose, and was baptised, and receiued meate, and was comforted. Then was Saul certain dayes with the disciples whiche were at Damasco. And straight waye he preached Christe in the synagoges, howe he was the sonne of God but all that heard hym, were amased, and said: Is not this he, that spoyled them whiche called on this name in Hierusalem, and came hether for that end, that he might byng them bounde vnto the hie priestes? But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jewes whiche dwelt at Damasco, affirmyng that this was verie Christe.

E And after a good while, the Jewes toke counsel together, to kyll hym. But thei layng a waite was knowen of Saul. And thei watched the gates daye and nighte to kyll hym. * Then the disciples toke hym by nighte and putte hym through the wall, and let hym doune in a basket. And when Saul was come to Hierusalem, he asaiued to couple hymself to the disciples: but thei were all afraid of hym, and belueued not that he was a discipule. But Barnabas tooke hym, and broughte hym to the Apostles, & declared to thei howe he had sene the Lozde in the waye and that he had spoken to hym, and howe he had dooen boldly at Damasco in the name of Iesu. And he had his conuersacion with them at Hierusalem sprayng boldly in the name of the Lozde Iesu. And he spake and disputed agaynst the Grekes but thei wente aboute to slee hym. Whiche when the brethren knewe, they broughte hym to Cesarea, and sente hym forth to Charlus. Then had the congregacions rest through all Jewry and Galile and Samaria, and were edified and walked in the feare of the Lozde, and multiplied by the conforte of the holy ghooste.

F And it chaunced as Peter walked through oute all quarters: he came also to the sainctes, whiche dwelte at Lybda. And there founde a certayne manne named Ennas, whiche had kepte his bedde eight yeres, and was sicke of the palsey. And Peter said vnto hym: Ennas: The Lozde Iesu Christe make thee whole, arise, and make thy bed. * And he arose immediatly. And all that dwelt at Lybda and Sydon sawe hym and turned to the Lozde.

G There was at Joppa a certayne woman a discipule named Tabitha (whiche by interpretacon is called Dorcas) the same was full of good woorkes and almes deedes, whiche she did. And it chaunced in those dayes that she was sicke, and dyed. Whom when they had washed, they layed her in a chamber. But forasmuche as Lybda was neere to Joppa, and the disciples had hard that Peter was there, thei sente vnto hym, desyryng hym, that he would not bee greued to come vnto them.

H Peter arose, and came with them. And when he was come, thei broughte hym into the chamber. And all the wyddowes stode rounde aboute hym weeping, and shewing the cootes and garmentes whiche Dorcas made, whyle she was with them. And Peter putte them forth, and kneeled doune, and prayed: and turned hym to the body, and said: Tabitha: arise, and the opened her eyes, and when she sawe Peter, she satte vp. And he gaue her the hande, and lift her vp. And when he had called the sainctes and wyddowes, he shewed her aliue. And it was knowen through out all Joppa, and many belueued in the Lozde: And it fortuned, that he taried many dayes in Joppa with one Symon a tanner.

The .x. Chapter.

The vision that Peter sawe. How he was sente to Cornelius. The heathen also receiue the spirite and are baptised.

I Here was a certain manne in Cesarea called Cornelius, a capitaine of souldiours of Italy, a deuoute manne, & one that feared God with all his house holde whiche gaue muche almes to the people, & prayed God alwaie. The same sawe by a vision evidently (about the ninth houre of the daie) an gell of God commyng into hym, and sayyng vnto hym: Cornelius: When he looked on hym, he was affrayed, and said: What is it Lozde? He sayed vnto hym: Thy prayers and thy almes are come vp into remembraunce before God. And now send menne to Joppa, and call for one Symon whose surname is Peter. He lodgeth w one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea side. He shall tell thee, what I oughtest to doo.

And

And when the Angell whiche spake vnto hym was departed, he called two of his household seruantes, and a deuourer souldiour of them that waited on hym, and tolde them all the matter, and sente them to Joppa.

B On the morowe as they went on their iorney and drowe nye vnto the citee, Peter wente vpon the topp of the house to praye, aboute the sytte houre. And when he was an hongred he woulde haue eaten. But while they made ready, he fell into a trance, and sawe brannen opened and a certayn vessel came doune vnto hym as it had been a greete nete knit at the four corners and was let doune to the earthe, wherein were all manner of fouresoted beastes of the earth and breem and wormes and foules of the ayre. And there came a voyce to hym, rise Peter, kyl and eat. But Peter said: not so Lorde, for I haue neuer eaten any thyng that is commen or vncleane. And the voyce spake vnto hym again the second tyme: What God hath clenched that call not thou commen. This was dooen thyle, and the vessel was receiued by again into heauen.

C While Peter also mused in hym self what this vision (whiche he had seene) meante beholde the mene whiche were sente from Cornelius had made inquirance for Simons house and stode befoze the dooze: and called oute one, and asked whether Simon whiche was surnamed Peter were lodged there. While Peter thought on the vision, the spirite saied vnto hym beholde, mene seke thee: arise therefore, and gette thee doune, and goo with them, and doute not, for I haue sente them. Peter wente doune to the menne whiche were sent vnto hym from Cornelius and saied: Beholde, I am he whom ye seke, what is the cause wherfor ye are come? They saied Cornelius the capitaine a iuste manne, and one that feareth God, and of good repute among all the people of the Jewes was warned by an holy angell to sende for thee into his house, and to heare woordes of thee: Then called he them in and lodged them.

D And on the morow, Peter went a waie with them, and certayne brethren from Joppa accompaigned hym. And the thyrde daye entered they into Cesarea. And Cornelius waped for them and had called together his kinsmen and special frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in: Cornelius mette hym, and fell doune at his fete, and worshipped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, sayng: stand vp, I my self also am a manne. And as he talked with hym, he come in, and founde many that were come together. And he saied vnto them: Ye knowe howe that it is an vnlawfull thyng for a manne that is a Jewe, to compaignie or come vnto an alieue. But God hath thewed me that I should not call any manne commen or vncleane: therefore came I vnto you without delaye, asone as I was sente for. I aske therefore, for what intent haue ye sente for me. And Cornelius saied: This daye now foure dayes about this houre, I faste sayng at the nyth houre I praised in my house, and behold, a manne stode befoze me in byppre clothyng, and saied: Cornelius, thy praye is heard, & thyne almes deedes are had in remembrance in the sight of God. So men therfore to go Joppa, & cal for Symon whose surname is Peter. He is lodged in a house of one Simon a tanner by the sea syde whiche asone as he is come, shall speake vnto thee. The sente I for thee immediately, and thou hast well dooen, that thou arte come. Now therefore are we all here presente befoze God, to heare all thynges that are commaunded vnto thee of God. Then Peter opened his mouthe, and saied of a trued I perceiue that there is no respecte of persons with God: but in all people, he that feareth hym, and woorketh righteously, is accepted with hym.

Ye knowe the preaching that God sente vnto the chyldren of Israhel: preaching peace by Jesu Christe, whiche is Lorde ouer all thynges. Whiche preaching was published throug all Jewy (and began in Galile, after the daye tyme whiche Iohn preached) howe God anoynted Jesus of Nazareth with the holy ghooste and with power. Whiche Jesus wente aboute dooing good, and healyng all that were oppressed of the deuell, for God was with hym. And were are witnesse of all thynges whiche he did in the land of the Jewes and at Hierusalem: who they slewe & hanged on tre. Hym God raised vp the thirde daye, and shewed hym openly not to all the people, but vnto vs witnesse, chose befoze of God for that same intent) whiche did eat and drinke with hym, after he arose from deathe. And he commaunded vs to preache vnto the people and to testifie that it is he, whiche was ordeined of God to bee the iudge of quicke and dedde. To hym geue all the prophetes witness, that throug his name whosoener beleueth in hym shall receiue remission of synnes.

While Peter yet spake these woordes, the holy ghooste fell on all them whiche heard the preaching. And they of the circumcision whiche beleued, were astonnished, as many as came with Peter, because that on Gentiles also was shed out the gifte of the holy ghooste. For they heard them speake with toungues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter: can any manne forbyd water that these shoulde not bee baptised, whiche haue receiued the holy ghooste as well as we? And he commaunded them to bee baptised in the name of the Lord. Then praised they hym to tary a fewe dayes.

¶ Peter sheweth the cause wherfore he wente to the heathen. Barnabas and pauli preacheth vnto the heathen. Agabus prophesieth deeth to come.

And the Apostles and brethren that were in Jewy, heard of the heathen had also receiued the woorde of God. And whē Peter was come vp to Hierusalem, they of the circumcision contended against hym sayng: Thou wentest into mene vncircumcised, and diddest eate with them. But Peter rehearsed the matter from the begynning, & expounded it by order vnto them sayng: I was in the citee of Joppa, praying and in a trance, I sawe a vision a certayne vessel descend descend as it had been a greater Peter, lette donne from heauen by the four corners and it came to me. Into the whiche when I had fastened myne eyes, I considered and sawe² conserued beastes of the earth and vermen of woymes, and foules of the ayre. And I hearde a voyce sayng vnto me arise Peter, arise, and eat. But I said, not so Lorde, for nothing comen of vncleane hath at any tyme entered into my mouth. But the voyce answered me again from heauen: comyt not þ those thynges common whiche God hath cleynt. And this was dooen thre tymes. And all were taken vp again into heauen.

And behold, ymmediately there were thre menne already come vnto the house wher I was sente fro Celace vnto me. And the spirite saied vnto me, that I shoulde goo with theim without doubtyng. Moreover, * these thre byrthen accompaniued me, and wer entered into þ mannes house. And he thewed vs, howe he had sene an angell in his house, whiche stode and saied to hym: sende menne to Joppa, and call for Sund, whose surname is Peter: he shall tell the woordes, whereby bothe thou and all thyne house shalbe saued.

And as I beganne to preache, the holy ghost fell on them, * as he did on vs at the begynnyng. Then came it to my remembraunce, howe that the Lorde saied: * Iohn baptised with water, but ye shalbe baptised with the holy ghost. For as muche then as God gaue them lyke giftes as he did vnto vs, when we beliened on the Lorde Iesus Christ: what was I that I should haue withstande God? When they hearde this, thei helde their peace, and glorified God sayng then hath God also to the Gentiles graunted repentance vnto life.

* They also whiche were scattered abroad through the assyccion that arose aboute Iherusalem, walked throughout vnto Phenices and Cipres, and Antioche, preachyng the woorde to no manne but vnto the Jewes onely. Some of theim were menne of Cyppers and Syren, whiche when thei were come to Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lorde Iesus. And the hand of the Lorde was with theim, and agreate nombre beliened and turned vnto the Lorde. Tydnynges of these thynges came vnto the eares of the congregacion, whiche was in Hierusalem. And they sente for the Barnabas, that he shoulde goo vnto Antioche. Whiche whē he came, and had sene þ grace of God, was glad and * exhorted theim all, that with purpose of hearte they would continually cleane vnto the Lorde. For he was a goodmanne, and ful of the holy ghoste and of faith: and muche people was added vnto the Lorde. Then departed Barnabas to Charlus, for to seeke Saul. And when he had founde hym he brought hym vnto Antioche. And it chaunced that a whole yere thei had their conuersacion with the congregacion there, and taughte muche people, in so muche, that the disciples of Antioche were the firste that were called Christen.

* In those dayes came Prophetes from the citee of Hierusalem vnto Antioche. And there stode vp one of theim named Agabus, and signified by the spirite, that there shoulde bee greater dearthe throughout all the world whiche came to passe in the Emperour Claudius dayes. The disciples every manne accordyng to his abilityer, purposed to sende² socour vnto the byrthen whiche dwelte in Ierusalem. Whiche thyng thei also did, and sente it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

The xii. Chapter.

Herode persecuteth the Christen. Herodias James, and putteth Peter in prison, whom the Lorde deliuereth by an angell. The lamentable death of Iherod.

The same tyme Herode the kyng stretched forth his handes to bere certaine of the congregacion. And he killed² James the brother of Iohn with the sword. And because he saw that it pleased the Jewes he proceeded farther, and tooke Peter also. Then were the dayes of sweete byrde. And when he had caughte hym, he putte hym in prison also, and deliuered hym to foure quaternions of souldiours to be kepte, entending after Easter to byng hym forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in prison. But prayer was made without ceasing of the congregacion, vnto God for hym. And when Herode would haue brought hym out vnto the people, þ same night slept Peter betwene twoo souldiours bounde with twoo cheynes, & the keepers befoze the doore kepte the prison. And behold, * the angell of the Lorde was there present, and a light shyned in the habitation. And he smote Peter on þ side, and stered hym vp, sayng: arise vp quickly. And his cheynes fell of from his handes. And the angell saied vnto hym: gytte thy selfe, and bynde on thy sandales. And so he did. And he saied vnto hym: caste thy garmente aboute thee, and folowe me. And he came out and folowed hym, and wiste not that it was truely whiche was dooen by the angell, but thoughte he had sene a vision. When they were passe the firste and the seconde watche, they came vnto the yron gate, that leade the vnto the citee, * whiche opened to theim by the owne accorde. And thei wente out, and passed through one strete, and forthwith the angell departed from hym.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he saied: nowe I knowe of a surety, that the Lorde hath sente his angell, and hath deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, and from all the waytyng for, of the people of the Jewes. * And as he considered the thyng, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one Iohē, whose surname was Marthe, where many were gathered together * in prayer. As Peter knocked at the enterye doore, a damsell came forth to berken, named Rhodra. And when she knewe Peters voyce she opened not the entery for gladnes, but ranne in, and told how Peter stode befoze the entery. And they saied vnto her: thou arte madde. But she affirmed that it was euē so. The saied they: it is his Angell. But Peter continued knockyng: and when thei had opened the doore, and and saide hym, thei wer assumped. * And when he had beched vnto them with the hande, that thei mighte holde their peace, he tolde them by what meanes the Lozde had brought hym oute of the prison. * And he saide: goo shewe these thynges vnto James and to the brethren. And he departed, and wente into another place.

D I knowe as it was daye, there was no litle adone among the souldours, what was become of Peter. When Herod had sought for hym, and founde hym not, he examined the keepers and commaunded them to be caried awaye. And he departed from Jewry to Cesarea, and there abode. Herode was displeased with them of Tiers and Sidon. But thei came all with one accord to hym, and made intercession vnto Blastus the kynge's chamberlain, and desired peace, because their countre was nourished by the kynge's provision. And vpon a daye appoynted, Herode arrayed hym in royall apparell, and let hym in his seate, and made an ozacion vnto them. And the people gaue a shoute, sayng: it is the voyce of a God, and not of a manne. And immediately the angell of the Lozde smote hym, because he gaue not God the honoure, and he was catch of wormes and gaue vp the ghost. And the woordes of God grew and multiplied. And Barnabas and Saul returned to Hierusalem, when they had fulfilled their office, and toke with them, * Iho whose surname was Marke.

The xiii. Chapter.

Saul and Barnabas are called to preache among the heathen, of Sergius Paulus and Timotheus the sozerer Saul preache at Antioche.

Here were in the congregation that is at Antioche, certain prophetes, & teachers: as Barnabas and Symon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaben, Herode's Tetrarches nourishelore, and Saul. As thei ministered to the Lozde and fasted, the holy ghoste saide seperate me Barnabas & Saul, for the woorde wherunto I haue called them. And when thei had fasted and prayed, and laid their handes on them, thei let them goo. And thei after they were sente forth of the holy ghoste, departed vnto Seleucia, and from thence thei sailed to Cyprus. And when thei were at Salamine, thei went the woorde of God in the synagoges of the Jewes. And thei had Ihon to their minister.

When thei had gone throughe the isle vnto Paphos, thei founde a certain sozerer, (a false prophete, a Jewe) whose name was Barisus, whiche was with the ruler of the countree one Sergius Paulus a prudente manne: The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul and desired to heare the woordes of God. But Elymas the sozerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstode them, and soughte to turne the ruler a waye from the faith. Then Saul whiche (also is called Paul) beeyng full of the holy ghoste, set his eyes on hym, and said O full of all subtilty and disceitfulness, thou chyld of the deuell, thou enemye of all righteounes: wilt thou not cease to peruerter the straight wayes of the Lozde?

And now beholde, the hande of the Lozde is vpon thee and thou shalt bee blinde, and not see the sunne for a season. And immediately, there fell on hym a miste and a darkenes, and he went aboute, sekynge them that should leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened beleued, and wouged at the doctryne of the Lozde.

When Saul departed from Paphos, thei that were with hym, came to Perga in Pamphilia: and Ihon departed from thence, and returned to Hierusalem. But thei wandered throughe the countrees, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and wente into the synagoge on the Saboth daye, and satte doune. And after the lecture of the lawe and of the prophetes the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto them, sayng: ye menne and brethren, if ye haue any sermon to exhorte the people, saye on.

Then Saul stode vp, and beched with the hande for silence, and saide: Menne of Israel and ye that feare God, geue audience. The God of this people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when thei dwelte as strangers in the lande of Egypte, and with a hye harme broughte he them out of it, and aboute the tyme of fouerty yeres, suffered he their maners in the wilderness. And he destroyed seuen nation in the lande of Canaan, * and deuinded their lande to them by lotte. And afterwarde, he gaue vnto them iudges aboute the space of foure hundred and fifty yeres, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophete. And afterwarde, * thei desired a kynge: God gaue vnto them Saul the soonne of Cis, a manne of the tribe of Beniamin by the space of fouerty yeres. And when he was putte doune, he sette vp Dauid to bee their kynge, of whom he reported sayng: * I haue founde Dauid the soonne of Jesse, a manne after myne owne heart: whiche shall fulfill all my will.

Of this mannes seede hath God (according as he had promised) broughte forth to Israel, a sauoure, one Jesus, when Ihon had first preached before his comyng the Baptisme of repentance to Israel. And when Ihon had fulfilled his course, he saide: * whom ye thynke that I am, the same am I not. But behold, thei cometh one after me, whose shoes of his fete I am not worthy to loofe.

Ye menne and brethren, chyldren of the generation of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is this woorde of saluacion sente. For the inhabyters of Hierusalem and their rulers, because they knewe hym not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes whiche are rede entyre Saboth daye, they haue fulfilled thei in condemning hym: * And when they founde no cause of deathe in hym, yet desired thei pplate to kyll hym. And when they had fulfilled all that were wyrtten of hym, they toke hym doune from the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre. But God raysted hym againe from deathe, whiche came by with hym from Galyle to Hierusalem: whiche * are his witness vnto the people.

The Actes

And wee declare vnto you, howe that the promesse (whiche was made vnto the fathers) God hath fulfilled vnto their children (euen vnto vs) in that he raised vp Iesus again. I euen as it is written in the seconde psalme: * Thou arte my sonne, this daye haue I begotten thee. As concerning that he raised hym vp from death, now nomore to returne to corruption he saied on this wise: * The holy promises made to Dauid, will I geue faithfully to you. Wherefore he saith also in another place. * Thou shalt not suffer thyne holy to see corruption. For Dauid (after he had in this tyme fulfilled the wil of God) * sei on slepe, & was laied vnto his fathers, and sawe corruption. But he whom God raised agayne sawe no corruption.

¶ Bee it knowne vnto you therefore (ye menne and brethren) that * through this manne is preached vnto you the forgiveness of synnes, & that by hym, all that beleue, are iustified fro all thynges from whiche you coulde not bee iustified by the lawe of Moyses. Beware therefore, lest that fall on you, whiche is spoken of in the the prophete: * Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, a petish ye: for I dooe a woode in your daies, whiche ye shall not beleue though a manne declare it you. When the Jewes were gone out of the congregation, the Gentiles beloughe that they woulde preache the woode the next Saboth, when the congregation was broken vp. many of the Jewes and vertuous profelites folowed Paul and Barnabas, whiche spake to them: and * exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

¶ And the next Saboth daie came almost the whole citee together, to heare the woode of God. But when the Jewes sawe the people, they wer full of indignacion and spake against those thynges, whiche wer spoken of Paul, speaking agaynst it, and raylyng on it: Then Paul and Barnabas wered bold and saied: it was meate that the woode of God should firste haue been preached to you. But seying ye put it from you, and thyncke youre selues unworthy of euell sayng life: lo, wee turne to the Gentiles: For so hath the Loide commaunded vs: * I haue made thee a lighte of the Gentiles, that thou bee the saluacion vnto the ende of the woode. When the Gentiles herde this, they wer glade and glorified the woode of the Loide, and beleued, euen as many as were ordeyned vnto eternal life. And the woode of the Loide was published throughout all the region: But the Jewes moued the deuoer and honest women, and the chief menne of the citee: and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coostes: * But they toke of the duste of their fete against them, and came vnto Iconium. And the disciples were filled with ioye and with the holy ghooste. ¶

C. The. xlii. Chapter.

Paul and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some heling some here by scorpion. At Lystra they woulde haue sacrificed to Barnabas and Paul, whiche they refused and exhorted the people to worshippe the true God. Paul to Ammachi that cometh to Darba Lystra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

¶ And it fortuned in Iconi that Achele wente backe to gether into the sinagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, & a greete multitude bothe of the Jewes and also of the Grekes beleued. But the unbelieuyng Jewes, steyd vp, and vniquied the mynbes of the Gentiles agaynst the brethren: Long tyme abode they there, and quite themselves boldely with the helpe of the Loide, whiche gaue testimony vnto the woode of his grace, and * gratted signes and wonders to bee dooen by their handes. But the multitude of the citee was deuided: and parte helde with the Jewes, and parte with the Apostles.

¶ When there was an assaute made bothe of the Gentiles and also of the Jewes with their rulers to dooe them violence, and to stone them they were ware of it, and * fled vnto Lystra and Darba, cities of Licaonia, and vnto the region that lieth rounde aboute, and there preached the Gospel: (and all the multitude was moued at their doctrine, but Paul and Barnabas taried still at Lystra.) And there sat a certain manne at Lystra weake in his fete beinge a crepell from his mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same heard Paul preache, whiche beholding hym, and perceyuing that he had faith to bee whole, saied with a loude voice stande vprighte on thy fete: And he * sterte vp and walked. And when the people sawe what Paul had dooen, they lifte vp their voyces, sayng in the speache of Licaonya: * Goddes are come doune to vs in the lykenes of menne. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercurius because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters priests, & dwelte befoze their citee, brought oren and garlandes vnto the porch, and woulde haue dooen sacrifice with the people.

¶ Whiche when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paul heard of, they sente their clothes, and ranne among the people, cryng and sayng, first why dooe ye this? Wee are mortall menne like vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shall turne from these vanities vnto the liuyng God, whiche made heauen and earth and the sea and all thynges that are therein: the whiche in tymes paste suffered al nations to walke in their owne wayes. * Neuerthelesse, he left not hymself with out wytnes, in that he shewed hym benefytes from heauen, in geuyng vs rayne and fructfull seasons fylling our heartes wth loode & gladnes. And with these saynges, scarce refrayned they the people, & they had not dooen sacrifice vnto them.

aying that wee muste through much tribulation enter into the kyngdome of God. And whē they had ordeined them elders by election in every congregation, and had prayed and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on whom they beleued. And when they had gone through oute Phisida, they came to Pampolia, and when they had preached the woorde in Perga, they descended into the citty Atalia, and thence departed by Shippe to Antioche from whence they were committed vnto the grace of God to the woꝛke whiche they fulfilled. When they were come, and had gathered the congregation together, they reuerbered all that God had dooen by them and how he had opened the doore of faith vnto the Gentiles. And there they abode long tyme with the disciples.

The xv. Chapter.

¶ Variance about circumcision. The Apostles pacifying the matter at Hierusalem. Paul and Barnabas preach at Antioche.

And certayne menne whiche came doune from Jewry, taught the brethren excepte ye bee circumcised after the maner of Moyses, ye cannot bee saued. So when there was risen discension and disputing not a litle vnto Paul and Barnabas against them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them should goo vnto Hierusalem vnto the Apostles and elders aboute this question. And after they were brought on their waye by the congregation, they passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declaring the conuersion of the Gentiles, and they broughte greates lope vnto all the brethren. And when they were come to Hierusalem, they were receiued of the congregation and of the Apostles and elders. And they declared all thynges that God had dooen by them. The rose vp certayne of the secte of the pharises, whiche did beleue sayng that it was nedefull to circumcise them and to commaunde them to kepe the lawe of Moyses. And the Apostles and elders came together to reason of this matter.

And when there was much disputing, Peter rose vp, and said vnto them: Ye menne and brethren: Ye knowe howe that a good whyle agoe, God did chose among vs, that the Gentiles by my mouth should heare the woorde of the Gospell, and beleue. And God whiche knoweth the heartes, bare them witness, and gaue vnto them the holy ghoste, euen as he did vnto vs, and putte no difference betwene vs and they sayng that wiche faith he purified their heartes. Now therefore, why tempt ye God, to putte on the disciples neckes the yoke whiche neither our fathers nor wee were able to beare? But wee beleue, that through the grace of the Lorde Iesu Christe, wee shal bee saued, as they doo. Then all the multitude was pleased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paul, whiche tolde what signes and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them.

And when they helde their peace, James answered, sayng: Menne and brethren, hearken vnto me. Simon tolde, how God at the begyn-nyng did visite the Gentiles, to receiue of them a people in his name. And to this agre the woordes of the prophetes, as it is writte: After this I will retorne, and will builde again the tabernacle of Dauid, whiche is fallen doune and that whiche is fallen in decaye of it, will I builde againe, and I will sette it vp, that the residue of menne myghte seke after the Lorde and also the Gentiles vnto whom my name is named, saith the Lorde, whiche dooeth all these thynges: known vnto God are all his woordes from the begynnyng of the woꝛld. Wherefore my sentence is that wee trouble not them: whiche from among the Gentiles, are turned to God: but that wee wyte vnto them, that they abstayne from felices from fytchings of ymages, and from fornicacion, and from strangled, and from blood. For Moyses of olde tyme had in every citty them that preache him, in the Synagoges, when he is red every Saboth daye.

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the whole congregation, to sende chosen menne of their owne compaignie to Antioche with Paul and Barnabas. They sente Judas whose name was Barabas, and Silas, whiche were chief menne among the brethren, and gaue them letters in their handes after this maner.

The Apostles, and elders and brethren sende gretynges vnto the brethren whiche are of the Gentiles in Antioche, Siria and Cilicia. For as muche as wee haue hearde, that certain whiche departed from vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combyed your myndes, sayng: Ye must bee circumcised and kepe the lawe, to whome wee gaue no suche commaundemente: It seemed therefore to vs a good thyng, when wee were come together with one accord, to sende chosen menne vnto you, with our beloued Barnabas and Paul, menne that haue reuerde their liues for the name of our Lorde Iesu Christe. Wee haue sente therefore Judas and Silas, whiche shall also tell you the same thynges by mouth. For it seemed good to the holy ghoste and to vs, to charge you with no more, then these necessary thynges that is to saie ye abstain from thynges offered to ymages, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornicacion. From whiche if ye kepe your selues, ye shall doo wel. So fare ye well. When they therefore were departed, they came to Antioche and gathered the multitude together, and deliuered the epistle. Whiche when they had reade, they reioysed at the consolation. And Judas and Silas beeyng Prophetes, exhorted the brethren with muche preaching, and strenghted them. And after they had taried there a space, they were lette go in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwithstandyng it pleased Silas to abyde there still. (But Judas departed alone to Hierusalem.) Paul and Barnabas continued in Antioche, teaching and preaching the woorde of the Lorde with other many.

But after a certayne space, Paul said vnto Barnabas: lette vs goo again, and visite our brethren in every citty where wee haue dwelled the woorde of the Lorde, and see how they doo.

that * the hope of theyr garynes was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and dreyed them into the market place vnto the rulers and broughte them to the officers, sayng. These menne trouble our citee sayng they are Jewes and preache ordynances, whiche are not lawefull for vs to receiue, neether to obserue, sayng we are Romaynes. And the people ranne against them and the officers rente their clothes, and commaunded them: to bee beaten with rodde. And while they had beaten thei soze, they cast them into prison commaundyng the sayler of the prison to kepe them diligently: Whiche when he had receiued suche commaundement, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their fete safte in the stocks.

At midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and lauded God. And the prisoners hearde them. And sodenly there was agreate earthquake, so that the foundation of the prison was shaken, & immediately all the doores opened and euery mannes bandes were loosed. When the keper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prison doores open, he dreyed out his sword & would haue killed hymself supposyng that the prisoners had been fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice sayng: dooe thy selfe no harme, for we are all here.
Then he called for a lighte, and sprang in, and came trembyng vnto Paul, and fel doune at the fete of Paul, and Silas, & brought them out and saied. Sirs * what muste I dooe to bee saured? And they saied: beleue on the Lorde Ies-us and thou shalt be saued and thy housholde. And they preached vnto hym the woorde of the Lord and to all that were in his house. And he tooke them the same houre of the night, and washed their woundes, & was baptised & all thei of his housholde straighte waye. And when he had broughte them into his house, he sette meate be-foze them, and ioied: that he with his houshold cers sente the ministers, sayng: let those menne goe. The keper of the prison tolde this sayng to Paul, the officers sente woorde to loose you.

Nowe therefore, get you hence and goo in peace.
Then saied Paul vnto them: thei haue beaten vs openly vncoumpnyed, for all that wee are Romaynes, & haue callt vs into prison: and now would thei sende vs awaie priuely: Raye verely

Paul cometh to Thessalonica, where the Jewes let the cytol on a roole, sheweth of the cometh to Athens where he precheth the true and unknowne God.

And they made their journey throuh Amphipolis: and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a sinagoge of Jewes. And Paul (as his maner was) wente in vnto the, & the sabbath dayes declared out of scrip- ture vnto the, opening and aliedging. * Christ must nedes haue suffered, and rise againe frome death, and that thys Jesus was Christ, whom (sayed he) I preach to you. And * some of them beleued, and came and companied with Paul and Silas, and of the deuout Grekes a greate multitude, and of the cheife women, not a fewe.

But the Jewes which beleued not, had indignation and tooke vnto them euil men, whiche were vacabondes, and gathered a company, & set al the citee on a roare, and made assaue vnto the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people. And when they found the not they dyed Jason, and certayne byrthien vnto the heades of the citee crying: these that trouble the world, are come hether also, whom Jason hath receiued pruely. * And these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, offeryng another kyng one Jesus. And they troubled the people, and the officers of the cytee, when they heard these thynges. And when they wer sufficiencye answered of Jason, & of other, they let the go.

CAnd the byrthien immediatlye sente away Paul & Silas by nyght vnto Berrea. Which when they wer come thither, they entered into a sinagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of byrthien of them of Thessalonica, which re- ceived the word with all diligence of mynde, & searched the scriptures daily, whether those thynges were euil so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipful women which wer Grekes, and of men not a fewe. When the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berrea: they came and moued the people there. And then sime byrthien sente away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but * Silas and Timotheus abode there still. And they that guyded Paul brought hym vnto Athens, and receiued a com- mandement vnto Silas and Timotheus, for to come to him with speede and came their way. Whyle Paul waited for them at Athens, his sperte was moued in hym, when he sawe the cy- tee geuen to worshyp of ymagis. Then disputed he in the sinagoge with Jewes, and with the deuoute personnes: and in the market daily with them that came vnto him by chance. Certayne philosophers of the Epicures and of the Stoiches, disputed with hym. And some there were whiche sayed: what wyl this babler saye? Other sayed: he seemeth to bee a tydynges bypger of new deuels, because he preached vnto them Jesus and the resurreccyon. And they toke hym, and brought hym into Marce stree- te sayng: may we not knowe what this new doc- trine wherof thou speakest, is? For thou byp- gest straung thynges to our eares. We would knowe therfore, what these thynges meane. For all the Athenians and straungers whiche were there, gaue them selues to nothyng elles, but e- ther to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

Paul stode in the middes of Marce stree- te, and sayed: Ye men of Athens, I perceiue that in all thynges ye are superstitious. For as I passed by and behelde the maner howe ye worshyp oure goddes: I founde an alter wherin was written vnto the unknowne God. Whom ye then igno- rantly worship, him shew I vnto you: * God that made the world and all that are in it, (se- yng that he is Lord of heauen & earth) dwel- leth not in temples made with handes, neither is worshipped with mens handes, as though he needed of any thyng, seynge he hymselfe ge- ueth lyfe and byeth to all men euery where and hath made of one blood all nacyns of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath al- signed before, howe longe time, and also the en- des of theyr inhabitation, that they should feare God, yf they might seie and fynde him, though he be not farre from euery one of vs. For in him we lyue, moue, and haue our being, as certayn of your owne Poetes sayd: For we are also his generacyon. For asmuch then as we are the ge- neracyon of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhead is like vnto golde, siluer, or stone grauen by craft and imagynacyon of man.

* And the tyme of this ignorance God re- garded not. But now he byddeth all men euery where repente because he hath apointed a daye in the which he wil iudge the world with rygh- teousnes, by that man by whom he hath apoin- ted, and hath offered sayth to al men, after that he had raysed hym vp from death.

When they heard of the resurreccyon from death, some mocked, and other sayed: we wyl heare the agayne of this matter. So Paul de- parted from among them. Howbeit certayn me- clane vnto hym and beleued: among the which was Dionysius a senatoure, and a woman na- med Damaris, and other with them.

And he preached in synagogs every sabbath day Acts. xiii. 5 and exhorted the Jewes and the Gentyles.

Acts. xiii. 6 When * Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was constrained by the synete, to tellye to the Jewes that Jesus was very Christ. And when they sayed contrary and blasphemed * he shoke his raiment and sayed vnto them: your blood be vpon your heads from hence forth wyl I go blameles vnto the Gentyles. And he departed thence, and entered into a certayn mans house, named Justus a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned hard to the synagoge. Howbeit, one Crispus the chief ruler of the synagoge * beleued on the Lorde with all his household, and many of the Corynthyans when they gaue audience beleued, and were baptised.

Acts. xiii. 7 Then spake the Lorde to Paul in the nyghte * by a vision: be not afrayed but speake, & holde not thy peace: for I am with the, and no manne shall make the that shal hurt the. For I haue muche people in this citee. And he continued ther a yere and sixe monethes, and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Acaia, the Jewes made insurreccyon with one acorde agaynst Paul, and broughte hym to the iudgement seate, sayng: this seloe counsellor men to worship God contrary to the law. And when Paul now was about to open his mouth Gallio sayed vnto the Jewes, yf it were a matter of wrong, as an euell dede: (O ye Jewes) reason woulde that I shoulde heare you: but yf yf be a question of wordes as of names, as of your lawe, loke ye to yf youre selues. For I wyl be no iudge of such matters, and he dyane them fro the seate. Then all the Grekes tooke stoutenes the cheefe ruler of the synagoge, and smote hym befoze the iudges seate. And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Acts. xiii. 8 Paul after this, taried ther yet a good while and tooke hym leaue of the brethren and sayed thence into Ciria, Pyscilla and Aquilla accompanying him. And * he wore hym head in Cechia for he had bowe: And he came to Ephesus and left them there, but he hym self entered into the synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. When they desyred him to tary longer tyme with the, he consented not, but had them farewell sayng: I must needs (at this feaste that cometh) be in Jerusalem: but I wyl retourne agayne vnto you * yf God wil. And he departed from Ephesus: and when he was come vnto Cesarea and ascended vp and saluted the congregacion he departed vnto Antioch: and when he had taried ther a while, he departed, and went ouer al the countre of Galacia and Phrygia by order, strengthyng all the dysciples.

Acts. xiii. 9 And a certayn Jew named * Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was instructed in the waye of the Lorde, and spake feruently in the synete, and taught diligently the thynges of the Lorde and knew but the baptisme of Iohn onely. And the same began to speake boldly in the synagoge. Whome wyl Pyscilla and Aquilla had heard: thei toke hym vnto theym, and expounded vnto hym the way of God more perfectly. And when he was dysposed to go into Acaia the brethren wist exhortyng the dysciples to receiue hym. Whych when he was come helped them muche whiche had beleued through grace. For he ouercame the Jewes myghtely, and that openly. Wherbyng by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

The xii. Chapter.

Acts. xii. 1 Of the miracles that were wrought at Ephesus and what myracles were done by Paul. Demetrius moued sedycyon in the citee

It fortuned that while Apollos was at Corinthum, Paul passed through the vpper coastes and came to Ephesus, and found certayne dysciples, and sayed vnto them haue ye receyued the holie ghost, sence ye beleued? And thei sayed vnto him no, we haue not heard whether there be any holie ghost or no. And he sayed vnto them, wherewith were ye then baptised? And they sayed: with Iohns baptisme. Then sayed Paul * Iohn verely baptised with the baptim of repentance sayng vnto the people that they shoulde beleue on hym, whych shoulde come after hym: that is one Christ Jesus. When thei heard this, they were baptised in the name of Lorde Jesu. And when Paul * lated his handes vpon them * the holie ghost came on them and thei * spake with tounge, and prophesied, and all the men were aboute twelue.

And he went into the synagoge, and he behaved hym selfe boldly for the space of thre monethes, disputyng and geuyng them exhortacions of the kyngdome of God. When dyuers wered harde harted and beleued not, but spake euill of the waye of the Lorde (and that befoze the multitude) he departed from them, and separated the dysciples. And he dyscyned daylye in the scole of one called Tyrannus. And this continued by the space of two yeres: so that al they whych dwelte in Asia, heard the word of the Lorde Jesu, bothe Jewes and Grekes. And God * wroughte sprecall myracles by the handes of Paul: so that fro his body, wer broughte vnto the syche, naphyns and partelettes, and the diseases departed from them, and the * euill spytes wente oute of them.

Then certain of the vagabond Jewes exorcistes, toke vpon them to call ouer them (which had euill spytes) the name of the Lorde Jesu, sayng: We aduise you by * Jesu whome Paul preacheth. And there were seuen sonnes of one Socrates a Jewe: and these of the prestes which dyd so. And the euill spete answered and sayd: I knowe, and Paul I knowe: but who are ye? And the man in whom the euill spete was, ca

So myghtyly grewe the worde of God, and prevailed. After these thynges were ended. Paul purposed in the spyt (whan he had passed ouer Macedonia and Achaia) to goo to Jerusalem, sayng: after that I haue bene ther I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministered vnto hym euell Timothyus and Erastus: but he hym self remained in Asia for a season.

The same tyme ther arose no litle ado about that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a syluer smith (which made syluer shrines, for Diana) was not a lytle benefycial vnto the craftes men. Whome he called together with the workmen of lyke occupation, and sayd: Myjs, ye knowe that by this craft: we haue aduantage. Whoeuer ye se and heare p not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned awaye much people, sayng: that they be not goddesses whyche are made with handes. So that not onely this oure craft commeth into pael to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the greates goddesse Diana shoulde be destroyed, whom al Asia and the world worshippeth.

When they heard these saynges they were full of wrath, and cryed out sayng: Greate is Diana of the Ephesians: And all the cyte was on a roze, and they rushed into the common hall with one assente, and caught Caius and Aristarcus men of Macedonia, Pauls companions. When Paul shoulde haue entred in vnto the people, the dysciples suffered hym not. But certayne of the chiefe of Asia (which were his fren des) sent vnto hym, desyrng hym, p he would not please into the common hall. Some therfore cried one thyng and some another, and the congregacyon was all out of quyet, and p moze part knewe not wherfore they wer com together.

Some of the company bue forth Alexander the Jewe thrustng hym for wardes. Alexander becheden with the bande, and would haue geuen the people an answer. When they knewe that he was a Jewe, they arose a house almost for the space of two houers, of all men, cryng: greate is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the count Clarke had feared the people he sayd: ye men of Ephesus, what manne is it that knoweth not that the cyte of the Ephesians is a worshyppe of the greates goddesse Diana, of the ymage which came from heuen. haue byoughte better thes men: whyche are not ther robbers of churches, nor yet dyspilers of your goddesse. Wherefore, yf Demetrius and the craftesmen which are with him, haue a matter agaynst any man, the law is open, and they are rulers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye go aboute any other thyng, it shalbe determined in a lawfull congregacyon. For we are in leopardy to be accused of this dayes uprore for as much as ther is no cause, wherby we may geue a rechenyng of this concourse of the people. And when he had thus spoken, he les the congregacyon departe.

Chap. xx. Chapter.

Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Greece. At Troas he ray sed up a waile body. At Ephesus he calleth the elders of the congregacyon together, commending the happyng of gods to the to them, warneth the of false teachers, maketh his prayer with them, and departeth to shippe.

After that feage was ceased, Paul called the dysciples vnto him, and toke his leaue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partes and had geuen them a long exhortacyon, he came into Greece, and ther abode thre monethes. And when the Jewes layed wait for him as he was aboute to saile into Syria, he purposed to retourne through Macedonia. There accompanied hym into Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of Thessalonica, Arystarcus and Secundus and Caius of Derba, and Timothyus and oute of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. These goig before taried vs at Troas. And we sayled awaye from Smyrny after the dayes of sweete bread, and came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And upon one of the sabboth dayes, whan the dysciples came together for to heare the bred Paul preached vnto them (eache to depart on the morowe) and continued the preaching vnto mydnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chaber, where we wer gathered together, and ther sat in a wyndow a certayn young man (named Euticus) beyng fallen into a dede slepe. And as Paul was preaching he was the moze ouercom with slepe and fell doune from the thyrd lofte and was taken vp dead. But when Paul wet doune, he fell on hym and embzased hym and sayd: make nothyng a do for thy lyfe is in hym. So when he was come vp agayne, and had bzo ken the bread eaten, and talked along whyle (tuen tyll the moynyng) at the last he departed. And they broughte the younge man a lyur and were not a lytle comforted.

And we went a foze to ship, and lousd vnto Asson ther to receyue Paul. For so had he apointed, and would hym self go a foote. When we were come together at Asson we toke him in, and came to Myrilenes. And we sailed thence, and came the nexte daye, ouer agaynst Chios. And the next day we arriued at Samos, and taried at Trogilon. The next day we came to Milerd for Paul had determined to saile ouer by Ephesus, because he wold not spend tyme in Asia. For. ii. For.

Pauls journey by the ship. And why the evangelist, and the others the preachers, which were not to go to Jerusalem, the evangelist should not in his purpose and to taken in the temple

And when it chaunced that we had launched for the, and were departed from them, we cam with a straight course vnto Choon, and the day following vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And when we had gotten a shippe that would saile vnto Idenpess, we wente abrode into it, and set for the. But when Cyprius began to aperc vnto vs, we left it on the left hande, & sailed vnto Myria, and came vnto Tyze. For the shippe vnladed & buried then. And when we had founde bethzen, we tarried there vii. dayes. And they tolde Paul thorough the sperte, that he should not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes wer ended we departed and went our way, and they al brought vs on oure waye with wyues and children, till we were come out of the cytee. And we kneeled doune in the shoope, and prayed. And when we had take our leaue one of another, we had take shippe, and they returned home again.

When we had fulfilled the course from Tyze we wente doune to Ptolomaida, and saluted bethzen, and abode with them one daye. The next daye, we that were of Pauls companye departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entered into the house of Philipp the euangelist, which was one of the seven, and abode with hym. The same man had foure daughters virgins, which byd prophesy. And as we tarried there a good many of dayes, there came a certain prophete from Iury, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he tooke Pauls girdel, and bounde his feete and handes, and sayed: Thus sayeth the holy ghoost, so that the Jewes at Jerusalem bynd the man that oweth this gyrdell, & that deliuer him into the handes of Centenies.

When we heard this, both we & other which were of the same place besought hym that he would not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered and sayed: what do ye wepyng and verryng myne heart? I am redy, not to be hold onely, but also to dy at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Iesu. When we coule not turne his mynde, we ceased sayng: the wyll of the Lord bee fulfilled. After those dayes we toke vp our burthen, and went vnto Jerusalem. There wente with vs also certayne of the dycciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Ananion of Cyprius an olde discipyle, with whom we should lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the bethzen receyued vs gladly. And on the morow Paul went in with vs vnto James. And al the elders camet together. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by order all thynges that God had wrought among the Centenies by his mynistracyon. And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and sayed vnto hym: thou seest brother, howe many thousand Jewes

For he hadsted (if it were possible for hym) to kepe at Jerusalem the day of Pentecoste. And from Epileton he sent messengers to Ephesus, & called the elders of the congregation. Which when they were come to him, he layed vnto the. He knowe from the first daye that I came into Asya: after what maner I haue bene with you at all seasons, scruping the Lord with all humbleness of mynde and with many teares and thyngs which happened vnto me by the saynges a waye of the Jewes, because I would kepe backe nothing that was profitable vnto you: but to shewe you and teache you openly, & throughout euery house: wytnessyng both to the Jewes, and also to the Grekes, the & reprobation, that is toward God, & the sayth which is toward our Lord Iesu. And now behold I go bounde in the sperte vnto Jerusalem, not knowyng the thynges that shall come on me there, but that the holy ghoost wytnesseth in euery cytee, sayng: that bandes and trouble shal byde me. But none of these thynges moue me: neither is my lyfe deere vnto my selfe, & I myghte fulfyl my course with joye, and the mynistracyon of the word, which I haue receyued of the Lord Iesu, to testyfy the Gospel of the grace of God. And now behold, I am sure, that hence forth by all (through whome I haue gone) prayng the kyngdome of God) shall se my face no more. Wherefore, I take you to recorde this daye, that I am pure from the bloude of al men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue shewed you all the counsel of God. Take heed therfore vnto your selues and to all the flocke among whom the holy ghoost hath made you overseers, to rule the congregation of God which he hath purchased with his bloude.

For I am sure of this, that after my departing shal greuous wolues enter in among you not sparing the flocke. Moreover, of your owne selues shall men aryse, speakyng peruerse thynges to dysciple after them. Therefore, awake and remember, that by the space of thre yeres: I ceased not to warne euery one of you nyght and daye with teares.

And now bethzen I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to buyde farther, and to geue you an heritaunce among all them which are sanctified. I haue desired no mans spuer, gold, or vesture. For ye your selues know that these bandes haue mynistrd vnto my necessities, and to them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thynges how that so labouryng ye ought to receyue the weakes, and to remember the wordes of the Lord Iesu, how that he sayd: it is more blessed to geue then to receyue.

And when he had thus spokt, he kneeled doune and prayed with them all. And they al wept sore and fell on Pauls necke, and kysed hym, sorrowyng most of all for the wordes which he spak, that they shoulde se his face no more. And they conueyed hym vnto the shippe.

hym on the mouth. Then sayed Paul vnto him God shall smyte thei thou paynted wall. Opetest thou and iudgest me after the lawe: and comaundest me to be smitten contrary to the lawe.
And they that stode by, sayed: & reuyllest thou Goddest hye priest? Then sayed Paul: I wylle not bethelien, that he was the hye priest. For it is wyrtēn: thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people. When Paul perceined that he one part was saducens, and the other pharises, he cried out in the counsell: Men and bethelien. I am a pharyse, the sonne of a pharyse. Of the hope and resurrection from death, I am iudged.

And when he had so said, ther arose a debate betwene the pharises and the saducens and the multitude was deuyded. For the saducens sayed that there is no resurrection, neither angell nor spete: But the pharises graunte bothe.

And ther arose agrement, and when the scribes whiche were of the phariseis parte arose, they stroue sayng: we fynd none euill in this man. Though a spete or angel hath appeared vnto hym, let vs not stryue agaynst God.

And when there arose a great debate, the ca-pitayn (fearng, lest Paul shoulde haue bene pluct a sonder of them) commaunded the souldy-ers to go doune, and to take hym from amonge them, and to bryng hym into the castell. The nyght folowng, God stode by hym & saide: be of good cheir Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem: so must thou here witness also at Rome. And when it was day, certein of the Je-wes gathered them selues together, and made a vowe, sayng: that thei woulde neither eat nor drynke, tyl thei had killed Paul. Thei wer mo-then. xl. men which had made this conspienci.

And thei came to the cheif prestes and elders, & saide we haue bound our selues with a vowe that we wil eat nothing, vntill we haue slain Paul: Now therfore geue ye knowledge to the upper capteyn and to the counsell, that he bryng hym forth vnto vs to morowe, as though we would know somethynge moze perfectly of hym.
But we (or euer he come nere) are redy to kyll hym. When Pauls spiers sonne herde of thei sayng a wayt, he went, and entered into the castell, and told Paul. And Paul called one of the vnder capteynes vnto him & saide: bryng this young man vnto the hye capteyne for he hath a certayn thyng to shewe hym. And he toke hym and brougt hym to the hye capteyn, and sayed Paul the prisoner called me vnto him, & prayed me to bryng this young man vnto the where he hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye capteyne toke hym by the hande and went with hym out of the way, and asked him what is it that thou hast to tel me? And he sayd the Jewes are determyned to desire the, that þ wouldest bryng forth Paul to morowe into the counsell, as though thei wold enquire som what of hym moze perfectly. But foloe not thou thei myndes, for thei lye in wayte for hym of them mo then. xl. men which haue bound them selues with a vowe, & thei wil neither eat nor drynke tyll they haue killed hym. And nowe are they ready, and looke that thou shouldest promys.

The upper capteyn then let the young man departe, and charged hym, sayng: se thou tel it out to noman, that thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto hym two vnder capteynes sayng: make ready two hundred souldyers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen the score and tenne, and speare men two hundred at the thyde houre of the nyght. And deliuer the beastes that they maye sette Paulle on, and bryng hym safe vnto Xpys the hye debyte, ¶ Paul was kept in Cesarea for two monethes, and he wrote a letter after this maner.

Claudian Lysias vnto the most myghty euler Xpys sendeth greetynge. This man was taken of the Jewes, and shoulde haue bene kyl-led of them. Then came I with souldyers, and rescued hym, and perceined that he was a Ro-mayne. And when I woulde haue knowne the cause wherfore they accused hym, I brougt hym forth into thei counsell. There perceined I that

The. xliii. Chapter

¶ Paul is accused before Felix, he answered for hym selfe.

After thye dayes Ananias & the hye priest descended with the elders, & with a certayne oratoure, named Tertullus, whiche insourmed the debyte agaynst Paul. And when Paul was called forth, Tertullus beganne to accuse him, sayng: Sepng that we liue in gret quietnes by the meanes of the, and that manye good thynges are done to this nacyon through thy prouidence, that alowe we euer and in all places mooste noble Felix with all chanches.
 Not withstanding, that I be not tedious vnto the, I praye the, that thou wouldest heare vs of thy curtesy a fewe wordes

For we haue found this man a pestelynt feloe and a mouer of debate vnto al the Jewes in the whole world, and a mayatayner of the secte of the Nazarites, whiche hath also r-forced to pollute the temple: Whom we tooke and woulde haue iudged accordyng to our law but the hye captayn Lysias came vpon vs, and with gret violence toke hym awaye oute of our handes, commaundyng his accusers to come vnto the. Of whom thou maist (if thou wylt enquire) knowe the certentie of al these thynges wherof we accuse him. The Jewes like wise affirmed: sayng, that these thynges wer enen so Then Paul (after that the debyte hym selfe had beckened vnto hym that he shoulde speke) answered, with a more quiet mind do I answer for my selfe, for as muche as I vnderstand, that thou hast bene of many yeres a iudge vnto this people, because that thou mayeste knowe, that there are yet, but twelue daies sence I went vp to Jerusalem for to do worshipp, and they nether founde me in the temple by puttinge with any man, ether rasyng vp the people, neyther in the Synagoges, nor in the cytee. Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

But this I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (whiche they call heresy) so worshipp I the God of my fathers, beleynge all thynges, whiche are wyrtten in the lawe and the prophetes, and haue hope towarde God, that the lame resurrectyon of the dead (whiche they themselues loke for also) shal be both of iust and vniust. And therfore study I to haue alwaye clere conscience towarde God, and towarde men. But after many yeres, I came and brought almes to my people and offerpuges (and vnto the) in the which they found me purged in the temple, nether with multitude nor yet with vnquietnes (and they tooke me, and cryed, sayng: awaye with our enemye.) Howbeit they wer certayn Jewes out of Asia, which ought to be here present before the, and accuse me. If they had ought agaynst me: or els let these same here say, if they haue found any euil doying in me, while I stand here in the counsell: excepte it be for this one voyce that I cry-ed standyng among them: of the resurrectyon frome dead, am I iudged of you this daye

When Felix had these thynges, he deferred them, for he knewe very well of that way, and sayed: when Lysias the captayn is come doune I wyl knowe the vntermost of youre matter.
 And he commaunded an vnder captayn to ke-pe Paul, and to let hym haue reast, and that he shoulde forbyd none of his acquaintaunce to mynester vnto hym, or to come to hym.

After a certayn daies, whil Felix came with his wife Drusilla (which was a Jewesse) he called forth Paul, and hearde hym of the sayeth, whiche is towarde Christ. And as he preached of ryghteousnes temperaunce, and iudgemente to come, Felix trembled and answered, So thy waye for this tyme: when I haue a conueny-ente season, I wyl sende for the. He hoped also that mony shoulde haue bene geue him of Paul that he might lose him: wherfore, he called him the oftner and comoned with hym. But after two yeres, Festus Bozepsus came into Felix to Rome. And Felix: wyllyng to shewe the Je-wes a pleasure, lefte Paul in prisson bounde.

The. xlv. Chapter.

¶ The Jewes accuse Paul before Festus, he appereth vnto the Emperours, and is sent vnto Rome.

When Festus had receyued the offyce, after thier dayes, he ascended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. Then enfourmed him the hie priettes, and the chiefe of the Jewes, of Paul. And they deloughe him, and desired fauour agaynst hym, that he woulde sende for hym to Jerusalem: and they layed awaye for hym in the waye, to kyll hym. Festus answered, that Paul shoulde be kept at Cesarea but that he hym selfe woulde shortlye departe thither. Let them therfore (sayed he) whiche amonge you are able, come doune with vs, and accuse hym if there be anye faute in the man.

When he had cried ther among them more then tenne dayes, he went doune vnto Cesarea Gg. liii and

and the next daye sat downe in the iudgemente seate, and commaunded Paul to be broughte. Wherupon when he was come, the Jewes whiche were come frome Ierusalem, stode about hym, and layed manye and greuous complayntes agaynst Paul, whiche they coulde not proue, as longe as he answered for him selfe: that he had neither agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, neither agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar, offended any thyng at all.

C Festus* willing to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paul, and said: write thou go vp to Ierusalem, and ther be iudged of these thynges before me: Then sayed Paul I stand at Cessars iudgement seat, wher I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very wel knowest: If I haue hurt them, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to dye. If none of these thynges are, wherof they accuse me, no man maye deliuer me to them. I appele vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberation, and answered. Thou hast appyled vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

And after a certayne dayes hyng Agrippa and Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And when they had bene there a good season, Festus redered Pauls cause vnto hyng sayng: there is a certayne man left in prison of Aylex aboute whom when I came to Ierusalem, the hye priestes and elders of the Jewes enformed me, and desired to haue iudgement agaynst hym. To whome I answered: it is not the maner of the Romaines, for sauour to deliuer any man, that he should perishe, before that he which is accused, haue his accusers before hym: and haue licence to answer for hym selfe, concerning the crime layed agaynst hym. Therfore, when they wer come he ther without any delay on the morowe I late to geue iudgemente, and commaunded the man to be broughte forth.

Against whom, when the accusers stode vp they broughte none accusation of such thynges as I supposed: but had certayne questions agaynst him of theirowne superstition, and of one Jesus whiche was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alijue. And because I doubred of such maner of questions, I asked him wherher he wold go to Ierusalem: there be iudged of these matters. But when Paul had appyled to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded hym to be kepte, tyll I myght sende hym to Cesar. Agrippa said vnto Festus: I would also heere the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayed he) thou shalt heere hym: And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernice, with greates pompe, and were entred into the counsel house, with the capteynes and chiefe men of the cytee, at Festus commaundement was Paul broughte forth. And Festus sayed: hyng Agrippa, and all ye men whiche are here present: wyth vs, ye se this man, aboute whome all the multitude of the Jewes haue increased me, both at Ierusalem and also here cryinge, that he oughte not to lyue anye longer. Yet founde I nothing worthy of death, that he had committed. Neuerthe lesse, sorynge that he hadde appyled to Cesar, I haue determyned to sende hym. Of whome I haue no certayne thyng to wyte vnto my Lord. Wherfore, I haue brought hym vnto you, and specialllye vnto the (hyng Agrippa) that after examination had I myght haue somewhat to wyte. For me thynketh it vncreasonable, for to sende a prysoner, and not to shewe the causes whiche are layed agaynst hym.

hyng Agrippa heareth Paul, whiche telleth hym howe calling from the begynnyng Agrippa said vnto Paul: thou art permitted to speake for thy selfe. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for him selfe: I thynke my selfe happy hyng Agrippa, because I shal haue to saye before thee, of all thynges wherof I am accused of the Jewes, namely be cause thou arte experte in all customes and questions whiche are amonge the Jewes. Wherfore I beseeche thee, to heere me paciently. Whyllyng that I haue ledde of a chylde, which was at the first among myne owne nacion at Ierusalem: knowe al the Jewes whiche knowe me frome the begynnyng, if they woulde testifie: For after the most strytest secte of our religion, I lyued a Pharisee. And nowe I stande and am iudged for the boope of the promesse made of God vnto our fathers: vnto which promysed our twelue tribes (instantly scruping God day and nyght) boope to come. For whiche hope sake, hyng Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes. Why should it be thought a thyng incredible vnto you, that God shoulde raise a gayne the dead? (I also verely thoughte in my selfe that I oughte to do manye contrary thynges, cleane agaynst the name of Jesus of Nazareth: whiche thynges I also dyd in Jerusalem: And many of the sayntes dyd I shut vp in prison and had receyued auctorite of the hye priestes. And when they were put to death, I gaue the sentence. And I punished them ofte in euery synagoge, and compelled them to blasphem me and was yet more madde vpon them, and persecuted them, euen vnto strange cytees. About whiche thynges as I wente to Damascus with auctoritee and licence of the hye priestes: euen at myddaye, (whiche) I sawe in the waye a lyghte from heauen aboute the wyghtnes of the sunne thynke rounde about me, & them whiche iourued with me. When we were all fallen to the earth, I hearde a voyce speaking vnto me, and sayng in the hebrewe tongue: Paul, Paul, why persecutest thou me? It is he that hearde for the to kepe agaynst the pythes. And I sayed: Who arte thou Lord. And he sayed: I am Jesus whom thou persecutest, but rise and stande vpon thy feete.

For

For I haue appered vnto the for this purpose: to make the a mynster and a wptnesse bothe of those thynges whiche thou hast sene, & of those thynges in the whiche I wyll appere vnto the, deliuering the frome the people, and from the Gentyles, vnto whome nowe I sende the, to open theyr eyes, that they maye be turned frome darkenes to lyght, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they may receyue forgiveness of synnes, and inheryte aunce amonge them which are sanctified by fapth: is toward me.

Wherfore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not byschoed yente vnto the heauenlye visyon: but shewed first vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and thow out all the coastes of Jewrye, and then to the Gentyles that they shoulde repent, and turne to God, and do suche woordes as become them that repent. For this cause the Jewes caught me in the temple, and wente about to kyll me. Wherfore that I haue obtained helpe of God: I contynue vnto this daye, wptnesing bothe to small and to greace, sayng none other thynges, then those whiche prophetes and Moyses byd say shuld come: that Christe shoulde suffer, and that he shoulde be the first that shoulde rise from deathe and shoulde be lyght vnto the people, and to the Gentyles.

As he thus spake for hym self, Festus said vnto a londe voyce: Paule, thou arte besyde thy selfe much learyng doth make the mad. And Paul sayde: I am not mad (moste dere Festus) but speake forth the woordes of truth and sobernes. For the byng knoweth of these thynges, before whom also I speake freely: neyther thynke I any of these thynges are hydden from hym.

For this thyng was not done in a corner. Kynge Agrippa beleuest thou the prophetes? I wote well that thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paule: Some what thou byngeste me in mynde for to become Christen. And Paul sayd: I wold so God that not onely thou: but also all that heare me to daye were, not somewhat onely but altogether, such as I am, except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the debyte, and Bernice, and they that sat wth them. And when they were gone apart, they talked betwene the selues, sayng: This man dothe nothyng woorthy of deathe, or of bondes. Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus: This man myght haue bene let loose, yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

The xxvii Chapter.

Paul sayeth to the same Festus, that he had beene in Rome, and that he had beene in the court of Cesar, and that he had beene in the court of the king of Syria.

When it was concluded, yf we shoulde sayle into Itale, they deliuered both Paul, and certayne other prysoners, vnto one named Julius, an vndercaptaine of Cesar's souldiers. And we entered into a ship of Adramitium, and lofed from lande appoynted to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one Aristarcus oute of Macedonia of the countree of Thessalonica carryng with hym. And the nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius & courteously entreated Paule & gaue hym lyberte, to go vnto his frendes, and to refresh hymself. And when we had launched from thence, we sailed hard by Cyprus because the wyndes be contrary. And when we had sayled ouer the see of Cilicia and Phamphilia, we came to Myra which is in Lycia.

And there the vndercaptaine found a ship of Alexandria, ready, that sayled into Itale, & he put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes, & scarce we come ouer against Cydon (because the wynde withstode vs) we sayled hard by the coast of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche woork sayled beyond it, and came vnto a place which is called Fairer hauens. For wherunto was the cytie of Lausa. When much tyme was spent, & when saylunge was nowe leoparuous, because also that they had ouerlonge fasted, Paul put them in remembrance, and sayd vnto them: Myght I perceyue that this voyage wylde with hurt and damage not of the saylunge and shippe onely, but also of your liues. Reuerthelesse, the vndercaptaine beleued the gouernour and the mayster of the ship more then those thynges whiche were spoken of Paule. And because the heauen was not commodious to winter in, many toke counsell to departe thence, yf by anye means they myght attayne to Phenices, and there to winter, which is an haven of Candy, and lyeth toward the southwester and northwester wynde. When the southwynde blew, they supposyng to obtayne theyr purpose, loosed vnto Ailon, & sayled past all Candy.

But not longe after, there arose agaynst theyr purpose a flawe of wynde out of the north-east. And when the shippe was caught & could not resist the wynde, we let her goo, and draue wth the wether. But we were carryed into an yle which is named Claudia, & had muche woork to come by a bore, which they toke vp, and used helpe, and made faste the shippe, fearing, lest they shoulde fall into the wytes. And so they let downe a vessell and wer carryed. The nexte day, when we were toled with an exceedyng tempest, they lyghtened the shippe, and the thyrde day we cast out wth our owne handes the takyng of the shippe. When at the laste, neether the wynde nor starres in many daies appered, and no final tempeste laye vpon vs, all hope that we shoulde escape, was then taken awaye. But after long abstinence, Paule stode forth in the myddes of them and sayde: Myght ye wold haue hearkened to me, & not to haue loosed from Candy, neether to haue broughte vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhort you to be of good chere. For ther shalbe no losse of any mans lyfe among you, saue of the shippe onely. For ther stode by me this nyght the angell of God, whose I am, and whom I serue, sayng: feare not Paul. He must be broughte before Cesar. And so: God hath geuen the all them that sayle wth the. Wherfore lyas be of good chere: for I beleue God, that it shalbe euen as it was tolde me. Howbeit we must be cast into a certayne plande.

But when the fourtenth nyght was come

Col. liii

(as we wer sailyng in Iris, about mydnyght) the thymmen demed, & there appered some countre vnto them: and sounded, & founde it. xx. fadoms. And when they had gone a lytell farther they sounded again, and founde. xv. fadoms. Then fearyng lest they shoulde haue fallen on some rocke, they caste foure ankers out of the sterne, and wythed for the dawe. As the thymmen were about to kee out of thym: when they had let doune the bote into the see, vnder a coloure, as though they wolde haue caste ankers out of thym. Paul sayde vnto the vndercaptayn and to the soudyers: excepte these abyde in the thympe can not be safe. Then thoudyers cut of the rope of the bote, & let it fall a way.

¶ And when the day began to appere, Paule besoughte them all to take meate, sayyng thys is the fourtenth dawe, that we haue taryed, and continued fastyng, receyuyng nothyng at all. Wherefore I praye you to take meate: for thys no doubte is for your helthe: for there shal not an here fall fro the head of any of you. And whē he had thus spoken, he toke bread & gaue thankes to God in presence of them al, and when he had broken it, he began to eate. Then wer they all of good chere, and they also toke meate. We were altogether in the thympe, two hundred thys scope and threene soules. And when they had eaten ynoug, they lyghetened the thym, and caste out the wheate into the see.

¶ When it was dawe, they knewe not the land but they spyed a certayne hauen with a banke, into the which they wer mynded (yf it wer possible) to thrust in the thym: And when they had taken vp the ankers, they commytted them selues vnto the see, and loosed thouders bondes & droyed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, and diuerse to lande. And when they chaunced on a place, whiche had the see on bothe sydes, they thruste in the thympe. And the foreparte stucke fast and moued not, but the hynder parte brake with the violence of the waves.

The soudyers councell was to kyll the prisoners, lest any of them, whē he had wome out shoulde runne a waye. But the vndercaptayne, wyllynge to saue Paule, kepte them fro thys purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swymme, shoulde caste them selues fyrste into the see, and scape to land. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bozdes, and some on broken peces of the thympe. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to lande.

The xxviii. Chapter.

¶ The vpper brydeth not Paule hande, he prayeth thouders for thys, and prayeth thys at Rome.

¶ And when they were scaped, then they knewe, that the yle was called Mylete. And the strangers shewed vs no lytell kynndes: for they kynbled a fyre, and receiued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, and because of the colde. And when Paule had gathered a bondell of styches, and layde them on the fyre, there came a vpper oute of the heate, & caught hym by the hande. When the strangers sawe thys heast hange on his hand they sayde amonge them selues: no doubte this man is a murderer: Whome (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeance shal followe. And he shoulde of the vpper into the fyre, & felt no harme. Howbeit they wyped when he shoulde haue swolne, or fallen downe dead (sodely) But after they had looked a greater whyle, and sawe no harme come to him, they charged they myndes, and sayd: that he was a God.

In the same quarters were landes of thys chefe man of yle (whose name was Publius) whiche receyued vs, and lodged vs thys dawe curte only. And it fortuneth that the father of Publius, laye syche of a feuer, and of a bloudy fyre. To whom Paule entred in and prayed, & layde thys handes on hym & healed hym. So whē this was done, other also whiche had dyscaies in the yle, came and were healed: whiche also byd vs great honoure. And when we departed they laded vs with such thynge as were necessary.

After thys monethes we departed in a thym of Alexandrie, which had wyntered in the yle, whose badge was Castor & Pollux. And when we came to Cyrcula, we taried ther thys dawe. And frome thence we fet a compass, and came to Regium. And after one dawe the south wynde blew, and we came the next dawe to Putiolus: wher we founde brydzen, and were desyred to tary wth them seuen daves, and so came we to Rome. And fro thence, when the brydzen herd of vs, they came to mete vs at Apphozum, and at the thys sauerne. When Paule sawe them he thanked God, and wered bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vndercaptayne deliuered the prisoners to the chefe captayne of the boste but Paule was suffered to dwell by hym selfe with a soudyer that kept hym.

And after thys dawe, Paule called the chefe of the Jewes together. And whē they wer come he sayde vnto them: Men and brydzen, though I haue commytted nothyng against the people or lawes of the elders, yet was I deliuered prisoner frome Jerusalem into the handes of the Romaynes. Whiche when they had examyned me, wolde haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jewes spake contrarye I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not for I had ought to accuse my people of. For thys cause then haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake wth you: because that for the hope of Israel I am bold wth thys cheyne.

And they said vnto hym: we nether receiued letters out of Jewrye pertainyng vnto the, nether any of the brydzen that came, shewed or spake any harme of the. But we wyl heare of what thou thynkest. For as concerning thys sect we knowe & reueren wher it is spoken agaynst. And when they hadde appoynted hym a dawe, there came many to hym into his lodgyng. To whom he expounded and testyfyed the kyngdom of God and preached vnto them of Iesus: both out of the lawe of Moyses and out of the propheces, euen from mozynng to nyght. And some belued the thynges whyche were spoken, and some belued not. And when they agreed not amonge thein selues, they departed, after that Paule had spoken one woide: well spake the holy ghoſte by Elape the Propheete vnto oure fathers, ſaying: * Go vnto this people, and ſape: Kp̄th your eares ſhall ye heare, and ſhall not vnderſtande: and with your eyes ſhall ye ſee, and not perceyue. For the heart of this people is waxed groſſe and with theyr eares haue they had no luſt to heare, and theyr eyes haue they closed leſte they ſhould ſee with theyr eyes, and heare with theyr eares, and vnderſtande with theyr hertes, and ſhulde be conuerted. & I ſhulde heale the. Be it knowne therfore vnto you, that this ſaluacyon of God is ſent to the Gentyles, and they ſhall heare it. And when he had ſaide theſe wordes, the Jewes departed from hym and had greute deſpycon amonge them ſelues. And Paul dwelt two yeres full in his lodgyng and receyued all that came in vnto hym, preachinge the kyngdome of God, & teachinge thoſe thynges which concerne the Lord Jeſus with al confidence, no man ſozbyddyng hym.

¶ Here endeth the Actes of the Apoſtles.

The Epistle of the Apoſtle ſayncte Paule to the Romaynes.

The fyrſt Chapter.

¶ I Paul declareth his loue toward the Romaynes, ſheweth what the Goſpel is, with the fruit thereof, and ſeruaeth the beaſtyties of the Creation.

PAUL the ſeruaunte of Jeſus Chriſt, called to the office of an Apoſtle, * put a parte ſoz ſ Goſpel of god, * which he had promyſed afoze by hys Propheetes in the holy ſcriptures of his ſonne, which was bozne (vnto hym) * of the ſede of Dauid after the fleſh: and hath bene declared to be the ſonne of God with power after the ſpyrite that ſanctifyeth, ſence ſ tyme that Jeſus Chriſt our Lord roſe agaynſt death: by whom we haue receiued grace and Apoſtleship, that obedyence myghte be geuen vnto the ſaythe in hys name amonge all heathen, of whoſe nombze you be the electe of Jeſu Chriſt.

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and ſaintes by electyon. * Grace be with you & peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Kp̄ſte verily I thanke my God thorow Jeſus Chriſt ſoz you all, that your ſaythe is ſpoken of in all the world. For God is my wytnes (whom I ſerue, & with my ſpyete in the Goſpell of hys ſonne) that without ceasing I make mention of you, prayng alwayes * in my prayers, that by ſome meane, at ſ laſte (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney (by ſ will of God) myghte fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to ſee you, that I myghte beſtow amonge you ſome ſpyrituall gyfte, to ſtrengthene you wythall, that is, that I myghte haue conſolation together with you, through the common ſayth, which both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye ſhulde knowe (byeth) howe that I haue often tymes purpoſed to come vnto you: but haue bene lette thereto, to haue ſome frute alſo amonge you, as amonge other of the Gentyles. I am better both to the Sickes and to the vngrekes, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that (as much as in me is) I am re-dye to preach the Goſpel vnto you that are at Rome alſo. * For I am not aſhamed of ſ Goſpel of Chriſt, becauſe it is ſ power of God vnto ſaluacyon to every one that beleueth, to the Jewe fyrſt, and alſo to the Gentyle.

For by it is the ryghteouſneſſe of God opened from ſayth to ſayth. As it is wyrtten: * the iuſte ſhall lyue by ſayth.

For the wrath of God appereth from heauen agaynſt all vngodlynes and vnrigheteouſnes of men, whyche wythholde the truth in vnrigheteouſnes: ſeprnge * that it whyche maye be knowne of God, is manifeſt amonge them, becauſe God hath ſhewed it vnto them. * For his inuifible thynges (that is to ſaye by eternal power & godhed) are ſene, ſoz as muche as they are vnderſtande * by the woikes, from the creation of the world: So that they are wythout excuſe, becauſe that whē they knewe God, they gloryfied hym not as God, neither were thankfull but waxed full of vanities in theyr ymaginations. * And theyr ſolp̄ hert was blynded. When they counted them ſelues wyſe, they became fooles, * and turned the gloze of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made nor onely after the ſimilitude of a mortall man: but alſo of byzdes, and foure footed * beaſtes, and of creeping beaſtes. Wherefore, God gaue them vp to vncleines, tho: owe the luſtes of theyr owne hertes to deſpyle theyr owne bodyes amonge the inſelues: which chaunged his truth ſoz a lie, and woꝝhypped and ſerned ſ thynges that be made more then hym that made them, whiche is to be prayſed ſoz ever. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto ſhameful luſtes: * For euē theyr women dyd chaunge the naturall vſe into that which is agaynſt nature. And lyke wyſe alſo ſ men, leſte the naturall vſe of the woman, and byente in theyr luſtes one with another, * men with men wroughte fylthynges, and receyued to them ſelues the rewarde of theyr erreure, as it was accoꝝdyng.

And as they regarded not to knowe God, * euen ſo God deliuered them vp vnto a lewde mynde, that they ſhulde do thoſe thynges which were not comely, bepruge full of all vnrigheteouſneſſe, ſonification, wyckednes, couctouſneſſe, malicioſneſſe, full of enuye, murder, debate, diſceyte, cruel condicioned, wyſperers, backbiters, haters of God, diſdainful, proud boasters dyngers vp of euē thynges, diſobedient to fathers and mother, wythout vnderſtandyng, conuincunt renamte breakers, vnloving, true breakers, vnmercifull. Which men though they knowe the ryghteousnes of God, yet they which comyt suche thynges, are worthy of death, not only so, but also do the same, but al so do they have pleasure in them & do them.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ The second chapter, which is touching synne and lyke the death.

Therfore art thou inexcusable, O man whosoever thou bee that iudgeste. For in the same wherein thou iudgeste another, thou condemnest thy self. For thou that iudgest doest euen the same selfe thynges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God, is accordyng to the truth agaynste them which comytte suche thynges. Thynges thou thyself. O thou man that iudgest them which do suche thynges, and doest euen the very same thyselfe, that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God: Eytber despyllest thou the ryghtes of his goodnes, and patience and long sufferance, not knowyng, that the kyndnes of God leadeth the to repentance.

But thou after thy stubbernes, and herte cannot repent, heapest vnto thy selfe wrath agaynste the daye of vengeance, when shall be opened the ryghteous iudgement of God, which will rewarde euery man accordyng to his deedes. that is to saye, prayse honour and immortalitye, to them which contynue in good doynge, and seke immortallite. But vnto them that are rebelles, and that do not obey the truth, but followe vnyghteousnes, shall come indignacion and wrath, tribulacion and angurthe vpon the soule of euery man that dothe euill: of the Jew first, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doth good, shall come prayse, and honoure, and peace, to the Jew first, and also to the Gentyle.

For there is no respecte of persons, with God. For whosoever hath synned without law, shall also perishe without lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe. For in the synne of God they are not ryghteous which beare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For when the Gentyles which haue not the lawe, do of nature the thynges conteyned in the lawe: then they hauing not the lawe, are a lawe vnto the selfe, which shewe the dede of the lawe wyitten in theyr heartes: while theyr conscience beareth wytnes vnto them, & also theyr thoughtes, accusyng one another, or excusing, at the daye when God shall iudge the secretes of men, by Iesus Christ accordyng to my Gospel.

Holden thou arte called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God, & knowest his wyll, and allowest the thynges that be excellent, and art informed by the lawe: and beleeuest that thou thyselfe arte a guide of the blinde, a lght of them which lacke dyctacion, a teacher of the vnlearned, which hast an example of knowlage, & of the truth by the lawe. Thou therfore whiche teachest another, teachest not thy selfe. * Thou preacheest, a manne shoulde not steale: yet thou stealest. Thou that sayest, a man shoulde not comyt aduontry breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou that makest thy boast of the lawe, thou breakest the lawe by the nonore of God. For the name of God is well spoken of amonge the Gentyles, thou doest you as it is wyitten. For circumcysion verely auayleth, if thou kepe the lawe. But if thou be a breaker of the lawe, the circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion. Therfore, if the vncircumcised kepe the ryghte thynges contayned in the lawe, shall not his vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion. And shall not vncircumcised which is by nature (if it kepe the lawe) iudge the which beynge vnder the letter and circumcysion, doth transgresse the lawe? he is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Rather is it circumcysion which is outward in the flesh. But he is a Jewe which is hyd with in, and the circumcysion of the herte is the true circumcysion, whiche considereth in the spere and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men: but of God.

The iii. Chapter.

¶ The third chapter, which sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and that both the Jewes & Gentyles are vnder synne, and are iustified only by the grace of God in Christ.

What preferment then hath the Jewe? For what aduantage hath circumcysion? Surely very muche. For it is because that vnto them were comytted the wordes of God. What then though some of the dyd not beleue? Shall they vnbelaue make synners of God without effect? God forbid. * Let God be true, and euerie man a lyer, as it is wyitten: that thou mightest be iustified in thy saynges, and overcome when thou art iudged.

But if our vnyghteousnes make the ryghteousnes of God more excellent: what shall we saye? Is God vnyghteous, which taketh vengeance? I speake after the manner of men: God forbid. For howe then shall God iudge the world? For if the truth of God appere more excellent thow my lyer, vnto his praise, why am I then so iudged as a synner: and not rather (as me speake euil of vs, and as some asseyne that we saye) let vs do euill, that good maye come thereof. Whose damnacion is iust.

What then? Are we better then they? No, in C no wise. For we haue alreadye proued, how that both Jewes and Gentyles are all vnder synne, as it is wyitten. * There is none ryghteous, no not one: there is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vnprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one. * They are as an open sepulchre, where theyr tonges they haue dyctated: the popson of Aspes is vnder theyr lippes. * Whose mouth is full of cursyng and bytternes. * Theyr fate are iust to shed blood. * Destruction & detestablenesse are in theyr wayes, and the way of peace haue they not knownen. * There is no feare of God before theyr eyes.

¶ The

We knowe that what former thynges the lawe sayth, it sayth it to them which are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes may be stopped, & that all the world may be subdued to God, because that by the dedes of f lawe there shal no fleshe be iustified in his syght. For by the lawe cometh the knowledge of synne.

But nowe is the ryghteousnes of God declared without the lawe, for so much as it is allowed by the testimonye of the lawe and of the Prophetes. The ryghteousnes of God, cometh by the fayth of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. (on hym.)

There is no difference: for all haue synned & are destitute of the glorye of God: but are iustified frely by his grace, through f redemption that is in Christ Iesu, whome God hath set forth to be f obtayner of mercy thow sayth by the meanes of his blood, to declare his ryghteousnes, in that he f orgaue f synnes that are passed, whiche God dyd suffer, to the we at thys tyme his ryghteousnes, that he myght be counted iust, and f iustifier of hym whiche beleueth on Iesus. There is then thy reioysing? It is excluded. By what lawe? of wothes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

Therefore we holde, that a man is iustified by fayth withoute the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes only? Is he not also the God of the Gentyles? Yes, eue of the Gentyles also: For it is God onely whiche iustifieth the circumcysion that is of fayth, and vncircumcysion thow sayth. Do we then destroy f lawe thow sayth? God f sayth: But we rather mayntayne the lawe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The declared by the example of Abraham, that fayth iustifyth, and not the lawe, nor the wothes of it.

What shal we say then, f Abraham oure father (as pertaynyng to the fleshe) dyd synde? If Abraham wer iustified by dedes, then hadde he wherein to reioyse: but not with God. For what sayeth the scrpyture? Abraham beleued God, and it was counted vnto hym for ryghteousnes. To hym that woorketh is the rewarde not reckened of fauoure, but of due type. To hym that woorketh not, but beleueth on hym that iustifieth the vngodly, is his faythe counted for ryghteousnesse. (accordinge to the purpose of the grace of God.) Euen as Dauid described the blessednesse of that manne, vnto whome God imputeth ryghteousnesse without dedes. Blessed are they, whose vnrigheteousnesse are forgiven, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man, to whome the Loyde wyl not impute synne. Came thys blessednes

Then vpon the vncircumcysion, or vpon f circumcysion also? For we saye, that faythe was reckened to Abraham for ryghteousnes. Howe was it then reckened? when he was in the circumcysion? or when he was in the vncircumcysion? Not in f tyme of circumcysion: but when he was yet vncircumcysed. And he receyued the figne of circumcysion, as a seale of f ryghte ousnes of fayth, which he had yet beyng vncircumcysed, that he shuld be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcysed, that ryghteousnes myght be imputed to them also: and that he myght be father of circumcysion, not vnto them onely whiche came of f circumcysed, but vnto them also that walke in the stepes of the fayth f was in oure father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcysion.

For the promys (that he shuld be the ffather of the world) happened not to Abraham or to hys seide thow we the lawe: but thow we the ryghteousnes of fayth. For yf they whiche are of the lawe, be heyres, then is fayth but vayne and the promys of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrath. For where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therefore by fayth is the ender fauour geuen, that it myght come of fauoure: f the promys myght be sure to al the fede. Not to them onely whiche are of the lawe: but to them al so whiche are of the fayth of Abraham, which is the fayth of vs all. (As it is wytt: I haue made the a father of many nacjons) eue before God, whome he beleued, whiche restorerth the dead vnto lyfe: & calleth those thynges whiche be not, as though they were.

Which Abraham, contrary to hope, beleued in hope, that he shoulde be the father of many nacjons, accordinge to that which was spoken: euen so shal thy seide be, as the starres of heauen, and the sarme of the sea. And he fapned not in f fayth nor yet considered hys owne body whiche was nowe dead, eue when he was almost an hundred yere olde: neither yet f Sara was past child bearing. He fackered not at the promys of God, thow we vnbelefe: but became stronge in fayth and gaue God the praise, beyng full certified, that he whiche had promysed the same was able also to make it good. And therefore was it reckened to hym for ryghteousnes.

Questiōelle, it is not wyttē for hym only, that it was reckened to hym, for ryghteousnes, but also for vs, to whome it shalbe counted so that we beleue on hym that raised by Iesus oure Loyde from the deade: whiche was deliuered for oure synnes, and was raised agayne for oure iustificacō.

The. v. Chapter.

The power of fayth, hope and loue, and howe death rayged from Adam vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synnes.

Because therefore that we are iustified by fayth, we are at peace with God, thow we cure Loyde Iesus Christ: by whome also it chaused vnto vs to be bycought in thow we saythe, vnto thys grace, wherein we stande, and reioice in hope of the glorye of God. Not that onely: but also we reioice in tribulacions: knowing that f tribulacion byngeth pacience, pacience byngeth experyence, experyence byngeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because f loue of God is shed abrode in oure hertes, by f holy ghoſt whiche is geuen vnto vs.

For when we were yet weak, according to the time, Christ dyed for us which were vngodly: Yet scarce wyl any man dye for a righte-ous man. Peraduenture for a good man durste a man die. But God setteth out his lone to warde vs, saying that whyle we were yet synners, Christ dyed for vs. Much more then now, we are iustified by his bloude, shalbe saved from wrath thow we hym. For yf when we were enemies, we were reconcyled to God, by the death of his sonne: much more sayng we are reconcyled, we shalbe preserued by his lyfe. Not onely this, but we also loye in God by the meanes of our Lord Iesus Christ by whome we haue now obtained the attornment. Wherefore, as by one man, synne entred into the world, and death by the meanes of synne. Euen so death also went ouer al me, inso much as all we haue sinned. For euen vnto the lawe was synne in the world: but synne is not imputed, when there is no lawe: neuertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, euen ouer them also that had not sinned wth lyke trasgressyon as did Adam: which beareth the similitude of hym that was to come. But the gyfte is not lyke as the synne. For yf thow we the synne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God, and gyfte by grace which was of one man Iesus Christ. And the gyfte is not ouer one synne: as death came thow we one synne of one that sinned. For dampnation came of one synne vnto condempnacyon: but the gyfte came to iustifye from many synnes. For yf by synne of one, death reigned by the meanes of one: much more they (whiche receyue a boundance of grace and of the gyfte of ryghteousnes) shal reigne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to say) Iesus Christ. Likewise then as by the synne of one ther sprange vpon euell on all men to condempnacyon: euen so by the ryghteousnes of one spryngeth good vpon all men to the ryghteousnes of lyfe. For as by one mannes disobedience, many became synners: so by the obedience of one that man may be made ryghteous. But the lawe in the meane tyme entred in, that sinne shoulde encrease. Neuertheless wher aboundance of sinne was ther was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had reigned vnto death, euen so myghte grace reigne thow we ryghteousnes, vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Iesu Christ.

The. vi. Chapter.

For so much as we be deliuered thow we Christ from synne, we muste followe some frute to lyue as the seruantes of God, and not after our owne lustes. The only hely seruantes of ryghteousnes and lyne.

What shal we saye then? What we do synne in synne, that there maye be a boundance of grace? God forbyd. Howe shal we that are dead as touching synne, lyue any longer therein? I knowe ye not that all we whiche are baptised into Iesu Christ are baptised to dye with hym? We are buried the with hym by baptisme for to dye: that lyke wyse as Christ was raised vp from death by the gloire of his father, euen so we also shoulde walke in a newe lyfe. For if we be grafte in death lyke vnto hym, euen so shal we be partakers of the resurrection: knowyng this, that our olde man is crucified wth hym also, that the bodye of synne myghte utterly be destroyed, that henceforth we shoulde not be seruantes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is iustified from synne. Wherefore yf we be deade wth Christ, we beleue, that we shal also lyue wth hym: knowyng, that Christ beinge raised from death, dyeth no more. Death hath no more power ouer hym. For as touching that he dyed, he dyed concerning synne once. And as touching that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Lyke wyse consydre ye also, that ye are dead as touching synne, but are alijue vnto God thow we Iesus Christ our Lord. Let not synne reigne therfore in your mortall bodye, that ye shoulde therunto obey by the lustes of it: Neither geue ye your members as instrumentes of vnyghteousnes vnto synne: but geue ouer your selues vnto God as they that of dead, are alijue. And geue ouer your members as instrumentes of ryghteousnes vnto God. For synne shal not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then? What we synne, because we are not vnder the lawe: but vnder grace? God forbyd. I knowe ye not, howe that to whome soeuer ye comytte your selues as seruantes to obey his seruantes ye are to whome ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obedience vnto righteousnes? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruantes of synne, ye haue yet obeyed wth heart vnto the rule of the doctryne, that ye be broughte vnto. Ye are then made free from synne, and are become the seruantes of ryghteousnes. I speake grossly, because of the insymptie of your fleshe. As ye haue geuen your members seruantes to uncleannes and to iniquitye, (from one iniquitye to another) euen so now geue ouer your members seruantes vnto ryghteousnes, that ye maye be sanctified. For when ye were the seruantes of synne, ye were vnder the rule of righteousnes. What frute had ye then in those thynges, wherof ye are nowe ashamed? For the ende of those thynges is death. But now are ye deliuered from synne, and made the seruantes of God, ye haue your frute to be sanctified, and the end euertlasting lyfe. For the reward of synne is death, but eternall lyfe is the gyfte of God, thow we Iesus Christ our Lord.

The. vii. Chapter.

Christ hath deliuered us from the lawe and death, wherbye the lawe was the fleshe and outward man is, a callyt in the lawe of the members.

Howe ye not brethren? I speake to them that knowe the lawe: howe the lawe hath power ouer a man, as longe as it endureth? For the wolde a man which is in subiection to a man is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. But yf the man be deade: he is loosed from the lawe of the man. So then yf whyle the man lyueth he couplet her selfe to a nother man he shalbe counted a weddoche breather. But yf the ¶ Euen so ye also (my bether) are dead concerning the lawe by the body of Christ, & ye shoulde be coupled to another (I meane to hym & is risen agayn from death) & we shoulde bying forth frute vnto God. For when we were in the flesh the lustes of synne which were stered vp by the lawe, raygned in our members, to bying forth frute vnto death. But now we are we deliuered from the lawe, and dead vnto it. wherunto we were in bondage, that we shoulde serue in a newe conuersacion of the spete, and not in folde conuersacion of the letter.

What shall we say then? is the lawe synner? God forbid: neuertheless, & I knewe not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowe what lust had meinte, excepte the lawe had sayde: & I shoulde not luste. But synne took an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement and wrought in me all maner of concupiscence. For withoute the lawe, synne was dead. I once lyued without lawe: But when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was dead.

¶ And the very same commaundement, which was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was found to be vnto me an occasyon of death. For synne took an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement, & so byscrued me, & by the same ledde me. Wherefore & the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy and iust & good. Was that the which was good made death vnto me? God forbid. Naye it was synne: that synne myghte appere (by it which was good) to worke death in me: & synne by the commaundement myghte be oute of measure synful. For we knowe that the lawe is spirytual: but I am carnal, & sold vnder synne, because I knowe not that which I do. For what I wold, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I.

For the good that I wold, do I not: but the euill which I wolde not that doo I. If I do that I wolde not, then is it not I that doo it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynd then by the lawe, that when I wold do good euill is present with me. For I deliuer in the lawe of God, after the inward man: But I see another lawe in my members, rebelling agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, which is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this body subdued vnto death? I thanke God thowgh Iesus Christ our Lord. For the lawe of the spete, of lyfe thowgh Iesus Christ, hath made me free from the lawe of synne, and death. For what the lawe coulde not doo (in as muche as it was weake because of the flesh) that performed god and sent his soune in the similitude of synfull flesh, and by synne damned synne in the flesh, that the righteousnes of the lawe might be fulfilled in vs, whiche walke not after the flesh, but after the spete.

For they that are carnal, are carnally myn- ded. But they that are spiretuall, are gostlye myn- ded. To be carnally myn- ded, is death. But to be spiretuall myn- ded, is lyfe and peace.

¶ Because that the fleshly mynde is enemye agaynst God, for it is not obedyent to the lawe of God, nerther can be. So then they that are in the flesh, can not please God.

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the spete of God dwelleth in you. If any man haue not the spete of Christ, & same is none of his. If Christ be in you, the bodye is dead because of synne: but the spete is lyfe for righteousnes sake. Wherefore if the spete of hym that rayled vp Iesus from death, dwell in you: euen he that rayled vp Christ from death shall quicken your mortall bodies, because of his spete that dwelleth in you.

¶ Therefore betheren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to lyue after the flesh. For if ye lyue after the flesh, ye shall dye: But if ye thowgh the spete) do mortifie the dedes of the bodye, ye shall lyue. For as many as are led by the spete of God, they are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receyued the spete of bondage to feare any more, but ye haue receyued the spete of adopc- tion, wherby we crye: Abba father. The same spete certifieth oure spete that we are son- nes of God. If we be sonnes, then are we also he- res I meane of God, & heyes annexed to Christ if so be that we suffer with hym, that we maye be also glorified together with hym.

¶ For I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthe of the gloire, which shall be shewed vpon vs. For the seruent desue of the creature abyeth looking when the sonnes of God shall appere, because the creature is sub- dued to vanitie, agaynst the wyl therof, but for his wyl whiche hath subdued the same in hope. For the same creature shalbe deliuered from the bondage of corrupcion into the glori- ous liberty of the sonnes of God. For we knowe that euery creature groweth with vs also, & tra- uayleth in payne euen vnto this tyme.

¶ Not onely it, but we also whiche haue the synne frutes of the spete, moine in oure selues also, and wayte for the adopc- tion of the sonnes of God, euen the deliuerance of our bodye.

¶ For we are saued by hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. For how can a man hope for that which he seeth? But and if we hope for it we se not, then do we with patience abyde for it.

The Epistle

Ephesians, the spirit also helpeth our infirmities. For we know not what to desire as we ought: but the spirit maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be expressed. And he that searcheth the parts knoweth, what is the meaning of the spirit, for he maketh intercession for the saints, according to the pleasure of God.

1. Thimo. 4. 1. 2. Thimo. 1. 14. 3. John. 14. 26.

We know that all things work for the best unto them that love God, which also are called of purpose. For those which he knew before, he also ordained before, that they should be like fashioned unto the shape of his sonne, that he might be the first begotten sonne among many brethren. Moreover, whom he appointed before, them also he called. And whom he hath called, them also he iustificeth: & whom he iustificeth, them he also glorifieth.

Co. 1. 12. 1. Cor. 1. 1. 2. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

What shall we then say to these things? If God be on our side, who can be against us, which spared not his own sonne: but gave him for us all: how can it be that with him he should not give us all things also? Who shall lay any thing to the charge of Gods chosen? it is God that iustificeth: who is he that can condemn? it is Christ which dyed: pre. rather which is risen again, which is also on the right hand of God, and maketh intercession for us.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

Who shall separate us from the love of God? shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or hunger, or nakedness, or perils, or sword? As it is written: for thy sake are we killed all day long, and are counted as sheep appointed to be slain. Nevertheless, in all these things we overcome through our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath loved us. For I am sure, that neither death, neither life, neither angels, nor rule, neither power, neither things present, neither things to come, neither height, neither low, neither any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

The ix. Chapter.

These things are written upon the heart of the Jewes that would not receive the Gospel, and have the Gentiles also chosen in Christ Jesus.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

Saye the truth in Christ, and lie not: my conscience also bearing me witness by the holy ghost: I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart. For I have wished my selfe to be cursed for Christ, for my brethren (my kinsmen as pertaining to the flesh) which are Israelites. To whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the lawe that was given, and the service of God, and the promises: whose all so are the fathers, and they of whom (as concerning the flesh) Christ came, which is God in all things to be praised for ever. Amen.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

I speake not these things, as though I were of God had taken none effect. For they are not all Israelites, which are of Israel: neither are they all children of Abraham. But as in Isaac shall thy seed be called: so I say, they which are the children of the flesh, are not children of God. But they which be children of promise are counted the seed. For this is a word of promise, about this time will I come, and I will have a sonne. Not only this, but also Rebecca was with child by one, even by our father Isaac. For yet children were borne, while they had neither done good neither bad: (that the purpose of God by election, might stand) it was said unto her, not by the reason of works, but by the caller. And the elder shall serve the younger, as it is written: Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated. What shall we say then? is there any unrighteousness with God? God forbid. For he saith to Moses: I will have mercy to whomsoever I will have mercy: & I will have compassion on whomsoever I have compassion. So let it be not then in a mans will, or running, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture saith unto Pharaoh: Even for this same purpose have I stirred thee up, to shew my power on thee, & that my name might be declared throughout all the world: So hath he mercy on whom he will, & whom he will he maketh hard hearted.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

Thou wilt say then unto me: why then blameth he us yet? For who hath rebelled against his will? But O man, what art thou which disputest with God? Shall the wrath be said to the workman: why hast thou made me on this fashion? hath not potter power over claye, even of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour? Even so, God willing to shew his wrath, & to make his power known: suffered with long patience the vessels of wrath, ordained to damnation, & to declare the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy which he had prepared unto glory: which also he called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the Gentiles. As he saith also to Osee: I will call them my people which were not my people: and her beloved which was not beloved (and her to have obtained mercy, that had not obtained mercy.) And it shall come to passe, & in the place where it was said unto them: ye are not my people, there shall they be called children of the living God.

1. Cor. 1. 1. 1. Tim. 1. 1. 1. Pet. 1. 1.

But Esay crieth concerning Israel, though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, yet I remnant shall be saved. For he hath said the word verily, & maketh it sure in righteousness. For a house shall be built for me, sayeth the Lord, and I will dwell therein, and I will be called upon there. And as Esay saith before: Except the Lord of Sabaoth had left us seed, we had bene made as Sodoma, and had bene like unto Gomorrah. What shall we say then? We say, that the Gentiles which followed not righteousness have overtaken righteousness: but the righteousness which cometh of faith. Contrary to the lawe of Moses, which was the lawe of righteousness, could not attain to the lawe of righteousness. Wherefore? Because they sought it not by faith: but as it were by the works of the lawe. For they have stumbled at the stumbling stone. As it is written: Behold, I put in Zion a stumbling stone, & a rock that men shall be offended.

The. r. Chapter.

Of the vnterpretation of the Jewes. Two maner of vnterpretation.

Bethen, my hartes desire & prayer to God for Israel is, & they myghte be saued. For I beare them record, & they haue a feruent mynde to Godwarde, but not accordyng to know-lage. For they beynge ignorant of Gods ryghteousnes, & goyng about to stablish their owne ryghteousnes, haue not bene obedient vnto the righteousnes of God. For Christ is the fulfylling of the lawe, to inkyte all that beleue.

For Moses wytteth of the ryghteousnes whiche cometh of the lawe, howe that the man whiche doth & thynges of the lawe, shall lyue ther-by. But the ryghteousnes whiche cometh of fayth, speaketh on this wise: Whoe not thou in thyne herte, who shall ascende into heaue? (that is euen to fetch Christ downe from aboue.) Ep-ther who shall descende into the depe? (that is euen to fetch vp Christ agayne from death.) But what sayeth he? The worde is nyc, the euen in thy mouth and in thyne herte.

This same is the worde of fayth, whiche we preach. For yf thou knowlage with thy mouth that Iesus is the Lord, and beleue in thyne herte that God rayled hym vp from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue with the harte iustify-eth: & to knowlage with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayeth: Whosoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Iewe and the gentyl. For one is Lord of al, which is ryche vnto al that cal vpon hym. For whosoever doth call on the name of the Lord, shall be safe. Howe then shall they call on hym, on whom they haue not beleued: howe shall they beleue on hym, of whom they haue not heard: howe shall they heare, without a preacher? And how shall they preach except they be sent: As it is writte: howe beautyfull are the feete of them whiche bring tydynges of peace, and bring tydynes of good thynges. But they haue not al obeyed to the Gospel.

For Esay sayeth: Lord, who hath beleued our saynges? So then sayth cometh by hearing, and hearing cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: haue they not heard? No doute & they found wente out into all landes, & they wordes into the endes of the worlde.

But I demaund, whether Israel byd knowe or not? For Moyses sayeth: I will prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a fo-lysh nation I will anger you: Esay after that is bolde and sayeth: I am founder of them, that sought me not: I am manifeste vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israel he sayeth: all daye longe haue I stretched foarde my handes vnto a people that beleueth not but speaketh agaynst me.

The. ii. Chapter.

All the Jewes are not call a waye, therefore shall I warneth the gentyls: he called, not to be hys mynnes, but to deliuer the Jewes, for the iudgements of God are by & for them.

Have then, hath God calke a waye his people? God sayeth: For euen I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the trybe of Ben Jamin, God hath not calke a waye bys people, whiche he knewe before. Note ye not, what the scripture sayth of Iherias, howe he ma-keth intercession to God agaynst Israel, sayng:

* Lord, they haue kyled thy prophetes, & dyg-ged downe thine alters: and I am left alone, and they seke my lyfe. But what sayth & answer of God vnto hym? * I haue reserved vnto my selfe seuen thousande men, whiche haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Baal. Euen so also at this tyme is there a remnaunt left accordyng to the election of grace. If it be of grace, then is it not nowe of woordes. For then grace is no more grace. But if it be of woordes, then is it nowe no grace. For then were deservynge no more deservynge. What the Israel hath not obtained that whiche he seeketh: but the election hath obtained it. The remnaunt are blynded, accordyng as it is writte. * God hath geuen them spirit of vniuersity: yea that they should not see, and eares that they should not heare, euen vnto this daye. * And David sayeth: Let they table be made a snare to take them withal, and an occasion to fall, and a rewarde vnto them. Let they eyes be blynded that they se not: and bowe thou downe they backe alwaye.

I saye then: haue they therfore stumbled, that they should detrely fall away together? God sayeth: but thozow they fall, is saluacion hapned vnto the Gentyles, for to prouoke the with all. Wherefore yf the fall of the be the ryches of the worlde & the mynyng of the ryches of the Gentyles: howe muche more they perfect-nesse: I speake to you Gentyles, in as muche as * I am the Apostle of the Gentyles, I will ma-nysse myne office, yf by any meane I maye prouoke them whiche are my fleshe, and myge saue some of them. For yf the casting awaye of them be the reconcylng of the worlde, what shall the receaynyng of them be, but lyfe agayne from death? For yf one peece be holpe, the whole heape is holpe. And yf the roote be holpe, the bryanches shall be holpe also.

Though some of the bryanches be broken of,
and thou bring a wyde olyuetree, wast grafte in amonge them, and made partaker of the roote and fatnes of the olyuetree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the bryanches. For yf thou boaste thy selfe, thou bearest not the roote, but the roote the.
Thou wilt saye then: the bryanches are broken of, that I myght be grafte in. Thou sayest well: because of vnbelleue they were broken of, & thou stodest stedfast in faythe. Be not hye mynded, but feare: for sayng that God spared not the naturall bryanches, take heed, lest it come to passe that be spare not the also.

Beholde therefore the kyndnes and rygheous-nes of God: on them whiche fell, rygheousnes: but toward the kyndnes: yf thou continue in high kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be broken of, and they agayne: yf they byde not styll in vnbelleue,

shall be grafted in againe. For God is of power to graffe the in againe. For if thou wast cut out of a naturall wynde olme tree, and was grafted contrary to nature in a true olme tree how much more shall the naturall branches be grafted in they: owne olme tree againe.

I would not that this secret should be hid from you my brethren lest ye should be wyle in your owne conceytes: that partelie blindnes is happened in Israel, vntill the fulnes of the gentyles be come in: and so all Israel shall be saved.

As it is written: * There shall come out of Syon he that both deliuer, and shall turne away vngodlynes from Jacob. And this is my couenant vnto them, when I shall take away they: synes. As concerning the Gospel they are enemyes for your sakes: but as touching the electyon, they are loued for they: fathers sakes.

For verily, the gyfte and calling of God are such, that it can not repente hym of them: for loke, as ye in tyme past haue not beleued God, yet haue nowe obtayned mercy thowse they: vnbellef: euen so now haue they not beleued the mercy whiche is happened vnto you: that they also maye obtayne mercy. For God had wrapped all nacyns in vnbellef, that he myght haue mercy on all.

O the depenes of the riches both of the wysdom and knowlage of God: how vnsearchable are his iudgements, and how wayes past fynyng out. For: who hath knowe the mynde of the Lord? Or who hath bene his counsellor? ether who hath geue vnto hym tyme, and he shall be recompensed againe. For of hym, and thowse hym and for hym are all thynges: To hym be gloire for euer. Amen.

The xlii Chapter.

The thre consolatyon, loue, and worship of such as beleue in Christ.

Beloued you therfore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make your bodyes a quyet sacrifice holy and acceptable vnto God: whiche is your reasonable seruing of God: and saye you not your selues lyke vnto this worlde, but be ye changed in your thape by the renewing of your mynde, that ye maye knowe what thyng that good, and acceptable, and perfecte wyl of God is. For I say (thowse the grace of vnto me) is to every man among you, that: no man shalde hye in his owne conceyte more then it becometh hym to estyme hym selfe: but so iudge of hym selfe, that he be gentle and sober, accordyng as God hath dealt to every man the measure of fapth.

For as we are many members in one bodye, and all membes haue not one offyce: so we be ynge many are one bodye in Christ, and euerye man among our selues, one anothers members.

* Deyng that we haue dyuers gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: if any man haue the gyfte of prophete, let hym haue it that it be agryng vnto the fapth. * Let hym that hath darke an offyce, walke on his offyce. Let hym that teacheth take hede to his doctrine. Let hym that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacyon. If any man geue, let hym do it with synglenes. Let hym that ruleth, do it wyth dyspencye. If any man the we merce, let hym do it wyth cherfulness. Let loue be wythout dissimulation. Hate that which is euell, & cleane vnto that whiche is good. Be kynde one to another wyth brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slouthfull in the busynes whiche ye haue in hand. Be seruent in the spyte Applye your selues to the tyme. Reioyse in hope. Be pacient in tribulacyon. Continue in prayer: wyth tribute vnto the necessitye of the sayntes: * be ready to herbour. * Blesse the which persecute you: blesse (I saye) and curse not. Be merce wyth them that are merce. Wepe also wyth the that wepe. Be of lyke affectyon one towarde another. Be not hye mynded: but make your selues equall to them of the lower sorte. * Be not wyle in your owne opynions. Receyue to no man euell for euell. Wouyde aforchad thynges done: (not only before God, but also) in syghte of all men. If it bee possible, (as muche as is in you) lye peaceably wyth all men. Dearly beloved, auenge not your selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is wytt: * be geaill is myne, I wyl rewarde, sayeth the Lord.

Therfore if thyne enemye hunger, feede hym, if he thyrste, geue hym drynke. For in so doyng thou shalt heape coles of fyre on his heade. Be not overcome of euell, but overcome euell wyth goodnes.

The xlii Chapter.

The obediencye of men vnto they: rulers. And fullylling the lawe. It is no more tyme to folow the lawes of darkness.

Euery soule submyt hym self vnto the authorite of the hyer power. For: there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeined of God. Whosoever therfore resisteth power, resisteth the ordynance of God. But they that resist, shall receaue to them selfe damnacion. For rulers are not fearful to them that do good, but to them that do euell. Wylt thou be wythoute feare of the power? Do well then: and so shalt thou bee payrd of the same. For he is the mynyster of God, for thy welth. But and if thou do that whiche is euell, then feare: for he beareth not the sword for nought: for he is the mynyster of God, to take vengeance on hym that dotheuill. Wherefore, ye muste nedes obeye, not onely for feare of vengeance: but also because of conscience. And euen for this cause paye ye tribute. For they are Goddes mynysters, lryuyng for the same purpose.

Gene to every man therfore his dutie: * tribute to whome tribute belongeth: custome, to whome custome is due: feare to whom feare belongeth: honoure, to whome honoure pertaineth. * Owe nothing to any manne: but this, that you loue one another. For he that loueth another hath fullyllid the lawe. For these commaundmentes: * Thou shalt not committe aduourty: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnesse: thou shalt not luff, & so forth forthe (yf ther be any other commaundement) it is al comprehended in this sayng, namely: * loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe. Loue hurteth not thy neyghbour. Therefore is loue the fullfylling of the lawe. ¶

* Thys also we knowe the season howe it is tyme, that we should now awake out of slepe for now is our saluacion nether the when we beleued. The nyght is passed, the daye is come nye. Let vs therefore cast away the dedes of darknes, & let vs put on the armour of light. Let vs walke honestly, as it wer in the day lyght: * not in eatyng and drynkyng, neyther in charytyng and wantonnes, neyther in dryfe and enuyng: but put ye on the Loyde Iesus Christe. ¶ And make not prouysion for the fleshe to fullfil the lusts of it.

¶ The xiii. Chapter.

¶ The weakes ought not to be despised. No man should despise another's conscience, again for our weakes thyngs should no man condemne another.

In that is weak in the saythe, re-cause: not in disputyng & troubllyng hys conscience. One beleueth that he may eat all thyng: Another whiche is weak eateth herbes. Let not hym that eateth, despyse hym that eateth not.
And let not hym whiche eateth not, iudge hym that eateth. For God hath receiued hym: What art thou that iudgest another mannes seruauit whether he stande or fall, & pertayneth vnto hys owne maister yee, he shalbe holden vp, & he may stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

Thys man putteth difference betwene daye and daye. A nother ma connecteth al dayes alwyse.
Let euery mannes mynde satisfye hym selfe, by that obserueth the daye, doeth it vnto the Loyde.
And he that doeth not obserue the daye, doeth it for the Loyde also. He that eateth, doeth it to please the Loyde, for he geueth God thanks. And he that eateth not, eateth not to please the Loyde: wyth all, and geueth God thanks. For none of vs lyueth for hym selfe, and no ma dyeth for hym selfe.
For yf we lyue, we lyue vnto the Loyde. And yf we dye, we dye vnto the Loyde. Whether we liue therefore, or dye, we are the Loydes. For Christe therefore dyed, and rose agayn, and requyred, that he myght be the Loyde of dead and quycke.

But why doest thou then iudge thy brother?
Eyther, why doest thou despyse thy brother? We shalbe al brought before the iudgement seate of Christ. For it is writte: as truly as I lyue, sayeth the Loyde: * all knees shall bowe to me, & all tonges shal geue prayse to God. So shall euery one of vs geue accomptes of hym selfe to God.
Let vs not therefore iudge one another any moze.

But iudge this rather, that no ma put a sto-blyng blocke, or an occasyon to fall in hys brothers waye. For I knowe, and am full certy-fied by the Loyde Iesus, that ther is nothyng commune of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be commune: to hym is it commune. Yf thy brother be greued wyth thy meate, no we wakeste thou not charytable. Destroye not hym wth thy meate, for whom Christ dyed. Cause not poure treasure to be euell spoken of. For the kyngdom of God is not meat and drynke: but ryghteousnes, and peace, and ioye in the holy gost. For he that in these thynges serueth Christe, pleaseth God and is commended of men.

Let vs therefore folow those thynges whiche make for peace, & thynges wher wyth one maye edely another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytell meates sake. * All thynges are pure: but it is euell for that man, whiche eateth wyth hurte of conscience. It is good nether to eat flesch neyther to drynke wyne, neyther any thyng, wherby thy brother stumbleth, eyther falleth, or is made weak. Hast thou sayth: haue it woth thy self before God. happye is he, that condem-neth not hym self, in a thyng whiche he alloweth.
For he that maketh conscience is damned yf he eat: because he eateth not of fayth. For whatsoeuer is not of fayth, the same is synne. ¶

¶ The xiv. Chapter.

¶ The infirmes & scrupulous of the weakes ought to be bounde wyth all loue and synners, after the ensample of Christ.

Whyche are stronge & oughte to beare the fraynes of them whiche are weak, and not to stande in our owne conceytes. Let euery manne please hys neyghbour vnto hys wraiche and edyfying. For Christe pleased not hym selfe: but as it is writen: * The rebukes of them whiche rebuked the, fell on me.

Whatsoever thynges are wyrtten afore tyme they are wyrtten for our learning, that we thoowe patience and comfote of the scriptures, myght haue hope.

The God of patience and consolacyon, graunt vnto you, to be lyke mynded one towarde another, after the ensample of Christe Iesu: * that ye all agryping together may wyth one mouth prayse God, the father of oure Loyde Iesus Christe.
Wherfore receaue ye one another, as Christe re-ceaued vs, to the prayse of God. And thys I say that Iesus Christe was a mynyster of the crystuncyphon for the truth of God to confirme the promyses made vnto the fathers: * that the getyles myght prayse God for his mercye, as it is wyrtten. * For thys cause I will prayse the amonge the gentyles, and synge vnto thy name.
And agayn he sayth: * Reioyce ye gentyles wyth hys people. And agayn: * prayse the Loyde al ye gentyles, and laud hym all ye nacyns together.
And agayn Esay sayeth: there shalbe * the rote of Jesse, and he that shall ryse to raygne ouer the gentyles: in hym shall the gentyles truste. The God of hope tyll you wyth all ioye, and peace in Imy selfe am full certyfyed of you (my brethren) that ye also are full of goodnesse, and fylled wyth all knowlage, wyllyng to exhoite one another. Beuertheles (brethren) I haue somewhat moze boldly wyrtten vnto you, partly to put you in remembraunce, thoowe the grace is geuen me of God, that I should be a mynyster of Iesu Christ among the Gentyles, and should mynyster the Gospell of God, & the offerynge of the gentyles myght be acceptable, & sanctified by þe holy goste, I haue therfore wherof I maye reioyce thowme Christe Iesu, in those thynges whych pertaine to God. For I dare not speake of any of those thynges, whych Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentylis obedyent, with worde and dede, in myghty signes & wonders, by the power of the spirit of God: so that from Jerusalem and the coastes rounde aboute vnto Illyricū, I haue tyllid al countreys with the Gospell of Christ.

E So haue I enforced my selfe to preach þe Gospell, not wher Christ was named, lest I should haue built on another mans foundacion: but as it is written: * To whō he was not spokē of, they shall se: and they that herde not, shall vnderstand. For this cause I haue ben oft letted (as yet) that I coulde not come vnto you: but now, seying I haue nomore to do in these countreys, & also haue bene desirous many yeres to come vnto you, whensocuer I take my iourneys into Spayne, I wll come to you. For I truste to see you in my iourney, & to be brought on my waye thitherwarde by you, after þe I haue some what enioyed your acquayntaunce.

Nowe go I vnto Jerusalem, and * mynister vnto the sayntes, for it hath pleased the of Macedonia & Achaia to make a certayne distribution vpon the pious sayntes, which are at Jerusalem. It hath pleased them verily, & they detters are they. For yf the gentyles be made partakers of theyr spiritual thynges, theyr butye is to minister vnto the in bodily thynges. Whiche I haue perfourmied this, & haue brought the this frute sealed, I wll come backe agayne by you into Spayne. I am sure that whē I come vnto you, I shall come with aboundaunce of the blessing of the Gospell of Christ. * I beseeche you brethren for our Lord Iesus Christes sake, & for the loue of the spirit, that ye helpe me in my busynes with your prayers to God for me, that I maye bee deliuered from them whiche beleue not in Iesuyse: & that this my scrupce, whiche I haue to do at Jerusalem, may be accepted of the sayntes, & I maye come vnto you with tope, by the wyl of God and may with you be refreshed. The God of peace be with you all. Amen.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

A chapter of salutations. He warneth them to beware of men who receiue doctrine, and commendeth vnto them certayne goodly men, that were louers and brethren in the troye.

I Commende vnto you vber our sister (which is a mynister of the congregation of Cenchrea) þe receaue her in Christ, as it becommeth sayntes, and þe assist her in whatsoeuer busynes she nedeth of youre ayde. For she hathe suckered many, and myne owne selfe also. Grete Priscas and Aquila my helpers in Christe Iesu, which haue for my lpe layd downe theyr owne neckes. Vnto whō not I onely geue thanks, but also al the congregacions of the gentyles. Lyke- wylle, grete the congregacion þe is in there house. Salute my welbeloued Epheletes, whych is þe frute of Achaia in Christe. Grete Warpe whych bestowed muche labour on vs. Salute Andronicus and Junia my colyns, & prisoners with me also, whych are well taken amonge the Apostles, and were in Christe before me. Grete Amplias my beloued in the Loyde. Salute Urban oure helper in Christ, and Stachis my beloued. Salute Appelles appoyued in Christ: Salute them, which are of Aristobolus household. Salute Herodion my kynsmā. Grete them that be of the household of Narcissus, whych are in the Loyde. Salute Tripheña & Tryphosa, whiche laboure in the Loyde. Salute the beloued Persis, whych laboured muche in the Loyde. Salute Rufus cholen in the Loyde, and hym mother & myne. Grete Asyncritus, Philegon, Herman, Patrobas, Mercupus, & the bye thren whych are with the. Salute Philologus & Julia, Aerius and his sister, and Olympa, and all the sayntes whych are with them. * Salute one another with an holy kyse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseeche you brethren, marke them whych cause denyson and geue occasyons of euell, contrarie to the doctryne whych ye haue learned: and auoyde the. For they that are suche seme not the Loyde Iesus Christe, * but theyr owne bellies, and with swete and flatterynge wordes, deceaue the heartes of the innocentes. For youre obedyence is gone abroade vnto all men. I am glad therfore no doute, of you. But yet I woulde haue you wylle vnto that whiche is good, and to be innocent as concernynge euell. The God of peace shall treade Sathan vnder your fete shortly. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be with you.

Tymotheus my wothe feloe, and Lucius and Jason, and Socpater my kynsmen salute you: I Cresus salute you, whych wrote this Epistle in the Loyde. * Cayus my host and the hoste of all the congregacion salute you. Erastus the treasurer of the cite, salute you. And Quartus a brother salute you. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christe be with you all. Amen.

To hym that is of power to stablyshe you, accordyng to my Gospell, and preaching of Iesus Christ in utteryng of the mysterie, whych was hepte secrete sence the worlde beganne, but nowe is opened by the scriptures of the prophetes at the commaundement of the euerglastyng God to stete vp obedyence to the sayth, published amonge all nacjons: To the same God, which alone is wylle be: & (honoure) prayse thowwe Iesus Christ for euer. Amen.

This Epistle was sent to the Romaynes from Corinthum by vber, the that was the mynister vnto the congregation at Cenchrea.

¶ The

The fyrste Epistle

of sainte Paul the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The first Chapter.

The commendeth the Corinthians, exhorteth them to be of one mynde, and rebuketh the division that was among the worldly wysdome to foolishnes before God: yet, there is no wysdome but in the bepylled crosse of God.

Paul called an Apostle of Jesus Christ, the sonne of God and brother of men. Unto the congregacion of God which is at Corinthum. To the that are sanctified by Christe Iesu called sayntes with all that call on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, eyther of theys or of oures.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

* I thanke my God alwayes on your behalf, for the grace of God which is geuen you by Jesus Christ, in all thynges ye are made rich by hym, in all utteraunce and in all knowlage by which thynges the testimony of Jesus Christ was confirmed in you, so that ye are behynde in no gift, waiting for the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, which shall also strength you vnto the ende, that ye may be blamelesse in the day of (of the commynge) of our Lord Jesus Christ.

* God is sayntfull, by whom ye are called vnto the felowshipp of his sonne Jesus our Lord. I beseeche you brethren by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye al speake one thyng, and that there be no diuencion among you: but ye may be a whole body: of one mynde & of one meaning. For it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by the which are of the house of Cloe, that there is stryfe amonge you. I speake of the same that every one of you sayeth: I hold of Paul: I holde of * Apollo: I hold of Cephas: I hold of Christe. Is Christe deuyded? Was Paule crucified for you: either were ye baptised in the name of Paul? I thanke God, that I baptised none of you, but Crispus & Gayus: lest any shuld say, that I had baptised in myne owne name. I baptised also the house of Stephanas. Furthermoze knowe I not whether I baptised any man: (of you) or no.

* For Christe sente me not to baptise, but to preache the Gospel, not with wysdome of wordes, lest the crosse of Christ shuld haue ben made of none effecte. For the preachinge of the crosse, is to them that perishe, foolishnes: but vnto vs which are saued: it is the power of God. For it is wyrtten: * I will destroye the wysdome of the wise, and will caste awaye the understanding of the prudent. Where is the wise? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made the wysdome of this world foolishnes?

* For after that the world thowthe wysdome knewe not God, in the wysdome of God it pleased God thowthe foolishnes of preachinge, to saue them that beleue. For * the Jewes requyre a signe, and the Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christe crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasion of falling, and vnto the Grekes foolishnes: but vnto them which are called both of the Jewes and Grekes, we preache Christe the power of God and the wysdome of God. For the foolishnes of God, is wiser then me, and the weaknes of God is stronger then men. But he will se your callinge, howe that not many wise men after the fleshe, not many myghtie, not many of hye degree, are called: But God hath chosen the foolish thynges of the world, to confound the wise. And God hath chosen the weak thynges of the world, to confound the thynges which are myghtie. And vyle thynges of the world and thynges, which are despyled, hath God chosen, yee, and thynges of no reputation, for to bringe to nought thynges of reputation, that no fleshe shuld reioyce in his presence. And of hym are ye, in Christe Iesu, which of God is made vnto vs wysdome, and righteousness, and sanctifying, and redemption. That accordyng as it is wyrtten: he which reioyleth, shoulde reioyce in the Lord.

The ii. Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glorious paynted wordes of worldly wysdome, that can chyce and conuert soules vnto Christ: but the playne wordes of the scripture: for they make mention of hym and his crosse.

And I brethren (wher I cam to you) I came not in gloryousnes of wordes or of wysdome, shewing vnto you the testimony of God. Rather shewed I my selfe that I knewe any thyng among you, save Jesus Christ, euen the same that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in much trembling. And my wordes and my preaching was not with entyng wordes of mans wysdome: but in shewing of the spiryte and of power, that your sayth shoulde not stande in the wysdome of men, but in the power of God.

We speake of wysdome amonge them that are perfecte: not the wysdome of this world, neyther of the rulers of this worlde (which go to nought) but we speake of the wysdome of God which is in secreete and is yett hyd, which God ordeyned before the world vnto our glory, which wysdome * none of the rulers of this world knewe: for had they had knowlage, they woulde not haue crucified the Lord of glory. But (as it is wyrtten:) * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not harde, neither haue entred into the herte of man, the thynges which God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by his spiryte. For * the spiryte searcheth al thynges, yee the bottome of Goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man: save the spiryte of man which is within hym? Eue so the thynges of God knoweth no man, but the spiryte of God. And we haue not receaved the spiryte of the worlde: but the spiryte which cometh of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs by the wordes of God.

The firste Epistle

of God: which thinges also he speake (not with wordes that mannes wylsome teacheth, but with wordes which the holy goste doth teach) making spirytual comparison of spirytual thinges. The naturall man perceiveth not the thinges that belonge to the spiryte of God. For they are but folowynge vnto hym. Neether can he perceiue the, because they are spirytually examyned. But he that is spirytual, discusseth al thinges: yet he hym selfe is iudged of no manne For who hath knowen the minde of the Lord eether who shall enforme hym? But we under-stande the mynde of Christ.

The. iii. Chapter.

Chau. rebuath the fectes & auctours thereof. Chyche is the foundation of hys church. No man ought to beayne in men, but in God.

And I coulde not speake vnto you bzethzen as vnto spirytual: but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto babes in Christ.
I gaue you mylke to drinke, and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, neether are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As longe verily as ther is among you enuiyng, and stryfe and sectes: are ye not carnall, and walke after the maner of menne? For whyle one sayeth: I holde of Paul, and another: I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thyng is Apolo? onely ministers are they by whom ye beleeued euen as the Lord gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the increase. So then, neether is he that planteth any thyng, neether he that watreth, but God that greeth & encrease. Ye that planteth and he that watreth, are one. Euer ye man yet shall receaue his rewarde, accordyng to hys laboure. For we are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husbandye: & ye are Goddes buyldyng: accordyng to the grace of God geuen vnto me, as a wyse builder haue I layde the foundation. And another buildeth thereon. But let euery man take hede, howe he buyldeth vpon. For another foundation can no man laye, then it that is layde: which is Iesus Christ. If any man buylde on this foundation, golde, syluer, peryous stones, tymber, haye or stobbe: euery mannes worke shall appere. For the daye shall declare, whiche shall be shewed in fyre. And the fyre shall trye euery mans worke, what it is. If any mannes worke that he hath buylde vpon, hyde, he shall receaue a rewarde.
If any mannes worke burne, he shall suffer losse, but he shall be safe hym selfe: neuer theles, yet as it were thow wyse.

I knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God, & howe that the spiryte of God dwelleth in you? If any man despyle the temple of God, hym shall God destroye. For the temple of God, is holy, whiche temple ye are. Let no man deceaue hym selfe. If any man seme wyse to hym selfe among you, let hym become a foole in this world, that he may be wyse. For the wysdom of this world is folowynge with God: For it is wyrtten: he compasseth the wyse in theyr craftynesse. And again: God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse that they be vayne. Therefore, let no man reioyce in men. For all thinges are poures, whether it be Paul, eether Apollo, eether Cephas whether it be the world, eether life, eether death whether eether be present thinges, or thinges to come: all are poures: and ye are Chyche, and Chyche is Godde. R

The. liii. Chapter.

The preachers are but ministers. Iudgement be lent only vnto God.

Et I a man this wyse esteeme vs, & I nen as the ministers of Chyche, and sewardes of the secretes of God.
Furthermoze it is requyred of the wardes, that a man be founde sayth-ful. Wyth me is it but a very smal thing that I shuld be iudged of you, eether of mans iudgement No, I iudge not myne owne selfe. For I knowe nought by my selfe: yet am I not thereby iustify-ed. It is the Lord that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge nothing before the tyme vntyll the Lord come, whiche wyl lyghten thinges: & are hys in darkenes, and open the counsels of the heartes.
And then shall euery man haue paye of God. R

These thinges (bze thzen) I haue for an example described in myne owne person, and in Apollas, for poure sakes, that ye myght learne by vs, that no man counte of hym selfe veryd that whiche is aboue wyrtten: that one swell not a-gaynst another for any mans cause. For who preferreth ther? What hast thou, & thou hast not re-ceaved? If thou haue receaved it, why reioycest thou, as though thou haddest not receaved it? Now ye are full: now ye are made ryche: ye raygne as kynges withoute vs, & I would to God ye dyd raygne that we myght raygne wyth you.

For me thynketh, that God hath set forth vs (whiche are the last Apostles): as it were meyne apoynted to death. For we are a gasyng stocke vnto the world, and to the aungels, and to men.
We are foolcs for Christes sake, but ye are wise thow Chyche. We are weak, but ye are strong.
Ye are honozable, but we are despyled. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrste, and are naked, and are beated wyth fyres, and haue no certain dwelling place, and laboure: & working wyth oure owne handes. We are reuyled and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it.
We are euill spoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the fylthynesse of the world, the sshouryng of al thinges, euen vnto this daye.

I wyte not these thinges, to shame you: but as my beloued sonnes I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousande instructours in Christ: yet haue ye not many fathers. In Christ Iesu I haue begotten you thow the Gospel wherefore, I despye you to folowe me. For I knowe this: For this cause haue I sente vnto you Tymotheus, whiche is my deare sonne, & sayth-ful in the Lord whiche shall put you in remembraunce of my wayes, that I haue in Christ, euen as I teach euery where in all congregacions. Some swell, as though I would come nomore at you.
But I wyll come to you shortly, & I shall wyll: and wyll knowe, not the wordes of them whiche swell, but the power: for the kyngdome of

of God is not in wordes but in power. What wyl ye? Shall I come vnto you wth a rodde, or els in loue and in the spyrte of softnesse.

The v. Chapter.

After what maner shall curseth the man that had committed fornicacion wth his mother in lawe.

There goeth a comen saying, that there is fornicacyon among you, & such fornicacyon, as is not named among the gettyles: * For one shuld haue his fathers wyfe. And ye swel and haue not rather forrowed, for he whiche hath done this dede, myghte bee put from among you. For I verelye, as absente in bodye, but presente in spyrte, haue determyned alreadye (as though I were presente) concerning hym that hath done this dede, in the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ when ye are gathered together, and my spyrte wytch you, wth the power of the Lorde Iesus Christe, & to deliuer hym vnto Satthan, for the destruction of the fleshe, that the spyrte maye be saued in the daye of the Lorde Iesus.

Youre reioysing is not good: knowe ye not, that a lytle leuen soweth the whole lump of dowe? * Pourge therfore the old leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete breade. For Christ oure passeouer is offered vpon for vs. Therfore, let vs kepe holye daye, not wth olde leuen, neither wth the leuen of malyciousnesse and wickednesse: but wth the swete breade of pure-nes and truthe. * I wrote vnto you in a pistle, that ye shuld not company wth fornicatours.
And I meant not at all of the fornicatours of this world, eyther of the conetrouse, or extorcioners, eyther the ydolaters: for then must ye ne-des haue gone out of the world. But nowe I wytch you, & that ye company not together, wth any that is called a brother, be a for-nicatour or conetrouse, or a worshipp of ymages, eyther a rapier, eyther a dishard, or an ex-torponer: wth hym that is such, if that ye eate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them that are wthout. Do ye not iudge the that are wth in? Them that are wthout, God iudgeth. * Put awaye the euell from among you.

The vi. Chapter.

After what maner shall curseth the man
that had committed fornicacion wth his mother in lawe.

Are one of you hauynge busynes wytch another, go to lawe vnder the wytched, & not rather vnder s^rapntes? * Do ye not knowe, for the s^rapntes shall iudge the world: If the world shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good ynough to iudge smal tryples? knowe ye not how that we shall iudge the aungels? howe muche more, maye we iudge thynges that pertaine to the lyfe? If ye haue iudgements of worldelye matters, take them whiche are despyled in the congregacyon, & make the iudges. Thys I saye to your shame. Is there vterly not one wyse man among you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe wth another: and that vnder the vnbelievers?

Now therfore, there is vterly a fault among you, because ye go to lawe one wth another. Why rather suffer ye not wrong? why rather suffer ye not your selues to haue harme? haue ye your sel-ues do wrong, and robbe: and that the brethren.
Do ye not knowe, howe that the vryghteous shal not inheret the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. For * neyther fornicatours, neyther worshippers of ymages, neyther aduocaters, neyther weaklynges, neyther abusers of the sel-ues wth mankynde, neyther theues, neyther coueteous, neyther dishardes, neyther curled spakers, neyther pylers, shall inheret the kyngdome of God. And such were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified: but ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, and by the spyrte of our God.

I maye do al thynges, but * al thynges are not profytable. I maye do al thynges: but I wyl be broughte vnder no mans power. Meates are ordyned for the bellye, and the bellye for meates: but God shall destroye bothe it and the. Let not the bodye be applyed vnto fornicacion, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the bodye. God hath rayled vpon the Lorde, and shall rayle vs vpon by his power. * Erther knowe ye not, for your bodies are the membres of Christ: that I nowe take the membres of Christ, and make them the membres of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not knowe, that he whych coupleth hym selfe wth an harlot, is become one bodye? For two (sayth he) shalbe one fleshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde is one spyrte.

As for fornicacion. Every synne that a man doth is wthout the bodye. But he that is a fornicatour, synneth agaynst his owne bodye. Erther knowe ye not, howe that your bodies are the temple of the holye goste, whych dwelleth in you whom ye haue of God, and howe that ye are not your owne? For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifye God in your bodies, and in your spyr-tes, whych are Goddes. *

The vii. Chapter.

After what maner shall curseth the man
that had committed fornicacion wth his mother in lawe.

Concernynge the thynges whereof ye wrote to me: * It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Acquiesce thelesse, to auoyde whooredome, let euerye man haue his wyfe: and let euerye woman haue her husbände. Let the husbände geue vnto the wyfe betwene beniuolence.
Lyke wyfe also the wyfe vnto the husbände. The wyfe hath not power of her owne bodye: but the husbände. And lyke wyfe the husbände hath not power of his owne bodye: but the wyfe. * Wytch-drawe not your selues one from another, excepte it bee wth consent for a tyme, for to geue youre selues to fastynge and prayer. And afterwarde come together agayne, lest Satthan tempte you for your continence. *

Thys I saye of sauoure, and not of comaundement. For I would that all me were as I my selfe am: but euery man hath his proper gyfte of God, one after this maner, another after that I saye vnto them that be vnmarrd, and wyllyng to be so.

The firste Epistle

1. Tim. 4. c. I do. But and * yf they can not abstayne, let the mary. For it is better to mary then to burne.

Math. 19. c. and. xix. c. Unto the maryed commaunde, not I, but the Lozde: * Let not the wyfe be separated from the husband. If she separate her selfe, let her remaine unmarried, as be reconpled unto her husband again. And let not the husbände put away his wyfe from hym.

C To the remnant speake I, not the Lozde. If any brother haue a wife that beleueth not, yf she be contente to dwel wyth hym, let hym not put her away. And the woman whych hath to her husbände an infydele, & consente to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym away. For the vnbelyuynge husbände is sanctified by the wyfe, and yf vnbelyuynge wyfe is sanctified by the husbände. Oys were poure chyldren vncleane: but now are they holpe. But and yf the vnbelyuynge departs, let hym departe. A brother or a syster is not in subiection to suche. But God hath called vs in peace. For howe knowest thou (o woman) whether thou shalt saue thy husband or not? For whether thou knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wyfe or not? but euen as God hath bystrybut to every man.

ephe. iii. c. * As the Lozde hath called every mā, so let hym walke: & so ordeyne I in all congregacions. If any man be called byng circumcised, let hym not adde vncircumcised. If any man be called vncircumcised, let hym not be circumcised. Circumcised is nothyng, and vncircumcised is nothyng: but the keepynge of the commaundementes of God.

1. Tim. 4. c. Let every man abyde in the same calling wherein he was called. * Arte thou called a seruante? care not for it. Neuertheles yf thou makest her free, use it rather. For he that is called in the Lozde, byng a seruante, is the Lozdes freeman. Lyke wyse he that is called bynge free, is Chylles seruante. He are dearely bought, be not ye the seruantes of menne. Whereby, let every manne wherein he is called, there in abyde wyth God. * As concernynge virgyns, I haue no commaundement of the Lozde: yet geue I counsell, as one that hath optayned mercye of the Lozde, to be saythful. I suppose therfore that it is good for the present necessite. For it is good for a mā so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Arte thou loosed from a wyfe, seke not a wyfe. But and yf thou mary a wyfe, thou hast not sinned. Lyke wyse, yf a vyrgyn mary, she hath not sinned. Neuertheles such shal haue trouble in theyr felthe: but I fauoure you.

C This saie I brethren * the tyme is shorte. It remaineth that they whych haue wyues, be as though they had none, & they that wepe, be as though they wept not: and they that reioyse, be as though they reioysed not: and they that buye be as though they possessed not: & they that vse theyr woelde, be as though they died it not. For psal. cx. c. 11. psal. iii. c. the saluatioun of this woelde goeth awaye. * I would haue you without care. He that is unmarried careth for the thynges whych belong to the Lozde, howe he maye please the Lozde. But he that hath maryed a wyfe careth for the thynges that are of this woeld, howe he may please his wife. There is difference betwene a virgyn & a wyfe. The syngle woman careth for the thynges that are of the Lozde, that she may be holy both in body and also in spyte: & gayn, she that is maryed, careth for the thynges that pertain to this woeld howe she may please her husband. This speake I for your profyte, not to cagle you in a snare: but that ye may folow whych is honest and cōly, & that ye may cleane vnto the Lozde wythout leperacion. If any man thynke that it is vncōmly for hym vyrgyn, yf he passe the tyme of maryage. And yf so nebe requyre, let hym do what he listeth he synneth not: let the be coupled in maryage. Neuertheles, he that purposeth surely in hisberte, haupng no nebe: but hath power ouer his owne wyl: and hath so decreed in hisberte, that he wyl kepe his vyrgyn, doth well. So then he that loyneth hym vyrgyn in maryage doth well. But he that loyneth not his virgyn in mariage doth better. * The wyfe is bounde to the mary, as longe as her husband lyueth. If her husbände dye, she is at lybertie to marye wyth whō she wyl, onely in the Lozde. But she is happier yf she so abyde, after my iudgemente. And I thynke verely that I haue the spyte of God.

C The rebuketh them that vse lybertye to the saluatioun of order, and sheweth howe men oughte to behaue them selves towarde suche as be weake.

E touchynge thynges * offred vnto ymages, we are sure yf we all haue knowlage. Knowlage maketh a man wel: but loue edifyeth, yf any mā thinke yf he knoweth any thyng he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to knowe. But yf any man loue God, the same is knowen of hym. As concernynge the eatynge of those thynges that are offred vnto ydoles, we are sure, yf the ymage is nothyng in the woelde and that there is none other God, but one. And though there be that are called Goddes, whether in heauen other in erth (as ther be Goddes many, and Lozdes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God which is the father, of whō are al thynges, & we for hym: and one Lozde Iesus Christ, by whom are al thynges, and we by hym. But every man hath not knowlage. * Some haupng conscience because of the ymage, vntyll theyr hōuer, eat as a thyng offred vnto ymages: and so theyr conscience byng weake is deyled. But meate maketh vs not acceptabill to God. Acyphet yf we eat, are we the better. Acyphet yf we eat not, are we the worse.

C But take heed, least by any meanes this lybertye of pōuers be an occasioun of fallynge to them that are weake. For yf some manne be the whych hath knowlage, yf and eate of meate offred vnto ymages, shal not the conscience of hym whych is weake, be boldened to eate those thynges, whych are offred to ymages? And so thowoe thy knowlage shal the weake brother perishe, for whome Christ dyed. When ye synne so agaynst the brethren, and wounde theyr weakē conscience, ye synne agaynst Christe.

Wherfore

Wherefore * if meate hurte my brother, I will neuer eate fleshe lest I should offend my brother
The .ix. Chapter.

Howe forbeareth the thyng that the maye dooe by the lawe. He exhorteth them to runne on faith in the course that they have begonne.

I am not an Apostle / am I not free
* haue I not sene Iesus Christe our Lorde / Are ye not my worke in the Lorde / If I be not an Apostle unto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne Apostleship are ye in the Lorde Whye and were to them that aske me, is this.
Haue we not power to eate and to drinke / haue we not power to leade aboute a woman a sister as well as other Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lorde, and Cephas / Either onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to dooe / Who goeeth a warfare any tyme at his owne cosse / who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruite thereof / Who feedeth a flocke and eateth not of the milke of the flocke /

Haue I these thynges after the maner of menne / Maist not the lawe the same also / For it is written in the lawe of Moyses. Thou shalt not make the moneth of the oxe that treadeth out the corne. Dooth God take thought for oxe / Maist he it not altogether for our sakes / For our sakes no doubte this is written: that he whiche eareth should eare in hope, and that he whiche reareth in hope, should be partaker of his hope. If we sowe vnto you spirituall thynges is it a greate thyng if we reape yowre bodelye thynges / If other be partakers of this power ouer you, wherefore are not we rather / Reuerence we haue not vied this power but suffer all thynges, lest we should hinder the Gospell of Christe. Doe ye not knowe, howe that they whiche minister aboute holy thynges line of the sacrifice / They whiche waite of the temple, are partakers of the temple. Euen so also did the Lorde ordayne: that they whiche pre-che the Gospell, should line of the Gospell. But I haue vied none of these thynges. Reuerence I wrote not these thynges, that it should bee so dooen vnto me. For it were better for me dye the that any manne should take this reioysing fro me. For if I preache the Gospell, I haue nothing to reioice of. For necessite is put vnto me. But what is it vnto me, if I preach not the Gospell. If I do it with a good will, I haue a reward. But if I dooe it against my will, an office is committed vnto me. What is my reward then / Verily that when I preache the Gospell, I make the Gospell of Christe free, that I misse not myne authoritee in the Gospell.

For though I be free from all menne, yet haue I made my self seruante vnto all menne, that I might wyne the mo. * Vnto the Jewes I became as a Jewe, to wyne the Jewes. To them that were vnder the lawe, was I made as though I had been vnder the lawe. (when I was not vnder the lawe) to wyne them that were vnder the lawe. To them that were without lawe became I as though I had been without lawe when I was not without lawe as petyning to God, but vnder the lawe of Christe) to wyne them that were without lawe. To the weake became I as weake, to wyne the weake. In al thynges * I fashioned my selfe to all menne to saue at the leaste waye some. And this I dooe for the Gospelles sake, that I might haue my parte thereof.

Perceiue ye not, howe that they whiche runne in a course, runne all, but one receiveth the reward. So runne, that ye maye obayne. Every manne that pouerth himselfe, abstayneth from all thynges. And they dooe it to obayne a crowne that shall perishe: but we to obayne an everlastyng crowne. Therefore so runne, not as at an vnterpayn thyng. So fyght I, not as one that beatech the ayre: but I tame my body, and byng it into subiection, leaste by any meanes it come to passe, that when I haue preached to other, I my selfe should be a caken-waye.

The .x. Chapter.

He teacheth them with the ensamples of the olde Testamente and exhorteth them to a goodly con-uersacion.

Reith, I would not that ye should be ignorant, howe that our fathers were all vnder cloud, and all passed through the sea, and were all baptised vnder Moyses in the cloude and in the sea: and did all eate of one spirituelle meate and did all dryncke of one maner spirituall dryncke. And they dranke of that spirituall rocke that folowed them, whiche rocke was Christe. But in many of them had God no delite: For they were overthowen in the wyldernes. These are ensamples to vs: that we should not luste after euill thynges, as they lusted. And that ye should not be worshippers of ymages, as were some of them, according as it is written. The people sat downe to eate and dryncke, and rose vp to playe. Neither let vs bee defiled with fornicacion as some of them wer defiled with fornicacion, & fell in one daye. * xliii. thousand. Neither let vs tempte Christ, as some of them tempted, and were destroyed of serpents.
Neither murmur ye, as some of them murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

All these thynges happened vnto them for ensamples, but they are written to putte vs in reminbrance, whom the endes of the worlde are come vpon. Wherefore, let hym that synneth standeth, take heed, leaste ye fall. There hath none other temptation takte you, but suche as of looth nature of manne. But Gods faith-full whiche shall not suffer you to bee tempted aboue yowre strength: but shall in the middes of the temptation make awaye that ye maye bee able to beare it. Wherefore my deare beloved, flie from worshipping of ymages.

I speake as vnto them whiche haue discrecion, iudge ye what I saye. Is not the cuppe of blessyng whiche wee bleste, partakynge of the bloodde of Christe / Is not the byrde whiche wee brenke, partakynge of the bodye of Christe / because that wee (though wee bee many) yet are one byrde and one body, in as muche as wee all are

The firste Epistle

are partakers of one bꝛede. (and of one cuppe.) Beholder Israell after the fleshe. Are not thei whiche eate of the sacrifice, partakers of the temple What saie I then? that the ymage is any thyng? or that it whiche is offered to ymages, is any thyng? Naye, but this I saie: that the thyn-ges whiche the Gentiles offere, they offere to de-uelles, and not to God. I woulde not that ye should haue fellowship with the deuilles. Ye can not drinke of the cuppe of the Lorde, and of the cuppe of deuilles. Ye cannot bee the partakers of the Lordes table, and of the table of the de-uelles. Either dooe wee moue the Lorde? Are we stronger then he? I maye dooe all thynges, but all thynges are not expedient. I maye dooe all thynges, but all thynges be not. Let no man seke that whiche is his owne: but let every man seke that whiche belongeth to another. What soeuer is sold in the fleshe market, that eate, and aske no questyon for conscience sake. For the earth is the Lordes, and all that therein is. If any of them whiche beleeue not, bid you to a feast, and ye bee disposed to goo, whatsoeuer is set before you, eate, asking no question for conscience sake.
But and if any manne saie vnto you: this is offered vnto ymages, eate not of it for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake. The earth is the Lordes and all that therein is. Conscience I saie, not thynne, but of the other. For why is my liberty iudged of another mannes conscience?
For if I take my parte with thankes, why am I iustill spoken of, for that thyng wherefore I geue thankes? Whether therfore ye eate or drynke, or what soeuer ye dooe, dooe all to the praise of God. For see that ye geue none occasion of euill, neither to the Jewes, nor yet to the Gentiles, neither to the congregacion of God euen as I please all menne in all thynges, not seeking myne owne profite, but that I profite of many, that thei might bee saved. The xi. Chapter.

BE ye bee folowers of me, as I am follower of Christ. I comende you bꝛethren, for ye remember me in all thyn-ges, and keepe the ordinaunces, euen as I deliuered them to you. But I would haue you to knowe that Christ is the hede of euery manne. And the manne is the womanes hede. And God is Christs hede. Euery manne praying or prophesying hauyng any thyng on his hede, thameth his hede. Euery woman that vrapeth or prophesieth bare headed, dishonoureth her hede. For that is euen all one, as if she were nauen. If the woman bee not couered, let her also bee shosen. If it bee shame for a woman to bee shosen or shauen, lette her couer her hede. A manne ought not to couer his hede for asmuche as he is the ymage and glorie of God. But the woman is not of the manne: but the woman of the manne. Neither was the manne created for the womans sake: but the woman for the mannes sake. For this cause oughte the woman to haue power on her hede, for the angels sakes: Heu-thelesse, neither is the manne without the womā neither the woman withoute the manne in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the manne, euen so is the manne: by the woman: but all of God:

Judge in your selues, whether it bee comly that a woman praye vnto God bare headed.
Dooeth not nature it self teache you, that it is a shame for a manne, if he haue long beere and a prayer to a woman: if he haue long beere? For her beere is geuen her to couer her withall. If a ny manne luste to drinke, wee haue no such co-some neither the congregacions of God. This I warne you of, and commend not, that ye come not together after a better maner, but after a wourle. For firste of all when ye come together in the congregacion, I heare that there is dissen-cion among you: I partly deliue it. For there must bee sectes among you, that thei whiche are perfect among you might bee knownen. Where ye come together therfore into one place, the Lordes supper cannot bee eaten. For euery man begynneth afoze to eate his owne supper. And one is hungry, and another is drunken. Hauer ye not houses to eate and to drynke in? Despise ye the congregacion of God, and shame them that haue not? What shall I saie vnto you? Shall I praise you? In this praise I you not.

That whiche I deliuered vnto you I re-ceiued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Jesus same night, in whiche he was betrayed, toke bꝛede: when he had geuen thankes, he brake it and saied Take ye, and eate: this is my bodie, whiche is broken for you. This dooe ye in remembrance of me. After the same maner also toke he the cup, wher suppe was dooen, sayyng. This cup is the newe testament in my blood: This dooe as oft as ye drynke it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye shall eate this bꝛede and drynke this cup: ye shall shewe the Lordes deathe: till he come. Wherefore, whosoener, shall eate of this bꝛede, or drynke of the cup of the Lorde vntothely, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lorde. But let a manne examen hymself, & so let hym eate of the bꝛede and drynke of the cup For he that eateth or drynketh vnto-ly, ea-teth and drynketh his owne dāpnacion, because he maketh no difference of the Lordes body. For this cause many are weake and sicke among you, and many slepe. For if we had iudged our selues wee should not haue been iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lorde, wee are chastened, that wee should not bee dampned with the worlde.
Wherefore my bꝛethren when ye come together to eate, tary one for another. If any manne bon-ger, let hym eate at home, that ye come not together vnto condempnacion. For other thynges will I set in order when I come.

uen to the comfort and edifying of one another, as

D And vpon those members of the body whiche wee thinke least honesty, put wee more honestye on. And our vngodly partes haue more beautie on. For oure honeste members neede it not. But God hath so disposed the bodye, and hath geuen the more honour, to that parte whiche lacked, lest there should bee any strife in the body: but y^e the members should indifferently care one for another. And if one member suffer, all suffer with hym. If one member bee had in honour, all members bee glad also. Ye are the body of Christe, & members one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregation, first * Apostles, secondarely prophetes, thirdeley teachers, then them y^e dooe miracles: after that, the giftes of healing, helpers, gouerners, diuersitie of toungues. Are all Apostles? Are all Prophetes? Are all teachers? Are all dooers of miracles? Haue all the giftes of healing? Doore all speake wth toungues? Doore all interpret? Couert after the best giftes. And yet shew I vnto you a more excellent waie.

is he that pꝛopheſieth, then he that ſpeaketh with tongues except he expounde it: ſ the congregaciō maye haue ediſyng. Now brethren, if I come vnto you ſpeaking w tongues: what ſhall I pꝛofite you, except I ſpeak to you, either by reuelaciō oꝛ by knowelage, oꝛ by pꝛopheſyng, oꝛ by doctryne? Moreover, when thynges withoute life geue ſounde (whether it bee a py-pe oꝛ an harpe) excepte they make a diſtinction in the ſoundes, howe ſhall it bee knowne what is pypped oꝛ harped? For if the trompe geue an uncertayne voyce, who ſhall prepare hymſelfe to the warre? Euen ſo iſhewſe when ye ſpake ſignificaciō: howe ſhall it bee vnderſtande what is ſpoken? For ye ſhall but ſpake in the ayre.

The firste Epistle

C Many hundredes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of them are without significacon. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shall be vnto hym that speaketh, an aliene: and he that speaketh, shall be an aliene vnto me. Euen so ye (for asmuche as ye couet spiritual gifts) seeke, that ye maie excell, vnto the edifying of the congregation. Wherefore, lette hym that speaketh with tounge, waite, that he maie interpret also. For if I praye with tounge, my spirite praiseth, but my vnderstandyng dooeth no good. What is it then? I will praye with the spirite, & will praye with vnderstandyng. I will sing to the spirite, & will sing with the vnderstandyng. For when thou bledest with the spirite, how shall he that occupieth the roume of the vnderstanded, saye: Amen, at the geuyng of thanches, seeing he vnderstandeth not what thou sayest? Thou directly givest thanches well, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God that I speake with tounques more then ye all: yet had I leuer in the congregation to speake five wordes with vnderstandyng to informacion of other, rather then ten thousand wordes with tounge.

D Brethren, bee not ye children in wyete. Howbeit, as concerning maliciousnes, bee chyldren but in wyete bee perfecte. In the lawe it is sayd ten * with sondrye tounques, and with sondrye lippes will I speake vnto this people, & yet for all that, will they not heare me, saith the Lorde. Wherefore tounques are for a sygne, not to thei that beleue: but to theim that beleue not. Contrarywise, prophesying serueth not for theim that beleue not: but for theim whiche beleue. If therefore, when all the congregacion is come together, and all speake with tounques, they come in they that are vnderstanded, or thei whiche beleue not: will not thei saie, that ye are out of your witte? But and if all prophesie, and there come in one þ beleueh not, or one vnderstanded, he is rebuked of all menne, and is iudged of every manne, and so are the secretes of his hearte opened, and so falleth he doune on his face, and worshippeth God, and saith that God is in you of a trueth. How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, every one of you hath a song, hath a doctrine hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretation.

Let all thynges bee dooen vnto edifying. If any manne speake with tounge, lette it bee by twoo or at the moste by thre, and that by course and lette another interpret it. But if there bee no interpreter, lette hym kepe silence in the congregation, and lette hym speake to hymself and to God. Lette þ prophetes speake twoo, or thre and * lette the other iudge. If any reuelacion bee made to other that sitteth by, let the firste holde his peace. For ye maye all prophesie one by one, that all maie learne, and that all maie haue confyte. And the spirites of the prophetes are in þ power of the prophetes. For God is not cause of stryfe: * but of peace, as he teacheth in all congregacions of the sainctes. * Let your women kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto them to speake: but to bee vnder obedient, as saith the lawe. If they will learne any thyng, lette theim aske their husbendes at home. For it is a shame for women to speake in þ congregation: as among the woord of God fro you came it vnto you onely? If any man thinke hymself to be a prophet, ether spiritual: let hym know, what thynges I write vnto you. For thei are the comaundementes of the Lorde. But and if any manne bee ignoraunte, let hym bee ignorant. Wherefore brethren, couet to prophesie, & for bid not to speake with tounques: Let all thynges bee dooen honestly and in order: - (among you.)

¶ The resurrection of the dedde.

B Rechen, as pertainyng to the Gos. I prei whiche I preached vnto you, whiche ye haue also accepted, and in the whiche ye continue, by the whiche also ye are saved: I dooe you to wyte, after what maner I preached vnto you, if ye hepe it, excepte ye haue beleued in wayne. For firste of all I deliuered vnto you, that whiche I receiued: how that Christus dyed for our synnes agreying to the scriptures. * And that he was buried, and that he arose again the thirde daye according to the scriptures: and that he was sene of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of mo then five hundred brethren at once: of whiche many remaine vnto this daye, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to all the Apostles.

And laste of all he was sene of me, as of one that was bozne out of due tyme. For I am the leaste of the Apostles, whiche am not worthy to bee called an Apostle, because * I persecuted the congregacion of God: But by the grace of God I am that I am. And his grace whiche is in me, was not in vaine: * But I labored more abou dauntely then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God whiche is with me, therefore whether it were I, or they lo wee preache, and so haue ye beleued. * If Christus bee preached how that he arose from the dedde: how saie some among you that there is no resurrection of the dedde?

If there bee no ryling agayne of the dedde then is Christus not rylen agayne. If Christus bee not rylen agayne then is our preaching in vaine and your faith is also in vaine. Pea and wee are founde false witnesses of God. For wee haue testified of God, how that he rayled vp Christus: whom he rayled not vp, if it be so that the dedde ryl not agayne. For if the dedde ryl not agayne then is Christus not rylen agayne. If it bee so that Christus rose not agayne, then is youre faith in wayne, and ye are yet in youre synnes. Therefore they whiche are fallen a slepe in Christus, are perished. If in this life onely wee beleue on Christus, then are wee of all menne moste miserable. But now is Christus risen from the dedde, and become * the firste frutes of them that slepe. For by a manne came death, and by a manne came the resurrection of the dedde. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Christus, shall all bee made alpyue, but every manne in his owne order. ¶

The firste is Christus, then they that are Christes at his comyng. Then cometh the end Wende, when he hath deliuered by the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath putte doune all rule and auctoritee and power. For he muste raigne till he haue putte all his enemies vnder his fete. The laste enemy that shal be destroyed is death. For he hath putte all thynges vnder his fete. But when he saith all thynges are put vnder hym, it is manifeste that he is accepted, whiche he putte all thynges vnder hym. When all thynges are subdued vnto hym, the shal the soone also hymself be subiecte vnto hym, that putte all thynges vnder hym, that God maye be all in al. As what dooe thei, whiche are baptyzed ouer the dedde, if the dedde rise not all? Why are they then baptyzed ouer them? Yea, and why stande wee alwaye then in scaperyng? By oure retrosyng whiche I haue in Christe Iesu oure Lorde, I dye daily.

¶ That I haue foughte with beastes at Ephe- sus after the maner of menne, what auanta- geth it me, if the dedde rise not againe? Let vs cate and bypnyche, for to morowe wee shal dye. Bee not ye deccyued: euill woordes corrupte good maners. I wake truly ouer of slepe, and synne not. For some haue not the knowlage of God: I speake this to youre shame. But some manne will saye: how ryle y dedde, with what bodie shal thei come? Thou fool, that whiche thou so west, is not quickened, except it die. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that body that shal be: but beate coine as of wheate, of some other, God geueth it a bodye at his plea- sure, to every seede his owne bodye.

¶ All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe: but there is one maner of fleshe of menne, another maner of fleshe of beastes, another of fowles, & another of birdes. There are also celestiall bod- ies, and there are bodies terrestriall. But the glo- ry of the celestiall is one, and the glo- ry of the terrestriall is another. Ther is one maner glo- ry of the sunne, and another glo- ry of the moone, and another glo- ry of the starres. For one starre dif- fereth from another in glo- ry. So is the resurrec- tion of the dedde. It is sowen in corrupcion, it ryleth againe in incorrupcion. It is sowen in dishonoure, it ryleth againe in honoure. It is lowe in weakenes, it ryleth againe in power. It is lowe a naturall body, it ryleth againe: a spirituall body. There is a naturall body, and there is a spi- rituall body: as it is also writen: the first manne Adam was made a luyng soule, and the laste Adam was made a quicknyng spirite. How- beitt, that is not firste whiche is spirituall, but that whiche is naturall, and then that whiche is spirituall. The firste manne is of the earthe, earthe: the seconde manne is the Lord from hea- ven: & he is the earthy, such are they that are earthy. And as is the heauenlye, such are they that are heauenly. And as wee haue bo- dye the ymage of the earthe, so shal wee beare the ymage of the heauenlye.

This I saye biethen that fleshe and bloode cannot inherite the kyngdome of God. Neither dooth corrupcion inherite vncorruptio. Behold I shewe you a mistery. Wee shal not slepe: but

* Wee shal all bee chaunged, and that in a mo- mente, in the twinkelyng of an eye by the laste trompe. For the trompe shal blowe, and y dedde shal ryle in corrupcion, and wee shal be chaun- ged. For this corrupcion muste putte on incor- rupcion and this mortall must putte on immorta- litye. When this corrupcion hath putte on incor- rupcion, and this mortall hath putte on immor- talitee: then shal be brought to passe the sayng that is writen: * Death is swallowed vp in victorie. * Death is the synge of hell wher is the victorie? The synge of death is synne: and the strength of synne is the lawe: But thanckes be vnto God whiche hath geuen vs victorie, through oure Lorde Iesus Christe. Therefore my deare biethen, bee ye stedfaste and vnmou- ble, alwaye rye in the woorkes of the Lorde, for as muche as ye knowe, how that your labour is not in vayne in the Lorde.

The xvi. Chapter.

The purport of this chapter is to shewe the gathering of the church at Jerusalem & the conclusion of the same.

Concernyng the gathering for the sainctes, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Salacia, euen so dooe ye. Upon some Saboth daie let every one of you put aside at home and late by whatso euer is mete, & there bee no gatheryng when I come. Whē I am come, whosoever ye shall allow by your letters, thei will I sende, to bring your liberalite vnto Hierusalem. And if it bee mete y I go also, thei shal go with me. I will come vnto you when I goo ouer to Macedonia. For I will go throughout Macedonia. With you per aduerture I will abide a while: or els tary all winter, that ye maie bring me on the waie, whether soeuer I goo I will not see you now in my pas- sage: but I truste to abide a while with you, if God shal suffre me. I will tary at Ephe- sus, vntill the fifteenth daie. For a great doze and a fru- tefull is opened vnto me: and there are many ad- nersaries. If Timotheus come, see that he bee withoute feare with you. For he woorketh the wo- rke of the Lorde, as I dooe: let no manne ther- fore dyspise hym: but couetise hym forthe in peace y he maie come vnto me. For I loke for hym w the biethen. To speake of brother Apollos: I greatly desired hym, to come vnto you with y biethen, but his minde was not at al to come at this tyme. Howbeit he wil come, whē he shal haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stande fast in the faith, quite you like menne, be strong. Let all your busines bee dooen with loue.

Biethen, ye knowe the house of Stepha- na: & Archippos how that thei are the first frutes of Achata, and that thei haue apoin- ted themselves to minister vnto the sainctes: I beseeche you that ye bee obedient vnto such and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glade of the commyng of Stephana and Fortunatus and Archippos: for that whiche was lackyng vnto me on your parte thei haue supplied: For they haue comforted my spirite and yours. Love the- fore that ye knowe them that are such.

The seconde Epistle

D The congregacions of Asia salute you, Aquila and Priscilla salute you muche in the Lord, & so dooth the congregacion that is in their house. Greete ye one another with an holy kyss. The salutation of me Paull with myne owne hande. If any manne loue not the Lord Jesus Christe, the same bee Anathema Maranatha. The grace of the Lord Jesus Christe bee with you: My loue bee with you all in Christ Jesu. Amen.

The firste Epistle to the Corinthians was set from Philippos, by Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Tymotheus.

The seconde Epistle

of sainte Paull the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The firste Chapter.

The consolation of God in trouble. The loue of Paull towarde the Corinthians and his exhortation that he came not unto them.

PALL an Apostle of Jesus Christe by the will of God, and brother Tymotheus. Unto the congregacion of God, whiche is at Corinthum, with all the saintes whiche are in all Achaia. * Grace bee with you, and peace from God our father and from the Lord Jesus Christe.

* Blessed bee God (the father of our Lord Jesus Christ) whiche is the father of mercy, and the God of all comforte, whiche comforteth vs in all our tribulacion, in so muche that we are able to comforte them whiche are in any maner of trouble, with the same comforte, wherewith we are comforted of God. For as the afflictions of Christe are plenteous in vs, even so is our consolacion plenteous by Christe.

Wherther we be troubled for your consolacion and healthe: (as whether we be comforted is for your confort and saluacion) whiche saluacion shewed her power, in that ye suffer the same afflictions whiche we also suffer: or whether we be comforted for your consolacion and saluacion: our hope also is steadfast for you: in as muche as we knowe, how that as ye are partakers of the afflictions, so shall ye be partakers also of the consolacion. Brethren, I woud not haue you ignorant of our trouble, whiche happened vnto vs in Asia. For we were greued ouer of measure, passing strength: so greatly that we despaired euen of life. Also we receiued an answer of death in our selues, that we should not putte our truste in our selues: but in God whiche rayseth the dedde to life again, and whiche deliuered vs from so greate a death: and dooth helpe. On whom we truste that yet heereafter he will deliuer, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the meanes of many persones, thanches maye be given of many: on our behalfe, for the grifte given vnto vs.

For our reioysing is this, euen the testimony of our conscience, that in synclenes (of heart) & godly purenes, & not in fleschly wysedome but by the grace of God, we haue had our conuersacion in the world, and moste of all to you wardes. Alas wyte none other thynges vnto you, then that ye receade and also knowe. Yea, and I trust ye shall fynde vs vnto the ende, euen as ye haue told vs partly: for we are your reioysing euen as ye are ours in the daye of the Lord Jesus.

* And in this confidence was I mynded first to haue come vnto you, that I mighte haue had one pleasure moze with you, and to passe by you into Macedonia, and to haue come agayne out of Macedonia vnto you, and to be led forth of you towarde Jewrye. When I thus wyse was mynded: did I see lightenes? Or thynke I carnally those thynges whiche I thynke that with me should bee? yea, yea, and naye, naye. God is faichfull: For our preaching to you, was not yea and naye. For Godes loonne Jesus Christe whiche was preached among you by vs (eud by me and Siluanus & Tymotheus) was not yea and naye: but by hym it was yea: For all the promyses of God, by hym are yea: & are in hym. I me, vnto the laude of God through vs. For it is God whiche stablisheth vs with you in Christe and standeth by vs, & hath anointed vs whiche hath also sealed vs, and hath geuen the earnest of the spirite in our heartes. * I call God for a record vnto my soule that for to sauoure you with all, I came not any moze vnto Corinthum. * Not that we be Lordes ouer your faith: but are helpers of your lope. For by faith ye stande.

The ii. Chapter.

The bewte the cause of his absence and exhorteth them to forgiue the manne that was fallen, and to receiue hym agayne with loue.

But I determined this in my self that I woud not come agayne to you in heuines. For if I make you sorre, who is it that should make me glad, but the same whiche is made sorre by me? And I wrote the same vnto you, lest if I came vnto you, I woude take heuines (vpon me) of them, of whome I oughte to reioyce. This confidence haue I towarde you all that my lope is the lope of you all. For out of greate affliction and angurthe of hearte, I wrote vnto you with many teares: not that ye should bee made sorre, but that ye mighte perceiue the loue whiche I haue, moste specially vnto you.

If any manne hath caused sorow, the same hath not made me sorre, but partly: lest I shoud greue you all. * It is sufficient vnto the same manne, that he was rebuked of many. So that now contrary wyse, ye oughte rather to forgiue hym, and comforte hym: lest that same person should bee swallowed vp with ouer muche heuines. Wherfore I repositte you, & loue maye haue strength ouer hym. For this cause verely did I write that I might knowe the proofe of you wher ye should bee obediens in all thynges. To whom ye forgiue any thyng, I forgiue also.

For if I forgaue any thyng to whome I forgaue it, for your sakes I forgaue it, in the sighte of Christ.

his thoughtes are unknowne vnto vs. ¶

¶ When I was come to Troada for Christes Gospelles sake (and a doore was opened vnto me of the Lozde) I had no rest in the spirite, because I founde not Tytus my brother, but took my leaue of theim, and wente awaye into Macedonia. Thanches bee vnto God, whiche alwayes geueth vs the victorie in Christe and openeth the sauer of his knowelage by vs in euery place. For we are vnto God the lyste sauour of Christ among theim that are saued, and among theim whiche perishe. ¶ To the one parte we are the sauour of deathe vnto deathe. And vnto the other parte we are the sauour of lyfe vnto life. And who is mete vnto these thynges? For we are not as the moste parte are, whiche choppe and chaunge with the woordes of God but euen oute of puerneesse, and by the power of God, in the sight of God, to speake we in Christe. ¶

The. iii. Chapter.

The playeth the preaching of the Gospel about the preaching of the same.

We begyn to prayse our selues again. Rede we as some other of Epistles of recommendacion vnto you of letters of recommendacion from you. Ye are our Epistle written in oure heartes, whiche is vnderstand and rede of all menne, for as muche as ye declare that ye are the Epistle of Christe, ministered by vs & written, not with ynke: but with the spirite of the lityng God not in tables of stone, but in fleschly tables of the heartes.

¶ Suche truste haue we through Christe to Godwarde, not that we are sufficiente of oure selues to thinke any thing, as for oure selues: but if we be able vnto any thing: the same cometh of God, whiche hath made vs able to minister the newe testament, not of the letter, but of the spirite. For the letter killeth but the spirite geueth life.

If the ministracion of deathe through the letters figured in stones was gloriouse, so that the chyldren of Israel coude not beholde the face of Moses, for the gloze of his countenance (whiche gloze is dooen awaye) why shall not the ministracion of the spirite be muche moze gloriouse? For if the ministracyng of condemnation be gloriouse: muche moze doorth the ministracion of righteousnes excede in gloze. ¶ For no doubte that whiche was there glorified, is not once glorified in respect of this excedyng gloze. For if that whiche is destroyed was gloriouse, muche moze that whiche remaineth, is gloriouse.

¶ Wee praye then that we haue suche truste, we be grete boldenes and dooe not as Moses whiche put a vail ouer his face, that the chyldren of Israel shoulde not see for what purpose that serued whiche is putte awaye. ¶ but thre myndes were blynded. For vntill this daye remaineth the same coueryng vnto this daye in the lecture of the olde testamente, whiche vail shal be putte awaye in Christ. But euen vnto this daye when Moses is rede the vail hangeth before their eyes. Neuerthelesse whiche they turne to the Lozde, the vail shal be taken awaye. ¶ The Lozde no doubte is a spirite. And where the spirite of the Lozde is there is libertie. But we all beholde in a miroure the gloze of the Lozde with his face open and are chaunged vnto the same similitude, from gloze to gloze, euen as of the spirite of the Lozde.

The. iii. Chapter.

A true preacher is diligent, he conceyeth not the honour of God, but seeketh the honour of Christe, yea though it bee with the perill of his life.

¶ Herefore, seying that we haue I suche an officer, euen as God hath had mercy on vs, we go not out of hynde: but haue cast from vs the clokes of vnhonesty, & walke not in craftines, neither vaine we the woordes of God discretely, but open the trueth and repute oure selues to euery mannes conscience in the sight of God. ¶ If oure Gospel bee yet hid, it is hid among theim that are losse, in whom the God of this worlde hath blynded the myndes of theim whiche beleue not, lest the lighte of the Gospel of the gloze of Christe (whiche is the ymage of God) shoulde shyne vnto theim. ¶

¶ For we preache not our selues, but Christe Iesus to bee the Lozde, and our selues youre seruauntes, for Iesus sake. For it is God, that commaundeth the light to shyne out of darke, whiche hath shyned in oure heartes, for to geue the lighte of the knowelage of the gloze of God, in the face of Iesus Christe.

But we haue this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellencye of the power might bee of Gods and not oures. Wee are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without hope. Wee are in pouertie, but not vterly without some what. Wee suffre persecution: but are not forsaken therein. Wee are caste doune: neuerthelesse we perishe not. Wee alwayes beare aboute in the bodye, the dying of the Lozde Iesus, that the life of Iesu might also appeare in our bodye. ¶

¶ For we whiche liue, are alwayes deliuered vnto deathe for Iesus sake, that the life also of Iesu might appeare in our mortall fleshe. So then deathe woorketh in vs, but life in you.

¶ But seying that we haue the same spirite of faide (accordyng as it is written: I beleue & therefore haue I spoken.) Wee also beleue, and therefore speake. For we knowe, that he whiche raised vp the Lozde Iesus shal raise vp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, and shal sette vs with you. For all thynges dooe I for youre sakes, the plenteous grace by thanksgyuing of many maye redounde to the prayse of God.

¶ Herefore, we are not weryed. But though our outwarde manne perishe, yet the inward man is renewed daye by daye. ¶ For our tribulacion whiche is momentarye light, prepared an excedyng and an eternall waight of gloze vnto vs, while we loke not on the thynges whiche are sene, but on the thynges whiche are not sene: For the thynges whiche are sene, are temporall but thynges whiche are not sene, are eternal. ¶

¶ The .vi. Chapter. ✠

In muche pacifce, in afflictions, in necessities in anguishes, in stripes, in prisonmentes in tri-fes, in labours, in watchynges, in fastynges, in purenes, in knowelage, in long sufferynge, in hybernes, in the holy ghoſte, in loue vnfayned, in p-reſeruatione of trueth, in the power of God, by the armour of righteouſnes of the righte hande and on the liſte by honour and diſhonour, by cruel reproche and good reſpite: as diſcerners, and yet true, and vnknoſſen as yet knowen: as dyng, & beholde, were leue: as chaſtened, and not kyled, as ſorryng, and yet alwaye merie: as poore, and yet make many riche: as haryng not dyng, and yet poſſeſſyng all thynges. I

Chc. vii. Chapter.

We haue corrupted no man: we haue deftanded no manne. I ſpeake not this to condemne you: for I haue ſerued you before, & ye are in our heartes to dye and liue with you: I am verie bolde ouer you: I reioyce greatly in you. I am filled with conſort comforte, and am exceeding joyous in all our tribulation. For when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side. Outward was fighting, inward was sore. Nevertheless God comforteth

1. Cor. 1.2

us by the coming of Titus. And not by his coming onely, but also by the consolation which we received of you: when he tolde us your desire, your weeping, your fervent mynd for me: so that I rejoiced the more.

For though I made you sorry with a letter, I repent not: though I did repent. For I perceive that the same Epistle made you sorry, though it were but for a season. But I now rejoice, not that ye were sorry, but that ye sorrowed: that ye repented. For ye sorrowed godly, so that in nothing ye were hurt by us. For godly sorrow causeth repentance unto salvation, not to be repented of, contrary to flesh, which sorrow causeth death. For behold, what diligence thy godly sorrow that ye took, hath brought in you: per. it caused you to clear your selves. It caused indignation, it caused blame, it caused desire, it caused punishment. For in all things ye have showed your selves, that ye were clear in that matter. Wherefore though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that was hurt: but that your good mynd for us might agree amonge you in the sight of God.

1. Cor. 1.2

Therefore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: per. and exceedingly the more joyed we, for I hope that Titus had: because his spirit was refreshed of you all. I am therefore not now ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges which we speke unto you are true, even so our boasting I made unto Titus, is found true. And his inward accepton is more abundant toward you, when he remembreth the obedience of you all, howe with feare and trembling ye received him. I rejoice that I may be bold over you in all thynges.

The viii. Chapter

Deposited them in commendance to help the poor synners at Jerusalem, according as the apostolus hath said

Certify you brethren, of the grace of God, which was given in the congregacions of Macedonia, howe that the abundance of theyr rejoicing is, that they are tried with much tribulation. And though they were exceeding joyous yet have they given exceeding richly and that in singleness. For to theyr powers, I beare the record: per. and beyond theyr powers, they were willing of theyr owne accord, and prayed us with great instance, that we would receive theyr benefits, and suffer them to be partakers with other in ministering to the synners. And this they did, not as they loved for: but gave their own selves first to the Lord, and after unto us by the wyl of God: so that we could not but desire Cyrus, to accomplish the same benevolence amonge you also, even as he had begonne.

1. Cor. 1.2

1. Cor. 1.2

Nowe therefore, as ye are rich in all parties in faith, in word, in knowledge, in all fervency and in love, which ye have to us, even so, let that ye be plenteous in this benevolence also. This sape I, not commaunding, but because of offerunties. I do allowe the unfaignednes of your love towarde other men. For ye know the liberality of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich yet for your sakes he became poore: per. through his poverty, might be made rich.

Roma. 8.4

And I give counsel hereto. For this is expedient for you, which beganne not to do onely, but also to wyl a pere ago. Now therefore, performe the thyng which ye beganne to do: that as there was in you a redynes to wyl, even so ye may performe the dede of that which ye have. For if there be first a willing mynd, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

1. Pet. 1.11
2. Pet. 1.11
3. Pet. 1.11

It is not my mynd that other be set at ease, and ye brought into bondage: but that there be equalitye now at this tyme: and that yonce abundance maye supplye lacke, and that theyr abundance maye supplye your lacke: that there maye be equalitye, agreeynge to that which is written: * He that had much, had not the more abundance: and he that had a litle, had nevertheles. Thanks be unto God which put the same good mynd for you in the heart of Titus, which accepted the request: per. rather he was so well willing, that of his owne accord he came unto you.

2. Pet. 1.11

We have sente with hym the brother whose laude is in the Gospel throughout all the congregacions: and not that onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions, to be a fellow with us in our journey, concerning this benevolence: per. is ministered by us unto the praise of the same Lord, and to beere up your prompt mynd. For this we eschew, that any man should rebuke us in this plenteous distribution, that is ministered by us: with the glory of the Lord, and make provision for honest thynges, not onely in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

Roma. 11.1

We have sente with them a brother of ours: whome we have oftentimes proued diligent in many thynges: but now much more diligent. The greates confidence which I have in you, hath caused me thus to do: partly for Titus sake, which is my fellow and helper in concerning you: partly because of other which are our brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, and the glory of Christ. Wherefore, shewe vnto them the proofe of your love, and of our boasting of you in the sight of the congregacions.

1. Th. 1.1

In this chapter shall be the same that he said in the chapter going before, that is, he moueth them to give the poor synners at Jerusalem.

If the ministering to the synners, it is but superfluous for me to write vnto you: for I knowe the redynesse of your mynd, whereof I boast my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, that Achaia was prepared a pere ago: and your example hath prouoked many. Nevertheless yet hane I sente these brethren, leaste our bostynge whych I make of you, should be in wayn, in this behalf, & y^e (as I hane sayd) may prepare your selues: least peraduenture y^e shal of Macedonia come with me, and fynde ye vnprepared, we (I wyl not say ye) should be ashamed in this matter of bostynge. Wherfore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, to come before hande vnto you, and to prepare your good blessinge promysed afore, that it might be ready, so that it might be a blessinge, and not a destrouynge.

¶ This yet I say: he whiche soweth lytle, shall reape lytle, and he that soweth (in geuynge) largely and frely, shall reape plentifully. And let every man, do accordynge as he hath purposed in his heart: not grudgynge, or of necessity.

¶ For God loueth a cherefull geuer. God is able to make ye ryche in al grace that ye in al thynges hauing sufficient vnto the uttermost, may be ryche vnto al maner of good woorkes, as it is wyrtten: he hath sparred a bynde & hath geuen to the poore, his righteousnes remaineth for euer. he that mynistrerh seede vnto the sower, mynistrerh bread also for sode: and multiply your seed, and increase the frutes of your righteousnes, & that on all partes, ye maye be made ryche into all synghenes, whiche causeth throughe vs, that thanks are geuen vnto God.

¶ For the office of this mynistracion, not one ly supplyerh the neede of the sayntes: but also is aboundaunte herein, that for this laudable mynistring, thanks myght be geuen to God of many, which praise God for the obedience of your consentinge to the Gospel of Christ, & for your synghenelle in distributing to them and to al men, and in their prayers for you which long after you for abundant grace of God in you. Thanks be vnto God, for his vnspheable gift

The .x. Chapter.

We toucheth the false apostle, and defendeth his authoritie and calling

¶ Paul my selfe beseech you by the meeknes and softnes of Christ, whych when I am present amonge you, am of no reputacion: but am bold toward you being absent. I beseech you, that I neede not to be bold when I am present, with that same boldnes, wherewith I am supposed to hane bene bold, agaynst some, whiche repute vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the fleshe, yet we do not warre fleshy. For the weapons of our warfare are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghty in God, to cast downe strong holdes, wherewith we overthrow counseils and euery thyng that exalteth it self agaynst the knowledge of God, and bying into captiuite al ymaginacion to the obedience of Christ, and are redy to take vengeance on al disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled.

¶ Take ye on thynges after I utter a perasce. If any man trust in hym self, that he is Christes let hym consyder this agayne of hym selfe that as he is Christes, euen so are we Christes. For though I boast my selfe somewhat more of our authoritie (whych the Lord hath geuen vs) to edifie, and not to destroy you: it shal not be to my shame, lest I should seme as though I wrote aboute to make you astrayed with letters. For the epyistles (sayth he) are soze and stronge: but bys bodely presence is weake, and bys speache ende. Let hym that is such thynke on the wyse that as we are in woordes by letters, wher we are absent, such are we in dedes, wher we are present.

¶ For we cannot fynde in our bestes to make our selues of y^e number of them, or to compare our selues to them, which praise the selues. Ne uertheles, whyle they measure the selues, with them selues, and compare them selues with the selues, they vnderstande naught. But we wyl not reioyce aboute mesure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, whych God hath bystrybuted vnto vs, a measure to reach euen vnto you. For we stretch not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For euen to you also haue we come with the Gospel of Christ, and we boost not our selues oute of measure of other mens labours. Per, we hope it wyl come to passe that when your sayth is encreased among you we shal be magnified accordyng to our measure more largely, and that I shal preach the Gospel in those regions which are beyonde you, and not to boost of those thynges, whiche by another mans measure are prepared already. But let hym that reioys, reioyse in the Lord. For he that prayserh hym selfe, is not allowed, but he whome the Lord prayserh.

Paul defendeth his authoritie: commeth hym selfe, and defendeth his authoritie agaynst the false propheetes ¶ Oude to God, ye coulde hane suffred me a lytle in my folyshnes: yet, ye do also forbare me. For I am gealous ouer you with godly zelously. For I haue coupled you to one man that ye should make your selues a chaff by yagin vnto Christ. But I feare lest it come to passe y^e as the serpent begyled Eue throughe bys subtilty, euen so your wyrttes shoulde be corrupte fro the synghenelle that ye had toward Christ. For y^e be that cometh preach another Jesus then hym whom we preached: or y^e receyue another spyrte then that whiche ye haue receiued ether another Gospel y^e the ye haue receiued, ye myghte ryght wel haue bene content. For I suppose that I was not beynd the these apostles. But though I be rude in speaking, yet I am not so in knowledge. howbeit amonge you, we haue bene well knowne to the uttermoste what we are in all thynges. Wyd I therein synne, because I submytted my self, that ye myght be exalted and because I preached to you the Gospel of God free: I robbed other congregacions, & toke wages of them to do you seruice. And when I was presente with you, and had neede: I was chargeable to no man: for that whych was lacking vnto me, the brethren whych came from Macedonia, supplied, and in al thynges I kept my selfe so that I shoulde not be chargeable to any any man and so wyl I hope my selfe.

C If the truth of Chryste be in me, this reioy-syng shall not be taken from me in the regions of Achaia. Wherefore? Because I loue you not?
God knoweth. Neuerthelesse, what I do, that wyl I do, to couthe a waye occasion frome the which desire occasion: that thei might be found lyke vnto vs, in that wherein they reioyse. For such false apostles are dysceitful wothers, and sashpon them selues lyke vnto the Apostles of Chryst. And no maruail: for Sathan him selfe is chaunged into the fashio of an angel of light.
Therefore is it no great thyng though hys my-nistres sashpon them selues, as though they were the mynistres of righteousnes: whose ende shal be accordyng to theyr dedes.

D I say agayn, least any man thynk that I am foolysh: or els euen nowe take ye me as a foole that I also may boast my selfe a lytle. That I speake I speake it not after the Loyde: but as it were foolyshly, in this matter of boasting. Beyng that many reioyce after the flesh, I wyl re-ioyce also. For ye suffer foolcs gladly, leing ye your selues are wyle. For ye suffer, yf a man bying you into bondage, yf a man deuoure, yf a man take, yf a man exhorte hym selfe, yf a man smyte you on the face, I speake as concernyng rebuke, as though we had ben weke.

E howbeit, wherein soeuer anye man dare be holde (I speake foolyshly) I dare be holde also.

F They are Hebryes, euen so am I. They are Israelites, euen so am I. They are the sede of Abraha, euen so am I. They are the mynistres of then: in perels in the cytee: in perels in wilde-nes: in perels in the sea: in perels amonge false brythren: in laboure and trauagyle: in watchynges often: in hunger and thyrse: in fastynges of ft: in cold & nakednes: beside the thynges which outwardly happed vnto me. I am combyed day-ly, and do care for all congregacions. Who is weke and I am not weke: who is offended, and I burne not? If I must nedes boast, I will boast of the thynges that concerne myne infyrmities.

The. xii. Chapter

Paul to taken vp into the thyrde heuyn, and heareth wordes not to be spoken

The God and father of our Loyde Jesus Chryste, whych is blessed for e-uer moze knoweth that I lie not.
In the cytee of Damasco, the gouerner of the people vnder kyng Aretas layed watch in the cytee of Damascens, and woulde haue caught me: and at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket through the wall, and so sca-ped I his handes. Doubtes, it is not expedyent for me to boast, I wyl come to vylsions and re-uelacions of the Loyde. I knowe a man in Chryst aboute fourtene yeres agoe: whether he were in the body, I cannot tell, or whether he were out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth. Howe he was taken vp into the thyrde heuyn. And I knowe the same man: whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth.

Howe that he was taken vp into paradys, and heard secret wordes whych no man can vnder-stand. Of this man wyl I boast, but of my selfe wyl I not boast, excepte it be of myne infyrmities.
For though I would boast, I shal not be a foole for I would say the truth. Neuertheles, I spare you: lest any man shuld thinke of me aboute that which be seemeth to be, or that be detest of me.
And least I shoulde be exalted out of measure through the excellency of the reuelacions: there was gauen vnto me vnguytnes through the flesh, euen the messenger of Sathan to buffet me because I shoulde not be exalted out of measure.
For this thyng besoughter I the Loyde thyrse that it myght departe frome me. And he sayed vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strength is made perfecte through the wekenes.
Clery gladly therefore wyl I reioyce of my weknes, that the strength of Chryst maye dwell in me. Therefore, haue I delectacyon in infyrm-ities, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecucy-ons, in anguyshes for Chrystes sake. For where I am weake, then am I stronge.

I am become a foole in boasting my selfe. Ye haue compelled me: for I oughte to haue bene commended of you. For in nothyng was I inferiour vnto the chiefe Apostles, though I be nothyng, yet the tokens of an Apostle were wrought among you wythal pacyence, and signes and wonders, and mighty dedes. For what is it, wherein ye were inferiours vnto other congregacions, except it be herein, that I was not chargeable vnto you. For geue me thys wyng beholde nowe the thyrde tyme I am redy to come vnto you, and yet wyl I not be chargeable vnto you. For I like not yours, but you. For the children ought not to lay vp for the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the children.

I wyl very gladly bestowe, and wyl be bestowed for your soules, though the moze I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayn. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you, neuerthelesse, when I was crafty, I toke you with gyle. Did I pyl you by any of them, whome I sent vnto you: I despyed Titus, and wyth hym I sent a brother. Dyd Titus defraud you of any thyng walked we not in one spyrte: walked we not in lyke steppes? Agayne, thynke you that we excuse oure selues vnto you: we speake in Chryst in the syght of God: but we do al thynges (delyly beloued) for your edifyng. For I feare, lest it come to passe, that yf I come, I shal not fynd you such as I woulde: and that I shal be founde vnto you such as ye woulde not. I feare lest ther be among you debates, enuynges, wrath, stry-fes: backtynges, whysperynges, swellpynges, and ſedycyons: and that when I come agayne, God bryng me lowe among you, and I be conſtrained to bewaile many of them, which haue ſinned already, and haue not repented of the vncleannes: and fornicacion and wantonnes which they haue committed.

me, though he were a Greek, yet was not compelled to be circumcised: and that because of incomers being false brethren, which came in privately to spy out our liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, that they might bring us into bondage. To whom we gave no bondage, no not for the time (by way of subjection) because that the truth of the Gospel might continue with you.

Of them which seemed to be somewhat, what they were in time passed it maketh no matter to me. * God looketh on the outward appearance of no man. Nevertheless they which seemed great added nothing to me. But contrariwise, what they saw that the Gospel over the vncircumcision was committed unto me, as the Gospel over the circumcision was committed unto Peter. For he that was mighty in Peter in the Apostleship over the circumcision, the same was mighty in me among the Gentiles. When they perceived the grace that was given unto me, then James, Cephas, and John, which seemed to be pillars, gave to me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship, that we should go together among the heathen, and they in the circumcision only that they should remember & pose.

Wherin also I was diligent to do the same. But when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him openly, because he was worthy to be blamed. For per that certayne came from James, he dyd eat with the Gentiles. But when they were come, he withdrew, and separated hym selfe from them, fearing them which were of the circumcision. And the other Jews dissembled as well as he: in so much that Barnabas also was brought into the same synlacoyne. But when I saw that they went not the right way after the truth of the Gospel, I layd vnto Peter before them all: yf thou being a Jew, lyuest after the manner of the Gentiles, and not as do the Jews: why causest thou the Gentiles to lyue as do the Jewes? For we which are Jewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentiles, knowe that a man is not iustified by the deedes of the law, but by faith of Jesus Christ. And we have believed on Jesus Christ: that we might be iustified by the sayth of Christ, and not by the deedes of the law, because by the deedes of the law no fleshe shalbe iustified.

If while we seek to be made righteous by Christ, we our selues are found synners, as the Christ the mynister of synne: God forbid. For yf I buyld agayn the thynges which I destroyed, then make I my selfe a trespasser. For I (thow the lawe haue bene deade to the lawe that I myghte lyue vnto Christ. I am crucified with Christ. Nevertheless I lyue: yet now not I, but Christ lyueth in me. The lyfe whiche I now lyue in the flesh, I lyue by the sayth of the sonne of God, whiche loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despye not the grace of God. For yf righteousnes come of the lawe, then Christ is deade in vayne.

He rebuketh the vnsoundnes of the Galatians shewing the vnsoundnes of the lawe, and declaringe nevertheless that it was not giuen for nought.

Ye foolish Galatians: who hath bewitched you, that ye should not believe the truth? To whom Jesus Christ was descrybed before the eyes and among you crucified. This only would I learne of you, whether ye received the spirit by the deedes of the law, or by the preaching of the sayth. Are ye such foolles, that after ye haue begon in the spirit, ye ende in the flesh? So many thynges ye haue suffered in vayne, yf it bee also in vayne. Whereouer, he that mynistrerth to you the spirit, and worketh myracles among you, doth he it throught the deedes of the lawe, or by preaching of the sayth? * Euen as Abraham believed God, and it was ascribed to hym for righteousnes. Ye knowe therfore, & they which are of faith, the same are the chylidren of Abraham. For the scripture sayng also: hands, that God would iustify the heathen through sayth. Shewed before hand glad tidynges vnto Abraham, sayng: * In the Hall all nacions be blessed. So then, they which be of sayth, are blessed with saythfull Abraham. For as many as are of the deedes of the lawe, are subject to the curse. For it is wyrtten: * cursed be euery one that cōtynuerth not in all thynges whiche are wyrtten in the booke of the lawe to fulfyll them: that no man is iustified by the lawe in sight of God it is euident. * For the iust shall lyue by sayth. The lawe is not of sayth: but the man that fulfilleth the thynges (contayned in the lawe) shal lyue in them. Christ hath deliuered vs from the curse of the lawe, in as muche as he was made accursed for vs: For it is wyrtten: * cursed is euery one, that hangeth on tree, that the blessing of Abraham myghte come on the Gentiles thowroue Jesus Christ, that we myghte receyue the promise of the spirit through the sayth.

Brethren, I speake after the manner of men. Though it be but a mans testamente, yet yf it be allowed, no man despyseth it, or addeth any thyng thereto. * To Abraham and hys seede were the promises made. He sayeth not in thy seedes, as many: but in thy seed as of one, whiche is Christ. This I saye that the lawe whiche beganne afterwarde, beyonde & foure hundred and thirtie years, doth not dysannull the testamente, that was confirmed afore of God vnto Christ: warde to make the promise of none effect. * For yf the inheritaunce come of the lawe, it cometh not now of promise. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promise.

Wherfore then serueth the lawe? * It was added because of transgression: tyl the seede came to whom the promise was made: & it was ordeined: by angels in the hand of a mediator. I meane that it is not a mediator of one, but God is one. * In the lawe then agaynst the promises of God God forbid. For yf ther had bene a lawe geuen whiche coulde haue geuen lyfe: then no doubt righteousnes shoulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promise by the sayth of Jesus Christ shoulde be geuen vnto them that beleue. * But before that sayth came, we were kept vnder the lawe and were shew vnto the sayth whiche should afterward be declared. Wherfore I sayd was our scolemaster vnto Chyrlt, & we should be wyltyfyed by sayth. But after that sayth is come we are no longer vnder the scolemaster. For ye are all chyldren of God, because ye beleue in Chyrlt Iesu. For al ye that are baptised haue put on Chyrlt. There is no Jewe, neither Gentyle: there is neither bonde nor free: there is neither man, nor woman. For ye are all one in Chyrlt Iesu. If ye be Chyrltes, the are ye Abrahams seede, and hepyes accorpyng to the promys other by a free woman. For, he whiche was borne of the bondwoman, was borne after the fleshe: but he whiche was of the frewoman, was borne by promys. Whiche thynges are spoken by an allegory. For these are two testaments the one from the mount Syna, which gendereth vnto bondage, whiche is Ager. For mount Syna is Ager in Arabia, and bordereth vpon the cyter, whiche is now called Jerusalem, and is in bondage wyth her chyldren.

But Ierusalem, which is above, is free: which is the mother of vs all. For it is wyrtgen * Reioyce thou barren, & bearest no chyldren: because thou hast borne many chyldren. For the desolate hath many mo chyldren, the which hath an husband. Betheren we are after Ihaac the chyldren of promys. But as then he was borne after the fleshe, persecuted hym that was borne after the spytte, euen so is it now. Neutheles, what sayth the scripture: put away the bond woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bond woman shall not be depye wyth the sonne of the free woman. So then betheren we are not chyldren of the bond woman, but of the free.

Be in houre to beare them away from cyrcumcyssion, & to beare them the baptysme & to beare the spytte, and the frute of them loth.

And last therfore in the lybertye wher wyth Chyrlt hath made vs free, & wyap not your selues a gayn in the yoke of bondage. Beholde, I Paul say vnto you & ppe ye be cyrcumcysed. Chyrlt shall profyte you nothyng at all. I tellye agayne to euery man whiche is cyrcumcysed, that he is bounde to kepe the whole law. Chyrlt is become but in wayne vnto you. As manye of you as are iustfyed by the lawe are fallen fro grace. We looke for, and hoope in the spytte to be iustfyed through sayth. For in Iesu Chyrlt neither is cyrcumcysion anye thyng worth, ne thet ye vncyrcumcysion but sayth: which woortheth by lone. Ye dyd runne well: who was a let vnto you, that ye shoulde not beleue the truth? & confirm vnto maner. Euen the counsell whiche came not of hym that calleth you. A lytle leuen dothe leuen the whole lomme of dowe.

I haue truste to warde you in the Loyde, that ye shalbe none otherwyle mynded. But he that troubleth you, shall beare his iudgement whatsoeuer he be. Betheren, yf I yet preache cyrcumcysion, why do I then suffer persecucion? Then is the slander of the crosse sealed. I wold to God thet we were separated fro you which trouble you. Betheren ye were called vnto lybertye: onely let not your lybertye be an occasyon vnto the fleshe: but by lone & of the spytte serue one another. For all the lawe is fulfilled in one woerde, whiche is chyr: Thou shalt loue thyneghbour as thy selfe. If ye vyte and deuoure one another: take heed lest ye be lykewyle consumed one of another.

I say walke in the spytte, and fulfyl not the lust of the fleshe. For the fleshe lusteth contrarye to the spytte, and the spytte contrarye to the fleshe. These

The iiii. Chapter.

I will shew you that through Chyrlt we be deliuered from the lawe, and that we be vnder the vncyrcumcysion of the Galathians.

As I say, that I depye (as long as he is a chyld) dyffereth not from a seruante, though he be Lord of al, but is vnder tusters & gouernours, vntill the tyme that the father hath apoynted. Euen so we also, when we were chyldren, were in bondage vnder the ordynances of the world. But when the tyme was ful come, God sent his sonne, made of a woman, and made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeeme them whiche were bonde vnto the lawe: that we (though eleccid) myght receyue the inherytaunce that belongeth to the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, God hath sent the spytte of his sonne into our hartes cryng Abba father. Wherfore now, thou art not a seruante: but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, thou art also an heyre of god through Chyrlt. For whiche standyng, when ye knewe not God ye dyd serue vnto them: which by nature are no Goddes. But now after that ye haue knowen God: pee, rather are knowen of God) how is it that ye turne agayn vnto the wiche & beggerly ordynances, wherunto again ye desyre a fre to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes and monethes, and tymes, and peres. I am in feare of you lest I haue bestowed in you labour in wayne.

Betheren, I beseeche you be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. Ye knowe howe through the insymptie of the fleshe I preached the Gospell vnto you at the fyrste. And in temptacyon whiche was in the fleshe ye dyspyssed not, neyther abhorred: but receiued me as an angell of God: euen as Chyrlt Iesus. What is then your selcypte? For I heare you recorde & ppe it had ben possible ye woulde haue plucked out your owne eyes, and haue geue them to me. Am I therfore become your enemy, because I tel you the truth? They are geiouse ouer you amysse. For they intend to exclude you, that ye shoulde be seruante to them warde. It is good alwayes to be seruent in a good thyng, and not onelye when I am plesente wyth you.

My litle chyldren, of whom I trauele in byeth again, vntill Chyrlt be fashioned in you I wold I were wyth you now, and could chaunge my voyce: for I stand in a doubt of you. Tel me: ye that desyre to be vnder the lawe, do ye not here of the law? For it is wyrtgen, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bondmayde the

Col. lxviii

The Epistle of Saynt

Paule the Apostle to the Ephesians

The first chapter.

The everlasting redemption and election of God in saving of all men, through Christ Jesus his sonne, who are ascribed unto good works. The redemption of Christ

These are contrarie one to the other, so that ye cannot do whatsoeuer ye would, but and if ye be led of the spirit, then are ye not under the lawe. The dedes of the fleche are manifest, which are these: aduouty, fornicacion, vncleines, wantonnes, woysipping of ymages, witchcraft, hatred, variaunce, zeile, wrath, strife, sedicions, sectes, enuyng murder, drunkenness, glotony, & such like: of the which I tel you befoze, as I haue told you in times past, that whiche cometh suchethiges that not be inheritous of the kyngdom of God. Contrarily, the frute of the spirit is, loue, ioye, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faithfulness, mekeness, temperance. * Agaynst such ther is no lawe. Ther truly that at Christes, haue crucified the fleish wth the affections and lustes. * If ye live in the spirit, let vs walke in the spirit. Let vs not be despyous of wayne glorie, prouoking one another, enuyng one another. The. vi. Chapter

He exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to breue wth another. In the end he warneth them to be ware of episcopacy

Rethzen, yf a man also be taken in anye fault ye which ar spiritual, helpe to a med him in the spirit of mekeness: considerunge by self, lest thou also be tempted. * Were ye one anothers burthen, & so fulful the lawe of Christ. For if a man seme to hym selfe that he is somewhat when in dede he is nothyng, the same deceueth his owne minde. Let euery man proue his owne worke, and then shall he haue reioysing onely in his owne selfe, and not in another. For euery manne shall beare hys owne burthen. * Let him that is raughe in the word, mynster vnto him that teacheth hym in al good thynges. Be not deceued, god is not mocked. For what soeuer a man soweth, that shall he also reape. For he that soweth in the flesh, shall of the flesh reape corruption. But he that soweth in the spirit, shall of the spirit reape lyfe euerlasting. * Let vs not be wey of wel doyng. For when the tyme is come we shall reape wthout verines. Whyle we haue therfoze tyme, let vs do good vnto al men, and specially vnto them which are of the house hold of sayth. * For se how large a letter I haue witten vnto you with myne owne hande. As many as desire without ward a perauance to please carnally, the same constrain you to be crucified onely lest they should suffer persecution for the crosse of Christ. For they the selues which are circicised, kepe not the lawe, but desire to haue you circicised, & they might reioyce in your flesh.

God forbyd that I shoulde reioyse, but in the crosse of our Lorde Jesu Christe, whereby the world is crucified vnto me, & I vnto the world. For in Christ Jesu neither circumcised: away leth any thyng at all, nor vncircumcision but a new creature. And as many as walke accordyng to this rule, peace be on them and mercye & vpon Israel, that pertaineth to God. * From hence forth, let no man put me to busynes. For I beare in my bodye the markes of the Lorde Jesu. Wherbyen the grace of our Lorde Jesu Christ be wth your spirit. Amen.

The Epistle vnto the Galathians was sent from Rome.

Paul an Apostle, of Jesus Christ by the wyl of God. To the sayntes which are at Ephesus, and to them whiche beleue on Jesus Christ. * Grace be wth you, and peace from God our father, and from our Lorde Jesus Christ, * Blessed be God the father of our Lorde Jesus Christ which hath blessed vs wth all manner of spiritual blessing in heauenlye thynges by Christ accordyng as he had chosen vs in him, befoze the foundations of the world were layed, that we shoulde be holy, and wth out blame befoze hym, throughte loue. Whiche ordained vs befoze through Jesus Christ to be heyres vnto hym selfe, accordyng to the good pleasure of hys wyl, to the praple of the glorie of hys grace, wher wth he hath made vs accep ted throughte the beloued.

* By whom we haue redemption throughte his blood, euen the forgiveness of synnes, accordyng to the riches of his grace: wherof he hath mynistered vnto vs abundantly in al wysdom and prouider. And hath opened vnto vs the my ster of his wil, accordyng to his good pleasure whiche he hath purposed in hym selfe, to haue it declared. * when the tyme was ful come that he myghte set vp all thynges perfectly by Christe (bothe the thynges whiche are in heauen, and the thynges whiche are in earth) euen by hym by whome we are made heyres, and were ther to predestynat accordyng to the purpose of hym by whose powre all thynges are wrought accordyng to the purpose of hys owne wyl: that we (whiche befoze beleued in Christe) shoulde be vnto the praple of hys glorie.

In whom also we beleue, forasmuche as we haue hearde the word of truth, euen the Gospel of our saluacion: wherethin, when ye haue bele ued: ye were sealed wth the holy sperte of pro mes, whiche is the earnest of our inheritaunce for the couering of the purchased possession, vnto the praple of hys glorie.

Wherfoze I also (after that I herd of the sayth whiche ye haue in the Lorde Jesu, and loue vnto all the sayntes) * cease not to geue thanks for you, makinge mencyon of you in my prayers: that the God of our Lorde Jesus Christ, the father of glory, may geue vnto you the spirit of wysdome and reuelacion, by the knowledge of hym selfe, and lychen the eyes of your myndes that ye may know what the hope is, wherunto ye hath called you, and howe rych the glorie is of hys inheritaunce vpon the sayntes, and what is the exceeding greates of hys power. It. iii. to

to vsward whych beleue accordyng to the woꝝ hyng of that bys myghtye power, whych he wrought in Chyꝛst, when he rased hym frome the dead, * and set hym on bys ryght hand in he uynlye thynges aboue * al rule and power, and myght, and domynion, and aboue euerye name that is named, not in thys world onlye, but also in the world to come: and * hath put al thynges vnder bys fete, and hath made hym aboue all thynges: the head of the congregacyon, whych is bys body and the fulnes of hym, that fylleth all in all.

The .ii. Chapter

Paul sheweth them what maner of people they were before they were conuerced, and what they are now in Chyꝛst.

As you haue be quickened to here as ye were dead in trespassed syn nes, in the whiche * in tyme passed ye walked, accordyng to the course of thys world, euen after the gouer ner that ruleth in the ayre, the spyte that now worketh in the chyldren of vnbellef * amonge whom we al had our conuersacion also in tyme past, in the lustes of oure fleshe, and fulfilled the wyll of the fleshe and of the mynde: and were by nature the chyldren of wrath, euen as wel as o ther. But God whych is ryche in mercy (for bys great loue wherewith he loued vs, euen whil we were dead by synnes) quickened vs to gether in Chyꝛst (* by grace are ye saued) and rased vs vp to gether wyth hym & made vs syt to gether wyth hym among them of heauen in Chyꝛst Je su. That in tyme to come, he might shew the ex ceedyng ryche of bys grace, in kyndnes to vs warde throughe Chyꝛste Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe throughe fayth, and that not o' your selues. It is the gyfte of God, and cometh not of workes, lest any man should boast hym self.
For we are bys workmanshipp created in Chyꝛst Iesu vnto a good workes, whiche God ordai ned that we shoulde walke in them.

Wherfore, remember that ye beyng in tyme passed Gentyles in the fleshe, were called vnto circumcyssion from that whiche is called a circum cyssion in the flesch, which circumcision is made by handes: remember (I say) that at that tyme ye were without Chyꝛst, being aleauntes from the comen welth of Israel, & straungers from the testamentes of the pꝛomes, hauing no hope and dryng wythout God in thys world. But nowe by the meanes of Chyꝛst Iesu, ye whych sometime were farre of, are made nye by the bloude of Chyꝛst.

For he is oure peacemaker, whych hath made of both one, and hath broken downe the wal that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also putte awaye throughe bys fleshe, the cause of hatred, euen the lawe of commaundementes contained in the lawe witten, for to make of twayne one newe man in hym selfe, so makynge peacemaker, and to reconcyle both vnto God in one body throughe the crosse, and slewe hatred therby, and came & preached pence to you which were a farre of, and to them that were nye. For throughe hym we both haue an entraunce, in one spyce vnto the father.

Now therfore, ye are not straungers, and foꝛeyners: but cetyzens with the sapientes and of the houshold of God: and are buyt vpon the foundacyon of the Apostles, and pꝛophetes, * Iesus Chyꝛst hym self, beyng the head corner stone, in whō whatsoeuer buyldyng is coupled to gether, it groweth vnto an hōlye temple in the Loꝛde, in whōm ye also are buyd to gether to be an habitacyon of God throughe the Holy gost.

The .iii. Chapter

Paul sheweth the cause of bys pꝛysment, & sheweth them not to fayn, & because of bys trouthe, and prayeth God to make them wonder in bys spyce.

In this cause, I Paul am a pꝛi soner of Iesu Chyꝛst for you he ther: If ye haue herd of the my nistracyon of the grace of god * whych is geuen me to you ward. For by reuelacyon he ded be the mystery vnto me, as I was also in few wordes, wherby whā ye rede ye may vnder stand my knowlege in the mystery of Chyꝛst whych mystery in tymes passed was not opened vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto bys hōlye Apostles and pꝛophetes by the spyte: that the Gentyles shoulde be inheritous also, and of the same body, and partakers of his pꝛomes in Chyꝛst, by the meanes of the Gospel wherof I am made a mynister accordyng to the gyfte of the grace of God whych is geuen vn to me after the washyng of bys power.

Vnto me the lest of al santes is thys grace geuen, that I shoulde preache among the Genty les the vnsearchable ryche of Chyꝛste, and to make al men se, what the felowshipp of the myste ry is, whych from the begynnyng of the world hath bene hyd in God, whych made al thynges throughe Iesus Chyꝛst, to the intent, that now vnto the rulers and powers in heuynly thynges myght be knowne by the congregacyon, the ma nyfold wysdome of God, accordyng to the eter nall purpose, whych he wrought in Chyꝛst Je su oure Loꝛde, by whōm we haue boldnesse and entraunce wyth the confydence whiche is by the fayth of hym. Wherfore I desyre that ye sa pnter not because of my tribulacyons: that I suffer for your sake: whych is your pꝛaple.

For this cause I bowe my knees vnto the fa ther of oure Loꝛd Iesus Chyꝛst, whych is father ouer all that is called father in heuyn & in earth that he would graunt you accordyng to the ry ches of bys glory, that ye may be strenghted w myght by his spyte, in the inner man. Chyꝛst may dwell in your heartes by fayth, that ye be yng roted and grounded in loue, myght be able to comprehend wyth all sapientes, what is the bredth and lengthe, depthe and heygthe and to knowe the excellent loue of the knowlege of Chyꝛst that ye myght be fulfilled wyth all ful nes, whych cometh of God. Vnto hym that is able to do exceedyng aboundantly aboue all that we aske or thynke accordyng to the power that worketh in vs, be pꝛaple in the congrega cyon by Chyꝛste Iesu, throughe oute all ages worldes wythoute ende. Amen.

To the Ephesians.

Kol. lxx.

¶ The exhorteth them unto holiness, to hope as the other comfortsacion of good lutes, and to walke in a new lyfe.

dothne vpon your wrath, neither geue place vnto the backbiter. * Let hym that stole, steale no more: but let hym rather labour with his handes the thing which is good, that he may geue vnto hym that needeth. ¶

Let no fylthy communicacion procede oute of your mouth: but that which is good to edifye with all as ofte as neede is: that it may minister grace vnto the hearers. And geue not ye the bo-lye spete of God: by whom ye are sealed vnto the daye of redemption. Let all byternes and fearnes, and wrath, and roynng, & cursed speakyng, be put awaye from you, with all malicio-usnes. Be ye courteous one to another, mercyfull, forgyunge one another: euen as God for-Chyestes sake hath forgyuen you.

The v. Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth them vnto loue, towarde them to becomers of all un-clennes. He teacheth howe to walke in the new lyfe, and howe to praye for one another.

BE ye * therfore followers of God as childedren, and walke ye in loue: euen as: Chyeste loued vs, and gaue hym selfe for vs an offering and a sacrifice of a sweete sauoure to God. * As for for-nicacion and all vncleannes, or couetousnesse: let it not be once named amonge you, as it be-cometh sayntes, or fylthynges, or foolyshe tal-kyng, or iestyng, which are not comlye: but rather geuyng of thanks. For thus ye knowe that * no whoymonger, ether vncleane persone or couetous person, (which is a doctrypper of images) hath any enberaunce in the kyngdome of Chyist and of God.

* Let no man deceyue you with vayne wodes. For because of suche thynges cometh the wrath of God, vpon fchylde: of disobedience.
Be not ye therfore companions of the. Ye wer sometime darkenes, but nowe are ye lyght in f Lord. * Walke as chylde of lyght. (For f frute of the spete consisteth in all goodnes, & ryghteousnes and truerth.) ¶ Searchyng what is acceptable vnto f Lord. And haue no felowship with the vnfrutefull woyses of darkenes: but rather rebuke the. For it is shame euen to name those thynges which are done of them in secrete but all thynges, when they are broughte forth by the lyght, are manifest. For what soeuer is manifest, that same is lyght. ¶ Therfore he sayeth: awake thou that sleepest, and stand vp from death, and Chyist shall geue the lyght.

* Take heed therfore howe ye walke: cy-cumpectlye: not as vnwyle, but as wyle men: redemyng the tyme, because the dayes are euill. ¶ Therfore, bee ye not vnwyle, but vnderstande what the wyll of the Lord is, and bee not dronke with wyne, wherein is excelle: but bee fylled with the spete, speakyng vnto your selues * in psalmes and hymnes, and spirituall songes, spynge and makynge melodie to the Lord in your hartes, geuyng thankes alwayes for all thynges, vnto God f father, in the name of oure Lord Iesus Chyist submyttinge your selues one to another in the fear of God. ¶

¶ Ihu x.

Therfore (whiche am a prisoner of f Lordes) exhorter you, * that ye walke worthye of the vocacion wherewith ye are called, with all lowynesse and mekenesse, with humblynes of mynde, forbearyng one another thowow loue, and be diligent to kepe f vnpeire of the spete thowow f bonde of peace, being one bodye, and one spete, euen as ye are called in one hope of your calling. One Lord, one saythe, one baptisme, one God, and father of all, whiche is aboue all and thowow all, and in you all. ¶

* Vnto euery one of vs is geuen grace, according to the measure of the gyfte of Chyiste.
¶ Therfore be sayeth: when he went vp an hie, he led captiue captiue, and gaue gyftes vnto men. That he ascended: what meaneth it? but that he also descended first into f lowe partes of f earth: * he f descended, is euen f same also f ascended vp, aboue al benes, to fulfyll al thynges.

¶ And the verye same made * some Apostles, some Prophtes, some Euangelistes, some sheperdes & teachers: to the conseruacion of the sayntes, to the woyshe and ministracion, euen to the edifyng of the body of Chyiste, tyll we all come to the vnite of saythe: & knowlege of the sonne of God, vnto a perfecte manne, vnto the measure of the full perfecte age of Chyiste. ¶

¶ That we henceforth shoulde be homore chylderen: * waeryng and carped aboute with euery wynde of doctryne, by the wylkenesse of meane, thowow: craftyness, wherby they laye a wayte for vs to deceyue vs. But lette vs folowe the truth in loue, and in all thynges growe in hym, * whiche is the head, euen Chyiste in whome pt al the body be coupled & knyt together thowow oute euery ioynte wherewith one ministrith to another (according to the operacion as euery parte hath his measure) he increaseth the body, vnto the edifyng of it selfe thowow loue.

* This I say therfore, and testifye thowow the Lord, that ye hence forth walke not, as * other Gentils walke, in vanyte of theyr mynd whyle they are blinded in theyr vnderstanding: being farre from a godly lyfe, by the meanes of ignoraunce that is in them, and because of the blindnes of theyr hartes: which being past repentaunce, haue geuen themselves ouer vnto wantonnes, to woyshe all maner of vncleannes, euen with greynesse. But ye haue not so learned Chyist. ¶ f so be that ye haue heard of hym, and haue bene taughte in hym, as the truerth is in Iesu: (as concerning f conuersacion in tyme past) to lay frow the olde man, whiche is corrupte, according to f deceanable lustes. ¶

* To be renewed also in the spete of your mynde, and * to put on that newe man, whiche after God is shapen in ryghteousnesse and true holynesse.

¶ Therfore, * put awaye lyeng, and speake euery man truerth vnto his neyghbour, for as muche as we are members one of an other. * Be angrye, and synne not: lette not the sunne go

The Epistle

E ye women, submit your selves vnto your owne husbandes, as vnto the Lorde. For the husbande is the wyues heade, euen as Christ is the heade of the congregacyon, and the same is he that ministrerth saluacyon vnto the bodye. Therefore, as the congregacion is in subiection to Christ, likewise let the wyues also be in subiection to their husbandes in all thynges. Ye husbandes, loue your wyues, euen as Christ also loued the congregacyon, and gaue hym selfe for it, to sanctifye it, and cleanse it in the founteyn of water thowgh he word, to make it vnto hym selfe a glorious congregacyon, without spot or wrinkle, or any such thyng: but that it shuld be holy, and without blame. So ought men to loue their wyues, as theye owne bodies. He that loueth his wyfe, loueth hym selfe. For no man euer yet hated his owne fleshe: but noryeth and cheriseth it, euen as the Lorde doth the congregacyon. For we are members of his body, of his fleshe, and of his bones.

* For this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shall be ioyned vnto his wyfe, & of two shall be made one fleshe. This is a great secrete, but I speake of Christ and of the congregacyon. Heerethelike, do ye so, that euery one loue his wyfe euen as hym selfe, and let his wyfe reuerence her husbande.

¶ These christen shoulde helpe themselves toward their patientes, seruantes toward their maysters. An exhortacyon to the spiritual battayle.

E ye children, obey your fathers & mothers in the Lorde: for this is ryght. Honour thy father and mother, (the same is the first commaundement in the promys) if thou maist prosper, & lyue long on earth. Ye fathers moue not your children to wrath: but brynge them vp thowgh the doctrine & informyng of the Lorde. Ye seruantes, obey them that are your bodily maysters, with feare and trembling, euen with the singleness of your herte as vnto Christ: not doynge secyete vnto the eye, as they that go aboute to please men: but as ye seruantes of Christ, doynge the wyl of God from the hert with good wyl, seruyng the Lorde and not men knowing this, that whatsoeuer good thyng any man doeth, the same shall be receyue agayn of God, whether he be bonde or free. And ye maysters, do euen the same thynges vnto them puttyng away threatenynge. Knowynge, that your master also is in heauen, & neither is there any respect of persones with hym.

* Finally my brethren, be strong thowgh the Lorde and thowgh the power of his might. Put on al the armour of God, that ye may stand against the assautes of the deuyl. For we wrestle not against bloude & fleshe: but agaynst rule, agaynst power, agaynst worldly rulers, euen gouernours of the darkenesse of this worlde, & agaynst spiritual craftines in heauynly thynges. Wherefore, take vnto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to resiste in the euell daye, and stande perfecte in all thynges.

¶ Stande therefore, & your loynes girded with truth, hannyng on the brest plate of righteousness, and haunng shoes on your feet, that ye maye bee prepared for the Gospell of peace: About al, take to you the thyrd of faith wherewith ye maye quench all the fyre darts of the deuyl. And take the helme of saluacyon, and the sword of the spier, whiche is the worde of God. ¶ And praye alwayes with all maner of prayer and supplicacyon in the spier: and wathe thereunto with all instance and supplicacyon for all sayntes and for me, & that defence maye be geuen vnto me that I may open my mouth frely to vtter secretes of my Gospell (wherof I am a messenger in bondes) & that in I maye speake frely, as I oughte to speake. But that ye may also know what condicyon I am in, and what I do. Tychicus & dere brother D and saythful minyster in the Lorde, shall shewe you all thynges, whom I haue sent vnto you for the same purpose, that ye might knowe what case we stande in, and that he myght comforte your hertes. Peace be vnto the bretheren & loue with fayth, from God the father & from the Lord Jesus Christ. Grace be with all them which loue our Lorde Jesus Christ sincerely. Amen.

¶ Went from Rome vnto the Ephesians by Tychicus.

The Epistle of saynt

Paule the Apostle vnto the Philippians.

The first Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to increase in low, in knowlage, and experience of Godly thynges.

Paule and Tymothe the seruantes of Iesu Christ. To all the sayntes in Christ Iesu, which are at Philippios with the Bishops & Deacons. Grace be vnto you, & peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christ.

* I thanke my God with al remembraunce of you & alwayes in all my prayers for you, and praye wyth gladnesse: because ye are come into the felowshyppe of the Gospell from the first daye vntill now. I and am surely certified of this, that he whiche hath begonne a good worke in you, shall perfect it vntill the daye of Iesu Christ, as it becometh me, to iudge of you all, because I haue you in my hart: for as muche as ye all are companions of grace with me, euen in my bondes, and in the defendyng & stablishyng of the Gospell.

For God is my recorde, howe greatly I long after you all, from the very firste rote in Iesu Christ. ¶ And thus I pray, that your loue maye increase yet more and more in knowlage, and in all vnderstandynge, that ye maye accepte the thynges that are moste excellent, that ye maye maye be pure, and suche as offende no man vntill the daye of Chyſte: beyng fylled with the frute of ryghte onenes, whiche commeth by Ieſus Chyiſt vnto þe gloꝝy and pꝛaiſe of God.

I woulde ye ſhulde vnderſtande (brethren) that the thynges whiche happened vnto me, chaunced vnto the greates furtheraunce of the Goſpell: So that my bandes in Chyiſt, are manyfelte theſe we oute all the iudgemente halle, and in all other places: In ſo muche that many of the brethren in the Loꝛde beyng encouraged theſe we my bandes, dare moꝛe boldly ſpeake the woꝛde without feare. Some pꝛeach Chyiſt of cruete and ſtryfe, and ſome of Good wyll.

The one parte pꝛeach Chyiſt of ſtryfe and not ſyncerely, ſuppoſyng to adde moꝛe aduerſite to my bandes. Agayne the other parte pꝛeach of loue becauſe they knowe þe I am ſet to defend the Goſpell. What then? So that Chyiſt be pꝛeachd any maner of waye, whether it be by occaſyon, oꝛ of true meanyng, I am glad therof, yee and wyll be glad. For I knowe, that theſe ſhal chaunce to my ſaluacion, * theſe we your pꝛayer and minyſtryng of the ſpyrite of Ieſus Chyiſt accoꝛdyng to my expectacion, * hope that in nothyng I ſhal be aſhamed: but that w all boldeneſſe, (as alwayes euen ſo nowe alſo) Chyiſt ſhal be magnifyed in my body, whether it be theſe we lyfe, oꝛ theſe we death. For Chyiſt is to me lyfe, and death is to me auantage. If it chaunce me to lyue in the fleſche, that thing is to me frutefull for the woꝛke, and what I ſhal choſe I wote not. For I am cōſtrayned of theſe two thynges. * I deſyre to be looſed, and to be with Chyiſt whiche is muche and farre better.

Neuertheles, to abyde in þe fleſche, is moꝛe neceſſary for you. And this am I ſure of, that I ſhal abyde & contynue wꝛth you all, for your furtheraunce and loꝛe of your faith, þe your reioyſyng maye be the moꝛe aboundaunte theſe we Ieſus Chyiſt in me, by my comyng to you agayne.

Only let your conuerſacion be, * as it becommeth the Goſpell of Chyiſt: that whether I come and ſe you, oꝛ els be abſent, I maye yet heare of your condicion, that ye continue in one ſpyete, and in one ſoule, labouryng as we doo, to mayntayne the ſaythe of the Goſpell, and in nothyng fearyng your aduerſaries, whiche is to them a cauſe of perdicion, but to you of ſaluacion, and that of God: for vnto you it is geuen to Chyiſt that not onely ye ſhulde beleue on hym: but alſo that ye woulde ſuffre for his ſake, haupng euen ſuche a ſpyete, as ye ſawe in me, and nowe heare of me.

Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to vniuersal brotherly loue and to behaue of ſteyfe & vniuersal glory. And for a ſumme example, he ſheweth how he behaue before them.

If there bee therfoꝛe any conſolacyon in Chyiſt, if ther be any cōfoꝛt of loue, if ther be any felowſhip of ſpyete, if there be any cōpaſſion & mercy: fullfil ye my toꝛ, þe ye be lyke minded, hauyng one loue beyng of one accoꝛde, & of one minde, nothyng be done theſe we ſtryfe, oꝛ of vayne gloꝛy but in mekenes of mynde, let every man eſteeme and ther better then hym ſelfe. * Loke not ye every man on his owne thynges, but every man on þe thynges that are other mens.

¶ Let the ſame mynde be in you which was in Chyiſt Ieſu: whiche when he was in þe ſhape of God, thought it not robbery to be equal w God: Neuertheleſſe he made hym ſelfe of no reputacion, takyng on hym the ſhape of a ſeruaunte, and * became lyke vnto menne, & was founde in þeſe apparell as a man. He humbled hym ſelfe, and became obedient vnto death, euen the death of the croſſe. Wherefoꝛe, god alſo hath exalted hym on hye, & geuen hym a name which is aboue all names: that in * the name of Ieſus * every knee ſhuld bowe, both of thynges in heauen and thynges in earth and thynges vnder þe earth, and that all tonges ſhuld confeſſe, þe Ieſus Chyiſt is the * Loꝛde, vnto þe pꝛaiſe of god the father. ¶ Wherefoꝛe, (my dearely beloved) as ye haue alwayes obedyed, not when I was preſent only, but nowe muche moꝛe in myne abſence: euen ſo woꝛke oute your owne ſaluacion with feare & tremblyng. * For it is God which woꝛkeeth in you, both the wyl and alſo the dede euen of good wyll.

¶ Do all thynges wꝛthout murmuring, and dyſputyng, that ye maye bee ſuche as no man can complayne on: and vſayned ſonnes of God without rebuke, in the myddes of a croked and peruerſe nacyon: among whom ſe that ye ſhyn aſpyghtes in the woꝛlde, holdyng faſt þe woꝛde of lyfe, that I maye reioyce in the day of Chyiſt howe that I haue not runne in vayne, neyther haue laboured in vayne.

¶ Yee, and though I be offered vpon the offering and a ſacrifice of your ſaythe: I reioyce and reioyce wꝛth you all. For the ſame cauſe alſo doo ye reioyce, and reioyce wꝛth me.

I truſt in the Loꝛde Ieſus, for to * ſende Timothy ſhortly vnto you, * that I alſo may be of good comforte, when I knowe what caſe ye ſtande in. For I haue no man þe ſo lyke mynde to me, whiche ſo pure affectyon wꝛll care for your matters. For al other ſeke they: owne and not þe thynges whiche are Ieſus Chyiſtes. Ye knowe þe profe of hym, howe that as a ſonne wꝛth the father, ſo hath he wꝛth me beſtoꝛed his ſeruyce in the Goſpell. hym therfoꝛe I hope to ſende, a ſonne as I knowe howe it wꝛll go w me. I truſt in the Loꝛde, that I alſo my ſelfe ſhall come ſhortly.

¶ But I ſuppoſed it neceſſary to ſende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companyon in labour and felowe ſouldyer, your Apoſtle whiche alſo miſtrecth vnto me at nece.

¶ For he longed after you all, and was full of heyneneſſe, becauſe that ye had hearde ſaye, that he had ben ſpyche. And no donce he was ſpyche in ſo much þe he was ny vnto death. But God had mercy on hym: and not on hym only but on me alſo, leſt I ſhulde haue ſorrow vpon ſorrow. I ſet hym therfoꝛe the moꝛe diligently: þe when ye ſe him, ye may reioyce again and þe I may be ſleſſe ſorrowfull. Receyue hym therfoꝛe in the Loꝛde wꝛth dwellen all the fulnes of the godhead boldely, and ye are complet in hym: which is the head of all rule and power, by whome also ye are circumcised wth circumcisi^on which is done without handes, for as muche as ye haue put of the synfull bodye of the fleshe thowowe y^e circumcisi^on that is in Chyste, in that^r ye are buryed wth hym thowow baptyme, in whome ye are also risen agayne thowow faith. y^e is wroughte by the operacon of God, which raised him fr^o death.

* And ye when ye were dead thowowe synne and thowow the vncircumcisi^on of your fleshe hath be quickened with hym, and hath forgeut vs all our trespasses, y^e hath put out the bande wytyng that was agaynst vs, contayned in the lawe wytten, and that hath be taken out of the waye, y^e hath fastened it to his crosse, and hath y^e spoiled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly and hath tryumphed ouer them in his owne persone.

Let no man therfore trouble your consyete aboute meate and drynke o^r for a pece of an holy day, o^r of the newe moone, o^r of the Sabbath daies, y^e which ar shadowes of thynges to come but the bodye is in Chyste. Let no man make you shote at a wronge marke by the humblenes and holynes of aungels, in y^e thynges which be neuer sawe, dryng causeles p^ust y^e wth his fleshye mynde, and holdeth not the heade, wher of all the bodye by ioyntes and couples receyuerth noy^ementes and is knyt together, and encreaseth wth the encreasyng that cometh of God. Wherfore yf ye be deade wth Chyste from the o^rdynaunces of the worlde, why as thowge ye yet lyued in the worlde, are ye led wth tradicions? Touche not, taste not, handle not: whiche all p^uerthe thowowe the verpe abuse, after the commaundementes and doctrynes of men. Whiche thynges our wardlye haue the similitude of the wysdome by superstici^on and humblenes of mynde, and by hurting of the bodye, and in that they do the fleshe no wo^rthipp vnto the nede therof.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ The puttech them in somethyng of the spirytual consuetudyn, to lay asyde all maner of corrupte living, to be fruitful in al goodnes and vertue, and sheweth all begynners they^e dutye.

If ye bee then risen agayne wth Chyste seke those thynges whiche are aboue, wher Chyste lyteth on the ryght hande of God. Set your affecti^on on heuently thynges, and not on earthlye thynges. For ye are deade, and pour lyfe is hyd wth Chyste in God. Whensoeuer Chyste (which is our lyfe) shall shewe hym selfe, then shall ye also appere wth hym in glo^rye. y^e Mortifye therfore pour earthy mebers: fornicaci^on, uncleannes, vnnatural lust, euil concupiscence, and couetousnes, which is wo^rthipping of ydols: for which thynges sake y^e wth arch of God vseth to come on the disobedyente chyliden among whome ye walked somtyme, wher ye lyued in them.

But now put ye also a way fr^o you all suche thynges: wth arch, fearnes, malicioussnes, cursed speakinge f^ulthy communicaci^on out of pour mouth. Lye not one to another, scyng that ye haue put of the olde man wth his wo^rkes, and haue put on the newe maⁿ whiche is renued in to the knowlage and ymage of hym that made hym, y^e where is netter Gentyll nor Jewe, circumcisi^on nor vncircumcisi^on, Barbarous, o^r Sythian, bond o^r fre but Chyste is al in al thynges. y^e Therfore as electe of God, holy and beloued put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humblenes of mynde, mekenes, long sufferyng for bearing one another, and forgyunge one another if any haue a quarel agaynst another: as Chyste forgaue you, euen so do ye. Aboue all these thynges put on loue which is the bonde of perfectnes. And the peace of God rule in your hertes to the whiche peace ye are called in one bodye. And se that ye be thankfull. Let the wo^rde of Chyste dwell in you plenteously with all wysdome. Teach and exhorte pour owne selues in psalmes and himnes, and spirytual songes synging wth grace in pour hertes to the Lo^rde. And whatsoeuer ye do (in wo^rde o^r dede) doo all in the name of the Lo^rde Jesu, geuyng thankes to God the father by hym. y^e * Ye wyues, submitte pour selues vnto pour owne husbendes, as it is comelye in the Lo^rde: Ye husbendes, loue pour wyues and be not bitter vnto them. y^e Chyldren, obey pour fathers and mothers in al thynges, for that is well pleasyng vnto the Lo^rde. Ye fathers, prouoke not pour chyldeⁿ (as to synne, lest they be of a desperate mynde. y^e Pe seruantes be obedyent vnto them that are pour bodely maistres in al thynges: not wth eye seruyce as men pleasers but in singlenes of hert fearing God And what soeuer ye do, do it hertelye, as thowge ye dyd it to the Lo^rde, and not vnto men: knowyng, that of the Lo^rde ye shall receyue the reward of indurtaunce, for ye serue the Lo^rde Chyste. But be y^e doth synne, shall receyue for his synne. * Repeteth is there any respect of persons (as wth God.)

The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth them to be seruant in prayer, to walke wth wysdom vnto them y^e as not yet come to y^e true knowlage of Chyste y^e saluati^on them.

Masters do vnto pour seruantes y^e whiche is iuste and equal knowyng that ye also haue a master in heauen. * Continue in prayer, and watch in the same wth thankes geuyng, prayng also for vs, y^e that God maye open vnto vs the doore of veteraunce, that we may speake the mystery of Chyste (wherfore I am also in bonden) that I maye vete it, as it becometh me to speake. * Walke wisely toward them y^e are without, y^e lose no oportynyte. Let pour spech be alwayes wel sauozed and powdred wth salt, that ye may know, how ye ought to answer euery man.

Of all my busynesse shall ye be certified by Tychicus, the beloued brother y^e faythfull mynister y^e felowe seruant in the Lo^rde, whom I haue sente vnto you for the same purpose y^e he myght knowe what ye doo and that he myght comforte pour hertes wth one Onesimus a faythfull and beloued brother: whiche is one of you

The fyrste Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle vnto the Thessalonians.

The fyrst Chapter.

The sheweth God for them that they are so fast in faith & good works, & receyue the Gospel with such earnestnes.

Paul and Syluanns and Timothy. Vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonians, in god the father, and in the Lorde Iesus Christ.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace frome God our father, and froe I Lord Iesus Christ.

We geue God thanks: alwaies for you all, makinge mencyon of you in oure prayers without ceasing, and call you to remembrance because of the worke of your faith, and labour in * lone, and because ye haue continued in the hope of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, in the sight of God our father. * We knowe brethren, (beloued of God) howe that ye are electe. For oure Gospel came not vnto you by * worde onely, but also by power, and by the holy ghoſte, and by muche certaintye, as ye knowe, after what maner we behaued our selues among you for youre sakes. * And ye became followers of vs and of the Lorde, receyvinge the worde with muche affecyon with love of the holie ghoſte: so that ye were an enſample to all that beleue in Macedonia & Achaia. For from you sounded out the worde of the Lorde, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but youre faithe also whyche ye haue vnto God, spread her selfe abroad in all quarters, so that it needeth not vs to speake any thing at all. For they theselues shew of you what maner of entreyng in, we had vnto you & how ye turned to God froe ymagis, for to serue the liuinge and true God, and for to looke for his sonne * from Heauen, whome he rayſed froe deade: Ieuen Iesus, which deliuereth vs from the wrath to come.

The ii. Chapter.

We put them in mynde of the good conuerſacion that he had among them when he preached the Gospel vnto them: in which God hath receyued his worke so fruchtfully and exulteth his minde.

For ye your selues (brethren) knowe of oure entranche in vnto you, howe that it was not in wayne but euen after that we had suffered before, and were * shamefully entred at Philippon (as ye knowe) then were we holde in our God, to speake vnto you the Gospel of God, in much stryving. For our exhortacion was not to bypne you to erreure, nor yet to vncleannes neither was it with gyle: but as we were allowed of God, & the Gospel shuld be commytted vnto vs: euen so we speake, not as they that * please men, but God tryeth oure herres. Neither led we our conuerſacion at any tyme with flatteryng wordes, as ye knowe: neither by occasyon of couetousnes. * God is recorde: neither soughte we prayſe of men neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we might haue bene in auctorytie, as if Apostles of Christ, but we were tender among you, euen as a nourſe cheriſheth her chyldren, so were we affectioned toward you, oure good wyl was to haue deliuered vnto you, not the Gospel of God onely: but also our owne ſoules because ye were vnto vs.

* Remembre brethren oure labour, and trouble. * For we laboured day & nyght because we woulde not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Gospel of God. Ye are wytnesses, & so is God, howe holpely and unblameably we behaued oure selues among you that beleued as ye knowe, howe that we bare such affecyon vnto euery one of you, as a father doth vnto his chyld, exhortyng & comfortyng, and besecchyng you, that ye woulde walke worthy of God, which hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorie.

For this cause thanke we God also with oute ceasing, because that when ye receyued of vs the worde (wherwith ye learned to know God) ye receyued it not as the worde of man: but euen as it was in dede, the worde of God, which worketh also in you that beleue.

For ye brethren became followers of the congregacions of God: whyche in Jewye are in Christ Iesu: for ye haue suffered lyke thynges of oure kynsmen, as we oure selues haue suffered of the Jewes. Whyche as they kylled the Lorde Iesus, and theyr owne prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs, and God they please not, and are contrary to all men and hinder that we shuld not speake vnto the Gentyles that they might be saued to fulfyll theyr syn-

The Epistle

1 Tim. 3.12. spynnes alway. For the wrath of God is come on them, euen to the uttermost. For as muche byethen as we are kept from you for a season, as concernynge the bodily presence (but not in the herte) we enioyned the more to se you personally with great desyre. And therfore we wold haue come vnto you I Paul ones and agayne: but Satan wythstode vs: for what is oure hope of ioye as crowne of reioysynge? are not ye yet in the presence of our Lorde Iesus Christ at his comynge? yes, ye are our glory and ioye.

The. iii. Chapter.

¶ The sheweth howe greatly he was excofied, when Timothy tolde hym of thyng sayd and loue.

¶ Therfore sence we could no lenger forbeare, we thought it good to remaine at Athens alone, and sent Timothy our brother and minister of God & the helper forth of oure labour in the Gospel of Christ, to stablysh you, & to comforte you concernynge our faith, that no man shoulde be moued in these afflictions. For ye your selues knowe, that we are euen appoynted therunto. For when we were with you, we tolde you before, that we shoulde suffer tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. For this cause when I coulde no longer forbear, I sent that I might haue knowlage of your faith, lest by some meanes the tempter had tempted you, and lest our labour had ben bestowed in vayne.

¶ But now lately, when Timothy came from you vnto vs, and declared to vs your saythe and your loue, and howe that ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyryng to se vs, as we also desyre to se you: Therfore brethren we receyued consolacion by you, in all our aduersitie and necessitye, through your faith. For nowe are we aloue yf ye stande stedfaste in the Lorde. For what thanks can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer all the ioye, that we ioye for your sakes before oure God: prayynge nyght & daye exceedingly, that we myghte se you presently, and myghte fulfyll the thynges whiche are lackynge vnto your sayth.

God hymselfe oure father, and our Lorde Iesus Christ shall gyde oure iourney vnto you: the Lorde also shall encrease you and make you flowe ouer in loue one toward another, and toward all men, euen as we do toward you: that we maye make your hartes stable and vnblymeable, in holynesse before God oure father, at the comynge of oure Lorde Iesus Christ with all sayntes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to chastite, to hope them from synne and vncleyn comynge, to loue one another with all purenes, and feare of the reuerencyon.

¶ Aftermoze, we beseech you (brethren) and exhort you by the Lorde Iesus, that ye encrease moze and moze: euen as ye haue receiued of vs, howe ye ought to walke and please God. For ye knowe what commandementes we gaue you by our Lorde Iesus Christ. For this is the wyl of God: euen your holynesse, that ye should abstayne from fornicacion, & that every one of you shuld knowe howe to kepe his vessel in holynesse and honoure, and not in the luste of concupiscence: as do the heathen whiche knowe not God, that no man oppresse and defraude his brother in bar. & gainynge: because that the Lorde is the auenger of all such thynges, as we tolde you before, and testified. For God hath not called vs vnto cleynes but vnto holynesse. For he therfore that despyseth himselfe defileth not man, but God whiche hath sent his holy sperte among you.

¶ But as touchynge brotherlye & loue, ye neede not, that I wyte vnto you. For ye are taught of God to loue one another. Prece that thyng verely ye do vnto all the brethren whiche are in al Macedonia. We beseech you brethren, that ye encrease moze and moze, & that ye study to be quiet, & to medle with your owne business, and to worke with your owne handes, as we commaunded you that ye maye be able to paye selues honestly toward them that are wythout: & that nothyng be lackynge vnto you.

¶ I wolde not brethren that ye shoulde be ignorant concerning them whiche are fallen asleep, that ye knowe not as other doo, whiche haue no hope. For yf we beleue, & Iesus dyed, and rose agayne, euen so the also whiche slepe by Iesus, wyl God byng agayne with hym. For this say we vnto you in the worde of the Lorde that we whiche shall lyue, and shall remaine in the comynge of the Lorde, shal not come yet the whiche slepe. For the Lorde hymselfe shal descend from heauen with a shout and the voyce of the Archangel and trompe of God. And dead in Christ shall arise fyrst: then we whiche shall lyue (eue we whiche shal remaine) shalbe caught vp wyth them also in the cloudes, to meete the Lorde in the ayer. And so shall we euer be wyth the Lorde. Therfore, comforte your selues one another with these wordes.

The. v. Chapter.

¶ He enformeth them of the hope of home, and chipping of the Lorde, exhorteth them to watche: and to regard such as prayce Gods wordes among them.

¶ Finally, of the tymes and seasons (brethren) it is no neede that I wyte vnto you: for ye your selues knowe perfectly, that the day of the Lorde shal come euen as a thefe in the nyght. For when they shall say, peace & all thynges are safe, then shal a sudden destruccion come vpon them (as so roth cometh vpon a woman traualynge with chylde) & they shal not escape. But ye brethren are not in darkenes, & that daye shoulde come on you as a thefe. For ye are all chylidzen of lyght and the chylidzen of the daye. We are not of the nyght neether of darkenes.

¶ Therfore lette vs not slepe as doo other: but let vs watche, and be sober. For they that slepe, slepe in the nyghte, and they that be drunken are drunken in the nyghte. But let vs which are of the daye, be sober, & armed wth the best place of sayth & loue, and wth hope of saluacyon for an helmet. For god hath not appoynted vs to prouoke wrath vnto our selues, but to obtaine saluacyon by by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ * whiche dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we shoulde lyue together wth hym.

¶ Wherefore, comforte your selues together and edifye every one another, euen as ye do. * We beseeche you brethren, that ye knowe the * whiche labour amenge you & haue the ouersight of you in the Lord, and geue you exhortacion, that ye haue them in hys reputacyon thowowe loue, for there workes sake, and be at peace wth them.

¶ We beseeche you (brethren) warne them that are unruly, comforte the feble mynided, lyfte up the weake, be patient towarde all men. * Be ye none recompence euell for euell vnto any man: but euere folowe that whiche is good, both amenge your selues, & to al men. * Receyue euell. * Praye continually. In all thynges geue thanks. For this is the wyl of God thowowe Christ Jesu towarde you. Quene not the spirit. * Despise not prophesynges. Examine all thynges, kepe that whiche is good. Abstayne from all euell appearaunce. The verbe God of peace sanctifye you thowowe out. And I praye God that your hole spete, and soule and body, maye be preserved: so that in nothyng ye maye be blamed in the companyng of our Lord Jesus Christ.

* Raythful is he which called you, which wyl also do it. Brethren, praye for vs. * Grete al brethren wth an holpe kyse. I charge you in the Lord, that this Epistle be rede vnto the holpe brethren. * The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be wth you. Amen.

The first Epistle vnto the Thessalonians was wyrtten from Athens.

The secōde Epistle of Saynet Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

We thanked God for thyng sayth and loue, and prayeth for the increase of the same.

PAUL and Siluanus and Timotheus, vnto the congregacyon of the Thessalonians in God our father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ. * Grace be vnto you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

We are bounde to * thank God alwayes for you brethren (as it is mete) because your sayth groweth excedyngly, & euery one of you swymmeth in loue towarde another betwene your selues, so that we oure selues boaste of you in the congregacyon of God, ouer your patience and sayth in al your persecucions and tribulacions, that ye suffre. Whiche is a token of the ryghteous iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdō of God, for whiche ye also suffre. It is verely a ryghteous thyng wth God that he receyue tribulacion to them that trouble you: & to you which are troubled, rest wth vs, when the Lord Jesus shal shewe hym selfe fro heauen wth his Angels of his power, wth flaming fyre: whiche shal rendre vengeance vnto them that knowe not God, * and that obeye not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, * whiche shal be punished wth euery lastyng damnacyō, from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of hys power, * when he shal come to be glorified in hys sayntes, & to become marvellous in all them that beleue: because our testimonye that we had to you, was beleneued euen the same day. * Wherefore, also we praye alwayes for you, your God wyl make you worthy of this calling and full fyll all delectacyon of goodnes and the woche of sayth, wth power: that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym accordyng to the grace of our God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The ii. Chapter.

We sheweth them, that the daye of the Lord shal not come tyll the departinge from the sayth come first, and therefore be exhorteth them not to be depressed but to stande stedfast in the thynges whiche they haue taught them.

We beseech you (brethren) by the companyng of our Lord Jesus Christ, & in that we shal assemble vnto him that ye be not suddenly moued from your mynde, nor be troubled, neyther by spete, neyther by woche, nor yet by letter, which shoulde seme to come fro vs, as though the daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man deceaue you by any meanes, for the Lord shal not come except ther come a departinge spete, and that a synfull man be opened, the sonne of perdyccion, whiche is an aduersarye: & is exalted aboue all, that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he doth say in the temple of God, boastyng hym selfe to be God.

Remember ye not, that whē I was yet wth you, I tolde you these thynges: And now ye knowe what withholdeth: euen that he myght be vntered at hys tyme. * For a mystery of iniquitye doth already worke: tpe he which nowe onely lesteeth, be taken oute of the waye. And then shall that wyched be vntered, * whom the Lord shal consume wth the spete of hys mouth, and shal destroye wth the apperaunce of hys companyng: * euen hym whose companyng is after the workinge of Satan, wth all lyenge power & signes and wonders and with al deceauiblenes of vnyghteousnesse, amenge them that perishe: because they receaued not the loue of the truth, that they myght be saved. * And therefore God shal sende them stronge delusion, that they shoulde beleue lyes: that all they myght be damned: which beleued not the truth: but had pleasure in vnyghteousnes.

But we are bounde to geue thanks alwaye to God for you (brethren beloued of the Lord) for because that God hath from the begynnyng chosen you to saluacyon, thowowe sanctifyng of the spete, and thowowe beleuyng of his trouth, wherunto he called you by oure Gospel to obtaigne the glorye of our Lord Jesus Christ.

¶ Therefore brethren stande fast, and kepe the ordynaunces which ye haue learned: whether it were by oure preachyng, or by Epistle. Oure Lord

The fyfthe Epistle

Lozde Iesu Chyft hym felfe, and God and oure father whych hath loued vs, and hath geue vs euerylastyng confortacyon, and good hope thowte grace, confort your hertes and stablyshe you in all good sayenge and doyng.

The .iii. Chapter.

¶ The bestyeth them to praye for hym, that the Gospel maye prosper, and geueth the maner of praye, and sheweth the waye to the good.

In the word of God maye haue passage, and be glorified, as it is also with you, and we may be deliuered from vnreasonable & frowarde men. For all men haue not sayd: but the Lozde is saythfull, whych shall stablyshe you, & preferre you frō euell. We haue confydence thowte the Lozde to youwarde, that ye both do, & wyll do the thynges whych we commaunde you. And the Lozde guyde your hertes to the loue of God and to the pacient waytyng for Chyft.

¶ We requyre you byethen by the name of oure Lozde Iesu Chyft: & ye with vs, & your felues from euery brother, & behaue hym felfe inordinatly, and not after the institutid, whych be receaued of vs. For ye your felues knowe, howe ye oughte to folowe vs. For we behaue not our felues inordinatly amonge you. Repether toke we bread of any man for nought: but wroughe with labour & sweate myghte & daye because we wolde not be chargeable to anye of you: not but & we had aucthoryte: but to make our felues an ensample vnto you to folowe vs. For when we were with you, thys we warnyd you of, that ye any wolde not doke, the same shulde not eate.

¶ For we haue hearde saye, that there are some whych walke amonge you inordinatly, whychinge at not all, but beyng busshodys. The that are suche, we commaunde and exhort, by oure Lozde Iesu Chyft, that they doke with quyetnes, & eate theyr owne bread: & byethen be not ye werry in well doyng. ¶ If any man obey not our sayenge, sende vs word of hym by a letter: and & haue no company with hym, that he may be ashamed: And count hym not as an enemy but warne hym as a brother.

The verye Lozde of prae geue you peace alwayes, by al meanes. The Lozde be with you al. The salutacyon of me Paule with myne owne hande. Thys is the token in all Epystles. So I wyte. ¶ The grace of oure Lozde Iesu Chyft be with you all. Amen.

The fyfthe Epistle of Sapnet Paule vnto Tymothe.

The fyfth Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth Tymothe to warre vpon vs & dyuynally, to se & nothinge be taught but Gods word. He sheweth also vnto the lorde to good, & tellet & Chyft Iesus came in to the world to saue synners.

Iulian Apostle of Iesu Chyft by the commissid of God our sayoure and Lozde Iesu Chyft, & whych is our hope. Vnto Tymothe bys natural sonne in the sayth.

Grace, mercy, and peace frō God our father, and from the Lozde Iesu Chyft our Lozde.

¶ As I besought the to abyde still at Ephesus (when I departed into Macedonia) ene so do, that thou commaunde some, that they folowe no straunge doctryne, neyther geue hede to fables and endles genealogyes, whych byde doubtles moze then Godlye doctryne whych is by sayth: for the ende of the commaundement is lone oute of a pure harte, and of a good conscience, and of sayth vnsayned: from the whych thynges, because some haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne tangelyng, because they wolde be doctours of science & yet vnderstand not what they speake, neyther wherof they asseyne.

¶ We knowe, that the lawe is good, if a man vse it lawfully: knowyng thes, & howe the lawe is not geuen vnto a ryghteous man, but vnto the vnygheuous and dyobedient, to the vngodly and to synners, to vnholp and vncleane: to murderers of fathers, & murderers of mothers, to manslayers, to whoremongers: to them that despye them selues with mankynde: to manselars: to lyars: to perjured, and if ther be any other thyng that is contrary to the wholsome doctryne, accordyng to the Gospel of the glory of the blessed God, whych Gospel is commytred vnto me.

¶ And I shalke Chyft Iesu our Lozde, whych hath made me stronge: for he counted me true, & put me in offyce, where as before I was a blasphemet, & a persecuter, and a tyrant. But yet I obtayned mercy, because I dyd it ignorantly thowme vndeles. Reuerences, & grace of our Lozde was excedyng aboundant with sayth and loue, whych is in Chyft Iesu.

¶ This is a true sayenge (and by all meanes doctryne to be receaued of vs) that Chyft Iesu came into the world, to saue synners, of whō I am chefe. Not withstandinge for this cause obtayned I mercy, that Iesu Chyft shulde fynde me on me all longe payence, to declare an ensample vnto the whych shulde beleue on hym vnto eternall lyfe. So then vnto God, kyng euerlastyng, immortall, & inuisyble, wyse onely, be honoure and prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

This commaundement comyt I vnto the sonne Tymotheus accordyng to the prophesy, whych in tyme past were prophesied of the, & thou in them shuldest fynde a good fyght, & haupng sayth & good conscience: whych some haue put awaye from them, and as cōcernyng sayth haue made theym iack. Of whose noblye & bymeneus and Alexander, whome I haue deliuered vnto Satthan, that they maye learne not to blasfeme.

The .ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth to praye for all men. He wyll not haue men to be ouer costly apparell, nor to teache in the congregacion, but to be in leynere, and to obeye theyr husbondes.

A byp is a true sayenge: Pf a man de-

1 houses godly and to recompense theys elders. For that is good and acceptable before God. So be that is a true wyddowe and friendles, putteth her trust in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and daye. But she is lyued in pleasure, is deade, euen yet aluue. And these thynges commaunde, & they maye be wythoute rebuke. But if anye proude not for her owne (and specially for them of her householde) the same hath beneped the saythe, and is woyle then an insybell.

25 Let no wyddowe be chosen vnder thre score yere olde, & suche a one as was the wyfe of one man, and well reported of men, in good woiketh of the haue broughte vnder chylidren, & if she haue lodged strangers, if she haue washed the sayntes fete, if she haue mynistrred vnto the wyche were in aduersityte, if she haue bene continualy giuen vnto all maner of good woiketh. The yonger wyddowes refuse. For when they haue begon to wate wanton agaynst Chyriste, they will marre, haunge damnycon, because they haue cast away theys fyrst sayth. And also they learne to go from house to house ydle: not ydle onely but also taters & busybodies, speakyng thynges wyche are not comly.

1 Cor. vi. 3 I will therfore that the yonger women maye, to beare chylidren, to gurde the house & geue none occasyon to the aduersarye to speake euill. For many of them are alreadye turned backe, & are gone after Bathan. And if any man or woman that beleueth haue wyddowes, let the mynister vnto them, and let not the congregacon be charged: that there maye be sufficient for the that are wyddowes in dede.

D The elders & rule wel are worthy of double honoure, moost specially they wyche labour in the woide and teachyng, for the scripture sayth, & thou shalt not molell & mouthe of & ore that treadeth out & coine. And the labourer is worthy of hys rewarde. Agaynst an elder, receaue none accusacon: but vnder two or thre witnesses. Them & synne rebuke openly, that o- ther also maye feare. I testifie before God, & the Lozde Iesu Chyrist & the elect adgis, that I ob- serue these thynges without parcialle of iudge- ment, & do nothing parcially. Lay hidens sod- dy on no ma, neether be partaker of other mys sin- nes: hepe thy self pure. Wyne no lenger water but vnto a lytle wyne for thy stomaches sake, & chyne often dyscaies. Some mennes synnes are oped before hande & go before vnto iudgement: & some mens synnes tolowe after. I the wyche also good woiketh are manifest before hande, & they that are other wyse, can not be hpd.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ The desire of seruantes towarde theys masters. Agaynst such as are not satisfied with the woiketh of God. Agaynst constancie. A good lesson for each man.

1 Cor. vii. 3 Et as many seruantes as are vnder the yoke, counte theys masters woiketh of all honoure, that the name of God & hys doctryne be not euill spo- ken of. Be that they wyche haue beleuynge mas- ters, despyse them not because they are brethren: but rather do seruyce, for as muche as they are beleuynge & beloued & partakers of the benefyte.

These thynges teache & exhort. ¶ If any ma folowe other doctrine, and enclyne not vnto the wholsome woiketh of our Lozde Iesu Chyrist, & to the doctryne wyche is accordyng to godly- nes, he is quyte vp, and knoweth nothyng: but waiteth vnder bys byaynes about questions & styple of woiketh, wherof styngge enuie, styple, ralynges, euill surmysynges, bayne dysputacon of men that haue corrupte myndes, and that are robbed of the trouth: which thynke, that lurre is godlynes. And them that are lurre separate thy selfe. Godlynes is great ryches, & if a ma be content wyth that he hath. ¶ For we broughte no- thyng into the woiketh, neyther maye we carpe any thyng out.

But when we haue foode and raymente we must therwith be content. They that will be rich fall into temptacon & snares, & (of the carrell) and into manye foolyshe & nopsome lusses, wyche dyuine men into perdicion, & destruction. For con- uetousnes of money is the rote of al euil: which wyche some lusted after they erred from & sayth and tangled them selues wyth many lozowes. But thou man of God, & ifeuche thynges. To- lowe ryghteousnes, godlynes, sayth, lone, pacy- ence, meakenes. Ryghte the good ryghte of sayth. Laye hande on eternal lyfe, wherunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good professyon before many wytnelles.

I geue the charge in & syght of God, & wyche quycheneth al thynges, and before Iesu Chyriste (which vnder Pocius Pylate witnesseth a good wytnellyng) that thou kepe the commande- ment, and be wythout spoete and vntrebucable vntill the appearing of our Lozde Iesu Chyrist & wyche appearynge (in his time) he shall shewe, that is blessed and myghty onely, kyng of kyn- ges, and Lozde of Lozdes, wyche onelye hath immortalityte, and dwelleth in the lyght that no man can attayne: whom no man hath seen, ne- ther can se, vnto whom be honoure and rule ever lastyng. Amen.

Charge them which are ryche in thes woiketh D that they be not hpe minded, nor trust in vney- tayne ryches, but in the lyuyng God: wyche geueth vs aboundantlye alle thynges to enioye the: that they do good woiketh: that they be rea- dye to geue and glad to dystribute launge vnto in thooze for them selues a good foundacyon & agaynst the tyme to come, that they maye obtaine eternal lyfe.

¶ Timothe, saue that wyche is geuen the to kepe, and auoyde vngoodly vanities of wyces and opposycions of science, falslye so called: wyche science wyche some professed they erred as concernyng the sayth.

¶ The

of the Apostle sayncte Paule vnto Timothee.

The fyrst Chapter.

I Paul the Apostle of Iesus Christ by the will of God, according to the promise of life, which is in Christ Iesu. To Timothee my beloved sonne. Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, & from Iesu Christ our Lord.

I thank God, whom I serue from myne elders with pure conscience, without any ceasing I make mention of the in my prayers night and day, bespying to see the myndfull of thy tears: so that I am spyled with ioye, when I call to remembrance the vnfayned sayth that is in y, which dwelleth first in thy graundmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: & I am assured that it dwelleth in the also.

Wherefore I warne the that thou sterr by the gyft of God which is in the, by the putting on of my bandes. For God hath not geuen to vs a spirit of feare: but of power, and of loue, and of sobrenes. Be not thou therfore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, neither be ashamed of me: which am bys prisoner: but suffer thou aduersite to the Gospel, according to the power of God, which is laued vs, & called vs with an holy calling, not according to our dedes, but according to his owne purpose & grace: which was geue vs through Christ Iesu (before the world began) but is now declared openly by the appearing of our sauoure Iesu Christ, which hath put away death, & hath brought life and immortallite vnto lyght through the Gospel: wherunto I am appoynted a preacher & Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentyles: for the which cause I also suffer these thynges: neuertheless, I am not ashamed. For I knowe and am sure, that he in whome I haue put my truste is able to kepe that which I haue committed to his keepinge agaynst that daye.

As that I haue the ensample of the holysome wordes, which I haue heard of me with sayth & loue that is in Christ Iesu. That good thyng which was committed to thy keepinge, holde fast through the holysome goost, which dwelleth in vs. This I knowest, howe all they whiche are in Asia, be turned from me: of which sort are Phylas & Hermogenes. The Lord geue mercy vnto the household of Onesiphorus: for he ofte refreshed me, & was not ashamed of my chayne: but when he was at Rome, he sought me out verie diligently, & founde me. The Lord graunte vnto hym that he may fynd mercy with the Lord at that day. And in how many thynges he ministered vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

The ii. Chapter.

Aske as in the first Chapter, so here he exhorted hym to be constant in trouble, to suffer manly, and to obeye fully in the holysome doctrine of our Lord Iesu Christ.

Thou therfore my sonne, be stronge in the grace (that is through Christ Iesu) and in the thynges that thou hast herd of me by many wytnesses. The same committe thou to saythfull men, which shalbe apte to teache other also. Thou therfore suffer afflictions as a good souldyer of Iesus Christ. No man that warreth, entangleth hym selfe with worldly busynesse, and that because he maye please hym whiche hath chosen hym to be a souldyer. And though a man stryue for a mastery, yet is he not crowned, except he stryue lawfully. The husbandman that laboureth, muste synke because of the frutes. Consider what I saye. The Lord geue the vnderstandynge in all thynges.

Remember that Iesus Christ of the seede of David, rose agayne from deathe according to my Gospel, wherin I suffer trouble as an euell doer, euen vnto bondes. But the word of God was not bounde. Therfore I suffer all thynges for the electes sakes, that they myghte also obtayne the saluacion, whiche is in Christ Iesu, with eternal glory. It is a true sayenge: for yf we be deade with hym, we shall also lyue with hym. Yf we be patiente, we shall also raygne with hym. Yf we denye hym, he also shall denye vs. Yf we beleue not, yet abyde he saythfull. He cannot denye hym selfe. Of these thynges put them in remembrance, and testifie before the Lord, that they folowe no contentious wordes: whiche are to no profit, but to the peruersynge of the hearers.

Study to gette thy selfe laudable vnto God, & a workman that nedeth not to be ashamed by strytinge the word of truth iustly. As for vngodly vanities of voyces, passe thou ouer the. For they will encrease vnto greater vngodliness, & theyr wordes shal fret euen as docthe the dyscase of a cancre: of whose nombre is hymeneus and Philetus, whiche (as concernynge the truth) haue erred, sayenge: that the resurrection is past already, and do destroye the saythe of some. But the sure ground of God standeth styll and hath this seale: the Lord knoweth them that are his. And let every man that calleth on the name of Christ, depart from iniquyte. For they that are in a great house are not onely vessels of golde, and of syluer, but also of wood & of earthe: some for honoure, and some vnto dishonoure. Yf a man therfore purge hym selfe from such men, he shalbe a vessel sanctified vnto honoure, mete for the vices of the Lord, and prepared vnto all good workes.

Lettes of youth auoyde, but folow righteoussnes, sayth, loue and peace, with them that cal on the Lord with a pure herte. Foolyshe and vnlearned questyons put from the, knowing, that they do but geue stryfe. The seruante of the Lord muste not stryue: but be gentle vnto all men: apte to teache, and one that can suffer the euell with mekenesse, & can informe the that resiste (the enemy) yf that God at any tyme wyll geue them repentance, for to knowe the truth: and that they maye come to them selues agayne out of the uetous, boasters, proude, curbed speakers, dyfobedyent to father and mothers, vn-

For of thes[is] sort are they which entre into houses, and bynge vnto bondage women lade with synne, which women are led wyth dyuers lustres euer learyngge, and neuer able to come vnto the knowledge of the truthe.

As Iannes and Iambres wythstode Moses, euen so do these also resiste the truthe: men they are of corrupte myndes, and lewde as concernyngge the sayth: but they shall preuaile no l[on]- ger. For theyr madnes shall be vttered vnto all men euen as theyr was, but thou haste seene the experiens of my doctryne, fathyon of lpyngge, purpose, sayth, longe sufferynge, loue, pacyence, p[er]secutions, and assyrcyons whiche happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconi, and at Lystra: whych p[er]secutions I sustred pacyentlye. And fro them all the Lorde deliuered me. For all they that wyll lyeue godlye in Christ Iesu, shall sustre p[er]secucion. But the euil men and dysceiuers that were wyse and wyse, whyle they dyscerne and are dysceiued them selues.

But continue thou in the thynges which thou hast learned, whych also were commyted vnto the, knowyngge of whom thou hast learned them and for as much also as of a chyld, thou hast knowne the holy scriptures, whiche are able to make the learned vnto saluacyon thowtwe the uen by inspyracio[n] of God, is p[ro]fyttable to teach to improve, to amende, and to instruct in ryghteousnes, that the man of God maye be perfect and prepared vnto all good workes.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The exhortac[i]o[n] Timothee to be fervent in the worke and to howe he cometh vnto hym.

If thou knowe, that I am comyngge vnto the, and be when they shall not suffer wholesome doctryne: but after theyr owne lustes shall they (whose cabe turned vnto fables. But watche thou, in all thynges sustre assyrcyons, do the wyche tho-

For I am now ready to be offered, and the tyme of my departing is at hand. I haue fought a good fyght, I haue fulfilled my course. I haue kept the sayth. From hence forth there is layde vnto me a crowne of ryghteousnes, which the Lorde (that is a ryghteous iudge) shall geue me at that day: not to me onely, but vnto all them also that loue hys commyngge. Do thy diligence that thou mayest come shortly vnto me.

For Demas hath forsaken me, and leueth this present world, and is departed vnto Thre-salonica: Crescens is gone to Galacia, Titus vnto Dalmacia. Onely Lucas is wyth me.
Take Mark, and bynge hym wyth the, for he is p[ro]fyttable vnto me to the minystracyon. And Tychicus haue I sent to Epheesus. The clothe I left at Troada wyth Carpus (when thou com-the p[ar]tchement. Alexander the cooper smyth byd me muche euill: the Lorde reward hym accordyngge to his dedes, of whom be thou ware also.

For he hath greatly wythstande our wordes.

At my fyrste aunsweryngge: no man assysted me, but al forsoke me. I praye God, that it may not be layde to theyr charges. For wythstan-dyngge the Lorde assysted me, and strenghted me, that by me the preachynge shoulde be fulfilled to the vnto the, and that all the Gentyles shoulde heare. And I was deliuered out of the mouth of the Lyon. And the Lorde shall deliuer me from all euill doyngge, and shall kepe me vnto his hea-uynly kyngdome: To whome be prayse for euer

The Epistle of Saynct

Paule vnto Titus.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paulus exhorteth Titus to ordeyne presbiteres as he shal p[ro]- p[er]t, and declareth what maner of men they ought to be that are chosyn to that offyce, and chargeth Titus to ex-horte such as wythstande the Gospel.

Rule the seruante of God, and Apostle of Iesu Christe, accordyngge to the saythe of Godden beganne: but hath opened his woꝛde at the tyme appoynted choꝛowe preacþyng, which is comþtred vnto me, accordyng to the commaundment of God oure sauoure. To * Titus bys naturall sonne after the common sayth.

* Grace, mercy, and peace, fro God the father, and from the Loꝛde Iesu Chꝛist oure sauoure.

T For this cause left I the in Creta, þ thou shuldest reforme the thynges that are vnperfect, and shuldest * ordayne elders in euery cytie, as I had appoynted the. If any be blamelesse, the husbād of one wyfe, hauyng fapthfull chyldren, whiche are not standyng of spote, neyther are dysobedyent. * For a bysþhope must be blamelesse, as the stewarde of god: not stubborne, not angry, not geuen to muche wyne, no fyggyer, not geuen to subtyl lye: but a keeper of hospitalitie, one that louethe goodnesse, (prudent) sobre, ryghteous, godly, temperate, and suche as cleueth vnto the true woꝛde of doctryne, that he maye be able all so to exhorter by wholsome learnyng and to upbryde them that sape agaynst it:

F For there are many vnruely and talkers of vanity & dysceners of myndes, speciallly they that are of the cyrcelyson, whose mothes must be stopp'd, * whiche peruert whole houses, teachyng thynges which they ought not, because of fytþ lye. One of the selues, (euen a prophete of theyr owne) sayde: The Cretians are alwayes lyars, euell beastes, slowe helþes. This wytnes is true, wherfore rebuke thou them sharply that they maye be found in þ sayth, not takyng hede to Jewes fables and comaundementes of men þ fayne a waye the tructh. * Cinto the pure, are all thynges pure: but vnto the that are defyled and vnbeluyng, is nothing pure: but euen þ mynd and conscience of the is defyled. They confesse þ they knowe God: but wryth the dedes they deny him, seinge they are abhominable and dysobedyent, and vnapt vnto euery good woꝛke.

The ii. Chapter.

The letter bys god shall teache all degre to behaue them self.

W We speake thou the thynges whiche be come wholsome learning, that the elder men be sober, sage, discrete, soide in the sayth, in loue, in pacience: þ elder * women lyke wyfe, that they be in suche rayment as becometh holynes, not beþng false accusers not geuen to muche wyne, but that they teach honest thynges, to make the younge wemen sobre mynded, to loue theyr husbādes, to loue theyr chyldren, to be discrete, chaste, huswifely, good, obedyent vnto theyr husbādes, that the woꝛde of God be not euell spoken of. Þonge men lyke wyfe exhorter, that they be sobre mynded.

In al thynges shewe thy selfe an ensample of good woꝛkes in the doctrine, with honesty, grauitie, and wryth the wholsome woꝛde which can not be rebuked: that be which with standeth, may be asham'd, hauyng no euell thyng to sape of þen. * Exhorter seruantes, to be obedyent vnto theyr owne masters, & to please them in al thynges, not answeryng agayne, neyther to be ppytous, but that they shewe all good fapthfulnes that they maye do woꝛthyppe to the doctryne of God oure sauoure in all thynges. * For the grace of God, that byngeth saluacion vnto al men, hath appeared & teacheth vs that we shuld deny vngodlynes and * worldly lustes, and that we shulde lyue soberly, and ryghteously, & godly in this present woꝛlde, loþyng for that blessed hope and appareyng of the gloꝛy of þ great God, and of oure sauoure Iesu Chꝛist, whiche * gaue hym selfe for vs, to redeme vs fro all vnryghteousnes, and * to poure vs a peculiar people vnto hym selfe, * feruently geuen vnto good woꝛkes. These thynges speake, and exhorter, & rebuke wrythall seruantes of comaundyng. * We that noman despyse the.

The iii. Chapter.

The obedyence to such as be in authoritie, the waye to the waye of holynesse and vnspottable questions.

Wene them * that they submitte the selues to rule and power: that they obeye the officers: that they be ready vnto euery good woꝛke: þ they speake euell of no man: that they be no fyggyers, but gentle, meekyng all mekenes vnto all men. For we oure selues were also so tyme foolyshe, dysobedyent, deceaued, seruyng dysuerse lustes & volupuousnes, luyng in malicioussnes & enmye, full of hate, hatyng one another.

But after that the kyndnes and loue of oure sauoure God to manwarde appeared, * not by þ dedes of righteoussnes whiche we tooughte but accordyng to his mercy he saued vs * by the fountayne of the newe byrthe, and renuyng of the holy goost, whiche he shed on vs a boundlessly, the Loꝛde Iesu Chꝛist oure sauoure, that we iustified * by his grace, shoulde be made þerby accordyng to the hope of eternall lyfe. * This is a true sayenge.

Of these thynges I wyl that thou certifye, that they whiche beleue in God, myghte be dyspygent to go forwarde in good woꝛkes. For these thynges are good and profytable vnto men, * to lyke questyons, and genealogyes, & byawynge choꝛowe strynges about the lawe, auoyde: for they are vnprofytable and superfluous. A man that is an auctoꝛ of sectes, after * þ fyrt and the seconde admonycyon auoyde: knowyng, that he (that is suche) is peruerter and synnethruen dammed by hym selfe.

When I shall sende Artemas vnto the: þ thy chrys be dyspygent, to come to me vnto Nichopolis: For I haue determyned there to wynter. Byng yenas the lawyer and Appollos on their iorneye dyspygentlye, that noþyng be lackyng vnto them. And let oures also learne to exel in good woꝛkes, as farforth as nece requysethe, that they be not vnfructfull.

All that are wryth me, salute the.
Greete them that loue vs in the sayth. Grace be wryth you all.
Amen.

The Epistle

The Epistle of Saynct Paul vnto Philemon.

The first Chapter.

The reference to beate of the faith and love of Philemon in him be deserveth to be great his seruant Onesimus, and longing to receive him againe.

Paul prisoner of Iesu Christe and brother Timothe.

Unto Philemon the beloued, and oure helper, and to the beloued Appia, & to Archippus oure felowe labourer & to the congregation that is of thy house.

* Grace be vnto you and peace, fro God oure father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ.

I thanke my God, making mencion alwayes of you in my prayers, when I deare of thy loue and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Iesu & toward all saynctes, so that the felowshipp of thy faith is frutefull in knowledge of euery good work, which is in you toward Iesus Christe.
For we haue great ioye and consolacion in thy loue: because that by the (brother) the saynctes heres are comforted.

Wherefore, though I might be bolde in Christ to commaunde the that which was thy drutye to do yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, euen olde Paul, & now a prisoner of Iesu Christ. I beseeche for my sonne, Onesimus whom I haue begotten in my bondes, (whiche in tyme passed was to you vnprofitable but now profitabill both to you and to me) wher I haue sente home againe. Thou therefore receaue him, as if he were myne owne bowels, whome I shuld sayne haue retayned to me, in the feare he might haue ministred vnto me in bondes of the Gospel. Nevertheless, wout thy mynd wold I do nothing, & the good which doest, shulde not be as if it were of necessity, but willingly.

For hapely he therfore departed for a season, that thou shuldest receaue him for euer, not now as a seruant: but as above a seruante, euen a brother beloued, specially to me, but howe muche more vnto the, both in the flesh, & also in the Lord: For if thou count me therfore a felowe, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue done the any hurt, or oweth the ought, I laye to my charge. (I woulde haue repayed it with myne owne hande) I wyl recompence it. So that I do not saye to the, howe that thou owest vnto me euen thyne owne selfe also. En for brother, let me enioye the in the Lord Comforte my bowels in the Lord. Trustynge in thyne obedienc: I wote vnto the, knowynge, that I wyl also do more then I say: Wote our preparate me lodgynge, for I truste that thou wote the helpe of your prayers. I shal be geuen vnto you. Ther salute the, Epaphras my felowe prisoner in Christ Iesu, Marcus, Aristarcus, De-mas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be with your spete. Amen.

Wrote from Rome by Onesimus a seruante.

The Epistle of Saynct Paul the Apostle vnto the hebrewes.

The first Chapter.

The reference to beate of the faith and love of Philemon
in him be deserveth to be great his seruant Onesimus, and longing to receive him againe.

In tyme past dyuerly & many wayes spake vnto fathers by prophetes: but in these laste dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his owne sonne, whome he hath made heire of all thynges, by whome also he made the world.

* Which (sonne) being the byrgdines of his glory, and the very ymage of his substance, rulyng all thynges with the worde of his power, hath by his owne person poured oute synnes, and spetted on the ryght hand of the mayesty on hye: beinge so muche more excellent then the aungels, as he hath by inheritaunce obtayned a more excellent name then they.

For vnto which of the aungels sayde he at a ny tyme. * Thou arte my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the: And againe, * I wyl be thy father, and he shal be my sonne. And againe, when he byngeth in the first begotten sonne into the world, he sayeth: * And let all the aungels of God worshyppe him. And vnto the aungels he sayeth
* he maketh his aungels spetes, and bys mynsters a flamme of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayeth: * Thy seat (O God) shal be for euer & euer.
The scepter of thy kingdome is a ryght scepter.
Thou hast louch ryghteously, & hated iniquity. Wherefore, God, eue thy God hath anoynted the to the oyle of gladnes above thy felowes.

* And thou Lord in the begynnyng hast layd the foundation of the earth, and the heauens are the workes of thy handes. They shall peryshe, but thou endurest, and they all shall waxe olde also as doth a garment, and as a vesture shalte thou chaunge them, & they shal be chaiged. But thou art eue the same & thy yeres shal not fayle.
* Vnto which of the aungels said he at any tyme:
* Wyt on my ryght hande, tyll I make thine e-nemyes thy footstole: See they not all myn-istryng spetes, & are sent to mynster, for they saies whiche shal be heires of saluacyon.

The ii. Chapter.

The reference to beate of the faith and love of Philemon
in him be deserveth to be great his seruant Onesimus, and longing to receive him againe.

Wherefore we ought to geue the more earnest heed to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, leaste at any tyme we peryshe. For if the word which was spok by aungels was stedfast.
And euery transgressour & disobedienc receaueth a iuste

a iuste recompence of rewarde, howe shall we escape, if we dyspyle so great a saluacion, which at the first beganne to be preached of the Lord hym selfe, and was confirmed vnto vs warde by them that hearde it: God bearing witness thereto, both with signes and wonders also and with dyuers myracles, and gyftes of the holpe ghost, accordyng to hys owne wil.

For vnto the Angells hath he not subdued the woilde to come, wherof we speake, but one in a certayne place wptnesse, sayinge: What is man, that thou arte myndful of hym? Of the sonne of man, that thou vylteste hym? Thou madest him a lytle lower then the Angells, thou hast crowned hym with honour and gloze: and hast set him aboue the woiches of thy handes. Thou hast put all thynges in subiection vnder hys fete. In that he put all thynges vnder hym he leste nothing that is not put vnder hym. Ne vertheles, we se not yet all thynges subdued vnto hym, but hym that was made lesse then the Angells, we se that it was Iesus whych is crowned with gloze and honour for the sufferynge of death, that by the grace of God, shulde tast of death for all men.

For it became hym, for whom are all thynges and by whome are all thynges (after that he had brought many sonnes to gloze) that he shulde make the Lord of they saluacion perfect the same afflictions. For both he that sanctifyeth and they which are sanctified, are al of one. For which causes sake he is not ashamed to cal them brethren, sayinge: I wyll declare thy name vnto my brethren: in the middes of thy congregacyon wil I prayse the. And agayne: I wyll put my trust in hym. And agayne, beholde, heare am I and the chyldren whom God hath geuen me.

For as much then as the chyldren are partakers of the fleshe and bloude, he also hym selfe lyke wyse toke parte with them that (thow we death) he myghte expel hym that had lordship ouer death, that is to say the deuyl, and that he myghte deliuer them, whych the thow we feare of death were al they lytle tyme subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the Angells: but the seide of Abraham taketh he on him. Wherefore in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, that he myghte be merciful, and a saythful hye prieste in thynges concerninge God, for to pouge & peoples synnes. For in that it fortuneth hym lesse to be tempted, he is able to succure the also that are tempted.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

The requyred hat a be obeyente vnto the woide of Christ, which is moze worth then the ceremonial law of moyses. The punishment of such as will not be heuen they brethren.

Wherefore holy brethren, partakers of the celestyal calling consyder the ambassadour and hye priest of our profession Christ Iesus, howe that he is saythful vnto him that put him in the office, even as was Moyses in al his house. For loke howe much honour he that hath buylded a house hath moze then the house it selfe, so such honour he is counted worthy of moze then Moyses. For euery house is buylded of some ma

But he that ordayned al thynges is God. And Moyses verely was saythful in al hys house as a mynister, to beare wytnes of those thynges which were to be spoken after ward. But Christ as a sonne, hath rule ouer his house, whose house are we, if we holde fast the confidence and the restoracyon of that hope, vnto the ende.

Wherfore as the holy ghost sayth: to daye if ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not your dettes, as in the prouophyng, in the daye of temptacion in the wilderness, where your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my woiches: for ye peare. Wherfore I was grieved with that generation, and sayd: They do al waie erre in theyr dettes: they verely haue not knowe my wayes, so that I sware in my wrath: they shall not entre into my rest: Take heede brethren, lest at any tyme there be in anye of you a frowarde herte subiecte vnto vnbelefe, & he shulde departe fro the lyuyng God: but exhort ye one another dayly, while it is called to daye, lest any of you wyll harden herte thow we the disceitfulness of synne.

We are made partakers of Christ, if we kepe sure vnto the ende, the begynnyng of the substance: so longe as it is sayde: to daye if ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not your dettes, as in the prouophyng, for some when they heard, did prouoke: howebeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moyses. But with whom was he dyspled, forty yeres? Was he not dyspleased with them that had synned, whose carnales were ouer thow we in the deserter? To whome sware he that they shulde not enter into hys reaste, but vnto them that were not obedyent? And we se, if they coulde not entre in, because of vnbelefe.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

The Sabbath of rest of Christen: punishment of dettes: here, the nature of the woide of God.

¶ If ye feare therfore, lest anye of you (for sayng the promes of enterynge into his rest) shuld seme at any tyme to haue bene disapoynted. For vnto vs it is declared, as well as vnto the. But it profited not them, that they hearde the woide: because they whych hearde it, couled it not with sayth. For we which haue beleued, do entre into hys rest, as he sayde: Euen as I haue sworn in my wrath: they shall not entre into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the woiches were made: and the foundations of the woild layd. For he spake in a certayne place of the. vii. day, on thys wyse: And God did rest the. vii. daye from all hys woiches. And in this place agayne: They shall not entre into my rest.

Wherfore it foloweth: that some must entre therinto, and they (to whom it was sayth preached) entred not therein for vnbelefe sake, he appointed a certayne day after so a long tyme sayinge in Dauid: as it is reherced. If ye daye if ye wyll heare his voyce, harden not your dettes. For if Iosua had geuen the rest, the woilde he not afterwarde haue spoken of another day. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he that is entred into hys reaste hath sealed from all hys owne woiches, as God dyd from hym.

C Let vs studie therfore to entre into that rest lest anye man fall after the same example of vnbelefe. For the word of God is quicke, & myghty in operacion, and sharper then any two edged sword: and entereth the yowgh, euen vnto the deuydng of sondes of the soule and the spere, and poyntes and the mary: & is a discerner of thoughtes and of the intentes of the hert, neither is ther any creature that is not manifest in the syghes of hym: But al thynges are naked and open vnto the eyes of whome we speake.

Beinge then, that we haue a greates hygher preast whych is entered into heauen, euen Iesus the sonne of God, lette vs holde the professyon of hope. For we haue not an hygher preast whych cannot haue compassion on our infymities but was in all poyntes tempered, lyke as we are, but yet without synne. Let vs therfore go boldly vnto the frate of grace, that we may obtayne mercy, and fynde grace to helpe in tyme of neede.

The .v. Chapter.

C Christ is our hygher preast, and seat of grace, and moore excellent then the best pynciple of the alre lawe.

For every hye preast that is taken from amonge men, is ordayned for men, in thynges pertainyng to God: to offer gyftes and sacryfices for synne, whych can haue compassion on the ignorant, and on the that erre out of the way for as much as he him selfe is compassed with infymities. And for the same infymities take he is bounde to offer for synners, as well for hym selfe, as for the people. And no man taketh honoure vnto hym selfe: but he that is called of God as was Aaron.

B Euen so Christ also glorified not hym selfe to be made the hye preast: but he that sayde vnto hym: thou arte my sonne, thys daye haue I begotten the, glorified hym: As he sayth also in another place: thou arte a preast for euer after the order of Melchisedec. Whiche in the dayes of his fleshe, when he had offered vp prayers & supplicacions, with strong cryinge and teares vnto hym that was able to saue hym from death and was heard because of his reuerence, though he were the sonne of God, yet learned he obedience, by these thynges whych he suffered: and he beinge perfecte, was the cause of eternall saluacion vnto al them that obeyed him: & is called of God an hye preast, after the order of Melchisedec.

C Wherof we wold speake many thynges but they are harde to be vttered: for ye are dull of hearinge. For when as concerning the tyme ye oughte to be teachers, yet haue ye neede agayne that we teache you the fyrste pynciples of the word of God: and are become such as haue neede of milke, and not of stronge meate, for euery man that is fed with milke, is unexper in the word of ryghteousnes. For he is but a babe.

But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte, euen those, whych by reason of vse haue they: wyttes exercised to byrme bothe good and euil.

The .vi. Chapter.

C The goode forth with the thinges that he beganne in the laste end of the .v. chapter, and appoynteth them not to hope, but to be trustful & patient, for comynge as God to lue in his promyse.

For so, leauing the doctryne: that pertaineth to the begynnyng of charyten men, let vs go forth vnto the perfeccion, not layinge agayne the foundacioun of repentaunce from deade wo: men and of sayth toward God: of baptysmynges, of doctryne, and of layinge on of handes, and of resurreccion from deade, and of eternall Iudgement. And so wil we do: If God permyt. For it cannot be that they whych were once lighted, & haue tasted of the heauenly gyft and were become partakers of the holy Ghooste and haue tasted of the good worde of God, and the powere of the world to come: If they fall away, and as concernyng them selues crucifye the sonne of God a frethe, and make a mocke of hym that they shulde be renewed agayne by repentaunce.

For the earth whych byrnet in the rayne that cometh ofte vpon it, and byrneth forth herbyrme for them by whiche it receaueth blessinge of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and byers: is reioyned, and nye vnto cursyng: whose end is to be burned. Neuertheless deare frendes we truste to be better of you, and thynges whych accompanye saluacion, though we thus speake. For God is not vngratefull: that he shulde forget power woiche and labour that we adde of loue, which loue ye shewe in hym name, whych haue manifested vnto the sayntes and yet many more. Yet, and we beseeche: that euery one of you shewe the same byrgence, to the full stabyltyng of hope, euen vnto the end that ye saynt not: but be followers of them, whych thow we saye & patient receaue the inheritaunce of the promise.

For when God made promyse to Abraham because he had no greater to sweare by: he sweare by hym selfe, sayinge: Surely I wyll bless the and multiplye the in dede. And so after that he had sayed patiently, he enioyed the promise. For men verely sweare by hym that is greater then them selues, and an oth to confirme the thyng, is to them an end of all stryfe. For God wyllinge very abundantly to shewe vnto the depers of promise, the stableness of hym counsel added an oth that by two immutable thynges, in whych it was impossible that God shulde lye, we myghte haue a stronge consolacion: whych he therto haue sed: for to hold fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we hold as an ancre of the soule both sure and steadfast, whych hope also entereth in, into those thynges whych are within the vayne, where the supermyer is for vs entered, euen Iesus, that is made an hye preast for euer after the order of Melchisedec.

The .vii. Chapter.

C The comynge of the promyse of Christ vnto us myghte: whych: but as he haue more excellent.

Christ

his Melchisedech kynge of * Sall whiche beinge pfect of the moost hpe God met Abraham as he retur ned agayne fro the slaughter of the kynge, and blessed hym (to whom also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges) fyt is called by interpretation, kynge of ryghte out nesse: after that kynge of Salem (that is to saye: kynge of peace) without father, without mother without kynne, and hath never begynnyng of dayes nor yet ende of lyfe: but is likened vnto the sonne of God and continueth a pfect for euer Consyder what a man this was, vnto whome also the Patriarche Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. And verely those chylidren of Leui, whiche receyue the offyce of the pfectes, haue a commandement to take (accorpyng to the lawe) tythes of the people, that is to say, of their brethren: yea though they sponge out of the loy nes of Abraham. But he whole kyned is not counted amonge them, receyued tythes of Abza ham, & blessed him that had the promysse. And noman denyeth, but that he which is lesse, recey ueth blessing of him which is greater. And here men that oye receyue tythes. But there be recep ueth tythes, of whom it is wytnessed that he ly ueth. And to saye the trueth, Leui hym self also which useth to receyue tythes, payed tythes to Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of hys father, when Melchisedech met Abraham.

* Nowe therfore perfection came by the weakthode of the Leuytes (for vnder that pfect hobe the people receyued the lawe) what nedeth it to: therfore, that an other pfect shulde cpe to be called after the ordye of Melchisedech, and not after the ordye of Aaron: For yf the pfect hobe be translated, then of necessitye muste the lawe be translated also.

C For he of whom these thynges are spoken per tyneth vnto an other tribe, of whos neuer man serued at the aultare. For it is euident that ouer Loide sponge * of the trybe of Iuda, of whiche trybe spake Moses nothyng concerning pfect hobe. And it is yet a moze euident thyng, yf af ter the similitude of Melchisedech, there arys another pfect, which is not made after the lawe of the carnal commandement, but after the po wer of the endlesse lyfe. (For after this maner doth he testifie: thou art a pfect for euer, after the ordye of Melchisedech) Then the commaun dement that went afoze is disanulled bycause of weaknesse & vnprofytablenesse. For the lawe broughte nothyng to perfection: but was an in troduction to a better hope, by the whiche we draue nye vnto God: And therfore is it a better hope, bycause the thyng was not done without an oth. For those pfectes were made withoute an oth, but this pfect with an oth, by hym that sayde vnto hym. * The Loide swaue, and wyll not repent: Thou arte a pfect for euer after the ordye of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Jesus a stablysher of a better testament.

And amonge them manye were made pfect es, bycause they were not lustred to endure by the reason of death. But this ma (bycause he en dueth euer) hath an everlastyng pfecthobe.

Wherfore, he is habile also euer to saue them to p vntermost, that come vnto God by hym: seinge he euer lyueth: & to make intercession for vs.

For such an hpe pfect it became vs to haue whiche is holpe, harmeles, vnderfild, separated fro synners, made hpe then heauen. Whiche ne deth not daryp (as pender hpe pfectes) * to offe up sacrificy, fyt for his owne synnes, and then for peoples synnes. For that tyd he once wh he offered up hym selfe. * For yf lawe maketh m pfectes: whiche haue infymie: but the woide of the oth that came syns the lawe, maketh the sonne a pfect, which is perfect for euer moze.

The viii. Chapter:

The offyce of Chyfe is more worth than the pfect of the olde lawe: which was imperfect, and ther fore obsolet.

If the thynges which we haue spoke this is the pfect: that * we haue such an hpe pfect as pterth on the right hande of the seate of his maiestye in heauen, and is a minister of holy thi nges, & of the true tabernacle, whiche God pygde and not man: For euery hpe pfect is ordyned to offe gyftes and sacrificyes: wherfore it is of necessite, that this man haue somewhat also to offe. For he were not a pfect, yf he were on the earth where are pfectes, that accorpyng to the lawe offe gyftes which serue vnto the example, and * shadowe of heauenly thynges: euen as the answer of God was gyuen vnto Moses, when he was about to synke the tabernacle. * Take hebe (sayde he) that thou make all thynges ac corpyng to the patron whiche is shewed to the in the mount.

But nowe hath he obtayned a pfecthobe so moche the moze excellent, as he is the media toure of a better Testament, whiche was con firmed in better promysse. For if the fyt test met had ben such, yf no fault could haue ben found in it, then shuld no place haue ben sought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them, he sayeth vnto the: * Beholde the dayes come: sayth the Loide and I wyll synnise vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda, a newe testament, not lyke the testament that I made with they fathers in that daye, when I toke them by the handes, to leade them out of the lande of Egypt For they continued not in my testament, and I regarded them not, sayth the Loide.

For this is the testament that I wyll make with the house of Israel: After those dayes (say eth the Loide) I wyll put my lawes in their min des and in theyr hertes I wyll wyte them and I wyll be theyr God, and they shalbe my people And they shal not teache euery man his neygh bour, and euery man his brother, sayng: know the Loide: for they shal knowe me, from y least vnto the moost of them: For I wyll be merciful ouer theyr vnrighteousnesse and theyr synnes & theyr iniquities wyll I synnise vpon nomoze.
In that he sayeth a newe Testament, he hathe woyne out the olde. For that whiche is woyn out and wexed olde, is readye to vanishe awaye.

The Epistle

The ix. Chapter.

The ix. chapter and the ix. chapter of the new testament and the ix. chapter of the new testament.

In the old testament then had verely ordynances, & scrupings of God and woody holynes. For there was of old tabernacle made, where in was the lyght, and the table, & the shewbread, which is called holy. But with in a second worle was there a tabernacle which is called holier of al, which had the golden censer and the Arke of the Testamente overlaid rounde aboute with golde, wherein was the golden pot with Manna, and Arons rod, that spronge, and the tables of the Testamente. Over the Arke were the Cherubyns of glozy shadowinge the seate of grace. Of which thynges we cannot now speake pertycularly.

When these thynges were thus ordeined, the priestes wente alwayes into the sayde tabernacle, whiche executed the scrupce of the holy thynges. But into the seconde wente the hye prieste alone once every yere: not wythoute bloude, which he offered for hym selfe, and for the ignoraunces of the people. Altherwise the holy gost this signified, & the way of holie thynges was not yet opened, whyle as yet the fyrst tabernacle was standing, which was a similitude for a tyme then presente, in which were offered giftes and sacrifices, that coude not make the mynyer perfecte as partaynyng to the conscyence, wyth onely meates and drynches, and byuers washynges and iustifynges of the flesch, which were ordeined untill the tyme of refozmacion. But Christ being an hye priest of good thynges to come: came by a greater & moze perfecte tabernacle, not made wyth handes, that is to saye, not of thynges buydyng, neyther by the bloud of goates, and calves, but by hym owne bloud he entred in once into the holy place, and founde eternall redempcyon.

For yf the bloude of Oxen and of Goates & the ashes of a ponge cowe: when it was spynned, purifyeth the unclene, as touchyng the purifyinge of the fleshe, howe much moze shal the bloude of Christ wyche thowowe the eternall spete offered hym selfe wythoute spot to God poure your conscyence from dead wycketnes, for to serve the lyvinge God.

And for this cause is he the medyatour of the newe Testamente, that thowow death which chaunced, for the redempcyon of those transgressours that were under the fyrst Testamēt they whych are called, myght receave the promise of eternall inherytaunce. For where as is a Testamēt, there must also of necessity be the death of hym that maketh the Testamēt. For the Testamēt taketh auctorite wth men are dead, for it is yet of no value, as long as he that maketh the Testamēt is a lyue, for which cause also neyther the first Testamēt was ordeined without bloud. For when Moses had declared al the commaundment to al the people accordyng to the lawe he toke the bloud of calves & of goates: wth water and purple wool, and yfawe, and spynned both the booke and all the people, saying: This is the bloude of the Testamēt which God hath appointed unto you: Wherfore, he sprinkled the tabernacle with bloude also, and all the mynystrynge vessels. And almost all thynges are by the lawe purged with bloude, and withoute the drynge of bloude is no remission.

It is orde then that the similitude of heavenly thynges be purged with suche thynges, but that the heavenly thynges them selves be purged with better sacrifices then are these.

For Christ is not entred into the holy places, are made with handes, (whiche are similitudes of true thynges) but is entred into very heaven for to appeare now in the lyght of God for us not to offer hym selfe often: as the hye priest entred into a holy place, every yere with strange bloude, for then must he have often suffered synne the woide beganne. But now in the ende of the woide hath he appeared once, to putte synne to flyght by the offryng of hym selfe.

And as it is appointed unto all men, that they shal once dye, and then cometh the iudgement: even so was Christ ones offered, to take awaye the synnes of many, and unto them that loke for hym, shall he appeare agayne without synne unto saluacyon.

The x. Chapter.

The x. chapter and the x. chapter of the new testament and the x. chapter of the new testament.

In the lawe haung the shadow of good thynges to come, and not the verie saluacion of the thynges them selves, can neuer with those sacrifices which they offre, yere by yere continually make the commers thereunto perfecte. For wolde not then those sacrifices haue ceased to haue bene offered, bycause that the offerers once purged shoulde haue had nomoze conscience of synnes. Wherefore, in those sacrifices, is there mencyon made of synnes every yere: & for the bloude of oxen and of goates can not take awaye synnes.

Wherfore, when he cometh into the woide he sayeth: Sacrifice and offryng thou woldest not haue: but a body hast thou ordeined me. Burnt offrynges also for synne hast thou not allowed. Then sayd I: lo, I am here. In the beginning of the booke it is writt of me that I shoulde do thy wyll, O God. About, when he sayeth: sacrifice and offryng, & burnt sacrifices and synne offrynges thou woldest not haue, neyther hast thou allowed them (whiche yet are offered by the law,) then sayd he: lo, I am here to do thy wyll, O God: he taketh awaye the fyrste to stablish the latter, by the which wyll we are made holie, even by the offryng of the body of Iesu Christ once for all.

And every yere is redy dayly mynistringe and offryng often tymes one manner of oblation, whiche can neuer take awaye synnes. But this man after he hath offered one sacrifice for synnes, is set downe for ever upon the ryght hand of God, and from hence forth he sayeth wth hym selfe fores be made by a fote fole. For with one offering hath he made perfect for ever, the that are sanctified. The holy Ghost him selfe also beareth us recorde, even wher he tolde before. This is the testament that I will make vnto them: after those dayes (saith the Lord) I will put my lawes in theyr hertes, and in theyr myndes will I wryte them, and theyr synnes and iniquities will I remember nomore. And where remission of these thynges is, ther is nomore offering for synne. Weyng therfore brethren, that by the meane of the bloude of Iesu we haue lyberty to enter into a holy place, by the newe & lyving way whiche he hath prepared for vs, through the vayle (that is to saye by his fleshe) And letinge also that we haue an hye priest which is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs draw nye with a true hert in sure sayth, spynched in our hertes and the euil conscience put away and washed in oure bodys with pure water, let vs kepe the profession of our hope, withoute waueing (for he is saythfull that promysed) and let vs consider one another, to the intente that we maye prouoke vnto loue, and to good woiches not forsakyng the felowshyppe that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhort one another, so muche the more because ye se that the daye draweth nye.

* For if we synne wilfully after we haue receaued the knowledge of truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearful looking for Judgement, and violent fyre, which shall deuoure the aduersaries. He that despyseth Moses law, dyeth without mercy: vnder two of these wytnesses, how much soer (suppose ye) shall he be punished whych treadeth vnder foote the sonne of God: and countereth the bloude of the Testament, where with he was sanctified, as an unholye thyng, and doth by honoure to the sperte of grace. For we knowe him & hath sayd

* It belongeth vnto me to take vengeance: I will recompence saith the Lord: And agayne, the Lord that Judge his people. It is a fearful thyng to fall into the handes of the liuyng God

Call to remembrance the dayes that are passed, in the which after ye had receaued lyght ye endured a greates sygh of aduersities, partly whyle alme wondred and gased at you for the shame and tribulacion that was done vnto you partly, whyle ye became companions of them which so passed their time. For ye became partakers also of the afflictions which happened thowte my bondes, & toke in word the spoyle of your goodes, and that with gladnes, knowinge in your selues, howe that ye haue in heauyl a better and an enduringe substance. Can not awaye therfore your confidence, whych hath the a greates recompence of rewarde. For ye haue made of patience: that after ye haue done & will of God, ye myght receaue the promys. For yet a verpe lytell whyle, and be that shall come will come and will not tary. But the iust shall lyue by sayth. And yf he wythdrawe hym selfe, my soule shall haue no pleasure in him. It is not we & wythdrawe our selues vnto danacion, but we partayne vnto sayth, to the winning of the soule.

The xi. Chapter.

What sayth is, and a commendation of the same. The Hebr. hath writt of the faith in other tymes.

For is a sure confidence of thynges which are hoped for, and a certayn type of thynges whych are not sene. For by it & elders obtained a good reporte. Thowte sayth we vnderstande, & the world was ordeined by the word of God, and that thynges whych are sene, were made of thynges whych were not sene. By sayth Abel offered vnto God a more plentiful sacrifice then Cayn: by whych he outpined wytnes that he was ryghteous, God testifyinge of his gyftes: by whych also he beyng deade, yet speaketh.

By sayth was Enoch translated, that he shulde not se death: neyther was he founde, for god hadde taken him awaye. For afoze he was take away, he obtained a good reporte, that he pleased God: but without sayth it can not be anye man shulde please hym. For he that cometh to God, muste belue that God is, & that he is a rewarde of them that seke hym.

By sayth: For beyng warned of God, eschued the thynges whych were as yet not sene, & prepared the Arke to the sauyng of his household thowte the whych Arke, he condemned the world, and became heire of the ryghteousnes whych is accordyng to sayth.

By sayth: Abraham, when he was called, obeyed, to go out into a place, whych he shulde afterwarde receaue to inheritaunce: & he wente out, not knowyng whether he shulde go.

By sayth he remoued into the laude of promes, as into a straunge countr, when he hadde dwelt in tabernacles: and so byd Isaac and Jacob heires with hym of the same promes. For he looked for a certy sauyng a foundacye, whose builder and maker is God.

Thowte sayth Sara also receaued strengthe to conceaue and be wyth childe, and was deliuered of a childe when she was paste age, because she iudged hym saythfull whych he had promysed.

And therfore spange therof one (euen of one which was as good as dead) so many in multitude as are the starrs in the skye, as & sand the whiche is by the see thowte innumerable. These all dyed accordyng to sayth, when they had not receaued the promyses: but saw them afarre of, and beleued them: and saluted them, & confessed, that they were straungers and pilgrims on earth. For they & sape such thynges declare, that they seke a countr. Also yf they had ben myndful of the countr, fro whence they came oute, they had leasure to haue returned agayne: but now they desyre a better (that is to saye) a heauenlye. Wherfore God hym selfe is not ashamed to be called theyr god: for he hath prepared for them a certye.

By sayth Abraham offered by Isaac, when he was proued, & he offered him beyng his only begotte sonne, in who he had receaued & promys

* By sayth Jacob when he was a byrge, blesse both the sonnes of Joseph, & bowed him selfe towards the toppe of hys scepter.

* By sayth Joseph when he dyed, rememberd the departyng of the chyliden of Israel, & gave commaundement of hys bones. * By sayth Moses when he was boine was byd the more thes of his father and mother because they saw that he was a proper childe: neyther feared they the hynges commaundemente.

* By sayth Moses when he was greute, refused to be called sonne of Pharaos daughter & chose rather to suffer aduersyte with the people of God, then to enioye pleasures of synne for a season, and esteemed the rebuke of Christe greater synne then treasures of Egypt. For he had respect vnto the rewarde.

The xli. Chapter.

¶ Anarhystoren to be parents and friends in trouble and aduersite: upon hope of euerydaye rewarde: & comment a syon of the new testament about the othe.

¶ Therefore, let vs also syng that we are compassed wth so great a multitude of wyntelles: & laye awaye all that pisseth downe, & the synne that hangereth so fast on, let vs runne with patience vnto the battel that is set before vs, lohyng vnto Iesus the capytayne, and synther of al our faith, which for the lope was set before hym aboue the Crosse: and dyspylled the shame, and in set downe: on the righte hande of the thron of God. Consider therefore, how that he endured such speaking agaynst him of synners lest ye shulde be weyered and saynte in your mides. For ye haue not yet resistid vnto blood stryuing agaynst synne. And haue forgottē exhortacio, which spekerh vnto you as vnto children: my sonne dyspyl not the chastenyng of the Lozde, neyther saynte when thou arte rebuked of him: for whom the Lozde loueth hym he chastneth: pce, he scourgeth euery sonne & he receaneth. If ye endure chastenyng, God offrech him selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sone is he whō the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccion (whereof all are partakers) then are ye bastardes, & not sones. Therefore syng we haue had fathers of our flesh which corrected vs & we gaue the reuerence: shal we not much rather be in subieccion vnto the father of syntes and lyfe? And they verely for a few dayes, nurtered vs after theyr owne pleasure: but he nurte-reth vs for our profyte, to intent that he may mynyster of hys holynes vnto vs. No maner chastelynge for the present tyme seemeth to be ioyous, but greuous: neuertheles afterward, it byngeth the quyet frute of ryghteousnes vnto them whych are exercepled therein.

* Stretch forth therefore the handes whych were let downe, and the weakē knees: and se y ye haue straght stepes vnto poure fete, lest any daltynng turne you out of the wape: ye lette it rather be dealed. Followe peace wth all men and holynes: wythoute the which no man shall se the Lozde. And loke that no mā be destitute of the grace of God: lest any roote of byeternes sprynge vp and trouble, and thereby many be defild: that ther be no fornicatoz, or vnclane persone, as Esau: whych for one meale of meate solde his bythryght. For ye knowe howe that afterward when he wolde by enheritance haue obtainned blesyng, he was put by. For he soude no place of repentance, though he soughte it wyth teares.

For ye are not come vnto the mount that is touched, and vnto burnyng fyre, nor vnto fzome, and darknes, and tempestes of wether, and sounde of a trompe, and the voyce of woides: which voyce, they (that heard it) wyshed awaye, that the communicacyon shulde not be spoken to them. For they could not abyde that whych was commaunded.

* If a beast touche the mountayne, it shall be stoned, or thrust thow we with a dart: so terrible was the fyght whych appeared. Moses sayde

sayde I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Sion, and to the ctyte of the lyving God, the celestial Ierusalem: and to an innumerable sight of aungels, and vnto the congregacion of the synners bothe sonnes, which are written in heauen, and to god the iudge of all, and to the spjtes of iust and perfect men, and to Iesus the mediator of the newe testament, and to the * spynnyng of bloud that speaketh better then the bloude of Abel.

Ene that ye despyse not hym, that speaketh. For if they escaped not, which refused him that spake on earth: muche more shall we not escape, yf we turne awaye from hym that speaketh from heauen: whose voyce then shoke the earth, and nowe hath declared sayeng: yet once more wyll I shake, not the earth onely, but also heauen.

Wher as he sayeth yet once more, it signyfeth the remanynge awaye of those thynges which are shaken as of thynges which haue ended their course: that the thynges whiche are not shaken, may remayne. Wherfoze yf we receaue þing dome whiche can not be moued, we haue grace wherby we may so serue god, and that we may please hym wth reuerence and godlye feare. For oure god is a consuming fyre.

The exhorteth be vnto loue, to holpfullnes, to thynke by þon suche as be in aduersyte: to magnifye the col: he is a: wyse countour: to make muche of them that pteache Gods worde, to be wote of thynge leaueynge, to be com: come to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God and obediēt vnto suche as be in auctorite.

Et brotherlye loue contynue. * Be not forgetfull to lodge strangers. For theyr haue byures me lodged Iungels vnto water. Remember the that are in bondes, euen as though ye were bound wth þon selues: Be myndful of them which are in aduersyte, as ye which are yet in the body. Wedlocke is to be had i honour amonge all men, and the bed vndesyle. As for whoze keepers and aduoucers God shal iudge them. Let youre conuersacion be wthout come tounes and becontente wth suche thynges as ye haue all ready: For he hath sayd: I wyl not sayle the, nether forsake the, so þe we may boldly say: the Lord is my helper: and I wyl not feare what mī may do vnto me. Remēbre the which haue the ouer syghde of you, which haue spoken vnto you þ word of god. Whole sayth se þe so low and consider the ende of theyr conuersaciō.

Iesus Christ yesterday and to daye, and the same continueth for ever. * Be not carryed aboute wth byuers and straunge lernynge. For it is a good thing that the heret be stabylised wth grace, and not wth meates: whiche haue not profyted them that haue had theyr pāsyne in them. We haue an aluter, wherof they maye not eate, whiche serue in the tabernacle. * For the bodys of those brastres whose bloude is brought into the holy place by the hpe pteaste to poure synne, are burnt withoute the tentes. Therfoze Iesus also to sanctifye þ people wth hys owne bloude, suffred wthoute the gate. Let vs go for the therfoze vnto hym: oute of the tentes, and suffre rebuke wth hym. For heare haue we no contynuyng ctyte: but we seke one to come. By hym therfoze do we offer sacryfice of laude alwayes to God: that is to say the frute of those lypes which confesse his name. To do good & to bystrybute, forget not, for * with such sacryfices God is pleased. * Obepe them þ haue ouersyght of you, and submyt your selues vnto them, for they watche for your soules, euen as they that must geue accēptes: that they may do it wth Ioye, and not wth greife. For that is an vnprofytable thyng for you. Praye for vs for we trust we haue a good conscience among all men: and desyre to lyue honestly. But I desyre you the moare, that ye so do, that I may be restoyed to you the soner.

The God of peace that brought agayne from death oure Lord Iesus * the great shepherde of the shepe, thozow þ bloude of þ enerlastyng Cēlamēt, make you perfecte in all good woiches to do hys wyl, a byynge to passe that the thyng whiche ye do, maye be pleasaunte in hys syghde thozowe Iesus Christ, To whome be prayse for ever whyle the worlde endureth. Amen.

I beseech you bethen, suffre the worde of exhortaciō, for we haue wrytten vnto you in few wordes. Ye knowe our brother Tymothee, that he is at libertie: with whom (yf he come thozowly) I wil se you. Salute the that haue the ouer syghde of you, and al the sayntes. They of Italy salute you. & race be wth all Amen.

Cente from Italy by Tymotheus.

The fyrst Chapter.

The exhorteth to reioyce in troubles and thankfully to receaue the worde of god, true reioyce of deuotiō what it is.

Ames the seruānt of God & I of the Lord Iesus Christ senbeth greatyng to the twelue trybes whiche are scattered abroad. * Wy bethen, count it for an exceddyng ioye whē ye fall into byuers temptacyōs: knowynge thys, þ * the tryngyng of youre fayth, gendreth pacyence: and let pacyence haue her perfecte worche, that ye may be perfecte and sound, lackynge nothyng.

Plany of you lacke wysedome, * let hym as he of hym that geneth it euen God, whiche geneth to all men indifferently, & casteth no man in the erth, and it shal be geuen hym, But let him as he in sayth, and wauer not. For he that doubteeth, is lyke a waue of the see, whiche is tost of the wyndes, and carryed wth byolence. Rather let that man thynke, that he shal receaue any thyng of the Lord.

A waueryng mynded man, is vnstable in all his wayes. Let the brother which is of lowe degre reioyce whē he is exalted agayne, let him that is rich, reioyce whē he is made lowe. * For eue as the flour of the grasse, shal he passe away: For as the sunne ryseth wth heate, & the grasse wydereth haue iudged after euell thoughtes?

Wherhen my deare beloued bryther, hath not God chosen the pooze of this worlde, such as are ryche in fayth, and heyr of the kyngdome, which he promysed to them that loue him But ye haue byspysed the pooze. Do not ryche men execute tyranie vpon you, & drawe you be-foze iudgement seates: Do not they speake euil of a good name whych is called vpon ouer you.

If ye fulfyll the royall lawe, accordyng to the scripture. ¶ Thou shalt loue thyne neygh-boure as thy selfe: ye do wel. But yf ye regarde one person more then another, ye commyt synne and are rebuked of the lawe, as transgressours.

Whosoever shal kepe the whole lawe, and yet fayle in one poynte, he is gyltye of all.

For he that sayde: Thou shalt not commyt ad-uortyse: sayde also: thou shalt not kyll. ¶ Though thou do none aduortyse, yet yf thou kyll, thou art become a transgressor of the lawe.

So speake ye, and so do, as they that shalbe subged by the lawe of lybertye. For he shal haue subgement without mercede: & at the laste no mercy, and mercede reioysseth agaynst iudgement.

What auayleth it my bryther, though a man saye he hath the fayth, yf he haue no dedes?
Can sayth saue him? ¶ If a brother or a syster be naked and destitute of dayly fode, & one of you saye vnto them depart in peace, God sende you warmes and fode, nor wythstandyng ye geue them not thos: thynges whych are needfull to y booye, what shall it helpe? Euen so sayth, yf it haue no dedes: is deade in it selfe.

But some man wyll saye: thou hast a fayth, and I haue dedes: shewe me thy fayth by thy de-des: and I wyll shewe the my fayth by my dea-des. ¶ Belengeth thou y there is one God? ¶ Thou doest well. The deu is also belene and tremble.

But wyte thou vnderstande, ¶ O thou vayne man! that sayth withoute dedes is deade!
Was not Abraham oure father iustifiede tho-rowe woordes, when he had offered Isahac his sonne vpon the auter?

¶ Thou seest, howe that sayth wroughte wyth hys dedes, and through the dedes was the fayth made perfecte: and the scripture was ful-fylled, which sayeth: ¶ Abraham beleued God, and it was repared vnto him for righte oulines, and he was called the frend of God. ¶ ¶ Pe se the howe that of dedes a man is iustified, and not of sayth onely.

the same is a perfect man, and able also to tame all the body. Beholde, we put bytters into fozes mouths, that they maye obeye vs, and we turne aboute all the bodye of them. Behold also the wyppes, whiche thoughe they be so greate, and are hyuen of fearle wyndes, yet are they turned about wth a very smal helme whiche soeuer the violence of the gouerner wyll. Euen so the tongue is a lytle mebre also, and boastyth great thynges.

B Beholde, howe greate a thyng a lytle fyre hyndleth, and the tongue is fyre, euen a world of wychednes. So is the tongue sette among oure membris, that it defyleth the whole bodye, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set a fyre euen of hell.

All the natures of beastes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, and thynges of the see are meked and tamed of the nature of ma. But the tongue can noman tame. It is an vniuerselle euill, full of

C deadly poyson. Therewith blysseth we God the father, and therewith curse we men, whiche are made after the image and symplectude of God. Out of one mouth proceedeth blessing and cursyng. Wy brythren, these thynges oughte not so to be. Doth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water and bytter also? Can the fygge tree (my brythren) beare olyue berres: ether a vyne beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salte water and frethe also. If any man be wyle and endued with knowlage among you, let hym shewe his workes out of good conuersacion with mekenes of wysedome.

D But if ye haue bytter enuyng and stryfe in your harte, reioyce not: nether be ye agaynst the truthe: For suche wysedome descendeth not from aboue: but is earthy, naturall, and deuelyche. For where enuyng and stryfe is, there is vnstableness, and al maner of cruel workes. But the wysedome that is from aboue, is fyfte pure, then peasable, gentle, and easye to be entreated, full of merce and good frutes, wythoute iudgyng, wythout spmulation: yet, and the frute of ryghteousnesse is sowen in peace, of them that mayntayne peace.

C The. iiii. Chapter.

Warres and fyghtyng cometh of holuptuousnes. The frendshipp of the world is enemye before God. An exhortacion to fyfe slaunders and the vanyte of this lyfe.

From whence cometh warre, and fyghtyng among you? come they not here hence? eue of your lustes, that fyght in your members: Ye lust, & haue not. Ye enuy and haue indignacyon, & can not obayne. Ye fyght & warre, and can not obayne. Ye lust & can not receaue not, because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not, because ye aske amysse: eue to consume it vpon your lustes. Ye aduoucers, and women that breake matrimony: know ye not how that the frendshipp of the world, is enemye with God? whosoever therfore wyld be a frende of the world, is made the enemye of God. Etyher do ye thynke that the scripture sayeth thus vayne. The spyte that dwelleth in vs, lusteth euen contrary to enuye: but geueth moze grace, (where as love be sayeth, God resisteth the proude, but geueth grace vnto the lowly.)

Submytte youre selues therfore to God: B but resist the deuell, and he wyll flye from you. Drawe nye to God, and he wyll drawe nye to you. Cleme your handes ye synners, and poure youre hertes ye waneryng mynded. Suffer afflictions: and mourne, & wepe. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your ioye to beupnes. Humble youre selues in the syght of the Lord, and he shall lyfte you vp. Backbyster not one another, brythren. He that backbysterh bys bryther, and he that iudgeth bys bryther, backbysterh the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But and if thou iudge the lawe, thou arte not an obseruer of the lawe: but a iudge. There is one lawe geuer: (and iudge) whiche is able to saue and to destroye. What arte thou that iudgeth another? Go to nowe ye that say: to day and to morowe let vs go into suche a cytye and contynue there a yere, and buye and sell, and wyne: and yet can not ye tell, what shall happen on the morowe. For what thyng is youre lyfe? It is euen a vapoure, that appeareth for a lytle tyme: and then he vanysheth a waye. For that ye ought to saye: If the Lord wyll, and if we lyue, let vs do this or that. But nowe ye reioyse in youre boastinges. All suche reioysyng is euill. Therfore to hym that knoweth howe to do good, & doth it not, to hym it is synne.

C The. v. Chapter.

He threateneth the wicked wyche men, exhorteth vnto patience: to beware of swearing. One to knowlage his fauour to another, one to praye for another, and one to labour to byng another to the truthe.

Go to nowe ye ryche men, wepe and howle on youre wretchednes that shall come vpon you. Your ryches are corrupte, your garmentes are motheate. Your gold and syluer is cankered, and the ruste of them walke a wytenesse vnto you, and shall eate youre fleische as it were fyre.

Ye haue heaped treasure together: (euen in warre to youre selues) in youre laste dayes. Beholde, the byze of labourers whiche haue reaped downe your felde (whych byze is of you kept backe by fraude) cryeth, and the cryes of them whych haue reaped, are entred into the eares of the Lord & a noyth. Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the earth, and bene wanton. Ye haue noyshed youre hertes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and kylled the iuste: and he hath not resisted you. Be patient therfore brythren vnto the commyng of the Lord. Beholde, the husbande man waiteth for the petyous frute of the earth and hathe longe patience thereupon, vntyll he receaue the earlye and the later rayne. Be ye also

of Saynt Peter the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

The which sheweth that throughe the abundant mercy of God we are begotten againe in a lively hope: and howe sayth must be rejoyced, howe the saluacion in Christe is no newe, but a thinge prophesied of olde, he exhorteth them to a godly conuersation, for so muche as they are nowe borne a newe by the worde of God.

PETER an Apostle of Iesu Christe to them that dwell here and there as strangers thowendocia, Asia, and Bithynia, eof Iesus Christ.

Grace be with you and peace be multiplied Blessed be God the father of oure Lord Iesus Christe, whiche accordyng to his aboundante mercy begat vs agayne unto a lively hope (by that, that Iesus Christe rose agayne from death) to an enderpyaunce immortall and undefyled, and that very welth not, reserved in heauen for you, whiche are kepte by the power of God thowen sayth unto saluacion, whiche is prepared already to be shewed in the laste tyme in the whiche ye reioyse, though nowe for a season (ye folde temptacions, & the tynall of your sayth be-pyng muche moze pycous then golde that per-though ye se hym not, yet do you beleue, and re-ioyse wryth soye vnspeakable and glorpyous, re-ceayping the ende of your sayth, euen the salua-cion of your soules.

Of which saluacion haue the prophetes enquyred and searched, whiche prophesied of the grace that shuld come unto you, searchyng wry-or at what tyme the spirit of Christ (which was in them) shuld signifye, whiche spirit testifed before, the passyons that shoulde happen unto Christe, and the glorie that shoulde foloe after, unto which prophetes it was also declared, & not unto them selues, but unto vs: they shoulde mynstee the thynges whiche are nowe shewed unto you of them, whiche (by the holye gooste & sente downe from heauen) haue in the Gospell preached unto you the thynges, whiche the anngels desyre to beholde.

Wherfore gyde by floyres of your mynd, be sober, and truste perfectlye on the grace that is broughte unto you (by the declaryng of Jesus Christ) as obedient chyliden, that ye geue not your selues ouer unto your olde lustes by which ye wer led, when as yet ye wer ignorant also payent therfore, and sette your bettes, for the comyng of the Lord & draweth nre.

Grudge not one agaynst another brethren, least ye bee damned. Beholde, the iudge standeth be-foze the doore. Take (my brethren) the prophete for an ensample of sufferyng aduersyte, and of pacyence, whiche spake in the name of the Lord. Beholde, & we counte them happye whiche endure. Ye haue hearde of the pacyence of Job, and haue knowen what ende the Lord made. For the Lord is very pytyfull and mercyfull.

But about all thynges my brethren & I shewe not, neyther by heauen, neyther by earth, neyther any other of the. Let your yee, hear yee, and your eare: least ye fall into pycous. If any of you be vexed, let hym praye, & if any of you be merse, let hym synge psalmes. If any be dyscaised among you, let hym call for the elders of the congregacion, and let them praye ouer hym, & anoynte hym wryth oyle in the name of the Lord, and the prayer of sayth shal save the sycke, and the Lord shal raise hym vp: and if ye haue comyted synnes they shal be forgo-uen hym.

Knowlage your sautes one to another and praye one for another, that ye maye be healed. For the feruent prayer of a ryghteous man auayleth muche. Ilyas was a man vnder in-sympties euen as we are, and he prayed in his prayer that it myghte not rayne: & it ray-ned not on the earth by the space of the yeres and fyre monethes. And he prayed agayne, and the heauen gaue rayne, and the earth brought forth her frute. Brethren if any of you do erre from the truthe, and another conuerte hym, let the same knowe that he whiche conuerteth the synner from goyng astraye out of his waye, shal saue a soule fro death and shal haye the myltitude of his synnes.

of S. James.

of Christ: but as he whiche called you his holpe, euen so be ye holy also in all maner of conuersation, because it is wyrtten: * Be ye holpe, for I am holpe.

And pso be that ye call on the father, whych without respect of person iudgeth * accorpyng to euerie mans worke, se that ye passe the tyme of your pylgrymage in feare. * For as much as ye knowe, howe that ye wer not redeemed with corruptible thynges (as syluer and gold) from your vayne conuersation, whyche ye receaved by the tradition of the fathers: but * with the pcepyous bloude of Christ, as of a lambe undespyed, and without spot whych was ordeyned before hand euen before the world was made: but was declared in the laste tymes * for your sakes, whych by his meanes do beleue on God, that rased hym vp from death, & glorified hym, that ye myght haue fayth and hope toward God, eue ye whiche haue purifyed your soules thow the spyte, in obeyng the truthe wth brotherly loue vnsapned, se that ye loue one another wth a pure hert feruently: for ye are bozne a newe, not of moztal seed, but of immoztal, by the word of God, whiche lyueth and lasteth for euer.

* For all thise is grasse, and all the gloze of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse wydeth, and the floure falleth away, but the word of the Lorde endureth euer. * And this is the worde whych by the Gospell was preached vnto you.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth men to laye asyde all vyce, to abstayne fro fleschly lustes, and obeye wisely rulers. Whiche seruantes should behaue them selues toward their masters. He exhorteth to suffer after the ensample of Christ.

Wherfore laye asyde all malpoulnes and all gyle, and fapnednesse, & enuy and all backbityng: * and as newe bozne babes, desyre ye that myche (not of the bodie but of the soule) whych is wythout dyscrete: that ye maye growe thereby, on (vnto saluacion) Pso bee that ye haue tasted, howe gracious the Lorde is, to whome ye come, as vnto a lyuyng stone, dyscalowed of men, but chosen of God and pcepyous: and ye as lyuyng stones are made a spirytual house & holy pfecthode for to offer vp spiritual sacryfices acceptable to God by Iesus Christ. Wherfore it is contayned also in the scripture: * beholde I put in wyd a stone to be layd in the chere corner, electe and pcepyous, and he that beleueth on him shal not be confounded. Vnto you therfore whiche beleue he is pcepyous: but vnto them whiche beleue not * the stone whych the buylders refused, the same is begon to be the heade of the corner, & a stone that men stromble at, and a rocke wherat they be offended whych stromble at the worde, & beleue not that wheron they wer set. But ye are a chosen generation, a royal pfecthode, * an holy nacyon, a people whiche are wonne: that ye should shewe the vertues of hym, that called you out of darknes into his maruelous light: whiche in tyme past wer not a people, but are nowe the people of God: whiche somtyme had not obtayned mercy, but now haue obtayned mercy. ¶

* Dearly beloued, I beseeche you as straungers and pylgryms, abstayne fro fleschly lustes which fyght against the soule, and se that ye haue honest conuersation among the Gentyles, that wher as they backbitye you as euill doers: they maye se youre good workes, and praise God in the daye of visytacion.

* Submitte your selues therfore vnto all maner ordeynance of ma, for the Lordes sake, wher it be vnto the kyng, as vnto the chere head: other vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sent of hym, for the punishment of euill doers, but for the laude of them that do well. For so is the wil of God, that with wel doyng ye maye stoppe the mouthes of folishe and ignozant men as fre, & not as hauyng the lybertie for a clocke of malpoulnes, but euen as the seruantes of God. * Honour all men: Lone brotherly selospype. Feare God, honour the kyng.

* Seruantes obey your masters wth feare not only for they be good and courteous: but also though they be froward. * For it is thanke worthe, for a man for conscience toward God endure grete, and suffer wronge undeserued. For what praise is it, if wher ye be buffeted for your fautes, ye take it pacyently? But yt when ye do well ye suffer wrong and take it pacyently, then is there thanke wth God.

For herunto verely wer ye called: for Christ also suffered for vs * leauyng vs an ensample for ye should folow his steppes, whych dyd no synne nether was there gyle found in hym: whiche when he was reupled, reupled not agayne: when he suffered, he threatened not, but committed the vengeance to hym that iudgeth righteously. * whiche hym owne selfe bare oure synnes in hym body on the tree, that we beyng deliuered from synne, shuld lyue vnto righteounes. By whose steppes ye were healed. For ye wer as shepe goyng astraye: but are nowe turned vnto the shepheard and byshop of your soules. ¶

The iii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth ought to orde the selues toward theyr husbundes and in their apparell. The desyre of me toward theyr husbundes. He exhorteth al men to write and loue and pacyently to suffer trouble. Of baptyne.

If ye wyse * ye wyse bee in subieccy. * on to your husbundes, that euen they whych obey not the worde, maye with out the worde be wonne, by the conuersacion of the wyse, whyle they beholde your chast conuersacion couplyd wth feare. Whose apparel shal not be outward with bypried heare, and hangyng on of golde ether in puttynge on of goygous apparell: but let the hyd manne whiche is in the hert be without all corruption, so that the spyte be at rest and quyte: whiche spyte is before God a thyng muche let by. For after this maner in the olde tyme dyd the holpe women, whiche trusted in God, eyer them selues, and were obedyent vnto theyr husbundes, euen as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called hym Lorde: whose daughterd petyfull, be courteous, & (miche) not envyng euell for euell, or rebuke for rebuke: but contrary wyse bleste: knowyng that ye are therunto called, euell that ye should be heyres of the blessing. For he that doth long after lpe, and loveth to see good dayes, let hym refrayne hys tongue from euell & whyche spyte he also went and preached vnto spytes that wer in pesson, whyche somtyme had bene dysobediente, when the longe sufferynge of God was once looked for in the dayes of Noe, whyle the arke was a prepayng: wherin few that is to saye, vili sonles, wer saued by the water, lyke as baptyme also nowe sauech vs, not the puttyng away of the fylthe of the fleshe, but in that a good conscience conienteth vs to God by the resurreccyn of Iesus Christ, whyche is on the ryght hand of God. & and is gone into heauen, & angels, powers and myghte subdued vnto hym.

The .xiiij. Chapter.

The exhorted men to cease from synne, and no man to suffre as an euell doer, but as Christen men.

A S much then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme ye your selues lyke wyse wyth flame mynde for he whyche suffreth in the fleshe, ceaseth from synne that he henceforward shuld liue (as much tyme as remaineth in the fleshe) not after the lustes of men, but after the wyl of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spent the tyme that is past of the life, after the wyl of the Gentylis, walkyng in wantonnes, lustes, in excelle of wyues, in excelle of eatyng, in excelle of drynkynge (in dishonour) and in so abhomynable ydolatre.

And it seemeth to them an inconuenient thyng that ye runne not also wyth them vnto the same excele of vyce. and therefore speake they euell of you, whyche shall geue accomptes to hym that is ready to iudge quych and dead. For vnto this purpose verely was the Gospell preached also vnto the dead, that they should be iudged like other men in the fleshe, but shuld lyue before God in the spyte. The ende of all thynges is at hand.

Be ye therefore sobre, & watch vnto a prayer But above all thynges haue feruent loue among your selues. For loue shall couer the mulprude of synnes. Be ye herberous one to another, without grudgyng. As euery ma hath recei-ued the grt, euell to mynister the same one to another, as good mynisters of manyfold grace of God. If any man speake, let him talke as if he were of God. If any ma mynister, let hym do it as if he were of the abylytie, which God mynistereth vnto to hym. That God in all thynges may be gloryfied thowhe Iesus Christ. For whiche be prayse and domynyon for euer and euer. Amen.

Dearelye beloved, maruaile not that ye are proued by fyre (whyche thyng is to trye you) as thoughe some straunge thyng happened vnto you: but reioyse, in as much as ye are partakers of Christes passyon: that when hys glorie ap-peareth, ye maye be merue and glad. If ye be rayled vpon for the name of Christ happy are ye: For the glorie and the spyte of God resteth vpon you. On thes parte he is euell spoken of, but on your parte he is glorified.

Be that none of you bee punished as a mur-derer, or as a thefe, or an euell doer, or as a bulybody in other mens matters. If any man suffre as a Christen man, let hym not be ashamed: but let hym glorify God on his behalfe. For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begynne at the house of God. If it fyrste begyn at vs, what shall the ende be of them whyche beleue not the Gospell of God? And if the ryghteous scarcely be saued: where shal the vngodly and the synner appeare? Wherefore, let them that are troubled accorpyng to the wyl of God commytte theys soules to hym wyth welldoyng, as vnto a fayth-full creatour.

The .v. Chapter.

A lpe all exhortacion for all byshoppes and presbyters, to exhorten younge persons to submyt them selues to the elders, and euery one to loue another.

T he elders whyche are among you, I ex-horte whyche am also an elder, and a wytnes of the afflictions of Christe and also a partaker of the glory that shal be opened. Rede ye Christes flocke, as much as lyeth in you, takyng the ouer-syght of them, not as compelled thereto, but wyllynge: (after a goodly wyse) not for the desyre of fleschly lurre: but of a good mynde, not as though ye were lordes ouer the parishes: but that ye be an ensample to the flocke (so that with good wyl) And when the chefe sheptherde shal appeare, ye shall receaue an incorruptible crowne of glory.
Lyke wyse ye yonger, submyt your selues vnto

the elders. Submit your selves every man, one to another: lnet your selves together in lowlyness of mynde. For God resisteth the proud, and greweth grace to the humble. Submit your selves therfore vnder the myghtie hand of God that he maye exalte you, when the tyme is come.
Cast all your care vpon hym: for he careth for you.

Be sober and watche, for your aduersary the denell as a rouryng Lyon* walketh aboute, seeking whome he maye deuoure: * whome resyste stedasse in the saythe, knowyng that the same affliccyons are appoynted vnto your brethren that are in the worlde. But the God of all grace whych hath called vs vnto his eternall glorie by Christ Iesus, shall his owne selfe (after that ye haue suffered a lytle affliction) make you perfect, settle, strenghten and stablysh you. To hym be glory and dominion for ever, and ever Amen.

By Spilianus a saythfull brother vnto you (as I suppose haue I writte briefly, exhortyng and testifyng, howe that this is the true grace of God, wherin ye stande. The congregacion of them whych at Babylon are companyons of your election, saluteth you, and so doeth Marcus my sonne.

* Grete ye one another with the kysse of loue. Peace be with you all, whych are in Christe Iesu.
Amen.

The second Epistle

of Saynt Peter the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

For as much as the power of God hath geuen vs all thyng as partakynge vnto life: be exhorteth vs to make our cal-lyng known by good workes and fruites of faith. He ma-keth mention of his owne deathe.

Simon Peter a seruante, and an Apostle of Iesus Christe, to them whych haue obtained the precious faith wth vs thowhe the ryghte conuincon of our God and saupoure Jesus Christ.

* Grace bee vnto you, and peace bee multiplied thowhe the knowlage of God and of Iesus our Lorde. Accordyng as his godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges pertayne vnto lyfe and godlynes, thowhe the knowlage of him that hath called vs by glory, & vertue, by the whych are geuen vnto vs excellent and moste great promyses, that by the mea-nes therof we myght be * partakers of the Godly nature, yf we lyfe the corrupcyon of worldlye luste.

And hereunto geue all diligence in your sayth minister vertue: in vertue knowlage: * in know-lage temperaunce: in temperaunce pacience: in pa-cience godlynes: in godlynes brotherly kindnes in brotherly kindnes loue. For yf these thynges be among you, and be plenteous, they wyl make you that ye neyther shalbe ydle nor vntrutefull in the knowlage of our Lord Iesus Christ. But be that lacketh these thynges, is blynd and gropeth for the waye wth his hand, & hath forgotten, that he was purged from his old synnes.

Wherfore brethren, geue the more diligence, for to make your callinge and electyon sure, (by good workes,) For yf ye do suche thynges, ye shal neuer fall. See, and by this meanes an enterpyng in shalbe mynistred vnto you a boundasle lye into the everlastyng kyngdom of our Lorde and saupoure Iesus Christ.

Wherfore, I wyl not be negligent to putte you alwayes in remembraunce of such thynges though ye knowe them your selves, and bee stablyshed in the present trueth. Notwithstanding I thynke it mete (as long as I am in * this tabernacle) to steepe you vp, by puttynge you in re-membraunce, for as much as I am sure, that shortly I must put of this my tabernacle, & euen as our Lord Iesus Christ shewed me. I wyl ener also geue my diligence, that ye maye haue wherwyt to steepe vnto the remembraunce of these thynges after my departyng.

* For we haue not folowed deceptfull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and commyng of our Lord Iesus Christ, but * wth our eyes we sawe his maiestie: euen then verily whē he receaued of God the father honour and glory and when there came such a voyce to hym from the excellent glory. * This is my dere beloued sonne, in whome I haue deelyte. This voyce we hearde come from heauen, when we were wth hym in the holy mount.

We haue also a ryght sure word of prophesy, wherunto ye take heede, as vnto a * lyght that shyneth in a darcke place, ye do well, vntill the daye dawne, and the daye starre arys in your bertes. * So that ye first knowe this: that no prophecie in the scripture hath any priuate interpretacyon. For the scripture came neuer by the wyll of man: but holy men of God spake, as they were moued by the holy goste.

The ii. Chapter.

The prophesy of false teachers and their punishment.

There were false Prophetes also amonge the people, euen as * there shal be false teachers amonge you: whych pryncipally shal byng in damnable sectes (euen denyng the Lord that hath bought them) and byng vpon them selues swyfte damnacion and many shal folow they: damnable wayes, by whome the waye of trueth shal be euil spoken of, and thowhe confousnes shal thei with fained wordes make ma-chauntyse of you, whose iudgement is nowe not farre of, and they: damnacion slepyth not.

For yf God spared not the angels that sinned Altho but

but cast them doune into hell, & deliuered them into chaynes of darkenes: (to see punishment) to be kept vnto iudgemente: neyther spared the olde woyle, but saured * For the eyght preacher of eyghte outnes, and brought in the floude vpon the woyle of the vngodly, and turned the cyties of Sodom and Gomoz into ashes: ouerthrew them, dampned them, and made on them an example vnto those that after shoulde lyue vngodly: And iuste * Lot vexed wyth the vnclely commurration of the wiche, deliuered he. For he beyng ryghteous, and dwelling amonge the inkyng and hearyng, vexed hys eyghteous soule from daye to daye wyth theyr vniuersall dedes. * The Lorde knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temptacions, and to reuerne the vniuste vnto the daye of iudgemente for to be punished: but cheselye them that walke after the fleshe in the lust of vncleynnes, and despyle authoritye. Presumptuous are they, and subbozne, whiche feare not to speake euil of them that excell in wordyng. When the angels whiche are greater bothe in power and myghte, receaue not of the Lorde sayyng iudgemente agaynst them selues. But these as brutebeastes, naturallye brought forth to be taken and destroyed, speake euil of the thynges that they vnderstande not, and shall perishe in theyr owne destruction, and receaue the rewarde of vnyghteousnes.

They counte it pleasure to lyue: deliue you lyue for a season. Apostes they are and spithyns: whiche lyue at pleasure in theyr owne delectable wayes, feastyng and scoyng you: hauyng theyr soules full of aduoutye, and that cannot cease fro synne: begylyng vniuersall soules. heares they haue receyved wyth robberye. They are cused chyliden whiche haue forsaken the ryght waye, and are gone astraye folowynge the waye of Balaam the sonne of Bolo: whiche loued the rewarde of vnyghteousnes: but was rebuked of hys iniquyte. The same and domine beast speaking wyth mannes voyce, forbad the madnes of the prophete.

These are welles wythoute water: cloudes that are carryed wyth a tempest, to whome the myst of darkenes is reserved for euer. For when they haue spoken the great swellynge wordes of vanities, they entyle theyr lustes in the voluptuousnes of the fleshe, them that were cleane escaped: eue the that nowe lyue in erreour: whyle they promys them lybertee, where as theyr selues are the bonde seruantes of corrupcion: * For of whom a man is overcome, vnto same he is brought in bondage. * For yf they (after they haue escaped from the tythynnes of the world thozow the knowlage of the Lorde and the saueroure Iesu Christ) are yet tangled agayn therein, and overcome * then is the latter ende woyle wyth them then the begynnyng. For it had ben better for them, not to haue knowen the way of eyghteousnes, then after they haue knowen it, to turne from the holpe commandement that was geuen vnto them. But the same is happened vnto them that is vsed to be spoken by the true prouerbe: * The dogge is turned to hys stone vome agayne, and the sowe that was sowed is turned agayne to her walowynge in the myre.

The .iii. Chapter.

Of the daye of the Lorde, whose longe tasyng is saluacion.

This is the seconde epistle that I now wyte vnto you hearily be- loured, wherewith I ste vpon your syncre mynd, by puttynge you in remembrance, that ye maye be myndfull of the wordes whiche wer tolde before of the holy prophetes, and also the comaundement of vs which be Apostles of the Lorde and sauyoure.

* Chylyst vnderstand, that ther shal come in the laste dayes, mockers (in derisynesse) whiche will walke after theyr owne lustes, and saye: Where is the promys of hys comyng? For sence the fathers dyed, al thynges continue in the same estate wherin they wer at the begynnyng. For they knowe not (and that wylfully) howe that the heauens a great whyle ago were, and the earthe oute of the water appeared by the wordes of God: by the which thynges the world that then was, perished beyng ouerrunnen with water. * But the heauens & earth whiche are now, be kept by hys word in store, and reserved vnto hys agayn the daye of iudgement and perdyction of vngodly men. Wearelye beloved, be not ignorant of this one thyng, howe that * one daye is to the Lorde as a thousande yere, and a thousande yere as one daye. The Lorde that hath promysed, is not slacke, as some men counte slackenes: but is payente to vs warde: for as muche as he would haue no man losse, but will receaue all men to repentance.

ouer thele the daye of the Lorde will come as a thefe in the nyght. In the which day, the heauens shall passe away in maner as a tempest, & the elementes shall melt wyth heat: the earth also & the workes that are therein, shal burne. Scyng then that all these thynges shall perishe, what maner persons ought ye to be in holy conuersacion, and godlynes: loouynge for, & hastynge vnto the comyng of the daye of God, by whiche the heauens shall perishe wyth fyre, and the elementes shall melt wyth heate. *ouer thele the he (accordynge to hys promys) looke for a newe heauen and a newe earth, wherin dwelleth ryghteousnes.

Wherfore dearelye beloved, scyng that ye loke for such thynges, be diligente that ye maye be founde of hym in peace, wythout spot & vndysfled. And suppose that the longe tasyngs of the Lorde is saluacion, euen as our deetye beloved brother Paule also (accordynge to the word dome geuen vnto hym) hath wyrtten vnto you, per. almoste in every epistle, speaking of suche thynges: amonge whiche are manye thynges orde to be vnderstande, whiche they that are vnclearned and vniustable, peruerse, as they do also the other scrpytures vnto theyr owne destruction fructuon. Ye therfore beloued, (seyng ye be warned afoze hande) beware lest ye, with other men bee also plucked awayne through the erreure of wicked: and fall from your owne steadfastnes but growe in grace, and in the knowlage of our Lorde and sauour Iesus Christ. To whom bee gloze bothe now and for ever. Amen.

The firste Epistle of Saincte Iohn the Apostle.

The firste Chapter.

¶ True witness of the everlasting moude of God.
The blood of Christ is the purgation from synne No manne is without synne.

IN which was from the begynnyng, which we haue hearde, which wee haue sene with our eyes, which wee haue loked vpon, and our handes haue handled of the woorde of life. And the life appeared, and wee haue sene and heare and shewe vnto you * eternall life which was with the father, and appeared vnto vs. That which wee haue sene and hearde, declare we vnto you, that ye also maye haue felo-ship with vs, that our feloship maye bee with the father, and his sonne Iesus Christe. And this write we vnto you, that: ye maye reioyce, and our charite maye bee full.

¶ And this is the thynges which wee haue heard of hym and declare vnto you, that God is lighte, and in hym is no darkenes at all. If we saie that we haue feloship with hym, and walke in darkenes, we lie: and dooe not the truth. But and we walke in lighte euen as he is in lighte, the hauing feloship with hym, and the blood of Iesus Christ his sonne cleaseth vs fro all synne.
¶ If we saie we haue no synne, we deceiue our selues, & the truth is not in vs: ¶ If we know lage our synnes, he is faithfull, & iust, to forgiue vs our synnes, and to cleaseth vs from all vni-righteousnes. If we saie we haue not synned, we make hym a lyar, and his woode is not in vs.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ Christ is our aduocate. Of true love, and how it is to be.

Little children these thynges write I vnto you, that ye synne not. And if any manne synne, wee haue an ad-uocate with the father, Iesus Christe the righteous: and he it is that obtaineth grace for our synnes, not for our syn-nes onely, but also for the synnes of the worlde.
¶ And hereby wee are sure that wee knowe hym if wee kepe his commandementes: ¶ He that saith I knowe hym, & keepeth not his commandmentes is a lyer, and the verite is not in hym.

But who so keepeth his woode, in hym is the loue of God perfect in deede, hereby knowe we that we are in hym. He that saith: he bydeth in hym ought to walke euen as he walked. ¶ ¶ Brethren, I write no newe commandment vnto you: but that olde commandment, which ye haue had from the begynnyng. The old commandment is f woode which ye haue heard from the begynnyng. Again, a newe commandment I write vnto you, & is true in hym and thesame is true also in you: for the darkenes is passe, and the true lighte now shineth: ¶ He that saith, how that he is in the lighte, and yet hateth his brother, is in darkenes euen vntill this time he that loueth his brother, abyde in the lighte and there is no occasion of euill in hym. He that hateth his brother is in darkenes: and walketh in darkenes: and cannot tell whether he goeth, because that darkenes hath bynded his eyes.

¶ When I write vnto you, how that your syn-nes are forgiuen you: for his names sake. I write vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the begynnyng, I write vnto you young menne, howe that ye haue overcome the wyched. I write vnto you little chyldren, howe that ye haue knowen the father. I haue written vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the begynnyng. I haue written vnto you young menne, how that ye are strong, and the woode of God abyde in you, and ye haue overcome the wyched. Wee that ye loue not the worlde, neither the thynges that are in the worlde.
If any manne loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde, (as the luste of the flesh, and the luste of the eyes and the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father: but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awayne, and the luste thereof: but he that fulfilleth the will of God abydeth for ever. ¶

¶ Little chyldren, it is the laste tyme, and as ye haue heard, how that Antychrist shall come, eue now are there many begon to bee Antychristes already: wherby wee knowe, that it is the last tyme. ¶ They wente out from vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had been of vs, they would no doubte, haue continued with vs. But that is impossible to appeare, that they were not of vs. Reuerende, ye haue an oymenente of hym that is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. ¶ I haue not written vnto you, as though ye knewe not the truth: but as though ye knewe it (and knowe also) that no lyer cometh of truth. ¶ Who is a lyer but he that denieth that Iesus is Christe? thesame is Antychriste, that denieth the father and the sonne, whosoever denieth the sonne, the same hath not the father. ¶ (He that denieth the sonne, hath the father also.) Let therfore abyde in you that same which ye heard from the begynnyng if that which ye hearde from the begynnyng shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the sonne & in the father. And this is the promise that he hath promised vs: euen eternall life.

¶ These thynges haue I written vnto, concernyng them that deceiue you. And the annountynge which ye haue receiued of hym that dwelleth in you. And ye nede not, that any man teache you: but as the annountynge teacheth you of all thynges, and it is true, and no lyer, and as it hath taughte, euen so byde therein. And now haue abide in hym: that whi he shall appeare we maye bee bold, & not to bee made ashamed of hym at his

The Epistle

at his commyng. If ye knowe that he is righteous, knowe also that every one whiche dooeth righteousnes, is bozne of hym.

The .iii. Chapter.

The freyghter loue of God cometh vs, and bringe us againe ought to loue one another.

Behold, what loue the father hath shewed on vs, that wee should be called (and be in herbe) the * soones of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Verily beloued, now are wee the soons of God and yet it doeth not appeare, what wee shalbe. But wee knowe that when it shal appere: wee shalbe like hym. For wee shal see hym as he is. And every manne that hath this hope in hym, purgeth hymself, euen as he also is pure.
Whosoever committeth synne, committeth vnrighteousnes also, and synne is vnrighteousnes.
And ye knowe that he appeared, to take awaye our synnes, and in hym is no synne. As many as bpte in hym synne not, but whosoever synneth hath not sene hym, neither knoweth hym.

Babes, let no manne deceiue you, he that doeth righteousnes is righteous: euen as he is righteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuill: for the deuill synneth euen the begynnyng. For this purpose appered the sone of God, to loue the woorkes of the deuill. Whosoever is bozne of God, synneth not: for his seede remaineth in him and he cannot synne, because he is bozne of God. In this are the chyldren of God knowne, & the chyld of the deuill, whosoever doth not righteousnes is not of God, neither he that loueth not his brother.

For this is the tryngge, that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye should loue one another not as Cain whiche was of the wicked, and slew his brother. And wherfore slewe he hym? Because his owne woorkes were euill and his brothers good. ¶ Maruail not my brether, though the worlde hate you. Wee knowe, that we are translated fro death to life, because we loued the truth. He that loueth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother, is a man-sleier. And ye knowe that no mansleier, hath eter-nall life abyding in hym. Hereby perceiue wee loue, because he gaue his life for vs: & wee ought to geue our liuen for the brethren. But whoso hath this woordes good and seeth his brother haue nede, and witheth vp his compassion from hym hath dwelleth in loue of God in hym. ¶ By babes let vs not loue in woord neither in tounge: but indeede and in verite. Hereby wee knowe, that wee are of the verite and can quiet our heartes before hym. For if our hearte condemne vs, God is greater then our hearte, and knoweth al thynges.

Derly beloued, if our heart condemne vs not, then haue wee trust to God wards: & what soeuer wee aske wee receiue of hym, because we keepe his commaundmentes, and doo those thynges whiche are pleasaunte in his sight. And this is his commaundment, that wee beleue on the name of his sone Iesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue commaundement. And he that heareth his commaundementes, dwelleth in hym and he in hym, & hereby knowe wee that he abyeth in vs euen by the spirite whiche he hath geue vs

The .iiii. Chapter.

Difference of spiritus and how the spiritus of God may be knowne from the spiritus of erroure. Of the loue of God, and our neighbours.

Early beloued beleue not every spi-rite: but proue the spiritus, whether they are of God or not, * for manie falle prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Hereby shal ye knowe the spirite of God. Every spirite that confesseth that Iesus Christe is come in the fleshe, is of God. And every spirite that confesseth not that Iesus Christe is come in the fleshe is not of God. And this is that spirite of Antichriste, of whome ye haue heard how that he should come: and euen now already is he in the worlde. Litle chyldren, ye are of God and haue overcome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. These are of the worlde, therefore speake they of the worlde and the worlde heareth them. Allee are of God, he that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe wee the spirite of verite and the spirite of erroure.

Derly beloued let vs loue one another: for loue cometh of God. And euer p one that loueth is bozne of God, and knoweth God. He that lo-ueth not knoweth not God: for God is loue.
In this appeareth the loue of God, to vs wards: because that God sente his onely begotten sone into the worlde, that wee myghte lyue through hym. Herein is loue, not that wee loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his sone to bee the agremence for our synnes.

Derly beloued, if God so loued vs, we ought also to loue one another. ¶ Roma hath sene God at any tyme. If wee loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfecte in vs. Hereby knowe wee that wee dwell in hym, and he in vs because he hath geuen vs of his spirite. And wee haue sene, and doo testifie, that the father sente the sone to bee the sauour of the worlde. Whosoever confesseth that Iesus is the sone of God in hym dwelleth God, and he in God. And wee haue knowne and beleued that God hath to vs. God is loue, and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in hym.

Herein is the loue perfecte in vs, that wee should haue trust in the daye of iudgement: for as he is euen so are wee in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynfulnes. He that feareth, is not perfecte in loue. Wee loue hym: for he loued vs first. If a manne saie I loue God, and yet hate his brother he is a lyar. For how can he that loueth not his brother whom he hath sene, loue God whom he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue wee of hym: that he whiche loueth God, shoulde loue his brother also.

The .v. Chapter.

To loue God, is to kepe his commaundmentes.
For hee commaundeth the world, that shoulde life is in the sone of God. Of loue unto heauy Whosoever belueth that Iesus is Christe is bozne of God. And euer one that loueth hym whiche brcat, loueth hym

Iohn. xiii. hym also whiche was bee gotten of hym. * By this wee knowe, & wee loue the chylde of God when wee loue God and kepe his commaundementes. For this is the loue of God, & wee kepe his commaundementes, & his commaundementes are not greuous. * For all that is borne of God, ouercometh the world. And this is the victory that ouercometh the world, euen our faith. Who is it that ouercometh the world, but he whiche beleeueth, & Iesus is the sonne of God: This Iesus Christ is he that came by water and blood, not by water onely: but by water and blood. And it is the spirite that beareth witness, because the spirite is true. (For there are three whiche beare recorde in heauen, the father, the sonne, and the holy ghos. And these three are one.) And these whiche beare recorde (in earth) the spirite, and water and blood: and these three are one. If we receiue the witness of manne & witness of God is greater.

For this is the witness of God (that is greater) whiche be testified of his sonne. He that beleeueth on the sonne of God hath the witness in hymself: & he that beleeueth not God hath made hym a lyar because he beleeueth not the recorde that God gaue of his sonne. And this is the recorde, how that God hath geuen vnto vs eternal life, & this life is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath life and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not life. These thynges haue I wyrtten vnto you & beleeue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe how that ye haue eternall life, and that ye maye beleeue on the name of the sonne of God. And this is the trust that wee haue in hym that if we aske any thyng accordyng to his wil he heareth vs. And if we knowe that he heareth vs whatsoeuer we aske we knowe & wee haue the petition, & wee desire of him. If any manne see his brother synne a synne not vnto death, let hym aske, & he shall geue hym life for them that synne not vnto death. There is a synne vnto death for whiche saie I not & a manne should praye. All vniuersalnes is synne, & there is a synne not vnto death. We knowe & whosoever is borne of God, synneth not, but he is begotten of God, keepeth hymself and & wicked toucheth hym not. Wee knowe & wee are of God, and the world is altogether set on wickednes. Wee knowe that the sonne of God is come, & hath geuen vs a mynde to knowe hym whiche is true: And we are in hym that is true: throughe his sonne Iesu Christ. This same is verie God, and eternall life. Saue hepe your selues from ymages. Amen.

The second Epistle

of saincte Iohn.

The writer to a certayne Lady, sheweth that he chylde walke in the truth, & sheweth them to loue & warneth them to beware of such wickednes as he sayeth that Iesus Christ came in the fleshe, & sayeth that to continue in the doctrine of Christ, and to haue no thyng to doo with them & sayng not this learning.

I The elder to the electe Lady and her chylde, whom I loue in the truth: and not I onely, but also all that haue knowne the truth, for the trouthes sake whiche dwelleth in vs, and shalbe in vs for euer

With vs shalbe, grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and from the sonne Iesus Christ the sonne of the father, in truth and loue. I reioysed greatly that I founde of the chylde walkinge in truth, as wee haue receiued a commaundement of the father. And now beseech I the Lady, not as though I wrote a newe commaundement vnto thee; but that same whiche we haue heard fro the begynnyng & we should loue one another. And this is the loue, that wee should walke after his commaundement.

This commaundement is (that as ye haue heard from the legynnyng) ye should walke in it. For many deceiues are entred into the world whiche confesse not that Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe. This is a deceiver and an Antichriste. Loke on your selues that wee lose not that wee haue wrought, but that wee maye haue a full reward. Whosoever transgresseth and bydeth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that endureth in the doctrine of Christ, hath both the father & the sonne. If there come any vnto you and byng not this learning, hym receiue not to house: neither bid hym god speede. For he that biddeth hym god speede, is partaker of his euill deeds. (Beholde, I haue told you before, that ye should not be ashamed in the daye of the sonne.) I had many thynges to wyte vnto you, neuertheless I would not wyte with paper & yncke but I trust to come vnto you, and speake with you mouthe to mouthe, that our ioye maye bee full: the sonnes of the electe sister grete thee. Amen.

The thirde Epistle

of saincte Iohn.

He is glad of Gaius, that he walketh in the truth & sheweth hym to be longyng vnto the poore Christians in their persecution. Sheweth & unkind dealing of Diotryphes, and the good report of Demetrius.

I The elder vnto the beloued Gaius whom I loue in the truth. Beloued, I wishe in all thynges & thou prosperedst, and faredest well, euen as thy soule prospereth. For I reioysed greatly: whē the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in thee, how thou walkest in the truth. I haue no greater ioye, then for to heare how that my sonnes walke in veritie. Beloued thou doest faithfully, whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers, whiche beare witness of thy loue before the congregacion. Whiche brethren if thou byngest forwarde of their iourney (after a godly sorte) thou shalt doo well, because that for his names sake they wente forth, and tooke no byng of the Gentiles. Wee therefore oughte to receiue such that we might bee helpers to the truth. I wrote vnto the congregacion: but dyotryphes whyche loueth to haue the prebeminence among the receiued vs not. Wherefore if I come I will declare hym deedes whyche he doeth, lest he be on vs with malicious wordes, neyther is there with contente. Not onely he hymself receiued not the brethren: but also he forbiddeth them that

What woulde, and thrusteth them out of the congregation. Beloued, folow not that which is euill, but that which is good. He that dooth well is of God but he that dooth euill seeth not God. Demetrius hath good repute of all menne and of the truth it self, yea, and we our selues also beare repute, and ye knowe, that our repute is true. I had many thynges to wyte: but I wyl not with ynche and peme wyte vnto thee. I truste I shall shortly see thee and we shall speake mouthe to mouthe. Peace bee vnto thee. The louers salute thee. Write the louers by name.

The Epistle of sainte

Jude.

The which such as beeing blinded with their owne malice, resist the truth, the exhorteth us to call for one another, to praye in the holy ghost, to continue in love, to lone for the coming of the Lord.

Thus the seruant of Iesus Christ the brother of James. To them which are called and sanctified in God the father, and persecuted in Iesu Christ. Mercie vnto you & peace and love be multiplied. Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to wyte vnto you of the comen saluacion, it was needfull for me to write vnto you to exhorte you, that ye should continually labour in the faith, which was once geuen vnto saintes: For there are certain vngodly menne craftily crept in, of which it was written afore tyme vnto such iudgements. Thei turne the grace of our God vnto wantonnes, & deny God (which is the onely Lord) and our Lord Iesus Christ.

Wherfore I meyne to put you in remembrance: for as muche as ye once know this, how that the Lord (after that he had deliuered the people out of Egypte) destroyed them which afterwarde beleued not. The angels also which hepte not their firste estate, but left their owne habitation, he hath reserved in euellastynge chaines vnder darckenes vnto the iudgement of the greake dape. euen as Sodom and Gomorrah, & the cities aboute them (which in like maner defyled themselves with fornicacyon, and folowed strange fleshe) are set forth for an example, and suffer the pain of eternall fire. Likewise, the beynge discorued by dyames, defile the flesh, dispise rulers & speake euill of them & are in such hope.

Per Michaell the archangell when he stroue agaynst the deuell, and disputed about the body of Moses, durst not geue raplyng sentence but sayed: the Lord rebuke thee. But these speake euill of those thynges which thei knowe not and what thynges thei knowe naturally (as brastes which are without reason) in those thynges they corrupte themselves. Woe vnto them, for they haue folowed the waye of Cain, and are utterly geuen to the error of Balaam for lucre & sake and perished in the treason of Core. These are spots which of your hyndenes feaste together with out feare, liuing lawlesse, and after their owne pleasure. Cloudes they are without water caryed aboute of wyndes, steeles without frute at gathering tyme withered, & wyle dedde, and plucked up by the rootes. They are the ragynge waves of the sea, comynge oute their owne shame. They are wanderyng sterres, to whom is reserved the myste of darckenes for euer.

Enoch the seuenthe from Adam prophesied before of such, sayng. * Beholde, the Lord shall come with thousandes of saintes, to geue iudgement agaynst all menne, and to rebuke all that are vngodly among them of all they vngodly deddes, which they haue vngodly commytted, and of all they eternell speakynges, which vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst hym.

These are murmurers, complainers, walkyng after they owne lustes, whose mouthes speake proude thynges. They haue menne in greake reuerence because of aduantage. But ye beloued remember the wordes which were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lord Iesu Christ, how that they tolde you * that there should be beguylers at last tyme, which should walke after their owne vngodly lustes. These are masters of sectes fleschly, hauyng no spirite.

But ye dearly beloued, charye your selues in your moste holy faith, prayng in the holy ghost and kepe your selues in the love of God, lokeyng for the mercy of our Lord Iesus Christ, vnto eternall life. And haue compassion on some, separating them, and other save with feare, pulling them out of the fire: & haue compassion on the others) and hate the tythye vesture of the fleshe. Vnto hym that is able to kepe you free from synne, and to present you faultlesse before the presence of his glory with ioye. (at the coming of our Lord Iesus Christ) to God our sauour (through Iesus Christ our Lord) which onely is wise, be glory, maiesty, dominie, and power (before all worldes) now and euer. Amen.

The seven spirites whiche are before his throne, and from Iesus Christ, whiche is a faithfull witness and first begotten of the dedde: and Lozde ouer the kynges of the earth. Unto hym that * loued vs and washed vs from our synnes in his owne bloodde, I and made vs kynges and prestes vnto God his father, breglospe and dominion for evermore. Amen. Beholde, he cometh with cloudes, and all eyes shall see hym, and they also whiche pearced hym. And al hundredes of þ earth shall wayle. (ouer hym) Euen so: Amen I am Alpha and Omega, þ begynnyng and the endyng saith the Lozde almyghtie, whiche is and whiche was, and whiche is to come.

E I Ihon your brother: and compaignid in tribulacion, and in the kyngdome of pacience in Iesu Christe, was in the isle þ is called Barthmos: for the woorde of God, and for the witnessyng of Iesu Christ: I was in þ spirit on a Sondaye and herde behynde me a grete voyce as it had been of a trompe, sayyng I am Alpha & Omega the first and the last. That thou seest, write in a boke, & send it vnto þ seven congregacions whiche are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, & vnto Smyrna, & vnto Pergamos, & vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, & vnto Philadelphia & vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to see the voyce þ spake vnto me. And when I was turned: I sawe seven golden candelstiches, and in þ middes of the candelstiches, one like vnto the sonne of manne, clothed with a linnen garmente donne to the fete and girded aboute the pappes with a golden gyrdle. His dedde: and his heares were whyte, all whyte wolle, and as snowe and his eyes were as a flame of fire: and his fete like vnto brylle, as though they bente in a fornaçe, and his voice as þ soude of many waters. And he had in his right hande seven starres. And out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged swerde. And his face shone euen as the sonne in his strength. And when I sawe hym, I fell at his fete euen as dedde. And he laied his right hand vpon me sayyng vnto me feare not. * I am the first and the last, and I am alivie, and was dedde. And beholde, * I am alivie for evermore and have the keyes of hell & of death. Write therefore the thynges whiche thou hast seene, and the thynges whiche are, and the thynges whiche must bee fulfilled hereafter: the mystery of the seven starres whiche thou sawest in my right hande, and the seven golden candelstiches. The seven starres are the messengers of þ seven congregacions. And the seven candelstiches whiche thou sawest, are the seven congregacions.

The ii. Chapter.

The reborted foure congregacions to amende, and to shewe the rewardes of hym that overcometh.

Vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Ephesus wyte: these thynges saith he, that holdeth þ seven starres in his right hand and þ walketh in the middes of the seven golde candelstiches. I knowe thy wooshes, and thy labours, and thy pacience, & how thou cannest not forbear theim whiche are cruill: and hast examined theim whi che saye they are Apostles, and are not: and hast founde theim lyars, and hast suffered. And hast pacience: and for my names sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted. Nevertheless I have som what agaynst thee, because thou hast lefte thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou arte fallen repente, and doo the first workes. Or els I will come vnto thee shortly, and will remone thy candelstiche oute of his place, excepte thou repent. But this thou hast because thou hatest the deedes of the Nicolaitans, whiche deedes I also hate. Lette hym that hath eares, heare what the spirite saith vnto the congregacions. To hym that overcometh, will I geue to eate of the * tree of life, whiche is in the middes of the Paradise of God.

And vnto the angell of the congregacion of Smyrna wyte: These thynges saith he that is first and last, whiche was dedde, and is alivie. I knowe thy wooshes and tribulacion and povertie, but thou arte riche. And I knowe þ blasphemy of theim, whiche call them selves Jewes and are not: but are the congregacion of Sathe. Feare none of those thynges, whiche thou shalt suffer. Beholde, the deuell shall cast some of you in prison, to tempt you, and ye shall have tribulacion tenne daies. But faithfull vnto the death and I will geue the a crowne of life. Lette hym þ hath eares, heare, what the spirite saith to the congregacion. He that overcometh shall not bee hurte of the seconde death.

And to the messenger of the congregacion in Pergamos wyte. This saith he, whiche hath the sharpe swerde with two edges. I knowe thy wooshes, and where þ dwellest, euen where Sathe seate is, and thou hepest my name, and hast not denied my saith. And in my dayes Antipas was a faithfull witness of myne, whiche was slain among you, where Sathe dwelleth. But I have a fewe thynges agaynst thee: because thou hast there theim that mayntayne the doctryne of Balaam: whiche taught in Balaam to put occasion of synne before the children of Israel, that they should eate of meate dedicate vnto ydolles, and commit fornicicid. Euen so hast thou theim that mayntayne the doctryne of the Nicolaitans, whiche thynges I hate.

But bee conuerted, or els I will come vnto thee shortly, & wil fight agaynst theim with þ swerd of my mouth. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite saith vnto the congregacions to hym that overcometh, will I geue to eate of the manna that is hid, and will geue hym a whyte stone, and in the stone a newe name wyrtten, whiche no manne knoweth, sayyng he that receiveth it. And vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Thyatira wyte. This saith the sonne of God, whiche hath eyes lyke vnto a flamme of fyre, & his fete are lyke brylle: I knowe thy wooshes and thy love, service, and saith and thy pacience, and thy deedes, whiche are mo at the laste then at the firste: Notwithstandyng, I have a fewe thynges agaynst thee, because thou hast suffred þ woma* Jesabell, whiche called her self a prophetesse, to teach & to deceiue my seruantes to

to make them commit fornication, and to eat meates offered up vnto idoles. And I gaue her space to repent of her fornication, and she repented not. Beholde, I will caste her into a bed, and them that commit fornication with her, into greete aduersite, excepte they turne from their deedes. And I will kill her children with death. And all the congregacions shall knowe, that I am he whiche searcheth the raynes and heartes. And I will geue vnto euerye, one of you accor- dyng vnto his woordes.

Re. xxi. 3

C Vnto you I saie, and vnto other of them of Chastita, as many as haue not this learnynge and whiche haue not knowen the deepnes of Sathan (as they saie) I wil putte vpon you none other burthen, but that whiche ye haue already. Holde faste till I come, and whosoener ouercometh and kepeth my woordes vnto the ende to hym will I geue power ouer nations, * and he shall rule them with a rodde of yron: and as the vessels of a potter, shall they be broken to shewers. Euen as I receiued of my father, so will I geue hym the morning starre. Lette hym that hath eares, heare what the spirite saith to the congregacions.

I And wyte vnto the messenger of the congregacion that is at Sardis this saith he that hath the seuen spirites of God and the seuen starres. I knowe thy woordes, thou hast a name that thou liuest, and thou arte dedde. Be awake, and strengthe the thynges whiche remaine that are ready to die. For I haue not founde thy woordes perfecte before (my) God. Remember therefore, how thou hast receiued and hearde, and holde faste, and repent. * If thou walte not walke, I will come on thee as a theefe, and thou shalt not knowe what houre I will come vpon thee. Thou hast a fewe names in Sardis, whiche haue not defiled their garmentes, and they shall walke with me in white, for they are woorthy. He that ouercometh, shall be thus clothed in white raiment, and I will not putte out his name out of the booke of life, and I will confesse his name before my father, and before his angelles. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite saith vnto the congregacions.

After this I looked, & beholde, a doore was open in heauyn, and the first voyce whiche I hearde, was as it were of a trumpet sayng vnto me: whiche saith come vnto heere: & I will shewe the thynges whiche must be fulfilled hereafter. And immediately I was in the spirite: and behold, a seate was set in heauen, and one sat on the seate. And he that sat was to loke vpon, like vnto a Jasper stone, and a Sardon stone. And there was a rayne boote aboute the seate in sight like to an Emeralde. And about the seate wer foure & twenty seates. And vpon the seates foure & twenty eldres sitting, clothed in white raiment, & had on their fete crownes of gold. And out of the seates proceeded lightenynges and thunderynges, and voyces, & ther wer seuen lampes of fyre, burnyng before the seate whiche are the seuen spirites of God. And afore the seate there was a sea of glasse, like vnto Chrystall and in the middes of the seate, and rounde aboute the seate wer foure beastes full of eyes before and behynde. And the first beast was like a lion a lyon, and the second beast lyke a calfe, and the thyrde beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was lyke a flying Eagle. And the .iiii. beastes had ech one of them, vi. wynges about him and they wer full of eyes wythin. The lambe openeth the booke, and many thynges saith the ap: nung therof

As I saw, when the lambe opened one of the scales, and I heard one of the foute beastes say: as it were the noyse of thonder: come and se and I sawe. And behold, ther was a whit horse: and he that sat on hym had a bowe and a croune was geue vnto hym, and he went forth conquer yng and for to ouercome. And when he had opened the second scale, I heard the seconde beast say: come and se. And there went out another horse that was redde, and power was geuen to hym that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, & that they should kyl one another. And ther was geuen vnto hym a great sword

And when he had opened the thyrde scale I heard the thyrde beast say come and se. And I beheld, and lo, a blacke horse: and he that sat on hym had a payre of balancers in his hand. And I heard a voyce in the myddes of the foute beastes, say: a mesure of wheat for a peny, and the mesures of barley for a peny, and ople and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth scale, I heard the voyce of the fourth be ast say come and se: and I looked, and beholde a pale horse and hys name that sat on hym was death, and hei folowd after him, and power was geue vnto them ouer the fourth part of the earth to kyl with sword and with hunger, and with death, that cometh of vermen of the earthe.

And whē he had opened the fyfte scale, I saw vnder the altare: the soules of them that were kylled for the word of God, and for the testimo ny which they had, and they cryed with a loude voyce, sayng: howe long taryest thou Loyd, ho ly and true, to iudge and to aduenge our blood on them that dwel on the earth. And long whie garments were geuen vnto every one of them. And it was sayed vnto them, that they should rest yet for a lytle season vntyll the number of their selowes, and bretheren, and of them that shoulde be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I beheld, when he had opened the syxte scale: and lo, there was a great earthquake and the sonne was as blacke as a sackcloth made of beere. And the mone waxed al, euen as bloud and the steres of heauen fel vnto the earth, euf as a sygge tree casteth from her vntymely fyg ges, when she is shaken of a myghtie wynde. And heauen vanyshed awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountaynes and isles, were mowd out of their places: And the kynges of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chel captaines, and the myghty men, and every bondman, and every frema, byd them selues in denness, and in rockes of the hylls: and sayed to the hylls and rockes: fal on vs and hyde vs frome the pcesence of hym that syteth on the seate, and frome the wrath of the lābe: for the greute dape of hys wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

Cap. vi.

As I sawe in the ryghte hande of him that sat on the throne, a booke wyrtten wythin and on the bakside, sealed with seven scales. And I sawe a strong Angel, which pze ched wyth a loude voyce: Who is worthy to open the boke, and to lose the scales therof. And no man in heauen nor in earth nerther vnder the earth, was able to open the boke verther to loke thereon. And I wept much, because no man was founde worthy to open and to rede the boke, ne ther to loke thereon. And one of the elders sayed vnto me wepe not: Behold, a lyon of the trybe of Juda, the roote of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the booke, and to lose the seven scales ther of. And I behelde, and loo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the foute beastes, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene killed, haung seven hoines, and seven eyes, which are the seven spites of God sent in to al the world. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryght hand of hym that sat vpon the seat. And when he had takē the boke the .iiii. be kes and .xxiii. elders fel doune befoze y lambe, haung (every one of them) harpes and golden byalles full of odours, whiche are the prayers of Sayntes, and they songe a newe songe, sayng: thou art worthy to take the booke, and to open the scales therof: for thou wast killed, and hast redemed vs by thy bloude out of al kynred des, and tounses, and people, and nacyons, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges, and pzeas, and we shall repgne on the earth. And I behelde, and I heard the voyce of many aungels aboute the throne, and about the beast and the elders, and I heard thousandes, sayng, wyth a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was kylled to receiue power, and ryched, and wysdome and strenght, and honoure, and glozp, and blessing. And al the creatures which are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I sayng: blessing, honoure, glozpe, and power be vnto hym that syteth vpon the seate and vnto the lambe for euer moze. And the foute beastes sayed. Amen. And the .xxiii. elders fell befoze the lambe opening the boke, and therefore the foute be kes, the .xxiii. elders, and the angels praise the lambe and dooz hym worshippe

he seeth the seruantes of God sealed in the foreheades out of all nacions and people, whiche they suffer trouble, yet the lambe feedeth them, leueth them, to the fountaines of liuyng water, and god shall wypp away all teares from theyr eyes.

After that, I sawe four angels stand on ffour corners of the erth holding the four wyndes of ffeith that the winde should not blow on the earth, neyther on the sea, neyther on any tree. And I sawe another angel ascend from the cryng of the sunne, whiche had the sele of the lyuyng God, and he cryed wyth a loud voyce to the four angels (to whom power was geuen to hurte the earthe and the sea) sayng: hurte not the earth, neyther the sea, neyther the trees, tyll we haue sealed the seruantes of our God in ther fore heades.

And I herd the number of them whiche were sealed, and ther were sealed an. C. and. xliiii. Of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the trybe of Iuda were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ruben were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Gad were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Aser were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Reptalym were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Manasses were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Symeon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Leuy were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Issacar were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Joseph were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ben Iamin were sealed. xii.

After this I behelde, and lo a greates multitude (whiche no man coulde number) of all nacions and people, and tounes, stode before the seate, and before the lambe, clothed wyth longe whyt garmentes, and palmes in theyr bandes and cryed wyth a loude voyce sayng: saluacyon be ascribed to hym that syteth vpon the seate of our God and vnto the lambe. And all the angels stode in the compase of the seate, and of the elders and of the four beastes, and fel before the seate on theyr faces, and worshypped God sayng: Amen. Blessyng and glozy and wysedom and thankes, & honour, and power, and myght be vnto our God for evermore. Amen.

And one of the elders answered, sayng vnto me, what are these whiche are arrayed in longe white garmentes, and whence came they? And I sayed vnto hym: Lozbe thou wotest. And he sayed to me: these are they, whiche came oute of great tribulacion, and made theyr garmentes large, and made them whyte by the bloude of the lambe: therfore are they in the ptesence of the seate of God, and serue hym daye and nyghte in hym temple, and he that syteth in the seate wyll dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, neyther thurst, neyther shall the sonne lyght on them, neyther any heat. For the lambe whiche is in the myddes of the seate shal fede them, and shall leade them, vnto fountaynes of liuyng water, and God shal wypp awaye all teares from theyr eyes.

The viii. Chapter

The vii. scale is opened, there is silence in heauen, the four angels blowe theyr trumpettes, and great plagues folow upon the erth,

And whyle he had opened the vii. scale there was silence in heuen about the space of halfe an hour. And I sawe vii. angels standynge before God, and to them wer geuen trompettes. And another angel came and stode before the autter, haupng a golden censet, and much of obdour was geuen vnto hym, that he shoulde offer of the prayres of all sayntes vpon the golden autter whiche was before the seate. And the smoke of the obdours which came of the prayres of al sayntes, ascended vp before God out of the angels hand. And the angel toke the censet, and fylled it with fyre of the autter, and cast it into the earth, and voyces wer made, and thondynges and lygthenynges, and earthquakes.

And the seuen angels whiche had the seuen trompettes, prepared themselves to blowe. The fyrst angel blew, and there was made hayle and fyre, which wer myngled wyth bloud, and thei wer cast into the earth: and the thyrde part of the earth was set on fyre, & the thyrde part of trees was burnt, and all grene grasse was dyent. And the second angel blew: and as it wer a great mountayne burnyng wyth fyre was cast into the sea, and the thyrde part of the sea turned to bloude and the thyrde part of the creatures whiche had lyfe dyed, and the thyrde part of theyppes wer destroyed. And the thirde angel blew, and ther fel a great starre from heauen, burnyng as it wer a lampe, and it fell into the thyrde part of the ryuers, and into the founteynes of waters, and the name of the sterre is called wormwod. And the thirde part was turned to wormwod. And many me died of waters, because they wer made bitter. And the iiij. angel blew, and the thyrde part of the sunne was smitten, & the thirde parte of the mone, and the thyrde part of the sterres: so that the thirde part of them was darkened. And the day was smitten, that the thyrde parte of it shoulde not thynne and lykewise the nyght. And I beheld and herd an angel flyng throughe the myddes of heauen, sayng wyth a loud voyce: Wo, wo, to the inhabytors of the erthe, because of the voyces to com of the trope of the angels, which were yet to blowe.

The fyfte and syfte angel blowe theyr trumpettes the sterres fall from heauen, the locustes come out of the fynale. The fyfte we to paye, the foure angels that were bounde are loosed, and the thyrde part of men is kylled.

And the fyfte angel blew and I sawe a starre fall from heauen vnto the earth. And to hym was geuen the kape of the botomles pit, and the smoke of the pyt arose as the smoke of a great furnace. And the sunne and the ayre wer darkened by the reas of smoke of the pyt. And ther came out of the smoke locustes vpon the earth, and vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the erth haue power. And it was commaunded them that they shuld not hurt the grasse of the erth neyther any grene thyng, neyther any tree: but onely those men whiche haue not the scale in theyr fore heades. And to them was commaunded, that they shuld not kyll them, but that they shoulde be vexed. & monethes, and theyr payne was as the payne that that commeth of a scorpion when he hath stong a man. And in those dayes shall men seke death and shall not fynde it, and shall desyre to dye.

And the symplitude of the locusts was like vnto hoiles prepared vnto battel, and on their heades wer as it wer crownes, lyke vnto golde, and theyr faces were as it had bene the faces of men. And they had heer as the heere of women.
And theyr teeth wer as the teeth of yrons. And they had habbergions, as it wer habbergions of yron. And the sound of theyr wynges, was as the sound of charettes, wher many hoiles runne together to battayle. And they had tayles lyke vnto scoyppons, and ther wer stynges in theyr tayles. And theyr power was to hurt men fyue monethes. And they had a kyng ouer the whiche is the angell of the botomeles pyt, whose name in the hebreue tong is Abaddon, but in the Greke tong, Apollyon: that is to say, a destroyer. One wo is past, and behold two woer com yet after this. And the fyrte angel blew, and I hearde a voyce from the four corners of the golden altiter, whych is before God, sayng to the fyrte angel which had the trompe: Lose the four angels whych are bound in the great cyter Euphrates.
And the four angels wer losed: whych wer prepared for an hour, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yere, for to slaye the. iii. parte of the men And the number of hostme of warre wer. xx. & tymes. x. And I heard the number of them: and thus I sawe the hoiles in a vpspon, and the that sat on them, haung fyre habbergions of a Incinct colour, and bymyxon, and the heades of the hoiles were as the heades of yrons. And out of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke and bymyxon. And of these thye was the thye part of men killed: that is to say, of fyre, some and bymyxon: whych proceded out of the mou-thes of the. For theyr power was in their mou-thes and in theyr tayles, for theyr tayles were lyke vnto serpentes, and had heades, and with them they did hurt. And the remnaunt of the me whych wer not killed by these plagis, repented not of the dedes of theyr handes that they shuld not doo thye deuils, and ymages of gold and syluer, and byade, & stone, and of wood, whych neither can se, neither here, neither go. Also they repented not of their murder, & of their sojerry, nether of their sojnicacyon, neither of theyr thete

The. x. Chapter.

The angell hath the booke open, for thyneth there shall the nomys lyme, he gaweth the booke vnto Ihon, whych eateth it vp.

And I sawe another myghty angel come doune fro heauē clothed with a cloude, and the rainbow vpon his heed. And his face as it wer sunne and his feet as it wer pylers of fyre and he had in his hand a litle booke open, and he put his ryght foote vpon the sea, and his left foote on the earth. And cryed with a loud voyce as when a lyon roareth. And when he had cryed, seuen thunders spake theyr voyces. And when the seuen thunders had spoken theyr voyces:

I was aboute to wyte: And I hearde a voyce fro heauen, sayng vnto me, seale vp those thynges whiche the seuen thunders spake, and wyte them not. And the angell whiche I sawe stond vpon the sea, and vpon the earth, lyt vp his had to heauē, and swore by hym, that liueth for euermore whiche created heauen, and the thynges therin are: (And the earth: and the thynges that therein are) & the sea, and the thynges whiche therein are:
that there shoulde bee no longer tyme but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth angell. Wher shall begynne to blowe, euen the minisstrye of God shal bee finished, as he preached by his ser-uautes the prophetes. And the voyce whych I hearde from heauen, spake vnto me agayn, and said: goo and take the litle booke whiche is opē in the hande of the angell whych standeth vpon the sea, and vpon the earth. And I wente vnto the angell and sayed to hym: geue me the litle booke and he sayed vnto me: take it, and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shal bee in thy mouth as swete as hony. * And I toke the litle booke out of his hande and eate it vp, and it was in my mouth as swete as hony: and as sone as I had eaten it, my belly was bytter. And he sayed vnto me: I must prophesy again among people, & nacids & toungeues, & to many kynges.

The. xi. Chapter.

The temple is measured. The seconde woo to pad.

And then was geuen me a reede like vnto a rod, & it was sayed vnto me.
Rise & meate the tēple of God, and the altyer and them & doo thye ther in, and the quier whiche is within the temple, cast out & meate it not, for it is geue vnto the Gentiles, & the holy cites shall thei treade vnder fote. xlii. monethes. And I will geue power vnto my twoo witnesses, and they shal prophesy a thousande twoo hundred & syxtie dayes clothed in sache cloth. These are two olive trees & twoo candellsticks, standyng before the God of the earth. And if any manne wyl hurt them, fyre shall procede out of theyr mouthes, and consume theyr enemyes. And yet any man wyl hurt them thye wyse muste he be killed. These haue power to shut heauen, that it rayn not in sy day-es of theyr prophesying: and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloud, & to smyte the erth with all maner of plagis, as often as they wyl.
And when they haue syned the testimony, the beast that came out of the botomeles pyt, shal make warre agaynst them, and shal ouercome them, and kyll them. And theyr bodies shal lye in the stretes of the great cyter, whych spirytually is called ierusalem and Egypt, wher our lord was crucified. And they of the people and kyn-reds, and tonges, and they of the nacjons, shall se theyr bodies the dayes and a halfe, and shall not suffer theyr bodies to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the erth, shal reioyse ouer them and be glad, and shal sende gyftes one to a nother, for these twoo prophetes vexed the that dwelte on the earth. And after the dayes and an halfe, the spyre of lyfe from God entered into them. And they stode vp vpon theyr feet, and great feare came vpon them whych sawe them And they heard a great voyce from heauen, sayng vnto them: Come vpon her. And they ascended vpon into heauen in a cloud, and they: one impen sawe them. And the same houre was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the cite fell, and in the earthquake wer slayne names of men seuen thousande, and the remnaunt were feared, and gaue gloire to the God of heauen. The second booke is past, and beholde the thyrde booke will come anon.

D And the vii. angel blew, and ther were made great voyces in heauen, sayng: the kingdomes of this worlde are our Lozdes, and hys Chyrties, and he shall regne for euer more. Amen. And the xiiii. elders, which sit before God on their seates, fel vpon theyr faces, and worshipped God sayng: we geue the thanks O Lord God almyghty: whych art and wast, and arte to come, for thou hast receiued thy great myght and hast reigned. And the nacions were angry and thy wrath is com, and the time of the dead that they should be iudged and that thou shouldest geue reward vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and sainctes, and to them that feare thy name smal and great and shouldest destroy them whych destroy the erth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and ther were sene in hys temple, the Arke of his testamente, and ther shone lightenynges, and voyces, and thondyringis, and earthquake, and muche payle.

The xii. Chaptyr

The fourth angel bloweth hys trumpet. There appereth in heuren a woman clothed with the sunne, myghty as the sunne, and the dragon, whych persecuteth the woman

And ther appered a greates wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with the sunne and the mone vnder her feete and vpon her heade a crowne of xii. sterres. And she was with chylde, & cryed traunsplyng in byrth, and payned readye to be deliuered. And ther appered another wonder in heauen, for behold, a great redde dragon hauing vii. heades and sene hoines and seuen crownes vpon hys heades: and his tayle as the thyrde part of the sterres. And he cast the chylde to the earth. And the dragon stode before the woman whych was readye to be deliuered: for to deuoure her chylde as sone as it were borne. And she brought forth a manchylde, whych should rule all nacions with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vpon vnto God, and to hys seate. And the woman fledde into wyldernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, that they shoulde see her there a thousand, two hundred and lx. dayes. And there was a great battaile in heauen, Michael and hys angels fought with the dragon, and the dragon fought and hys angels and preuailed not, neither was theyr place founde any more in heauen. And the greates dragon, the olde serpente, called the deuill and Sathanas, was cast oute. Whych deceauneth all the worlde.

E And he was cast into the earth and hys angels were cast out also. And I heard a loud voyce, sayng: in heauen is now made saluacyon and strength and the kyngdom of our God, & the power of his Chyrt. For a cause of our trespas is caste doune whych accused them before God day and nyght. And they overcame hym by the bloud of the lambe, and by the word of theyr testimony, and they loued not theyr lyues vnto the death. Therfore reioyce deuens, and ye that dwell in them. Also to the inhabitants of the erth and of the sea: for the deuill is come doune vnto you whych hath greates wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte tyme.

D And when the dragon sawe that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, whych brought forth the man chylde. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a greates Eagle, that she myght flye into the wyldernes into her place wher she is noryshed for a tyme, tymes, and half a tyme, from the presence of the serpent. And the dragon cast out of hys mouth water after the woman as it had been a riuer, because she shoulde haue bene caughte of the floude. And the earth helpe the woman, and the erth opened her mouth and swallowed vpon the ryuer, whych the dragon caste out of hys mouth. And the dragon was wretched with the woman, & went, and made warre with the remnaunt of her seede, whych kept the commandementes of God, and haue the testimony of Iesus Chyrt. And he stode on the sea sand

The xiii. Chaptyr

A beast comyth out of the sea with sene heades and sene hoines Another beast comyth out of the earth with two hoines.

And I sawe a beast ryle out of the sea, hauing sene heades, and sene hoines, and vpon hys hoines sene crownes, and vpon hys heade, the name of blasphemie. And the beast whiche I sawe, was lyke a catte of the mountaigne, and his feete were as the feete of a beare, and hys mouth as the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gaue hym hys power and his seate, & great aucthorite: & I sawe one of his heades as it were wounded to deathe, and hys deadly wounde was healed. And all the worlde worshipped at the beast and they worshipped the dragon, whych gaue power vnto the beast, and they worshipped the beast, sayng: who is lyke vnto the beast: who is able to warre with hym. And there was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake greates thynges and blasphemies, and power was geuen vnto hym, to dooe xiii. monethes. And he opened hys mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God, to blasphemie his name and hys tabernacle, and the them that dwelle in heauen. And it was geuen vnto hym to make warre with the sainctes, and to overcome them. And power was geuen him ouer all kynned, and people, and toungue and nacyon and all that dwelle vpon the earth worshipped hym whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of life of the lambe, whiche was killed from the begynnyng of the worlde. If any mane haue an eare let hym heare. he that leadech into captiuitie shall gon into captiuitie: he that killeth with a swerde must bee killed with a swerde. Here is the patience, and the sayche of the sayntes.

out of the earth, and had two hornes like a labe and he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyfte beaste coude do in hys pience, and he cauled the earth, and them whych dwelt therein, to worshyp the fyft beaste whose dedely wound was healed. And he did great wonders so that he made fyre come doune from heauen in the syght of men. And deceiued them y^e dwelt on the erth, by the meanes of those signes which he had power to do in the syght of the beaste saying to them that dwelt on the earth: that they should make an ymage vnto the beaste, whiche had the wounde of the swearde, and dyd lyue.

And he had power to geue a spytte vnto the ymage of the beaste and that the ymage of the beaste should speake, and should cause that as many as would not worshyp the ymage of the beaste, should be kylled. And he made al borb smal and great, ryche and poore, fre and bonde, to receiue a marke in theyr ryght handes or in theyr foreheades. And that no man myghte by o^r sell, saue he that had the mark or the name of the beaste, other the number of hys name. Here is wysdom. Let hym that hath wyse, counte the number of the beaste. For it is the number of a man, and hys number is fyre hundred. lx. and fyre.

The lambe standeth upon the mount syon, and the vnderfylde congregacyon wyth hym. The angells exhorteth to the feare of god, and tellet of the fall of babilon

And I looked, and lo, a lambe stode on y^e mount syon, & wyth hym an hundred and thre and forty thousande haunging hys o^r names and hys fathers names wyrtten in theyr foreheades. And I hearde a voyce frome heauen, as the sounde of manye waters, & as the voyce of a great thonder. And I heard the voyce of harpers harpyng wyth theyr harpes. And they songe as it wer a newe songe, befoze the sear, and befoze the four beastes, and y^e elders, and no man coude learne the songe, but the hundred and xliii. whych were redeemed from the earth. These are they, whych wer not defiled with weme, for they are wyrgins. These folow the lambe whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed from men, byng fyrst frutes vn to god and so the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was found no gyle. For they are wythout spot befoze the throne of god. And I saw another angel stye in the middes of heuen haunging the euer lastyng Gospels, to p^reach to vnto them that syt and dwell on the earth: and to all nacyns, kynnedes, and tounge and people, saying with a loude voyce: * Feare god, and geue honour vnto hym, for the houre of hys iudgemente is come, and worshyp hym that made heauen and earth the sea, and fountaynes of water. And there folowd an another angel saying: * Babilon is fallen, is fallen that greute cytee, for she made all nacyns d^rynke of the wyne of her fornicacion.

And the thyrde angell folowed them saying, with a loud voyce: * If any man worshyp the beaste and hys ymage, and receiue his marke in his forehead, or in hys hande, the same shall d^rynke the wyne of the wrath of god, which is poured in the cuppe of hys wrath. And he shal be punyshed in fyre and byrmstone, befoze the holy angells, and befoze the lambe. And the smooke of theyr torment ascenderth vnto evermore. And they haue no rest day nor nyght, whych worshyppe the beaste and hys ymage, and whosoever receyvethe the pynt of his name. Her is the pacience of sayntes. Here are they that kepe the commaundementes and the sayth of Iesu. And I hearde a voyce from heauen saying vnto me, w^rit. Blesed are they dead, whych hereafter dye in the lord euen so sayth the spytte: that they rest from theire laboures, but theyr woakes folowe them.

And I looked, and beholde, a whyte cloude vnto the sonne of man, haunging on hys heade a golden croune, and in his hand a sharpe sickle. And another angell came out of the temple, cryng with a loude voyce to hym that sat on the cloude: * Thruste in thy sickle and reape, for the tyme is come to reape: for the coine of the earth is ripe. And he that sat on the cloude thruste in hys sickle on the earth and the earth was reaped.

And another Angel came out of the temple, whych is in heauen, haunging also a sharpe sickle. And another angell came oute frome the alter whych he had powre ouer fyre, and cryed wyth a loud voyce to hym that had the sharpe sickle, and saide thrust in thy sharpe sickle, and gather the clusters of the erth, for her grapes are ripe. And the angel thrust in his sharpe sickle on the earth and cut doune the grapes of the vineyard of the earth: and cast them into the greute wynevat of the wrath of god, and the wynevat was troaden wythout the cyter, and bloude came oute of the vat, euen vnto the horse byddes, by the space of a thousande, and fyre hundred furlonges.

The seuen angells, haunging from vppelles full of wrath nd I sawe another signe in heauen great and meruelous, seuen angells, haunging the seuen laste plagis, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of god. And I sawe as it wer a glassie sea, mingled with fyre, and them that had gotten victory of the beaste, and hys ymage and of the number of hys name. Stand on the glassie sea, haunging the harpes of god and thei sange y^e song of Moses the seruaunt of god, and the song of the lambe saying: Great and meruelous ar thy woakes. Lord god almyghty: iust and true ar thy wayes, thou lyng of sayntes. Who shal not feare thee, Lord, & glorify thy name? For thou onely arte holy & al Gentyles shal come and worshyp befoze the for thy iudgementes ar made manifest.

And after that I looked, and beholde the temple of the tabernacle of testymony was open in heauen, and the seuen angells came out of the temple which had the seuen plagis, clothed in pure and byght linnen, and haunging theyr breastes gyrded wyth golde gyrdels. And one of fyve beastes gaue vnto the seuen angells seuen golde vppelles full of the wrath of god, whych lpyerth for evermore. And the temple was full of the

The. xvi. Chapter.

The angel powred out the viall of wrath

And I heard a greete voyce oute of the temple sayng to the seven angels: go your wayes, & wyte oute your vialles of wrath vpon the earth. And the first angel went and powred out his viall vpon the earth, and there fel a noysome, and a soze botch vpon the men which had the marke of the beast and vpon them: whych wo:shyped his ymage

And the second angel shed out his vial vpon the sea, and it turned as it wer into the blood of a dead man: & every lyving thing dyed in the see

And the thyrde angel shed out his vial vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, & thei turned bloude. And I hearde an angell say: Lozbe, whych arte and wast, thou arte righteous and holpe, because thou hast geuen such iudgements, for they shed out of the bloude of sapntes, and prophetes, and therfore haste thou geuen them bloude to drynche: for they are worthye. And I heard another saye: euen so Lord God al mightie, true and righteous art thy iudgements

And the fourth angel powred oute his viall on the sunne, and power was geue vnto him to bere men with heat of fire, and the me raged in great heate, and spake euell of the name of God whiche hath power ouer those plagues, and they repented not of their euell dedes, to geue him glory. And the v. angel powred out his vial vpon the seat of the beast, and hys kyngdome waxed darke, and they gnawe their tonges for sozow and blasphemed the god of heu: for sozow and pain of their sozes, & repented not of their dedes

And the vi. angel powred out his vial vpon the great riu: Euphrates, and the water dried vp, that the wayes of the kinges of the east shuld be prepared. And I sawe ther vncleane spyttes like froges com out of the mouth of the dragon and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the fals prophet. For thei are the spyttes of deuils wo:shyping wyckednes to go out vnto the kynges of the earth & of the whole world to gather them to the battayl of that great day of God almyghtie. Behold, I come as a thefe happy is he that watcheth, and hepeyth hys garments, leste he walke naked, and men se hys fylthynes. And he gathered them together into a place called in the hebreue tonge Armageddon

And the vii. angel powred out hys vial into the ayre. And ther came a great voyce out of heu:en frome the seat, sayng: it is done. And there folowed voyces, thondynges, and lyghtnynges and ther was a great earthquake, such as was not sence men were vpon the earth, so myghtye an earthquake, and so great. And the great cytee was deuiled into thre partes, and the cities of all nations fel. And great Babbilon came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto her the cuppe of the wyne of the feartfulness of his wyath. Every yle also fled away, and the mountaynes were not found. And ther fel a great hail: as it had bene talentes) out of heauen vpon the men & the me blasphemed God: because of the plague of the hayle, for it was greete, & the plague of it, soze.

The. xvii. Chapter.

The destruction of the woman sitting vpon the beast

And ther came one of the angels & whych he had the seven vialles: and talked with me, sayng vnto me: come, I wyll shew vnto the, the iudgement of the great whoze that sitteth vpon many waters, whych whom haue comyrted fornycacyon the kinges of the earth, and the inhabitants of the earth, are dyonke with the wyne of her fornycacyon. And the spytte caryed me a waye into the wyldernes. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a roose colozed beast, full of names of blasphemie, whych had seven heades and ten ho:nes. And the woman was arayed in purple and roose colour, and decked with golde, p:ecious stone, and pearles, and had a cuppe of golde in her hand, full of abhomyncacions, and filthyness of her fornycacion. And in her forehead was a name wyrtten, a mystry, great Ba bylon the mother of whozdom and abhomyncacions of the earth. And I sawe the woman drynchen with the bloude of sapntes, and with the bloude of the wyntness of Iesu. And when I sawe her I wondred with a greete maruayle.

And the angel sayed vnto me: wherfore marueylest thou? I wyll shewe the the mystrye of the woman, and of the beast that beareth her, whych he hath seven heades and ten ho:nes. The beast that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende out of the botomles pyt, and shall go into perdytyon, and they shal dwell on the erth thal wonder: whose names are not wyrtten in the boke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the world) wher they behold the beast that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath wysedome.

The seven heades are seven mountaynes, on which the woman sitteth, thei are also seven kynges. Thre are fallen, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he cometh, he muste contynue a thort space. And the beast that was and is not is euen the pygmye, and is one of the seven, and shall go into destruccyon. And the x. ho:nes whych thou sawest are tenne kynges, whych haue receyued no kyngdome as yet, but shal receue power as kynges at one hour with the beast. These haue one mynde, and shal geue they: power and strenght vnto the beast. These shal fyght with the lambe, and the lambe shal overcome them: for he is Lord of Lordes, and kyng of kynges, and they that are one hys side are called, and chosen, and saythful. And he sayed vnto me: the waters whych thou sawest, wher the whoze sitteth, are people and floche, and nacjons, and tonges. And the ten ho:nes, whych thou sawest vpon the beast, are they that shal hate the whoze, and shal make her desolate and naked, and shal eate her fleshe, and burne her with fyre.

For

For God hath put in theyr hertes to fulfill his wyl, & to do with one consent, for to geue theyr kyngdome vnto the beast, vntill the wordes of God be fulfilled. And the woman whiche thou sawest, is that great citty, which raigneth ouer the kynges of the earth.

The viii. Chapter.

The iourneys of the world are for the fall of Babylon, but they that be of God have cause to reioyce for her destruction.

After that, I sawe another Angell come fro heauen, hauing greates power, and the earth was lightened with his brightnesse. And he cryed myghtely with a stronge voyce, sayng: * Grete Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitacyon of vncleane, and the holde of all foule spertes, and a cage of al vncleane, and hatefull byrdes, for all nacjons haue drunken of the wine of the wrath of her fornicacyon. And the kynges of the earth haue commyted fornicacyon with her, and the marchantes of the earth are waxed ryche of the aboundance of her pleasures.

And I hearde another voyce from heauen saye, come awayne from her my people, that ye be not partakers of her synnes, and ye receyue not of her plagues. For her synnes are gone up to heauen, and God hath remembred her wickednes. Reward her euen as she rewarded you and geue her double accordyng to her workes. And pour in double to her in the same cup which she fylled vnto you. And as much as she glorified her selfe & synned wantonly, so much powre ye in: for her punishment & sorowe, for she sayd in her selfe: * I sit being a quene, and am no wydowe, and shall se no sorowe. Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and sorowe, and hunger, & she shall be bzient with fyre: for stronge is the Loyde God whiche shall iudge her. And the kynges of the earth shall beweye her & wail her, whiche haue commyted fornicacyon with her, and haue luyed wantonly with her, when they shall se the smoke of her burning, & shall stande a farr off, for feare of her punishment, sayng

* Alas Alas, that grete citty Babylon, that myghty citty: for at one houre is thy Judgement come. And ye marchauntes of the earth shall wepe and waille in them selues, for no man wyl bye theyr wares any more, the wares of golde & syluer, and pteuous stones, nether of pearle, & raienes, and purple, and scarlet, and all thyne wode and all maner vessels of puerp, & all maner vessels of most pteuous wode, & of bzasse, and pteuous synamon, and odours, and opyntmentes, and frankensence, and wyne, & oyle: and fyne flour, and wheate, beastes, and shepe, & doxes and charets, and bodyes, and soules of men.

And the apples of the soule lusteth after, are departed from the. And all thynges which were depntye: and had in ptece, are departed from the and thou shalt fynde them nomore. The marchauntes of these thynges whiche were waxed ryche, shall stande a farr off from her, for feare of the punishment of her, weapyng and waylyng and sayng.

* Alas, Alas, that grete citty: & was clothed in raynes and purple, and scarlette, and decked with golde, and pteuous stones, and pearles: for at .i. hour so great ryches be come to naught.

And every wypp gouernour, and all they that occupied wyppes, and wyppmen whiche wosthe in the see, stode a farr off, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burning, sayng: what citty is lyke vnto this grete citty: and they caste dust on theyr heades, and cryed wepyng and waylyng & sayde: * Alas, Alas, that grete citty, wherein were made ryche al that had wyppes in the see, by the reason of her costynesse, for at one houre is she made desolate. Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apostles and Prophetes: for God hath geuen your Judgemente on her. And a myghty angell toke vp a stone lyke a gerat myllstone, & caste it into the see, sayng: wyth such voioence shall that grete citty Babylon be caste, and shall be founde nomore.

And the voyce of harpers, & musycions, and of wyppes, and trompeters shall be herde nomore in the: and no craftesman, of whatsoeuer craft he be shall be found any more in the. And I found of a myll shall be herde nomore in the, and the voyce of the bydegrome and of the byde, shall be herde nomore in the, for thy marchauntes were ye grete men of the earth. And wyth thyne inchauntement wer deceiued all nacjons: and in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, and of the sayntes, and of all ye wer slayn vpon the earth.

The xix. Chapter.

Joseph is giuen vnto God for aduysing the inhore, and for aduysing the bloude of his seruantes. The angell myll not be mooued by the. The foules and byrdes are catched to the slaughter.

After that I herd a grete voyce of much people in heauen sayng: Alleluya. Saluacyon, & glory, and honour, and power be ascribed to the Loyde our God, for true and ryghteous are his iudgements, for he hath iudged the grete whoze whiche dyd corrupte the earth with her fornicacyon, and hath auenged the bloude of his seruantes of her hande. And agayne they sayde: Alleluya. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And the xxiii. elders, and the xiiii. beastes fell downe & wooshypped God & late on the seate, sayng: Amen, Alleluya. And a voyce came out of the seate sayng: prayse our Loyd God, all ye that are his seruantes and ye that feare hym both small and grete.

And I herd the voyce of much people euen as the voyce of many waters, and as the voyce of stronge thundrynges sayng: Alleluya, for the Loyd our God omnipotent raigneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, & geue honour to hym, for the marpage of the lambe is come, and his wyfe made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted that she shulde be arayed with pure and goodly raynes. For the raynes is the ryghtewynesse of sayntes. And he sayd vnto me, wyte, happy are they whiche are called vnto the supper of the lambes marpage: And he sayde vnto me: these are the true sayntes of God. And I fel at his fete to wooshypp hym. And he sayde vnto me: se I do it not. For I am thy fellowe seruante, & one of thy thy brethren, euen of them that haue the testimony of Iesus. Worshyppe God. For the testimony of Iesus is the spire of prophete. And I sawe heauen open, and behold, a whyte hoise and he that sat vpon hym was called saythfull and true, and in rightwelsnes he doth indge and make bataile. His eyes were as a flame of fyre and on hys heade were many crownes, and he had a name wyrttē, that no man knewe but he hym self. * And he was clothed wth a vesture of fyre in bloude, & his name is called the woꝛde of God. And the warryars whiche were in heauen, folowed hym vpon whyte hoises, clothed wth whyte and pure raynes, and oute of hys mouth went a sharpe two edged swerde that it he shulde synke the heathen. And he shall rule them wth a rod of yron, and he trode the wyne fat of fearnes & wyath of almyghyte God.

D And bath on his vesture and on hys thgh a name wyrtten: kynge of kynges, and Loyde of Loydes. And I sawe an angel stand in s sunne and he cryed wth a loude voyce, sayng: to all the soules that lye by the myddes of the such: come and gather your selues together vnto the supper of the great God, that ye may eate flesch of kynges, and the flesch of the hye capaynes, and the flesch of myghty men, and the flesch of hoises, and of them that lye on them, & the flesch of all free men and bonde men and of small and greate. And I sawe the beaste, and the kynges of the earth, and they warriers gathered together to make batel against hym & sat on s hoise and agaynst his sondyars. And s beast was taken, & w hym s falsse prophete s wrought myra-cles befoze hym, wth whiche he deceyued them that receyued the beastes marke, and them that worshipped hys ymage. These both were cast quycke into a pond of fyre burnyng wth hym stone: and the remnaunte were slayne wth the swerde of hym that sat vpon the hoise, which I heard proceed out of his mouth, and all the lonles were fulfilled wth theys fleshe.

The xx Chapter.

I The dragon is hurde for a. 10. p. 10. The beaste wyth, and receyue indgement.

A And I sawe an angel come downe frō heauen, banyng the keye of s bottomlesse pyt, and a great chayn in his hand And he toke the dragon s olde serpens which is the deuyl and Satān, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: & cast hym into a bottomlesse pyt and he shut hym vp, and set a seale on hym that he shuld deceyue the people nomoze, tyll s thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed for a lytle season. And I sawe seates, and they sat vpon them, & iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe the soules of the that were beheaded for the wytnes of Iesu, & for the woꝛde of God: & whiche had not worshypped the beaste neith hys ymage neith had taken his marke vpon theys forhedes, oꝝ in theys handes: and they lyued, & raygned wth Christ
a. 1000. yeres: but the other of the deade men lyued not agayne, vntyll the thousande yere were fynished: This is that fyfte resurrectyon. Blessed & holy is he, that hath parte in the fyfte resurrectyon. For on suchē shall the seconde death haue no power, but they shalbe the priestes of God and of Christ, and shal raygne wth hym a thousande yere. * And when the. 10. yeres are expyred, Sathan shalbe loosed oute of hys pytton, and shal goe oute to dysceyue the people, whiche are in the foure quarters of the earth Sog and Magog, to gather theim together to batell, whose nombꝛe is as the sands of the see and they went in the playne of the earth: & com-passed the tentes of the sayntes about, and the beloued cytye. And fyre came doune from God out of heauen, & deuoured them: & the deuyl dis-ceyued them, was cast into a lake of fyre & hym stone, wther the beaste & the falsse prophete shal be tormented daye and nyght for euermoze.

A And I sawe a great whyte seate, & hym s sat on it, from whose face fled away both the earth and heauen and theys place was nomoze found And I sawe the deade, both great & small stand befoze God. And the bookes were opened, and a nother boke was opened, whiche is the boke of lyfe, and the deade were iudged of thole thynges whiche were wyrtten in the bookes accordyng to theys dedes, & the see gaue vp the deade which were in her, and death, and hell deliuered vp the deade, whiche were in them: and they were iudged euerye man accordyng to hys dedes. And death and hell were caste into the lake of fyre.
This is the seconde death. And whosoener was not found wyrtten in the boke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The xxi Chapter.

I In this chapter is descreybed the newe and spiritual Ierusalem.

A And I sawe a newe heauen & a newe earth. For the fyfte heauen: and the fyfte earth were vanyshed away, and ther was nomoze see. * And I sawe the holy cytye, newe Jerusale come doune from God out of heauen prepared as a wyde garnyshed for her husbāde.
And I heard a grete voyce out of heauen say-ng, behold the tabernacle of God is wth me and he wyll dwel wth them. And they shalbe his people, and God hymself shalbe wth them and be theys God. * And God shall wyte away all teares from theys eyes.

And ther shalbe nomoze death, ne ther sorrow neither crye, neith shal ther be any moze pain, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sat vpon s seate, sayde: * Beholde, I make al thin-ges newe. * And he sayde vnto me: wyrttē, for these woꝛdes are saythfull and true.

And he sayd vnto me: it is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng & the ende I wyll geue to hym that is a thyrste, of the well of the water of lyfe, free. He s ouercommeth shal enheret all thynges, and I wyll be hys God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbe-lenyng, and s abhomyable, and murdeters, and whoz mongers, s forcerers, and ydolaters, and all lyers shal haue theys parte in the lake, which burneth wth fyre and hymnstone, which is the seconde deathe.

And there came vnto me one of ſeuen angels which had the ſeuen vyalles full of the ſeuen laſte plagues: and talked wpth me ſayynge come hyther, I will ſhewe the the hyrde, the lambes wyfe. And he carped me awaye in the ſpyre to a great and an hye mountayne, and he ſhewed me the great cytie holy Ieruſalem, deſcendynge out of heauen from God: hauynge the bryghtnes of God. And deſcendynge was he vnto a ſtrome moſt pꝛecyous, euenly he a Ialper cleare as Cryſtall: and had walles greate and hye, and had. xii. gates and at the gates. xii. angels: and names wyrtten, which are the names of ſ. xii. trybes of Iſrael: on the Eaſt parte. iii. gates, and on the Northpart. iii. gates, and cowardes ſ. South. iii. gates, and from ſ. weſt. iii. gates, & the wal of ſ. cytie had. xii. foundations: & in the the. xii. names of ſ. lambes. xii. Apoſtles.

And he that talked with me, had a golde rebe to measure the cytie withall and þ gates therof and þ wall therof. And the cytie was buylt. iiii. square, and þ length was as large as þ bredth, and he measured the cytye with the ^a golden rebe xi. m. furlonges, and þ length and the bredth, and the heygth of it, were equall. And he mea-red the wal therof: an. Cxliiii. cubytes: the measure þ the Aungell had, was after the measure that man vseth. And the buyldyng, of þ wall of it was Ialper. And the cytie was pure golde: lyke vnto clere glasse, and the foundacions of the walles of the cytie were garnished wyth all maner of precious stones. The fyrst foundacion was Ialpis, the seconde Sapphyre, the thyrde a Calcedony, the fourth an Emeralde, the fyfte Sardonix, the syxt Sardonis, the seventh Chrysolite, the eyght Berall, the ix. a Tomas, the tenth a Crisoprasos, the eleufth a Iacynth, the twelueneth an Amatyst. The twelue gates were twelue pearles, euerye gate was of one pearle, and the strete of þ cytie was pure golde as tho-rowe wyynyng glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the Loyde God almyghty and the lambe are the temple of it. * And the cytie hath no neede of the sunne, nether of the mone to lyght-ten it. For the byghdynes of God dyd lyghte it, and the lambe was the lyght of it. And the people whiche are saved shall walke in the lyght of it. And the hyngens of þ earth shall byng theyr glosse ^a (And homines) vnto it. * And the gates of it are not shutte by daye. For there shall be no nyght there. ^a (And into it shall they byng the glosse and honours of the martyrs.) And there shall entre into it: none vncleane thyng, nether what soeuer wo-reth abhominacyon or maketh lyes: but they onlye whiche are wytten in the lambes boke of lyfe.

The xxi Chapter.

¶ The center of the wheel of life, the fruitfulness and light of the cross of God. The Lamb grown ever his firmament measuring of thyngs to come the angel will not be worshipped. To the throne of God may nothing be added, nor diminished.

AND he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, cleare as Crystall: ppyccabyng oute of the seate of God, and the lambe.
In the myddes of the streete of it, & of either syde at the ryuer, was the tre of lyfe: which bare twelue manner of frutes: and gaue skete currypt monethes: and the leues of the woode serued to heale the people wth hall. And there walbe no more curlye, but the seate of God and the lambe shal be in it: and his seruantes shall serue hym.

And they shall se his face, and hys name shall be in theyr fo^rheddes. * And there shall be no night there, and theyr nyde no candle, neither lyghte of the sunne: for the Lord God gewerth them lyghte and they shall raygne for ever more.

And he sayde vnto me: these saynges are faythful and true. And the Lorde God of þe holye Prophetes sent hys Aungel to shewe vnto his seruantes, the thynges which must shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortly. * Hap py is he þe he herd the sayinge of the prophete of this boke. I am Iohn, whiche sawe these thynges.
And when I had herde & sene
* I fell downe to worshippe before the feete of the aungel, which shewed me these thynges. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy fe-lowe, seruante of thy brethren the Prophetes, of them which kepe þe saynges of this prophesie of this boke. But worshippe God.

And he sayd vnto me: Seale not the saynges of the prophecy of this booke. For the time is at hande. he that doeth euell, let hym do euell still and he which is felych, let hym be felych still: & he þat is ryghteous, let hym be more ryghteous, and he that is holy, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come hastily, and my reward is w me, to geue euery man accordyng as hym dedes shal be. I am Alpha & Omrga, the begynnyng and the ende: the fyrst and the laste. Blessed are they that do his commaundemments, that theys power maye be in the tree of lyfe, and inape entre in cho:we the gates into the cytie. * For withoute shalbe dogges and inchaunters, and whor: mongers and murthurers, and ydolaters and whosoeuer loueth & maketh saynges.

I Iesus sent myne auengeil, to tellt hye vnto you these thynges in the congregacions. I am the roote and the generacyon of Dauid, and the bryght moorning starre. And the sperte and the byrde saye come. And let hym that heareth, say also come. * And let hym that is a thyrt: come And let whosoener wyl, take of s water of lyfe fre. I tellt hye vnto euery man that heareth the wordes of the prophece of thys boke: * yf any man shal adde vnto these thynges, God shal adde vnto hym s plagis that are wyrtten in this boke. And yf any man shal mynyshe of the wor des of the boke of this prophecy, God shal take awaye hys parte out of the boke of lyfe, & out of the holy cytie, and from the thynges whiche are wyrtten in thys boke. He whiche testify eth these thynges sayeth: he is. I come quye hely. Amen. Euen so come Lorde Iesu.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.
